

2 GUNMEN GRAB OVER $100,000 CASH FROM MAY CO. LAKEWOOD

By ANDY PARK,
JIM HYNES and LEE BROWN

May Co.'s giant Lakewood Center store was robbed in spectacular fashion of more than $100,000 at closing time Saturday by a pair of masked gunmen who were dressed completely in black.

The two, who terrorized three female employees, escaped with four large canvas bags stuffed with bills from the company vault. They ignored an estimated $500 in change and an eight-inch stack of $1 bills.

They eluded hastily thrown traffic searches by Long Beach police and Lakewood sheriff's officers and a pursuit by the husbands of two of the terrorized women who had been waiting outside.

Sheriff's deputies, firemen, and store personnel at first thought two women were locked in the vault. Rescue personnel were called to the scene because of the limited air supply in the 10x12-foot walk-in vault on the store's third floor.

Store Manager Ollie Connor opened the vault and found it empty. More than 30 men and women participated in an hour and one-half search of the store's sprawling interior.

The terrified women were discovered minutes before midnight, cowering in the basement cloak room. They were hiding, they said, because they were afraid the bandits were still in the building.

Found shaken but unharmed were cashiers Myrtle Dyer and Linda Vincent, and clerk Margaret Schumacher.

With them was clerk James R. Parker, 20.

The women told deputies the men accosted them at the cashier's cage, at the 3rd floor vault, where Mrs. Schumacher was turning in the receipts, as was the Parker youth.

"This is it," the men said. At gunpoint they forced the three women and Parker into the vault and ordered them to lie on the floor.

The men scooped up the large money bags and fled. The women and Parker waited, then, believing the men still in the store, sneaked down to the basement where they hid.

General Manager Stan Pavlich discovered the robbery on the then-deserted third floor. He believed the two cashiers were still missing.

He notified Ollie Connor, store manager, and Elsa Mae Greene, head cashier, telling them of the huge theft and his hunch the two women might be locked in the vault.

Connor opened the vault, discovered it empty. Fearing the worst, the search (Continued Page A-4, Col. 4)

Reds Kill 2 Marines at Guard Posts

DA NANG, South Viet Nam, Sunday (UPI)—Communist Viet Cong guerrillas, in their first conventional action ever taken against American combat troops in Viet Nam, today overwhelmed two U. S. Marine outposts near the vital air base at Da Nang, killing two Americans and wounding four others.

The guerrillas, moving under cover of early morning darkness, killed one Leatherneck and wounded another as they overran a two-man listening post. Then the Communists hit a seven-man outpost behind the listening post, killing another Marine, and wounding two others and a U. S. Navy corpsman.

A U. S. MILITARY spokesman said today's attack was the first conventional action the Viet Cong ever has taken against U. S. combat troops in the war.

The wounded Marine at the listening post lay there through the predawn hours until a Marine patrol recovered him after sunup.

The clash was the first in which U. S. Marines were known to have been killed by the Viet Cong.

THE ACTION just north of the Da Nang Air Base hit Marines guarding the Phu Bai airfield, the strip closer to the city of Hue. Da Nang and Hue, both coastal cities, are separated by a high mountain ridge that rises straight up from the South China Sea.

Soldiers Surround Dissidents' Camps

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Rebel troops seized two army installations outside of Santo Domingo Saturday in an attempt by followers of former President Juan D. Bosch to overthrow the ruling civilian junta.

They rejected an ultimatum to surrender.

Donald Reid Cabral, head of the junta, said Saturday night the uprising had been crushed and that loyal troops were ready to move on the camps by 5 a.m., EST, today if the rebels did not surrender.

One of the camps seized was general staff headquarters, located on the Rio Ozama just outside Santo Domingo, where Army Chief of Staff Gen. Marco Rivera Cuesta and his second in command Col. Maximiliano Americo Ruiz Batista, were held as hostages.

THE OTHER installation was the 16th of August military camp, 15 miles southeast of the capital.

A sergeant at the 16th of August camp told newsmen by telephone the rebels would not surrender, declaring, "We shall stand firm on our decision to liberate the people."

He identified the leader of the revolt as a 40-year-old career army officer, Capt. Mario Pena Taveras.

REID told a nationwide television audience that the government was in control and that the two encampments in rebel hands were surrounded by loyal troops. He said he hoped the rebels would surrender to avoid bloodshed.

The revolt began in the afternoon when rebels seized the government's Radio Santo Domingo and another radio station. They set off a wave of street demonstrations by declaring repeatedly that Reid had been overthrown.

One policeman was reported killed and another policeman and an 18-year-old demonstrator were wounded in street fighting.

Stirred up by a rebel announcer's proclamation of a "return to liberty," demonstrators swarmed along Santo Domingo's El Conde Street, battling police and stoning shop windows.

Antigovernment demonstrators also poured into the streets of Santiago and San Francisco de Macoris.

Loyal police and troops took back the government station in a half hour and tanks and soldiers ringed the National Palace, where Reid apparently directed operations against the rebels.

At dusk, Santo Domingo appeared calm and the government radio assured (Continued Page A-3, Col. 4)

Mississippi Raging Into City Streets

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (UPI)—The century's worst flood on the upper Mississippi smashed through dikes and chewed through highways Saturday, spilling into city streets and farmyards along a 200-mile path from Wisconsin to Missouri.

Fulton, Ill., a community of 3,800 across the river from Clinton, Iowa, was cut off from the outside world.

Mayor Warren Wiersema of Fulton said, "It's terrible. It couldn't be worse. We have 200 homes completely ruined."

THE RAMPAGING river worked around behind dikes and ripped through Illinois 84 and Alternate U.S. 30, north and east of Fulton, tumbling blocks of concrete pavement like tins. The current was so swift boats could not be used to rescue the trapped. Wiersema said about 75 farmers and their families were rescued from rooftops and second-floor windows of their homes by Civil Defense amphibious trucks.

"WE RESCUED the farm people and we left the animals behind. Most of them are floating around, or are marooned by water," Wiersema said.

All roads to Fulton were cut and the amphibious vehicles were standing by to haul hospital patients two miles to the nearest open highway. Dr. M. J. Vruno, Fulton's health officer, set up an emergency ward in the high school gymnasium, where one of the res-

Pakistani Tanks Hit India Lines

NEW DELHI, India (UPI)—An Indian government spokesman said Saturday thousands of Pakistani troops with tanks have launched "massive attacks" on Indian posts in the barren salt wastes of the Rann of Cutch along the border between India and West Pakistan.

The spokesman said the Pakistani force attacked four Indian posts "which are clearly within Indian territory" with heavy gunfire and tanks Friday and Saturday.

"It is very near war when you start using tanks," the spokesman said.

He told newsmen he understood that "massive attacks have been launched during the past few hours" by Pakistani forces.

THRILL RIDE COLLAPSES

Children Whirl, Die at Carnival

DETROIT (AP)—Two children were whirled to their deaths and three hurt before horrified onlookers in the partial collapse of a carnival's "Flying Comet" thrill-ride Saturday.

A bell-shaped car carrying the five youngsters, aged 8 to 14, crashed at the carnival site in a shopping center of suburban Taylor Township as mechanism failed.

The car was dragged 70 feet along an asphalt pavement and four of the children were flung out "like rag dolls," witnesses said. "It was a Godsend that no more were killed," said Police Lt. Carl Lang.

SHARON HAWKS, 14, and her brother, Grant, 12, of Taylor, were dead on arrival at Wayne County General Hospital.

Injured seriously were Susan Raye, 10, and her sister, Nancy Lee Matthies 8, and their cousin, Bonnie Matthies, 8, all of Taylor. Shortly beforehand, the five had boarded the "Flying Comet" with other children for a spinning ride in a bucket-like contraption at the end of a steel arm 10 or 12 feet above ground.

Seven children in other cars suffered shock but were not otherwise injured. The car containing the Hawks and Matthies children was the only one to fall.

Admiring shoppers were watching the delighted youngsters when the car fell. A near-panic ensued.

"CHILDREN were scattered all over," said Patrolman Robert Killebrew. "People were sick and screaming and crying for someone to help. It was an awful sight."

The "Flying Comet" is a sort of mechanical maypole. Booms hold the cars and swing them around. The apparatus is driven by a gasoline engine. A broken shackle was blamed for the mishap.

Louise Dresser, 84, Dies

WOODLAND HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Louise Dresser, who triumphed in the golden age of vaudeville and starred in silent films, died Saturday at the Motion Picture Country Hospital. She was 84.

Physicians said Miss Dresser appeared to be recovering from surgery she underwent March 13 for an intestinal obstruction, but she died shortly before dawn. Cause of death was not immediately determined.

Miss Dresser, who was admitted to the hospital Feb. 28, lived alone in an apartment in nearby Glendale. Her rooms were filled with mementos and memories of her career.

She had been widowed since 1951—the year her second husband, Jack Gardner died. They had been married 42 years.

Gardner, like his wife, was a singer, and later became a Hollywood agent and casting director. Miss Dresser continued to act in films until 1937.

Miss Dresser reached her greatest fame as co-star with Will Rogers in seven films, including "State Fair," "Lightnin'" and "David Harum." Usually she played the crotchety but understanding wife of Rogers, and many literal-minded movie fans were convinced they were actually married.

Castro's Envoy in London Defects

LONDON, Sunday (AP)—One of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's top men, consul-general in London for the past five years, has defected to the West, the Sunday Telegraph reported today.

He is Julio Cesar del Castillo, 64. His wife, a cousin of President Osvaldo Dorticos, a close collaborator of Castro and Cuba's present head of state, has gone into exile with him, the paper said.

They slipped out of Britain secretly on Thursday aboard the liner Queen Mary, bound for New York. The U.S. government had guaranteed them entry and residence permits in advance as political refugees, said the report.

Cesar del Castillo is the first Cuban diplomat in Britain to defect. The paper said he decided on the move in protest against the mounting oppressiveness of Castro's police state.

On his last morning in England he sent his formal letter of resignation by ordinary mail to the Cuban ambassador in London. On Monday he had mailed a similar letter to the Cuban Foreign Minister. It was timed to reach Havana Monday night when he himself is due to step on to American soil, said the Sunday Telegraph.

It said that in an interview just before boarding the Queen Mary, Cesar del Castillo said:

"Castro has ruined my country economically and has sold it out to the Communists in Moscow and Peking. Even worse, he has turned it into a totalitarian police state. I can see no hope of an early change. His grip is too firm."

Asked what had caused him to act now, the paper said he replied "we finally made up our minds to come over to the West when a successor, Senor Yete, was sent here on March 15 to take over from me and I was ordered to report back to Havana for further instructions."

He was quoted as saying he did not plan to mix in politics. "What I have done has been a personal protest made out of personal convictions and not a political move."

L.A.C. Says: Opportunity Knocks at Every Door

"Opportunity knocks at every door but you have to be there to open it." As I read this quotation I wondered how many of our young people today would hear the knock if it came to their door. Would they recognize the opportunity and be prepared to grasp it—or would they be unprepared because they did not have any idea as to what they wanted to do? It is tragic that so many of them are in this position.

It raises a question as we observe Public School Week. In these schools opportunities to prepare for future vocations are offered every student. In the high schools many vocations are taught which give training for many trades such as stenography, bookkeeping, electricians, plumbers and other trades which provide many jobs that pay more and give greater security than a large portion of college graduates ever achieve. There is a demand for high school graduates with such vocational training, but a dismal picture for those who have none.

Another quotation is that the "best years of life passed by when you were not looking." It seems to me this applies to many young people who were so absorbed in having fun they disregarded—or refused to look at—these preparatory training programs offered them. This applies to college as well as high school students. A large portion of college students will graduate with no useful accomplishment that gives them hope for a good future.

They have been encouraged by the publicity about industry searching the campuses for graduates. Good salaries are offered and great promises for the future. Actually these offers go to a comparatively small percentage of the graduates. They go to those who have majored in engineering, accounting, business administration or other specialties requiring people trained for these vocations. Those who have no specialty may find themselves looking for jobs at pay much lower than the high school graduate who took vocational training in a mechanical trade or office work.

Such training does not necessarily mean the persons will follow that vocation throughout their working years. But it does give them the valuable asset of having something to offer when they start their working careers. It is a safeguard they can always use in their future. Having something definite to offer when seeking a job is the surest way of getting one. Having nothing definite is the reason why so many cannot find work when leaving high school or college.

There has been criticism of the schools that the students are not guided into studies and programs that give these assurances. But the real tragedy is that so many parents fail to start soon enough—or never start—to guide the young person into more useful activities. The idea that they are children for such a short time and should enjoy all the pleasures of youthful activities is natural. But it can mean condemning their child to a lifetime of frustration if they fail to prepare for the future as they enjoy the present.

It would be wonderful if we could impress upon the young people the fact that it is the later years of life that are really important. These years of high school and four years of college can be wonderful years of enjoyment. But it is little compared with the next 40 or 50 years. It is in these later years that comforts and a good way of life far outweigh those few years of school. And yet, what they do with these years of schooling will largely tell what kind of future life they can enjoy or find depressing.

The schools have a great responsibility in providing these programs—and guiding the students on to roads they are best qualified to travel. But the real responsibility is that of the parents whose discipline and guidance can help their children to prepare for a successful life—rather than one of frustration.—L.A.C.

Supersonic Air Travel Boosted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Aviation Administrator Najeeb E. Halaby said Saturday his agency's controversial sonic-boom tests over Oklahoma City last year showed that construction of a supersonic airliner prototype is "clearly warranted."

Halaby, head of the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA), issued his recommendation for a prototype go-ahead in a statement accompanying a three-volume final report on the Oklahoma City experiment.

The report, which also included preliminary results from boom tests at the White Sands (N.M.) Missile Range, concluded that only abnormally massive booms would create serious problems for persons living underneath the aerial paths of the supersonic age.

The cautiously optimistic verdict on the Oklahoma City tests in effect added up to this finding:

People on the ground can live with the inevitable booms generated by supersonic transports — assuming designers can build a plane that literally tiptoes across the country, producing shock waves of tolerable intensity.

HALABY left no doubt he believes such a plane is possible. He said the Oklahoma City results provided "evidence of the federal government's determination that the U.S. (supersonic) transport must not produce an unacceptable level of noise or damage."

The tests, Halaby added, convinced him that the problem is not of such magnitude that the SST program should be slowed down. On the contrary, they showed that "moving into the next phase is clearly warranted"—the construction of a 2,000-mile-an-hour prototype.

The Oklahoma City experiment was the first full-scale test of the effects of the sonic boom on people and the homes in which they live and work.

Technically, a boom is an "overpressure" — generated by a plane flying so fast that it cannot push the air in front of it out of the way. This massive and constant increase in pressure takes the form of a shock wave, hurled to the ground in a 50-mile-wide path that follows the aircraft at supersonic speeds.

From Feb. 3 through July 30, Air Force fighters and B58 supersonic bombers subjected the 600,000 residents of the Oklahoma City area to 1,253 sonic booms—about eight per day. The overpressures generally ranged from 1 to 2 pounds per square foot (the maximum tolerable level that will be allowed on any certificated SST). But because of atmospheric conditions, occasional booms were twice as strong as expected.

Critics of the SST program have charged that the menace is impossible to solve and will limit faster-than-sound air travel to overwater flights. This, in turn, would cut the potential SST sales market by as much as 50%.

TO GAUGE the effects of the booms on the nerves and tempers of Oklahoma City residents, the FAA hired a leading public opinion survey firm to interview a cross-section of the population. The cross-section totaled 3,135 persons. The "community reactions" section of the report declared that "the overwhelming majority felt they could learn to live with the numbers and kinds of booms experienced during the six-month study."

But the report adds this less optimistic note:

While 90% of those interviewed accepted eight daily booms during the first 11 weeks, the "we can live with it" percentage dropped to 81% during the next eight weeks and down to 73% during the final seven weeks.

Likewise, only 37% said they were seriously annoyed by the booms during the first 11 weeks. But during the next eight, 44% reported serious annoyance. By the end of the tests, 56% figuratively were muttering "FAA, go home."

The report pointed out, however, that the intensity of the booms was stepped up gradually over the six months. It said the decrease in general acceptance and the increase in annoyance were due primarily to the progressively stronger booms.

L.A.C. Says: Opportunity Knocks at Every Door

"Opportunity knocks at every door but you have to be there to open it." As I read this quotation I wondered how many of our young people today would hear the knock if it came to their door. Would they recognize the opportunity and be prepared to grasp it—or would they be unprepared because they did not have any idea as to what they wanted to do? It is tragic that so many of them are in this position.

It raises a question as we observe Public School Week. In these schools opportunities to prepare for future vocations are offered every student. In the high schools many vocations are taught which give training for many trades such as stenography, bookkeeping, electricians, plumbers and other trades which provide many jobs that pay more and give greater security than a large portion of college graduates ever achieve. There is a demand for high school graduates with such vocational training, but a dismal picture for those who have none.

Another quotation is that the "best years of life passed by when you were not looking." It seems to me this applies to many young people who were so absorbed in having fun they disregarded—or refused to look at—these preparatory training programs offered them. This applies to college as well as high school students. A large portion of college students will graduate with no useful accomplishment that gives them hope for a good future.

They have been encouraged by the publicity about industry searching the campuses for graduates. Good salaries are offered and great promises for the future. Actually these offers go to a comparatively small percentage of the graduates. They go to those who have majored in engineering, accounting, business administration or other specialties requiring people trained for these vocations. Those who have no specialty may find themselves looking for jobs at pay much lower than the high school graduate who took vocational training in a mechanical trade or office work.

Such training does not necessarily mean the persons will follow that vocation throughout their working years. But it does give them the valuable asset of having something to offer when they start their working careers. It is a safeguard they can always use in their future. Having something definite to offer when seeking a job is the surest way of getting one. Having nothing definite is the reason why so many cannot find work when leaving high school or college.

There has been criticism of the schools that the students are not guided into studies and programs that give these assurances. But the real tragedy is that so many parents fail to start soon enough—or never start—to guide the young person into more useful activities. The idea that they are children for such a short time and should enjoy all the pleasures of youthful activities is natural. But it can mean condemning their child to a lifetime of frustration if they fail to prepare for the future as they enjoy the present.

It would be wonderful if we could impress upon the young people the fact that it is the later years of life that are really important. These years of high school and four years of college can be wonderful years of enjoyment. But it is little compared with the next 40 or 50 years. It is in these later years that comforts and a good way of life far outweigh those few years of school. And yet, what they do with these years of schooling will largely tell what kind of future life they can enjoy or find depressing.

The schools have a great responsibility in providing these programs—and guiding the students on to roads they are best qualified to travel. But the real responsibility is that of the parents whose discipline and guidance can help their children to prepare for a successful life—rather than one of frustration.—L.A.C.

BOOM TESTS CITED

Supersonic Air Travel Boosted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Federal Aviation Administrator Naebe E. Halaby said Saturday his agency's controversial sonic-boom tests over Oklahoma City last year showed that construction of a supersonic airliner prototype is "clearly warranted."

Halaby, head of the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA), issued his recommendation for a prototype go-ahead in a statement accompanying a three-volume final report on the Oklahoma City experiment.

The report, which also included preliminary results from boom tests at the White Sands (N.M.) Missile Range, concluded that only abnormally massive booms would create serious problems for persons living underneath the aerial paths of the supersonic age.

The cautiously optimistic verdict on the Oklahoma City tests in effect added up to this finding:

People on the ground can live with the inevitable booms generated by supersonic transports — assuming designers can build a plane that literally tiptoes across the country, producing shock waves of tolerable intensity.

HALABY left no doubt he believes such a plane is possible. He said the Oklahoma City results provided "evidence of the federal government's determination that the U.S. (supersonic) transport must not produce an unacceptable level of noise or damage."

The tests, Halaby added, convinced him that the problem is not of such magnitude that the SST program should be slowed down. On the contrary, they showed that "moving into the next phase is clearly warranted"—the construction of a 2,000-mile-an-hour prototype.

The Oklahoma City experiment was the first full-scale test of the effects of the sonic boom on people and the homes in which they live and work.

Technically, a boom is an "overpressure" — generated by a plane flying so fast that it cannot push the air in front of it out of the way. This massive and constant increase in pressure takes the form of a shock wave, hurled to the ground in a 50-mile-wide path that follows the aircraft at supersonic speeds.

From Feb. 3 through July 30, Air Force fighters and B58 supersonic bombers subjected the 600,000 residents of the Oklahoma City area to 1,253 sonic booms—about eight per day. The overpressures generally ranged from 1 to 2 pounds per square foot (the maximum tolerable level that will be allowed on any certificated SST). But because of atmospheric conditions, occasional booms were twice as strong as expected.

Critics of the SST program have charged that the menace is impossible to solve and will limit faster-than-sound air travel to overwater flights. This, in turn, would cut the potential SST sales market by as much as 50%.

TO GAUGE the effects of the booms on the nerves and tempers of Oklahoma City residents, the FAA hired a leading public opinion survey firm to interview a cross-section of the population. The cross-section totaled 3,135 persons. The "community reactions" section of the report declared that "the overwhelming majority felt they could learn to live with the numbers and kinds of booms experienced during the six-month study."

But the report adds this less optimistic note:

While 90% of those interviewed accepted eight daily booms during the first 11 weeks, the "we can live with it" percentage dropped to 81% during the next eight weeks and down to 73% during the final seven weeks.

Likewise, only 37% said they were seriously annoyed by the booms during the first 11 weeks. But during the next eight, 44% reported serious annoyance. By the end of the tests, 56% figuratively were muttering "FAA, go home."

The report pointed out, however, that the intensity of the booms was stepped up gradually over the six months. It said the decrease in general acceptance and the increase in annoyance were due primarily to the progressively stronger booms.

BRUCE WAYNICK, 10, SHOWS CLASSIC STANCE IN ALL-CITY MARBLE CONTEST

BILL SMITH IS CHAMP

Educated Thumb Wins Marble Tourney Title

They were a hard-nosed group of competitors at Lincoln Park Saturday, and in the course of the day's competition, lots of highly technical talk was heard from the veteran thumb-and-finger experts.

As kibitzers debated the respective merits of aggies, steels and glassies, 35 youngsters competed in the 30th annual All-City Marble Contest.

The turf was reported in excellent condition, and the rare gusts of wind, alleviating the heat somewhat, did little to throw off the games of the contestants, all winners of previous elimination contests.

Winner in Division 1 was Bill Smith, 9, of 2251 Pepperwood Ave., a fourth grader at Buffum School. Next two places, in order, went to Noel Penorio, 8, of 2242 Constitution Lane, a Cabrillo playground third grader; and Jeff Woods, 7, of 2226 Pepperwood Ave., a second grader from Buffum School.

IN DIVISION 2, for fifth and sixth grade students, Mitchell Robbs, 10, 3390 Adriatic Ave., a Silverado Playground fifth grader, beat out Barry

Jones, 10, a McArthur Playground fifth grader of 1324 Gundry Ave., for first place. David Bender, 11, of 1388 Lewis Ave., a sixth grader from California Playground, finished third.

In the junior high division, George Moss, 13, a seventh grade student from McArthur Playground, won first prize. He lives at 1473 Warren Ave. Placing second and third were Chuck Morris, 13, of 54 Ellis St., a Silverado Playground seventh grade student; and Allan Callhan, 13, of 2208 Webster Ave., a Cabrillo Playground seventh grader, finished third.

The youngsters competed for Long Beach Recreation Department trophies and for prizes donated by The Independent Press-Telegram.

UC Demo. GOP Students Split on Revolt, Says Poll

BERKELEY (AP)—Republican students at the University of California's Berkeley Campus tended to support the administration during the student revolt last winter, a poll disclosed Saturday.

It showed also that Democratic students backed the efforts of the students' Free Speech Movement.

The sampling of 1% of student attitude was taken immediately after the Dec. 2-3 sit-in demonstration at the administration building. The demonstration, led by the FSM, resulted in the arrests of more than 800 persons.

THE STUDY was done by an assistant professor and two graduate students in the psychology department.

They maintain their poll showed that Republican students approved of the administration and disapproved of the FSM while Democrats generally took the other position.

The sit-in caused many formerly neutral Republicans to take an anti-FSM position, the poll stated.

The study said Democrats were much more active during the crisis. Larger percentages of Democrats picketed, refused to cross picket lines, tried to persuade others to take a pro-FSM position, and attended FSM rallies. Republican students tended to behave "as usual," the study indicated.

Questioned about the role of the police in the arrests, Republicans saw the police as "not unnecessarily rough." Democrats, on the other hand, regarded police "as brutal, often deliberately brutal."

The study also sought out students' feeling on whether or not there was outside influence during the crisis.

Both Democrats and Republicans saw the university's administration being influenced by outsiders more frequently than they saw the FSM being so influenced.

"APPARENTLY many students believe that the administration's policies were influenced by local newspapers, businessmen and right-wing groups," the study declared.

But more Democrats than Republicans saw the administration's policies influenced by outsiders and the FSM was relatively free of external influence.

ABSENT COPILOT PRANK DRAWS IRE FROM F.C.C.

WASHINGTON (AP)—From up front, it must have seemed like a funny stunt. But the humorless Federal Aviation Agency holds that airline pilots shouldn't play practical jokes on the crew.

As reported in the FAA's violations docket, the plan was that after takeoff, the copilot would hide in the baggage bin behind his seat. Then the captain would call the stewardess forward and observe her surprise to find only one pilot.

The FAA said it happened on Trans-Texas Airways Flight 123 last Aug. 17, 29 or 30—it wasn't just sure of the date—on a flight north from El Paso, Tex., and Carlsbad, N.M.

The agency said that shortly after takeoff from Roswell, N.M., for Albuquerque, the copilot, Keith Joseph Mackey, carried out the preconceived plan and hid in the baggage bin.

THEN the pilot, Gene Victor Potet, called hostess Karon Hofmann to the flight deck so that she might believe Mackey had been left on the ground at Roswell, the agency said.

Miss Hoffman, it appeared, was not readily fooled. She looked into the bin.

It was dark. Furthermore, the FAA said, Potet beamed a flashlight into her eyes, so that she could not see well into the baggage compartment.

"On reaching Albuquerque, you continued the deception," the FAA said to Mackey in its complaint. "You left from the forward cargo loading door so that the stewardess did not see you."

THE FAA said Mackey, in leaving his duty station while in flight, failed to exercise the degree of safety expected of him.

The agency's report did not indicate Miss Hofmann's reactions. It ordered a 30-day suspension for Mackey, and made it effective as of last Feb. 20 when he surrendered his certificate.

The FAA also indicated that the copilot may have taken up new work. Its current address for him is: Company C, 4th Training Brigade, 1st Battalion, Fort Polk, La.

the people the regime still was in control. A dusk-to-dawn curfew was ordered.

Among those arrested was radio commentator Francisco Gomez, a leader of Bosch's Dominican Revolutionary Party, who had broadcast the first announcement that Reid had been overthrown by some young army officers.

Manuel Fernandez, a deputy in congress during Bosch's administration, and Miguel Soto, also broadcast appeals to Dominicans to join the uprising.

THE PLOTTERS apparently hoped popular dissatisfaction with Reid, because of an austerity program, would carry the coup to a successful finish.

Since Rafael Trujillo's 32-year dictatorship ended with his assassination in 1961, the Dominican Republic has had seven governments.

Purge, Terror Wave Reported in Bulgaria

The broadcast, monitored here, said a large-scale purge is going on in the Bulgarian army and Communist Party.

cued was isolated with mumps.

Fulton's sewage-disposal plant was knocked out and raw sewage was being dumped into the swollen river. However, Wiersema said, the water plant appeared to be secure.

Water supplies were in jeopardy in parts of the Quad City metropolitan area of 200,000 residents. At East Moline, Ill., the water plant serving 15,000 persons was knocked out of action. Moline Mayor James Arndt asked the 40,000 residents of his city to put aside enough water for a week, warning that the municipal water plant was endangered.

DIKES gave way at the Davenport, Iowa, sewage-disposal plant, across the river from Rock Island, and along River Drive near downtown Davenport. A dike was breached on Rock Island's south side, forcing more families from homes.

City Manager Raymond Botch of Rock Island said two days of rain "broke the back" of dikes guarding the city of 50,000. He said he expected the muddy water to pour into the business district within hours.

FLOOD FIGHTERS gave up efforts to save the Garden Addition, a large residential area of Davenport, when water from a creek backed up behind the dikes keeping out the rampaging Mississippi.

Nearly 40,000 persons were homeless in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa and Missouri due to the flooding, which has claimed 14 lives. Damage estimates approached the $200-million mark, with $88 million in Minnesota alone. President Johnson declared Illinois a major disaster area.

At Quincy, Ill., authorities complained that profiteers were attempting to sell sandbags to beleaguered residents for nearly double the normal price.

Governor Calls for 195 Added Highway Police

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Brown said Saturday he would seek 195 additional "front line" troops in California Highway Patrol uniforms to combat traffic casualties.

Brown said he would ask the legislature to appropriate $2 million to hire 150 traffic officers and 45 more sergeants as part of his second-phase budget.

He said the record 4,743 deaths and 215,395 injuries in highway mishaps in 1964 were comparable to "the casualties from a war, and I believe that is what we are involved in, a war against accidents."

Educated Thumb Wins Marble Tourney Title

They were a hard-nosed group of competitors at Lincoln Park Saturday, and in the course of the day's competition, lots of highly technical talk was heard from the veteran thumb-and-finger experts.

The turf was reported in excellent condition, and the rare gusts of wind, alleviating the heat somewhat, did little to throw off the games of the contestants, all winners of previous elimination contests.

Winner in Division 1 was Bill Smith, 9, of 2251 Pepperwood Ave., a fourth grader at Buffum School. Next two places, in order, went to Noel Penorio, 8, of 2242 Constitution Lane, a Cabrillo playground third grader; and Jeff Woods, 7, of 2226 Pepperwood Ave., a second grader from Buffum School.

IN DIVISION 2, for fifth and sixth grade students, Mitchell Robbs, 10, 3390 Adriatic Ave., a Silverado Playground fifth grader, beat out Barry Jones, 10, a McArthur Playground fifth grader of 1324 Gundry Ave., for first place. David Bender, 11, of 1388 Lewis Ave., a sixth grader from California Playground, finished third.

In the junior high division, George Moss, 13, a seventh grade student from McArthur Playground, won first prize. He lives at 1473 Warren Ave. Placing second and third were Chuck Morris, 13, of 54 Ellis St., a Silverado Playground seventh grade student; and Allan Calhan, 13, of 2208 Webster Ave., a Cabrillo Playground seventh grader, finished third.

UC Demo. GOP Students Split on Revolt, Says Poll

BERKELEY (AP)—Republican students at the University of California's Berkeley Campus tended to support the administration during the student revolt last winter, a poll disclosed Saturday.

It showed also that Democratic students backed the efforts of the students' Free Speech Movement.

The sampling of 1% of student attitude was taken immediately after the Dec. 2-3 sit-in demonstration at the administration building. The demonstration, led by the FSM, resulted in the arrests of more than 800 persons.

THE STUDY was done by an assistant professor and two graduate students in the psychology department.

They maintain their poll showed that Republican students approved of the administration and disapproved of the FSM while Democrats generally took the other position.

The sit-in caused many formerly neutral Republicans to take an anti-FSM position, the poll stated.

The study said Democrats

were much more active during the crisis. Larger percentages of Democrats picketed, refused to cross picket lines, tried to persuade others to take a pro-FSM position, and attended FSM rallies. Republican students tended to be "as usual," the study indicated.

Questioned about the role of the police in the arrests, Republicans saw the police as "not unnecessarily rough." Democrats, on the other hand, regarded police "as brutal, often deliberately brutal."

The study also sought out students' feeling on whether or not there was outside influence during the crisis.

Both Democrats and Republicans saw the university's administration being influenced by outsiders more frequently than they saw the FSM being so influenced.

"APPARENTLY many students believe that the administration's policies were influenced by local newspapers, businessmen and right-wing groups," the study declared.

But more Democrats than Republicans saw the administration's policies influenced by outsiders and the FSM was relatively free of external influence.

1965 CALLED SIMILAR TO 1950

L.B. Air Force Reservists, First in Korea, Recall Crisis

EDITOR'S NOTE—Fifteen years ago next June the United States became embroiled in a war that wasn't a war, the Korean conflict. Events of 1950 and 1965's Viet Nam conflict are strikingly similar. In 1950 Long Beach's 452nd Bomb Wing was the first Reserve unit to enter the conflict. Today's Reservists are wondering whether history will repeat itself.

By EV HOSKING
L. P. T. Sunday Editor

Blue-clad ghosts of the past are haunting hundreds of Long Beach-area men today.

They are the men of the Air Force Reserve who 15 years ago today were planning the annual summer encampment of the 452nd Bomb Wing (L) scheduled for August 2 on Long Beach Air Force Base, then a segment of Municipal Airport.

None would make the encampment—some were spending their last few weeks in Long Beach.

In May, 1950, however, they thought they had more pressing problems.

Louis Johnson was Secretary of Defense—the Air Force Reserve was being cut to the bone “in the interests of economy.”

Pilots of the 452nd were being limited to only four hours a month to maintain their proficiency in all types of flying, instrument, formation, bomb runs and plain straight flying.

Supplies were scarce. Some of their B-26 bombers were being cannibalized to keep others in the air.

AND THEN the whistle blew.

The North Koreans moved into South Korea on Sunday, June 25, 1950 and the United States and the United Nations entered a frustrating conflict that was to end in a stalemate.

Plans for the 452nd's annual encampment were canceled and Brig. General Luther W. Sweetser Jr., the 452nd's Commander, had a terse message for his troops.

“It's Korea for us,” he told them. “We've been called up.”

An advance cadre from Long Beach was sent to George Air Force Base near Victorville—the very spot from which less than a month ago a Squadron of F104 fighters left for Viet Nam.

THE ADVANCE men were to prepare the old World War II buildings to house the 452nd and to complete the necessary plans for the wing's combat training. The rest of the men would report on Aug. 11, 1950.

It was the first Air Force Reserve unit in the nation to be called to active duty in the Korean conflict and the first to enter combat.

Less than 60 days after they reported to Victorville they were transferred to Japan. From Japan, the 452nd was sent to Pusan, Korea, where it remained until deactivated May 9, 1952.

At George Air Force Base, the Reservists became masters of the scrounge. If needed equipment couldn't be obtained through normal supply routes, they promoted it out of channels or scrounged it. Otherwise they didn't get it.

THE PILOTS drove to Los Angeles and bought

their own parachutes from surplus stores.

Similarly they purchased heated flying suits for the cold Korean winters.

Then with hastily improvised canvas gas tanks shoved into the bomb bays of their B26s, they flew out over the Pacific to the Land of the Rising Sun and into combat.

It was a frustrating fight—they flew up the Yalu River. They were allowed to bomb one side of the river and not the other.

RUSSIAN MIG fighters came out of the sanctuary of the north side of the river and did considerable damage to the B26s.

But some of the B26s always managed to smash through despite hell or high water.

It was one pass—and a scam.

There were plenty of casualties in the air—and more on the ground where the pilots had been sent to the front lines with ROK troops to act as ground controllers for their aircraft.

The aging B26s—vintage of World War II—piloted and manned by Reservists, also World War II retirees, were undersupplied by a pre-Korea economy wave led by Louis Johnson.

THEY weren't the boys heading off into the “Wild Blue Yonder” of World War II. They were the men in blue, fighting desperately for their lives—older men and older planes.

But they set a never-to-be forgotten record in Korean combat.

Their daring daylight intruder raids and night forays rarely were flown more than a few feet off the ground. They plastered Communist positions with load after load of napalm and bombs.

DURING their first two months of combat, the 452nd flew 300 missions and 1,150 sorties, destroying 1,183 enemy buildings, 59 railroad cars, 25 trucks, 8 warehouses, 3 tanks, one gasoline dump and one oil-storage dump. About 859 enemy troops were killed. Damages were difficult to estimate because smoke and fire completely covered their targets after raids.

Ten men were decorated with the Korean Presidential Unit Citation.

Some came back—some stayed in Korea permanently.

Of those who came back, the majority stayed in the Air Force Reserve.

Long Beach's old 452nd Bomb Wing (L) was deactivated in Korea. In its place, the 452nd Tactical Reconnaissance Wing was activated here with mostly new personnel. Later it became the 452nd Troop Carrier Wing which ultimately moved to March Air Force Base.

MOST members of the old 452nd scattered to other units after their return—and most, according to available records, still reside in this area.

Most now are off flying status and are devoting their time to training younger generations of Reservists.

Most now are off flying status and are devoting their time to training younger generations of Reservists.

LI. Col. Harry W. Jordan, deputy commander of the 452nd Bomb Wing when it went to Korea and now a Long Beach insurance executive, sums it up this way:

“Today and 1950 are too much alike. The scene is the same. The plot is the same. Only the cast is different. Today's Reservists are having the same troubles our men had in 1950, including the downgrading of the Reserve structure by the Department of Defense in the so-called interests of economy.

“It's frightening. Filling the gap again with Reservists will be a problem. I only hope that it will never happen again.”

For former members of Long Beach's 452nd Bomb Wing the ghosts of the past are too much like the spectres of the present.

clashed with the Marine garrison protecting the vital U. S. and South Vietnamese air base.

Four U. S. Marines were wounded in sniper attacks and crude traps Saturday as the U. S. Marines fought their biggest battle against the Communists. At the same time 70 American planes pounded North Viet Nam, blasting a railroad, two bridges and a ferry dock.

Another Marine was killed Saturday by the accidental explosion of a grenade in his foxhole near Da Nang. The blast wounded his companion.

In the Viet Cong attacks on the Marine outposts, the American military spokesman said, “intense fire” was heard shortly after midnight.

THE VIET CONG guerrillas in the past have sniped, harassed and tossed hand grenades at the 8,000-man-strong 9th Expeditionary Marine Brigade since the Marines arrived last month. But today's attack opened up a new phase in the Communist military strategy.

Two of the four wounded Americans were reported in critical condition and the other two were in serious condition.

The Marine outposts were at the extreme limit of the Phu Bai defense perimeter and with listening post located even beyond.

IN THE bombing raids Saturday against North Viet Nam, a U. S. spokesman said, 10 U. S. Air Force F100 Super Sabres hit a bridge 150 miles south of Hanoi with 25 tons of bombs. But the raid was termed only “moderately successful” following earlier raids that were “highly successful.”

Two other planes, U. S. Navy skyraiders, ripped up eight railway cars they caught about 25 miles north of the city of Vinh. They raked the railcars with rockets and cannon fire and the targets were “severely damaged,” the spokesman said.

Egg Products Pasteurization

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U. S. Department of Agriculture has proposed amendments to its regulations which would require pasteurization of egg products produced in official plants.

The proposed amendments would require pasteurization or testing of all egg products after June 1, 1965. The amendment would come under the voluntary egg product inspection and grading program administered by the poultry division of the department's Consumer and Marketing Service.

She became so well known as Louise Dresser that she kept the name.

In 1906 she married actor-composer (“Shine On, Harvest Moon”) Jack Norworth. He took her to New York, where he was to appear in a show produced by comedian Lew Fields. Norworth convinced Fields to give his wife a singing role, and she scored a Broadway hit.

After a string of Broadway successes, Miss Dresser made her film debut in a silent starring Pauline Frederick in 1923. Following a

'Wearing Black Masks, They Marched Me Out of Store'

By MARY NEISWENDER

“I was just closing the door when this guy with the gun came up to me,” 57-year-old Ide F. Tew, May Co. watchman, said Saturday.

“Then I noticed there were two of them,” Tew continued, “they came scurrying out of the women's shoe department.”

“They were all dressed in black, and had stockings pulled over their faces. I think they had powder or something dusted on the masks,” Tew said.

At that moment, the greying, slightly-built guard had just taken about $100,000 from a third floor cashier's vault.

“What's going on,” the watchman demanded as the two black-clad bandits, dressed completely in black, ran toward him.

“Shut up,” one gunman snarled. “Let's go . . . let's get out of here.”

Tew said one of the masked men shoved a gun in his side and ordered him to unlock the store's glass door.

The two men—forcing the frightened watchman to walk between them—ran for the store parking lot, carrying two heavy canvas sacks, apparently stuffed with currency.

Once they reached their car, the watchman said, one of the gunmen ordered Tew to “lie face down on the ground.”

“Out in the lot some guy in a car yelled at them,” Tew said. “They turned and told the guy to ‘shut up’ . . . and to ‘mind his own business’ . . . then they jumped in the car and drove away,” he added.

Recovering from his shock, Tew ran back inside the huge department store to voice the alarm.

Within minutes dozens of sheriff's deputies and police officers swarmed to the scene. Roadblocks were ordered along the escape-route the bandits are believed to have taken into Long Beach.

Tew, who had close contact with the bandit team, was asked to work with a police artist in an early attempt to prepare a composite drawing of the two men.

Police meantime were scouring the Long Beach-Lakewood area in an attempt to track the getaway car. Early indications were that the car in which the two masked men fled was stolen—and equipped with stolen or phony license tags.

Robbery investigators were seemingly impressed with the smoothness marking the bandit team's holdup and escape from the giant department store.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Entertainer Harry von Zell was reported in satisfactory condition Saturday after collapsing prior to a speaking engagement here Friday night.

A spokesman at John C. Lincoln Hospital said Von Zell apparently collapsed from fatigue and just needed some rest.

began for the missing women and Parker.

The search began on the third floor in the nearby appliance section, where grim faced officers began opening the doors of freezers and refrigerators, dreading what they might find.

Store security officer Ide Tew saw the two gunmen emerging from behind a display in the store after closing time.

Startled by the thin black masks the two gunmen wore, he started to accost them, but they covered him with automatics and forced him to accompany them outside.

Tew said they tried to force him to lie down in the parking lot, and fled when he refused.

Two of the husbands, Mr. Vincent and Mr. Dyer, saw the commotion from nearby where they were waiting for their cashier wives to get off work.

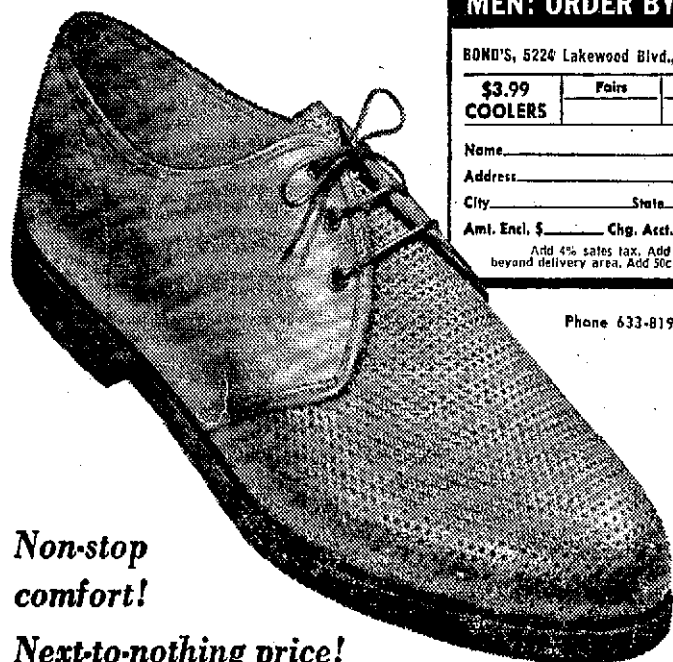

As the bandits fled in what was later discovered to be a stolen car, the two men followed in theirs, getting close enough at the intersection of Lakewood Boulevard and Hardwick Street to get the license number.

Lakewood Sheriff's broadcast as full a description of the bandits as possible. An area-wide alert was picked up by other law enforcement agencies in the area. Both Orange and Los Angeles counties were alerted. The bandits had not been apprehended by 1 a.m. today.

L.B. Air Force Reservists, First in Korea, Recall Crisis

EDITOR'S NOTE—Fifteen years ago next June the United States became embroiled in a war that wasn't a war, the Korean conflict. Events of 1950 and 1965's Viet Nam conflict are strikingly similar. In 1950 Long Beach's 452nd Bomb Wing was the first Reserve unit to enter the conflict. Today's Reservists are wondering whether history will repeat itself.

By EV HOSKING
L. P.T. Sunday Editor

Blue-clad ghosts of the past are haunting hundreds of Long Beach-area men today.

They are the men of the Air Force Reserve who 15 years ago today were planning the annual summer encampment of the 452nd Bomb Wing (L) scheduled for August 2 on Long Beach Air Force Base, then a segment of Municipal Airport.

None would make the encampment—some were spending their last few weeks in Long Beach.

In May, 1950, however, they thought they had more pressing problems.

Louis Johnson was Secretary of Defense—the Air Force Reserve was being cut to the bone "in the interests of economy."

Pilots of the 452nd were being limited to only four hours a month to maintain their proficiency in all types of flying, instrument, formation, bomb runs and plain straight flying.

Supplies were scarce. Some of their B-26 bombers were being cannibalized to keep others in the air.

AND THEN the whistle blew.

The North Koreans moved into South Korea on Sunday, June 25, 1950 and the United States and the United Nations entered a frustrating conflict that was to end in a stalemate.

Plans for the 452nd's annual encampment were canceled and Brig. General Luther W. Sweetser Jr., the 452nd's Commander, had a terse message for his troops.

"It's Korea for us," he told them. "We've been called up."

An advance cadre from Long Beach was sent to George Air Force Base near Victorville—the very spot from which less than a month ago a Squadron of F104 fighters left for Viet Nam.

THE ADVANCE men were to prepare the old World War II buildings to house the 452nd and to complete the necessary plans for the wing's combat training. The rest of the men would report on Aug. 11, 1950.

It was the first Air Force Reserve unit in the nation to be called to active duty in the Korean conflict and the first to enter combat.

Less than 60 days after they reported to Victorville they were transferred to Japan. From Japan, the 452nd was sent to Pusan, Korea, where it remained until deactivated May 9, 1952.

At George Air Force Base, the Reservists became masters of the scramble. If needed equipment couldn't be obtained through normal supply routes, they promoted it out of channels or scrounged it. Otherwise they didn't get it.

THE PILOTS drove to Los Angeles and bought

their own parachutes from surplus stores.

Similarly they purchased heated flying suits for the cold Korean winters.

Then with hastily improvised canvas gas tanks shoved into the bomb bays of their B26s, they flew out over the Pacific to the Land of the Rising Sun and into combat.

It was a frustrating fight—they flew up the Yalu River. They were allowed to bomb one side of the river and not the other.

RUSSIAN MIG fighters came out of the sanctuary of the north side of the river and did considerable damage to the B26s.

But some of the B26s always managed to smash through despite hell or high water.

It was one pass—and scram. There were plenty of casualties in the air—and more on the ground where the pilots had been sent to the front lines with ROK troops to act as ground controllers for their aircraft.

The aging B26s—vintage of World War II—piloted and manned by Reservists, also World War II retrainees, were undersupplied by a pre-Korea economy wave led by Louis Johnson.

THEY weren't the boys heading off into the "Wild Blue Yonder" of World War II. They were the men in blue, fighting desperately for their lives—older men and older planes.

But they set a never-to-be forgotten record in Korean combat.

Their daring daylight intruder raids and night forays rarely were flown more than a few feet off the ground. They plastered Communist positions with lead after load of napalm and bombs.

DURING their first two months of combat, the 452nd flew 300 missions and 1,150 sorties, destroying 1,183 enemy buildings, 59 railroad cars, 25 trucks, 8 warehouses, 3 tanks, one gasoline dump and one oil-storage dump. About 859 enemy troops were killed. Damages were difficult to estimate because smoke and fire completely covered their targets after raids.

Ten men were decorated with the Korean Presidential Unit Citation.

Some came back—some stayed in Korea permanently.

Of those who came back, the majority stayed in the Air Force Reserve.

Long Beach's old 452nd Bomb Wing (L) was deactivated in Korea. In its place, the 452nd Tactical Reconnaissance Wing was activated here with mostly new personnel. Later it became the 452nd Troop Carrier Wing which ultimately moved to March Air Force Base.

MOST members of the old 452nd scattered to other units after their return—and most, according to available records, still reside in this area.

Most now are off flying status and are devoting their time to training younger generations of Reservists.

Most now are off flying status and are devoting their time to training younger generations of Reservists.

Lt. Col. Harry W. Jordan, deputy commander of the 452nd Bomb Wing when it went to Korea and now a Long Beach insurance executive, sums it up this way:

"Today and 1950 are too much alike. The scene is the same. The plot is the same. Only the cast is different. Today's Reservists are having the same troubles our men had in 1950, including the downgrading of the Reserve structure by the Department of Defense in the so-called interests of economy."

"It's frightening. Filling the gap again with Reservists will be a problem. I only hope that it will never happen again."

For former members of Long Beach's 452nd Bomb Wing the ghosts of the past are too much like the spectres of the present.

clashed with the Marine garrison protecting the vital U. S. and South Vietnamese air base.

Four U. S. Marines were wounded in sniper attacks and crude traps Saturday as the U. S. Marines fought their biggest battle against the Communists. At the same time 70 American planes pounded North Viet Nam, blasting a railroad, two bridges and a ferry dock.

Another Marine was killed Saturday by the accidental explosion of a grenade in his foxhole near Da Nang. The blast wounded his companion.

In the Viet Cong attacks on the Marine outposts, the American military spokesman said, "intense fire" was heard shortly after midnight.

THE VIET CONG guerrillas in the past have sniped, harassed and tossed hand grenades at the 8,000-man-strong 9th Expeditionary Marine Brigade since the Marines arrived last month. But today's attack opened up a new phase in the Communist military strategy.

Two of the four wounded Americans were reported in critical condition and the other two were in serious condition.

The Marine outposts were at the extreme limit of the Phu Bai defense perimeter and with listening post located even beyond.

IN THE bombing raids Saturday against North Viet Nam, a U. S. spokesman said, 10 U. S. Air Force F100 Super Sabres hit a bridge 150 miles south of Hanoi with 25 tons of bombs. But the raid was termed only "moderately successful" following earlier raids that were "highly successful."

Two other planes, U. S. Navy skyraiders, ripped up eight railway cars they caught about 25 miles north of the city of Vinh. They raked the railcars with rockets and cannon fire and the targets were "severely damaged," the spokesman said.

The proposed amendments would require pasteurization or testing of all egg products after June 1, 1965. The amendment would come under the voluntary egg product inspection and grading program administered by the poultry division of the department's Consumer and Marketing Service.

Skimmer-Ship Program Eyed

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO
I. P.T. Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Jet-propelled "skimmer" ships capable of superspeeds across ocean, Great Lakes and river trade routes are being eyed here as a means of beefing up America's diminishing maritime role.

The Federal Maritime Administration foresees such craft skimming across the water at more than 100 miles an hour, whisking cargoes and passengers from California to Hawaii in less than two days or from Duluth to Sault Ste. Marie in four hours.

The administration in effect has asked U.S. industry to design and build such craft in what Maritime Administrator Nicholas Johnson calls a search for "completely new ways of carrying cargo competitively."

Johnson says he regards as promising the research that has been done for the past year on "skimmer" craft which speed along the surface or just above it upon a layer of compressed air.

HIS REMARKS accompanied presentation to a recent meeting here of the Society of Automotive Engineers of a paper by James A. Higgins, advanced ship specialists for the administration's Office of Research & Development.

Higgins' 30-page presentation was an invitation to S.A.E. members to come up with a craft capable of 100 knots on calm water, carrying up to 5,000 tons of containerized cargo, an underway draft of no more than five feet and dimensions suitable for existing port facilities.

The latter criterion would limit the vessel to a length of 600 feet at the waterline and 200 feet abeam. However, this is somewhat longer and broader than the average freighter now in service.

HIGGINS discussed a half-dozen design possibilities—including one resembling a low-flying seaplane. But most of these he dismissed as too bulky or costly to operate, according to a computer study.

The design he most favored is a box-like hull, 270 feet long and 110 feet abeam, which captures air beneath it to buoy it along the water's surface. Ideally, it would be powered by a water-jet engine.

Higgins said the water-jet principle, already in use in small sportscraft and being developed for a Navy hydrofoil, could be used economically to propel skimmer ships at high speeds. This type of engine uses a high-speed pump to draw in seawater and then blast it from the rear of the vessel through nozzles—a hydraulic version of the jet engines used on airplanes.

Skimmer craft (known technically as surface-effect ships) are preferred over hydrofoils for large freight and passenger haulers, Higgins declared, because the former lend themselves to greater design limits. Also, the hydrofoils run on ski or wing-like projections from the hull and these are easily damaged.

Higgins pointed out that high speeds would permit skimmer craft to maneuver to avoid storms. More important, this speed would lower shipping costs through more frequent turnarounds and less per-trip crew wages.

He warned that the British may be the first to put a "skimmer" ship into service since they already have built a prototype under a government-supported program.

THE CONCEPT, Higgins said, "would provide a major advantage to the American merchant marine, regardless of which country develops it, because it is less sensitive to the labor rate differential between American labor and that of our foreign competition."

Higgins forecast that skimmers would create a new labor force ashore since maintenance work traditionally done at sea would have to be performed while the high-speed craft were in port.

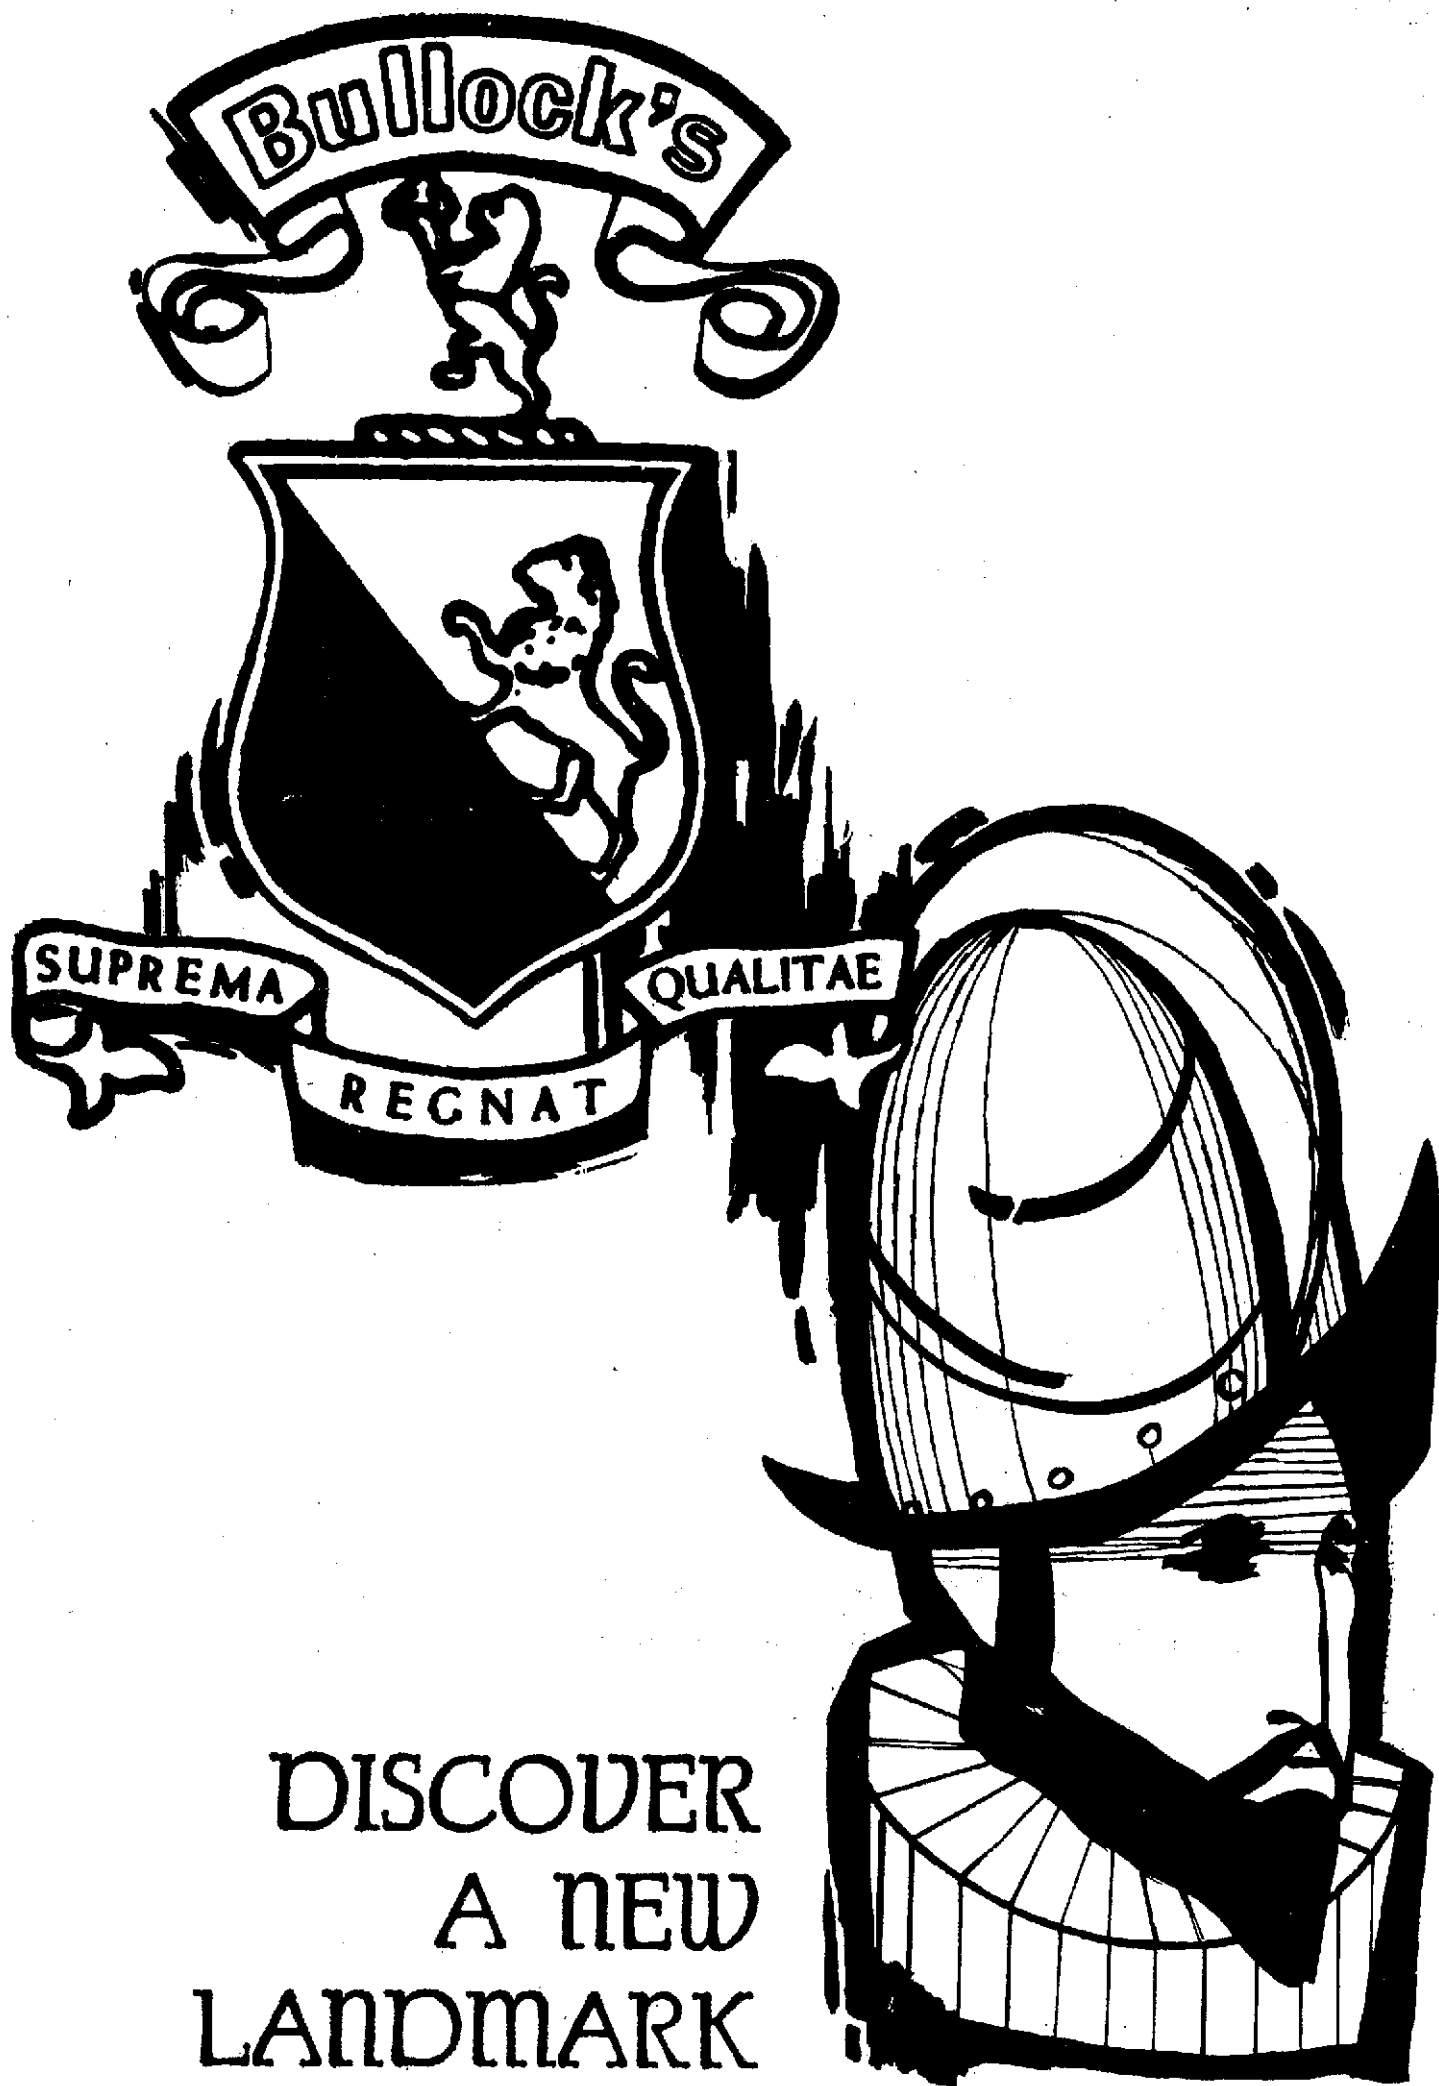

While the Maritime Administration is concerned mainly with cargo carriers, Higgins said the skimmers could be adapted for passenger hauling.

He said he was encouraged by the interest shown in advanced ship design by the aerospace industry, which recently has been seeking ways to diversify its interests.

HE POINTED out that the Lockheed Aircraft Co. has been working at its Burbank and Sunnyvale plants on large water-jet engines of the type he proposes for the high-speed cargo carriers.

Although development of a commercial skimmer faces many "major technical and social pitfalls," Higgins was optimistic about its chances for realization.

"When one compares the problems of building surface-effect ships to those of landing a man on the moon or building a Mach-3 passenger plane or even a network of 40,000 miles of superhighways, the problems of the surface-effect ship diminish rapidly," he observed.

Air Force Obtains First C141 Carrier

By LEE CRAIG
Aerospace Editor

TRAVIS AFB—The Military Air Transport Service took delivery here Friday of its first C141 jet cargo carrier, in a move calculated to bring any trouble spot in the world within almost immediate reach of America's military might.

Piloted by General Howell M. Estes Jr., MATS commander, the first operational model of the four-jet, 150-ton airlifter was turned over to the 44th Air Transport Squadron, scheduled to receive 16 in all.

THE AIRCRAFT will replace older Boeing C-135 Stratolifters which will be reassigned to other bases.

At a press conference, Gen. Estes pointed out the magnified airlift capabilities which will be provided by the C141, and a planned monster-cargo craft, the C5A, by 1970.

For example, he said, using all cargo planes in the MATS inventory, plus Air National Guard and Reserve craft, an Army division cannot be moved to Europe in less than about five weeks.

But, by 1970, using only C5A and C141 carriers, the same job could be done in about 20 days, he said.

Gen. Estes declared that the Lockheed-built C141, named the Star Lifter, will add a new dimension to military cargo mobility, by themselves doubling MATS' airlift capability when they are fully operational.

So far, the Air Force has ordered 132 of the Star Lifters.

THE C141, capable of flying nonstop over any ocean, will fly at speeds up to 550 miles per hour. It will airlift more than 70,000 pounds of military supplies, or 154 troops.

Introduction of the Star Lifter into military service is expected to stir considerable interest among commercial air carriers.

Built for rapid on-and-off loading of cargo, the C141 could give civilian freight carriers greater mobility than they have with present jet freighters.

Lockheed spokesmen predicted that more than 200 civilian versions of the Star Lifter will be required to handle the volume of air freight anticipated in the next 10 years.

Two air freight lines, Stiek and Flying Tiger, have already contracted for a proposed long-body version of the Star Lifter which would be able to carry a 110,000-pound payload.

Gen. Estes declared that the Lockheed-built C141, named the Star Lifter, will add a new dimension to military cargo mobility, by themselves doubling MATS' airlift capability when they are fully operational.

So far, the Air Force has ordered 132 of the Star Lifters.

THE C141, capable of flying nonstop over any ocean, will fly at speeds up to 550 miles per hour. It will airlift more than 70,000 pounds of military supplies, or 154 troops.

Introduction of the Star Lifter into military service is expected to stir considerable interest among commercial air carriers.

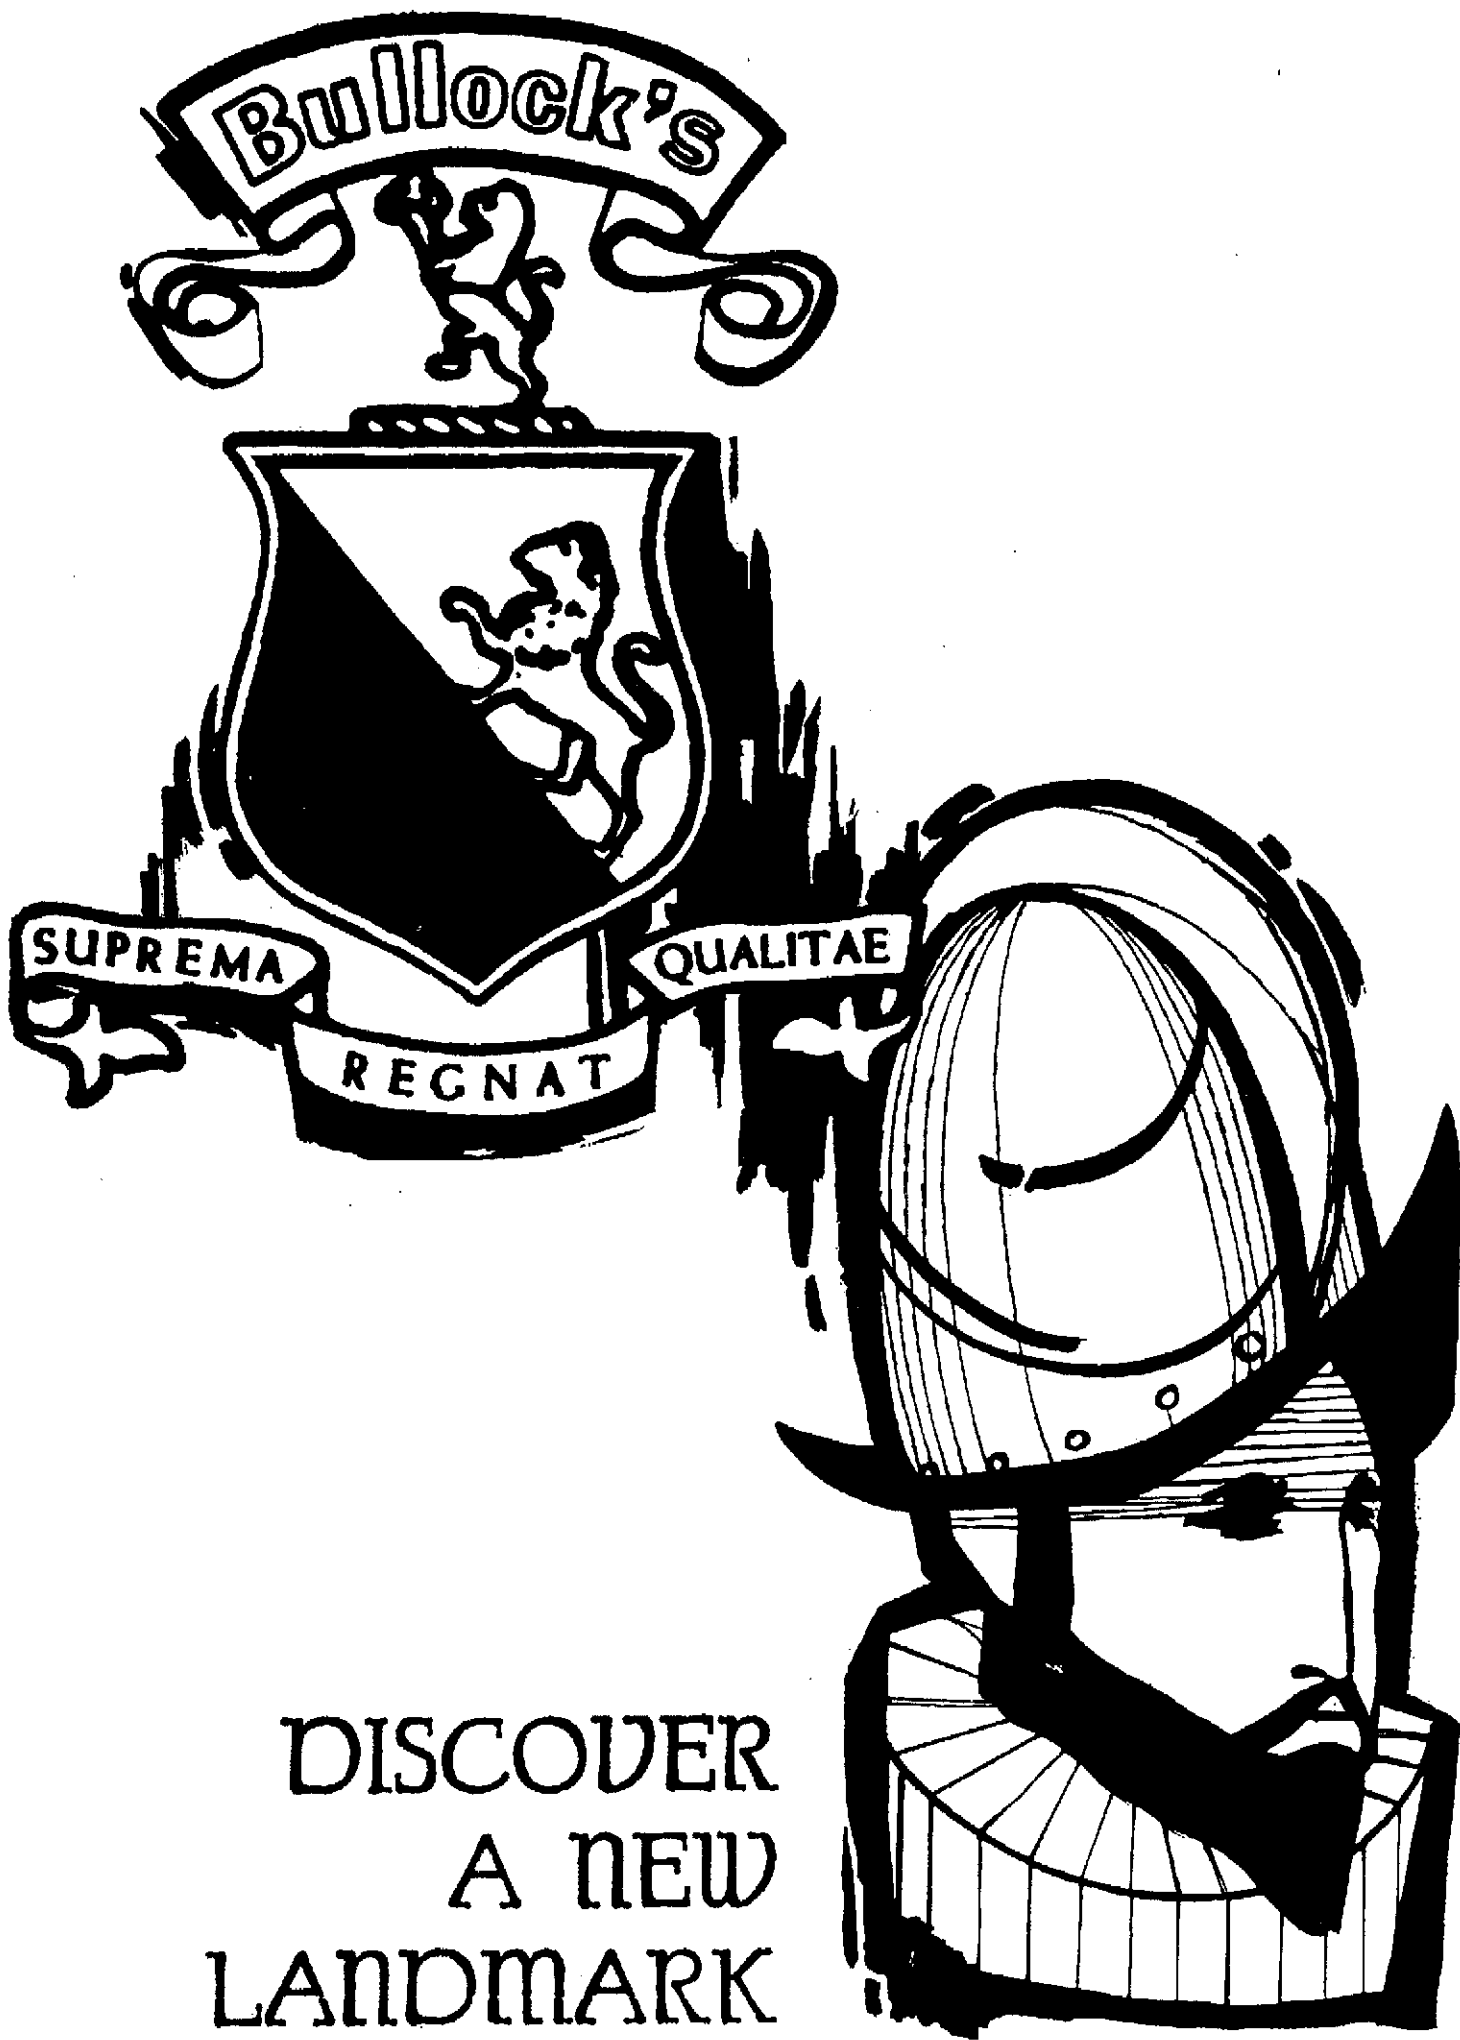

Built for rapid on-and-off loading of cargo, the C141 could give civilian freight carriers greater mobility than they have with present jet freighters.

Lockheed spokesmen predicted that more than 200 civilian versions of the Star Lifter will be required to handle the volume of air freight anticipated in the next 10 years.

Two air freight lines, Slick Air and Flying Tiger, have already and Development Commission contracted for a proposed reported that a one-inch rain-fall may add around 9,000 gallons of water to each acre of land.

Rain Adds Up

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — After tests, the State Planning and Flying Tiger, have already and Development Commission contracted for a proposed reported that a one-inch rain-fall may add around 9,000 gallons of water to each acre of land.

Petris Explains Proposed Plan of Tax Reform

By P-T Los Angeles Bureau

If the Unruh-Petris tax-reform program becomes law, it will slash $750 million from the property tax, "the worst tax we have on the books," Assemblyman Nicholas C. Petris said Friday in Los Angeles.

The major part of this reduction, $300 million, would come from a mandatory cut in the tax rate of school districts, the Alameda Democrat said.

School-district tax rates would be lowered an average of 25%, he said.

Petris, chairman of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee and cosponsor with Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh of AB 2270, was in Los Angeles to explain the program to a Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

DESPITE the forced tax-rate reduction, school districts actually would wind up with more funds than they now have because AB 2270 also provides for a 1% increase in the state sales tax solely for school support, Petris said.

Districts with comparatively low assessed valuation and high tax rates would show the greatest reduction in rates, he explained.

Adoption of the measure would result in a cut of $1.24 in the tax rate of Downey Unified School District, he said. Because of the added revenue from sales tax, however, Downey would end up with $212,000 more money than it now gets under the higher rate, Petris said.

In Torrance, the rate would be cut by $1.35, but the district would wind up $335,000 better off, while Lynwood School District would cut its rate by $1.37, but end up with an additional $67,000.

PETRIS said the recommendations of AB 2270, which is scheduled for vote in the Assembly about May 20, are "the most far-reaching and sweeping" changes in California's tax structure since 1932.

Studies by the Revenue and Taxation Committee over the past two years revealed that the property tax, "which hits the lowest-income people the hardest," was most in need of reform, Petris said.

The Unruh-Petris program proposes, in addition to the slash in the school-tax rates, elimination of taxes on business inventories, household furnishings and solvent credits. These three items will result in a reduction in local revenues of $287 million, he said.

The measure also provides $38 million in special property-tax relief for low-income, aged homeowners who no longer can afford to remain in their homes in the face of spiraling property taxes.

To replace the revenue lost by these reductions and to add $360 million "for critical state needs," the Unruh-Petris program proposes a 5-cent increase in the cigarette tax, an increase in state income tax, increases in state bank and corporation tax, a 2% tax on utilities, a property-transfer tax to be imposed by counties, and the sales tax.

Petris denied charges by some opponents of the plan that the sales tax is "regressive," hitting low-income groups the hardest. In California, he said, this is not true because the sales tax does not apply to food purchases at grocery stores, to rent or to services such as dry cleaning and laundry and television repair.

The elimination of the business inventory, household furnishings and solvent credits taxes will mean a loss to city governments of some $42 million, but the Unruh-Petris program not only will reimburse cities for this loss, but also will add an additional $25 million to improve services or further reduce the property tax, the Alameda assemblyman said.

ADDITIONAL funds would be allocated by the state controller under a formula computed on the proportion of a city's 1963-64 taxes on personal property to the state's total in that year.

Under such a formula, Long Beach would get additional funds of $523,083, Petris said. Torrance would get an additional $239,002.

The program would provide "substantial tax cuts for most of the people in the state," Petris declared.

He acknowledged that certain individual proposals may, when taken alone, be "unacceptable," but he emphasized that the program should be considered as "a package." Cuts in one place are balanced by increases in another, he said.

"IT IS NOT the purpose of this plan to shift tax burdens from one income group to another... the ultimate aim of the plan is to be fair to persons in all income groups," Petris said.

Despite reports of wide differences between the Unruh-Petris program and the tax recommendations of Gov. Brown, Petris said the two are "not too far apart."

The governor's program basically seeks to correct certain inequities in the tax structure while AB 2270 would offer a complete revision to get the load off the back of the property owner, Petris said.

The assemblyman predicted that Gov. Brown would support most of the proposals of AB 2270 if the measure is adopted by the legislature.

Orange County Group Reports STUDY OF DROPOUTS FINDS 8% BRILLIANT

By BILL DUNCAN

The student who drops out of school before graduation in Orange County isn't necessarily stupid, and in fact the majority of the dropouts are of average scholastic ability and 8% are considered above the intelligence norm.

These findings were revealed in a 70-page report filed by Thomas F. Kelly, chairman of the Orange County Dropout Committee, assigned by the board of education to probe the nature and extent of the dropout problem in county secondary schools.

Dropouts for 1964-65 totaled 2,266 for an enrollment of 63,000.

The report revealed 52% of the dropouts had an intelligence quotient from 90 to 109—considered scholastically average. Only 25% were considered "failing" students.

The probe revealed: —The greatest incidence of leaving school occurred at the 11th-grade level when the student reached 16, the age when he is legally eligible to leave, the committee believes.

—Of those who dropped out, the number of girls was alarming, almost equaling the boys (54% boys, 46% girls).

—The three greatest reasons for leaving school, listed in order, were lack of interest, poor previous attendance and academic failure. "This triad is such that any one may have appeared first with the other two following," Kelly reported.

—Secondary reasons for dropouts were, in order, work (however, fewer than half who gave this reason actually are employed), marriage, home problems, school discipline, military service, physical and mental health and pregnancy.

—Eighty per cent of the dropouts were at normal grade levels for their age, 12% were over-aged in the grade and 8% had been elevated to higher grades than their age level.

—Of those who quit school, 67% initiated the withdrawal, 18% were dismissed by the schools and 15% left for a combination of parental demand, their own wishes and those of the school.

—Few—only 18%—of the dropouts had had trouble with the law.

—An alarming number, 11%, had to quit to "support" a motor vehicle.

—Of those who quit, only 48% are gainfully employed, but none are self-supporting. Income comes from menial jobs such as lawn-mowing, baby-sitting and unskilled chores.

The study ran from January, 1964 to January, 1965 and involved every high school in Orange County. The probe discovered that some school statistics were in error and amounted to listing a person as a dropout who had merely been "lost" in the records.

ONE CASE OF this nature, Kelly pointed out, was a particularly brilliant student who was listed as a dropout. The committee "found" the pupil attending a school for gifted children in Switzerland.

Kelly was caustic in his summation of some academic aims of public education.

"A trend recently to tighten academic standards and place such emphasis on attending college, the summum bonum of the educational process, is partly to blame for dropouts," he asserted. "Pity the potential dropout, who is retarded in English and required to take a foreign language. The net result is that he becomes illiterate in two languages."

KELLY SAID the report was not aimed at curricular changes, but it would seem evident that a program must be made available which will allow each child to achieve at the maximum level of his potential.

He continued:

"While such a proposal may seem idealistic, even unrealistic, the results of inaction may lead to the dropping out of 560 students in Orange County schools each month by 1970."

Highway Demands May Hold Up Bixby Ranch Development Plan

An unexpected demand by the State Division of Highways for a 100-foot-wide strip of land, bordering E. Seventh Street may delay builders on some of the last view lots in Long Beach for as much as a year.

Bernard E. McCune, general manager of S&S Construction Co., developers of Bixby Hill Estates, said the state demand may force the replanning of the entire development. It would entail abandonment of approved streets by the city, public hearings and resubmission of a new development plan, McCune said.

The project, on historic Bixby Ranch, would include 300 residential lots; 10 acres of high-rise apartments; another eight acres of garden apartments and, in the center of the development, an eight-acre historical site on which the old Bixby Ranch buildings would be preserved.

The project extends northward from E. Seventh Street and east of California State College at Long Beach. Its developers have said they would plant peach trees in the tract to match plantings now being made on the campus in a beautification project designed to become an example to the nation.

McCune, whose company was delayed more than four years in development of land south of Seventh Street, when the state eventually condemned a 100-foot strip after construction had started, said he fears a similar delay in Bixby Hills Estates unless the state moves ahead rapidly to take the highway strip.

Tentative maps for the building project were filed with the city about a year ago, he said. "We thought the state had all the land it needed," he said. "We knew the city would send the maps to the state and we thought they would get in touch with us."

McCune said his company waited about eight months for a reaction from the state. "We decided they were not interested," he said, "so we filed the final map. The city processed it, approved it and it was recorded. Then we got a call from the State Division of Highways."

McCune said the company six months ago set last Tuesday as the date for beginning construction on the site.

"Our entire program was geared to this date and was in the realm of possibility until approximately two weeks ago, when the State Division of Highways advised us of their intent to acquire a strip of property along the north side of Seventh Street," he said.

THE LAND, the company was told, would be used for the future extension of the Garden Grove Freeway.

"Needless to say, this came as quite a shock to us," McCune said. He said about 400 persons have indicated interest in building on Bixby Hill and said his office has received numerous calls about the delay.

The company is exploring the possibility of developing sections of the area not affected by the freeway.

Japanese Scientists Plan Trek from Russia to Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—A team of 10 to 15 Japanese scientists is planning to walk across the Bering Strait from Russia to Alaska in hope of proving that, centuries ago, ancestors of Alaska's Eskimos could have migrated from Asia to Siberia by that method.

Plans for the 60-mile hike were announced here by three Japanese college students who made an eight-week study of weather and ice conditions between Little Diomed Island and Cape Prince of Wales.

"We have made a detailed study of climatic conditions to prepare for the trip," said Masaaki Suzuki, 24-year-old Waseda University student.

Church Sets Merger Plan in Operation

MONTREAT, N.C. (AP)—Southern Presbyterians took the first step Saturday toward possible merger with the Reformed Church in America and then waded into controversial proposals for endorsing civil rights demonstrations.

The civil rights policy statement hit a snag. Opponents moved to delay the matter until next year and supporters called for postponement until Monday, the final day of the session.

Debate was suspended for a recess before a vote was taken.

CLEARING away major business in a long, debate-filled day, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the U.S. approved without debate the drafting of a plan of union with the Reformed Church for consideration by 1968.

The nearly 450 commissioners beat down attempts to block a speech to a church agency here next August by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and to pull out of the National Council of Churches.

SATURDAY'S action opened the way for an ultimate decision on merging the 950,000 member Presbyterian body with the Reformed Church which has 230,000 members.

But the Assembly voted 302-113 against proposals seeking formal talk toward reunion with the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., the Northern Denomination.

On the King issue, the Assembly rejected 311-120 the move to withdraw the invitation to King. The vote was 318-126 to stay in the National Council of Churches.

Thus, in all such future cases, the department will have to decide whether the company or the union is right or wrong under federal statutes.

A spokesman for the state attorney general's office said the decision may be appealed.

STRIKERS LOSE

Unemployment Pay Precedent Set

A Superior Court judge in Los Angeles has handed down a decision in an unemployment-benefits case involving striking workers that may have precedent-setting effects on the application of the state's unemployment insurance law.

The decision, rendered by Judge Aubrey N. Irwin, essentially upheld the Continental Can Co. in a suit against the State Department of Employment, which handles UI funds.

The company had been asked to pay higher UI assessments by the department after discharging 38 employees who had participated in a strike against the firm in 1962.

(The UI fund is financed entirely by employer contributions, and a company's assessment is determined by the amount of benefits paid out to workers who have left the company's employ.)

THE DEPARTMENT made the additional assessment against the company because the 38 employees were fired and their benefits began a week after discharge.

But the employer asserted that the workers were ineligible to the benefits because they had refused to work during what Continental called an illegal strike.

On that basis, then, the workers had not been fired, but had quit, and therefore were ineligible to receive benefits until five weeks had passed.

Tuesday, Judge Irwin upheld the firm's position and said the department could not increase the company's insurance tax.

The 38 workers belonged to the Printing Specialists and Paper Products Union, which struck the company for nearly a month in 1962. The company argued—and apparently successfully—that the strike had been illegal because it was called to force the employer to deal with the union in violation of the federal labor act's provisions.

THE EFFECT of the ruling, said one lawyer, is to put the Department of Employment in the position of having to judge whether a strike is le-

Petris Explains Proposed Plan of Tax Reform

If the Unruh-Petris tax-reform program becomes law, it will slash $750 million from the property tax, "the worst tax we have on the books," Assemblyman Nicholas C. Petris said Friday in Los Angeles.

The major part of this reduction, $300 million, would come from a mandatory cut in the tax rate of school districts, the Alameda Democrat said.

School-district tax rates would be lowered an average of 25%, he said.

Petris, chairman of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee and cosponsor with Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh of AB 2270, was in Los Angeles to explain the program to a Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

DESPITE the forced tax-rate reduction, school districts actually would wind up with more funds than they now have because AB 2270 also provides for a 1% increase in the state sales tax solely for school support, Petris said.

Districts with comparatively low assessed valuation and high tax rates would show the greatest reduction in rates, he explained.

Adoption of the measure would result in a cut of $1.24 in the tax rate of Downey Unified School District, he said. Because of the added revenue from sales tax, however, Downey would end up with $212,000 more money than it now gets under the higher rate, Petris said.

In Torrance, the rate would be cut by $1.35, but the district would wind up $335,000 better off, while Lynwood School District would cut its rate by $1.37, but end up with an additional $47,000.

PETRIS said the recommendations of AB 2270, which is scheduled for vote in the Assembly about May 20, are "the most far-reaching and sweeping" changes in California's tax structure since 1932.

Studies by the Revenue and Taxation Committee over the past two years revealed that the property tax, "which hits the lowest-income people the hardest," was most in need of reform, Petris said.

The Unruh-Petris program proposes, in addition to the slash in the school-tax rates, elimination of taxes on business inventories, household furnishings and solvent credits. These three items will result in a reduction in local revenues of $287 million, he said.

The measure also provides $38 million in special property-tax relief for low-income, aged homeowners who no longer can afford to remain in their homes in the face of spiraling property taxes.

To replace the revenue lost by these reductions and to add $360 million "for critical state needs," the Unruh-Petris program proposes a 5-cent increase in the cigarette tax, an increase in state income tax, increases in state bank and corporation tax, a 2% tax on utilities, a property-transfer tax to be imposed by counties, and the sales tax.

Petris denied charges by some opponents of the plan that the sales tax is "regressive," hitting low-income groups the hardest. In California, he said, this is not true because the sales tax does not apply to food purchases at grocery stores, to rent or to services such as dry cleaning and laundry and television repair.

ADDITIONAL funds would be allocated by the state controller under a formula computed on the proportion of a city's 1963-64 taxes on personal property to the state's total in that year.

Under such a formula, Long Beach would get additional funds of $523,083, Petris said. Torrance would get an additional $239,002.

The program would provide "substantial tax cuts for most of the people in the state," Petris declared.

Bracero Use Suggested by Wirtz Panel

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A special panel appointed to study California's farm labor crisis recommended Saturday night that the Federal Government permit 1,500 foreign workers to be imported to the San Joaquin Delta and Monterey County this year.

Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz was expected to follow the recommendation of the three-man panel which he named to advise him. The foreign workers could be brought in under existing immigration laws. In previous years thousands of Mexican braceros worked on California farms under a law which expired at the end of last year.

THE SAN JOAQUIN Farm Production Assn., of Stockton, and the Growers Farm Labor Assn., of Salinas, had asked Wirtz to permit a total of 6,700 Mexican workers to enter California for the harvest season.

But the panel, which held hearings in both Stockton and Salinas, said the available supply of domestic workers would leave a shortage of 1,000 in the San Joaquin Delta and 1,500 in Monterey County at the peak harvest time.

By assigning 1,000 foreign workers now in the state to field jobs, it said, only 1,000 more would have to be imported to fill the needs in the two areas. The workers on hand are Japanese and Filipinos brought here under the regular immigration laws for farm work who have been unemployed.

THE PANEL, which was made up of three University of California officials, also criticized farmers and government agencies for not doing more to recruit domestic workers.

"Domestic seasonal workers have not in general been offered all the terms and conditions offered Mexican nationals under Public Law 78 (the Bracero law)," the panel said. It cited the failure to offer domestic workers a written contract guaranteeing pay for 75% of available working time.

Federal and state labor officials had not seen to it that such a contract was offered domestic workers, according to the findings of the panel. "They must share the responsibility for tightening up domestic employment incentives," it said.

Johnson Crowns Luci Norfolk Azalea Queen

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson returned to Washington from Norfolk, Va., Saturday and took off immediately for Camp David in the Catoctin Mountains of Maryland to spend the weekend.

He crowned his daughter, Luci, Queen of the 12th International Azalea Festival in Norfolk then flew to Washington.

He was off again 11 minutes later by helicopter for the mountain retreat.

Going with him to Camp David were Mrs. Johnson, daughter Lynda, Lynda's ex-fiance Navy Lt. (J.G.) Bernard G. Rosenbach and friends of the family.

Rosenbach and Lynda broke off their engagement a year ago by mutual agreement. He was with the presidential party when they flew to Norfolk early in the day.

Mars Vehicle Probe Designs Requested

L. P. T. Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Three firms have been chosen to prepare preliminary designs for a spacecraft to explore Mars and other planets, the National Aeronautics & Space Administration announced Saturday.

The preliminary designs will lead to choosing of one of the three firms as prime contractor for fabrication of the Voyager spacecraft, which NASA hopes to send to Mars in 1971.

Selected were Space Technology Laboratories in Redondo Beach, The Boeing Co., Seattle, and the General Electric Co., Philadelphia.

Working with STL will be Douglas Aircraft Co. Missiles & Space Systems Division in Huntington Beach. Assisting Boeing will be Electro-Optical Systems, Inc., of Pasadena, and the Philco Corp. Western Development Laboratories at Palo Alto. Associated with GE will be Motorola, Inc., Scottsdale, Ariz., and Texas Instruments Inc. of Dallas.

The project will be managed by Pasadena's Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

The 5,000-pound spacecraft must be designed to orbit Mars and other planets and release a capsule which will "soft land" to gather information on soil and life forms. The spacecraft will collect atmospheric data.

Design proposals for the landing capsule will be asked later this year, NASA said. It will weigh up to 6,000 pounds.

Seven firms sought the spacecraft preliminary design contracts of about $500,000 each.

GUNFIRE AT HARVEY

Man Arrested in Strike War

A member of the United Steelworkers union, one of the 2,000 striking against the Harvey Aluminum plant in the Torrance area, was booked on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon Saturday following an early morning exchange of gunshots.

Jack E. McCollum, 27, of Manhattan Beach, was accused by Firestone sheriff's deputies of being the driver of an auto from which shots were fired from a pellet gun at workers in the plant, the headquarters of the nation's fifth largest aluminum producer.

MEANWHILE, a six-hour conciliation session between Harvey Aluminum spokesmen and USW representatives broke off in Washington, D.C., but was scheduled to resume Monday "in the Los Angeles area."

In Torrance, deputies said two cars were fired upon from a car containing six men.

Elmer E. Garrison, 37, a lead man, said he was alone in his auto when it was struck by a bullet. Lester L. Acton, 40, and his son, Ray, 20, claimed the same group shot at their auto, apparently with the same pellet gun.

Garrison told deputies he pursued the auto and fired his .45-caliber automatic loaded with birdshot at the fleeing assailants in their auto, but said he didn't know if he hit anything.

Garrison and the two Actons are working in the plant in spite of the USW strike which is in its 21st day today.

In the nation's capital, 11 hours of talks in a two-day session ended with a "no comment" on progress from Gilbert Seldin, assistant director of conciliation activities for the U.S. Mediation and Conciliation Service.

HE SAID George Duncan, Los Angeles-based federal mediator, is scheduled to sit in on talks between the two parties Monday.

Twice before the Washington mediation talks, Harvey representatives snubbed Duncan's attempts to arrange sessions in Los Angeles. Union delegates responded to both of Duncan's invitations.

Acquitted in Grisly Gift Case

OCALA, Fla. (AP)—A Georgia man whose wife mailed him the skeleton of the family dog along with a Christmas card signed "Laddie" was acquitted Saturday in her shooting death.

The prosecution charged that James Lester Purcell, enraged over receiving the grisly package, traveled from Douglasville, Ga., to the Ocala home of his estranged wife and shot her.

BUT Purcell testified that he and his wife, Geraldine, 45, were fighting over a shotgun last Dec. 19 when it discharged accidentally, killing her.

A circuit court jury deliberated for seven hours before returning its verdict.

Mrs. Purcell had told friends that her husband hated her so much that he killed the family dog, Laddie, and buried it in the back-yard of her home. She dug up the skeleton and mailed it to him in a sack shortly before Christmas.

Nab 3 as Thieves of Million in Art

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police Saturday arrested three men in connection with a million-dollar art theft that occurred a month ago at the Hillsborough estate of the late banking and real estate tycoon, W. W. Crocker.

A short time after the arrest, the FBI office in Houston announced it had found five paintings in a storage warehouse that had been left with a night watchman Thursday night.

The paintings included an oil by Pierre Auguste Renoir entitled "Still Life With Prickly Pears," valued at $35,000, an oil by Vincent Van Gogh entitled "Cypress and Flowering Tree," valued at $175,000, another oil by Van Gogh entitled "Ploughman (or the Laborer)," worth $85,000, and an oil by Maurice Vlaminck entitled "Flowerpiece."

The suspects were identified as Martin Winthal, 26, an apprentice butcher, his brother Joseph, 24, and Solomon Marquez Jr., 26, all of San Francisco.

Oppenheimer Resigns at Princeton

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, pioneer in development of the atomic bomb, submitted his resignation Saturday as director of the Institute for Advanced Study.

The 61-year-old prize-winning scientist said, however, that he would remain in his post as senior professor of theoretical physics at the institute.

Oppenheimer, who directed the Los Alamos, N.M., atomic-bomb project from 1943 to 1945, said he wanted additional time "to seek an understanding, both historical and philosophical, of what the sciences have brought to human life."

"After 18 years as director of the institute I hope to turn to these questions unencumbered by the important problems of institute policy and administration," he said in a statement.

HHH, Klan Leader Speech Rivals

DURHAM, N. C. (UPI) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey discussed the "Great Society" Saturday night five miles from a muddy field where the imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan warned more than 7,000 persons of the "Communist trend" in the nation.

Humphrey spoke to several thousand persons in the indoor stadium at Duke University.

When he arrived at the airport from Orlando, Fla., where he had attended ceremonies for astronaut John W. Young, klansmen held a "street walk."

Both Humphrey and Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton began speaking at the same time. There were no incidents.

Four Dead on Luxury Cruiser

SARNIA, Ont. (AP)—Four persons were found dead Saturday aboard a 50-foot luxury cruiser after it docked here, across the St. Clair River from Port Huron.

Police said asphyxiation, possibly caused by carbon monoxide, apparently was to blame. The bodies were found below deck.

The only survivor aboard the Lady D, out of Detroit, was the captain, Richard Donald Winter, of East Detroit, who was at the wheel on an open bridge.

Victims were identified by Sarnia police as John Dunn Jr., 40, of Warren, Mich., executive in an auto haulaway trucking firm; Miss Joyce Brinkhoff, 23, of Littleton, Colo., and Cass Flowers and his wife, Sophie, of Hamtramck, Mich.

Tax Relief for GIs in Viet War

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson granted income-tax relief Saturday to U.S. military personnel serving in the Viet Nam theater of operations.

Johnson announced an executive order, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1964, exempting enlisted personnel from all federal income tax on pay received during assignment in South Viet Nam or during service on naval vessels within 100 miles of the Vietnamese coast.

Commissioned officers may exempt from taxation $200 per month of their service pay while on such assignments.

New Figures on Soybean Stocks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department announced Saturday it would issue new and corrected figures Monday on stocks of soybeans in the nation.

Whether these revised figures will be higher or lower is not known and department officials won't say.

CIVIL SERVICES FOR TROOPS?

Navy Leaguer Urges Military Pay Raise

I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Placing rates that have made men in uniform "second-class Americans" in the federal civil service systems was suggested here Saturday by the president of the 35,000-member Navy League.

Robert H. Barnum, retiring president of the unofficial organization, made the suggestion during a talk in which he deplored low service pay.

Charge Parents in Child Neglect; Beaten, Burned

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Sacramento police Saturday reported the arrest of a local couple whose son told officers that he had been beaten, burned, slashed and starved over the past 11 years.

Police arrested Ah Toy Gong, 40, and his wife, Sua, 35, Friday and charged them with felonious child neglect. The couple was released on $1,100 bail each.

The son, George, 16, was caught stealing candy bars earlier and told police that his mother had refused to feed him. Officers said the boy's body was covered with at least 30 bruises, scars and burns, which, he said, were inflicted by his mother.

ADDRESSING a league convention, Barnum pointed out that service salaries and fringe benefits lag by more than 10% behind those of civil service employees. This is crippling the services through low enlistment and re-enlistment rates, he said.

His concern with the personnel turnover was echoed in a talk before the league by Adm. David L. McDonald, chief of naval operations. McDonald, the Navy's top ranking officer, point out that the Navy loses nearly 15% of its experienced officers and men.

Barnum urged league members to support a bill by Sen. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, to boost service pay scales.

Barnum said Rivers bill, although it would cost $1.5 billion annually, would result in savings of three times that much through turnover reduction and less reliance on "the selective disservice" system.

A short time after the arrest, the FBI office in Houston announced it had found five paintings in a storage warehouse that had been left with a night watchman Thursday night.

The paintings included an oil by Pierre Auguste Renoir entitled "Still Life With Prickly Pears," valued at $35,000, an oil by Vincent Van Gogh entitled "Cypress and Flowering Tree," valued at $175,000, another oil by Van Gogh entitled "Ploughman (or the Laborer)," worth $85,000, and an oil by Maurice Vlaminck entitled "Flowerpiece."

The suspects were identified as Martin Winthal, 26, an apprentice butcher, his brother Joseph, 24, and Solomon Marquez Jr., 26, all of San Francisco.

Oppenheimer Resigns at Princeton

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, pioneer in development of the atomic bomb, submitted his resignation Saturday as director of the Institute for Advanced Study.

The 61-year-old prize-winning scientist said, however, that he would remain in his post as senior professor of theoretical physics at the institute.

Oppenheimer, who directed the Los Alamos, N.M., atomic-bomb project from 1943 to 1945, said he wanted additional time "to seek an understanding, both historical and philosophical, of what the sciences have brought to human life."

"After 18 years as director of the institute I hope to turn to these questions unencumbered by the important problems of institute policy and administration," he said in a statement.

HHH, Klan Leader Speech Rivals

DURHAM, N. C. (UPI) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey discussed the "Great Society" Saturday night five miles from a muddy field where the Imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan warned more than 7,000 persons of the "Communist trend" in the nation.

Humphrey spoke to several thousand persons in the indoor stadium at Duke University.

When he arrived at the airport from Orlando, Fla., where he had attended ceremonies for astronaut John W. Young, klansmen held a "street walk."

Both Humphrey and Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton began speaking at the same time. There were no incidents.

Four Dead on Luxury Cruiser

SARNIA, Ont. (AP)—Four persons were found dead Saturday aboard a 50-foot luxury cruiser after it docked here, across the St. Clair River from Port Huron.

Police said asphyxiation, possibly caused by carbon monoxide, apparently was to blame. The bodies were found below deck.

The only survivor aboard the Lady D, out of Detroit, was the captain, Richard Donald Winter, of East Detroit, who was at the wheel on an open bridge.

Victims were identified by Sarnia police as John Dunn Jr., 40, of Warren, Mich., executive in an auto haulaway trucking firm; Miss Joyce Brinkhoff, 23, of Littleton, Colo., and Cass Flowers and his wife, Sophie, of Hamtramck, Mich.

Tax Relief for GIs in Viet War

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson granted income-tax relief Saturday to U.S. military personnel serving in the Viet Nam theater of operations.

Johnson announced an executive order, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1964, exempting enlisted personnel from all federal income tax on pay received during assignment in South Viet Nam or during service on naval vessels within 100 miles of the Vietnamese coast.

Commissioned officers may exempt from taxation $200 per month of their service pay while on such assignments.

New Figures on Soybean Stocks

Whether these revised figures will be higher or lower is not known and department officials won't say.

CIVIL SERVICES FOR TROOPS?

Navy Leaguer Urges Military Pay Raise

L. P. T. Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Placing rates that have made men in uniform "second-class Americans." rates that have made men in uniform "second-class Americans."

Barnum said "it might not be a bad idea" to put servicemen under civil service and he wondered if an ambitious union might seek to organize the military.

ADDRESSING a league convention, Barnum pointed out that service salaries and fringe benefits lag by more than 10% behind those of civil service employees. This is crippling the services through low enlistment and re-enlistment rates, he said.

His concern with the personnel turnover was echoed in a talk before the league by Adm. David L. McDonald, chief of naval operations. McDonald, the Navy's top ranking officer, pointed out that the Navy loses nearly 15% of its experienced officers and men.

Barnum urged league members to support a bill by Sen. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, to boost service pay scales.

Barnum said Rivers bill, although it would cost $1.5 billion annually, would result in savings of three times that much through turnover reductions and less reliance on "the selective disservice" system.

The son, George, 16, was caught stealing candy bars earlier and told police that his mother had refused to feed him. Officers said the boy's body was covered with at least 30 bruises, scars and burns, which, he said, were inflicted by his mother.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Resting Period, Nervous Steels Push Mart Down

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market spent most of last week resting up from the previous week's sprint to record levels, but still managed to ring up another new record.

In general, the analysts considered the early part of the week a period of rest and consolidation for the market, but there were other factors behind the downward tendency.

The slowly dwindling hopes for a settlement of the steel labor talks before the May 1 strike deadline kept steels nervous. At week's end, prices in the group firmed a bit, apparently on hopes that government pressure would force both parties back to the bargaining table.

THE INCOMING first quarter earnings reports showed most corporations with record or near record profits. However, these were partially offset by some disappointing economic statistics. Although not as bearish as it has been, the Viet Nam situation continued to keep investors and traders cautious.

Prices opened the week with a small plus sign, but then eased Tuesday and again Wednesday. However, Wednesday's loss was slashed substantially by a late buying wave. Prices advanced rather sluggishly Thursday until another late burst of enthusiasm pushed the popular averages up sharply.

The market made fairly good progress through most of Friday's session, but normal pre-weekend liquidation dropped off the best part of the advance.

NEVERTHELESS, Dow-Jones Industrials finished at a new peak of 916.41, up 4.50 on the week. Rails slipped 1.04 to 212.12 and utilities eased 0.49 to 162.36. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index added 0.73 to 88.88, also a new peak.

Volume totaled 29,622,740 shares compared with 25,150,030 shares in the four sessions the week before and 29,013,380 shares in the same week last year.

Of the 1,539 issues crossing the tape, 757 advanced while 620 declined. New 1965 outnumbers lows 333 to 74. Texas Gulf Sulphur was the volume leader. It plunged sharply after the Securities & Exchange Commission filed a suit charging several officers had used information about the company's Timmins, Ont., mineral strike for their own profit, but then rebounded after stockholders at the annual meeting Thursday gave management a vote of confidence.

IT FINISHED the week with a loss of 2 1/2% at 67 1/2 on a turnover of 658,900 shares. Chrysler tumbled 2% to 54 1/2 on 493,900 shares in second place. Colorado Fuel & Iron was third with a gain of 1 1/4 at 16 1/2 on 334,200 shares. Colorado Fuel reported first quarter profits of $1.12 a share compared with 23 cents in the 116 1964 period.

Polaroid advanced 6 1/2 to 65 1/4, just under its 1965 high, on 282,200 shares. Standard Oil also was active, advancing 3 1/2 to 80 3/4 on 280,000 shares.

Oils were about the market's strongest section and large gains in the group were fairly common. Texaco, also active, spurred 5 1/2. Pennzoil jumped 5 1/2. Royal Dutch and Richfield 2 1/4, Sinclair 2 3/4, Gulf 2 1/2, and Amerada 2 1/2.

GENERAL Motors touched a new peak of 110 1/4, but then backtracked to 108 1/4, up 1/2 from the prior week. Ford was up 1 1/2. Thursday, Ford reported record mid-April sales. American Motors slipped 3/4.

Chemicals were firm with Eastman Kodak and Monsanto up 1 1/2. Union Carbide gained a point on news of a 27% increase in first quarter profits. Normally wide-moving DuPont tacked on 1/4.

Electronics met selective demand. IBM soared 8 1/4. Beckman picked up 2 1/2 and Litton tacked on 3/4. Honeywell plunged 5 1/2 on lower first quarter profits. Texas Instruments advanced 3 1/2 after its president told the annual meeting first quarter earnings were the second best on record.

PAN AMERICAN Sulphur skidded 7 1/4 on news the Mexican government had halted a shipment of its sulphur at Vera Cruz. Friday, an accumulation of orders held up the opening of the stock until around 1:30 p.m. EST. The company said it had been advised that Mexico had been studying a new conservation policy on natural resources.

Aircraft issues, which have been gaining an increasing share of interest recently, turned in a good performance. North American Aviation and Northrop advanced 2 1/4. United Aircraft 2 and Boeing 1 1/2. McDonnell Aircraft fell 1/2 despite news of a $482 million jet plane contract.

CARTER products slipped 1/2 on news a controversy has erupted over the effectiveness of its Meproamate tranquilizer, one of the most widely used tranquilizers in the U.S.

$350 Million Stake in La. Oil Case

By HARRY W. SHARPE
WASHINGTON (UPI)

The Federal Government has a $350 million stake in a Louisiana oil leasing case now before the Supreme Court.

But that figure could be but a pittance if the court upholds a lower court decision which the Justice Department has appealed.

Also affected would be federal mineral rights in another million Louisiana acres, in land holdings in 41 other states, and widely scattered natural forest lands.

The issue is whether a state law can supersede the legal doctrine of federal supremacy.

IT ALL began back in 1935 when the government paid the Joseph Leiter estate $25,000 for 8,711 acres in Plaquemine Parish, La., for use as a wildlife refuge under the migratory bird conservation act.

Thomas Leiter, an heir, signed the contract three years later and delivered the deed to the government. At the same time he allegedly agreed to forfeit all mineral rights in the land after 10 years—by April 1, 1945—if by that time neither he nor his successors had discovered oil or natural gas.

The government claims that no exploration was ever begun. In 1949 it began leasing the land to oil and gas prospectors who signed a development contract with the California Co.

Oil was found in 1950 and by May, 1954, 80 wells were producing. There are now 100. In 1953, however, Leiter Minerals, Inc., which had taken over Thomas Leiter's interests, sued the government and the California Co., demanding they be declared rightful owners of the mineral rights.

THE SUIT was based on a 1940 state law which reserved to Louisiana the mineral rights in all lands sold to the United States. It not only was upheld by state courts but by the fifth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals which ruled that the state law took precedence over federal law pending any contrary declaration by congress.

The government and California Company appealed to the Supreme Court, charging the lower courts had set legal guidelines which subjected them to the "idiosyncrasies of local land law" all over the nation.

THE LANDS are valued at $350 million. To date $150 million of oil has been produced. From this the government has gotten $19 million in royalties, a fourth of which was given to Plaquemine Parish for schools and roads as provided by the Migratory Bird Act.

Of the other million Louisiana acres the government owns, it has outstanding 400 oil and gas leases covering 300,000 acres. Half of them are subject to mineral reservations ranging from 10 to 25 years. In addition it has 1,425,000 acres in 41 other states—all acquired under the Migratory Bird Law—plus millions of acres of forest lands acquired under the 1911 Weeks Law.

IT was appeal the Justice Department said that federal title to most of these lands would be jeopardized by the "vagaries of local property laws" if the Leiter suit is upheld. It added that "each state would be free to impose restrictions" on land acquisitions by the national government.

"Finally," it said, with California Co. concurring, "the decision threatens the security of substantial federal land interests by holding that the constitutional bar against laws impairing the obligation of contracts does not prevent the total abrogation of valuable rights previously acquired through contractual stipulation."

Critics in Debate on Library Books

By RALPH HINMAN JR.

"Our criticism of the public library here is its lack of balance... its imbalance," said the chief of conservative Education Society of Long Beach.

"Balance isn't the problem—rather, the question is one of quality of the books," replied an unofficial spokesman for librarians here and across the nation.

JEWISH Community Center's monthly "Coffee and Controversy" session was living up to its name—except the pot ran dry early in the evening when more than 50 persons turned out.

Joseph Kesler of ESLB, and Dr. Roscoe Bucklin, LBSC English Department chairman, exchanged views during two hours Wednesday night.

KESLER, who described himself as "a native Californian who has lived in Long Beach since 1926... a UCLA graduate in political science... an insurance broker," read most of his direct statements from prepared notes.

Buckland, holder of a Ph.D. in American civilization from the University of Iowa, admitted his remarks.

Seated between the two was Ben Holtzman, "a working moderator."

KESLER began by repeating ESLB's allegation that the public library "maintains de-facto censorship of right-wing books" by not buying and shelving such materials.

He went on to define the society's philosophy as "a belief in God, in liberty as stated in the Declaration of Independence and the American free enterprise system."

Books are selected from reviews published in the Sunday New York Times, New York Herald Tribune, Library Journal, Saturday Review and American Library Journal he said, "and these consistently are oriented toward the liberal view."

AS A result, he said, "22 books favorable to communism" were acquired during a period last year when only seven conservative works were bought.

He specifically cited the controversial "None Dare Call It Treason" as a book passed over here. A spectator later was to point out that several copies now are on library shelves.

Lack of such magazines as the Freeman, National Review and others were cited by Kesler as further instances of censorship.

NOTING that "libraries have been attacked throughout man's history," Buckland denied any touch of censorship exists, adding: "There is a noticeable pattern in these attacks against the books."

Touching on "None Dare," Buckland said the 1964 Presidential campaign is over and "that the politically inspired book now is at the back of the paperback book racks."

Since balance is impossible in today's libraries, Buckland declared "the best they can do is to get the best books available."

The library has stocked books requested by ESLB, he said, "but none were borrowed" by the people who so vociferously demanded they be bought.

Laughter, jeers and hisses punctuated each man's presentation, particularly after audience participation began. Although pro-Bucklandites were in the majority, a sizable minority supported Kesler.

Low-Budget Aid Worth a Million

A shoestring budget has not hampered the Unitarian-Universalist church in world service to the needy because the help is offered with no strings attached.

So said Dr. Malcolm R. Sutherland Jr., president of Meadville Theological School of Chicago, speaking Saturday night at the annual meeting of the Unitarian Universalist Association's Pacific Southwest District at the Lafayette Hotel.

Speaking before 200 delegates from churches in Southern California and Arizona, Dr. Sutherland said the numerically small denomination's service committee must be particularly effective in its selection of projects and methods because of a relatively small annual budget of about $750,000 for work throughout the world.

THE denomination, which carries on its medical and social missions without trying to convert the people it helps, must emphasize teaching those being helped to help themselves, said Dr. Sutherland, a member of the service committee executive board. Such workers also must guard against the dehumanizing influence of contemporary society by making those being helped partners in the program, he said.

Earlier in the day-long conference, the denomination elected district officers for the coming year. Among them was Dr. Robert Wylder, of 1817 Inglewood Ave., treasurer.

Loot Worth $350

Prowlers took more than $350 in loot Saturday from a parked car belonging to Daryl G. Geddes, 20-year-old sailor from the USS Hollister. He told police clothing, cigarettes and a watch were taken while his car was parked near Gate 5 at the Long Beach Naval Station.

Water Board to Get Bids on Chemicals

Bids for supplying 838 tons of chemicals to purify Long Beach's water supply during the next year will be opened May 13 by the Board of Water Commissioners.

Board members Thursday approved specifications for the annual purchases estimated to cost nearly $103,000. Orders will be placed for 535 tons of liquid chlorine, 222 tons of liquid caustic soda, 57 tons of hydrated lime and 24 tons of copper sulphate.

In bid openings by the board, Ledford Bros., of Long Beach, apparently qualified for a $30,300 contract to construct an underground regulator station at Wardlow Road and Woodruff Avenue. Bovee Construction Co., Paramount, filed the second-low bid of $30,920.

Sully-Miller Contracting Co., Long Beach, was low bidder, at $19,581.69 for paving 33rd Street between Walnut and Cherry Avenues. A $19,635.25 offer by Bay District Paving Co., Santa Monica, was next low.

APPOINTED
Robert King, who attended Long Beach City College and San Diego State College, has been appointed to the Long Beach Convention Bureau staff. He will solicit conventions and meetings for the city.

Parents of students at the Mary Zoeter School will receive invitations to visit at a specified time during the regular school day.

throughout the nation in the annual observance of "Law Day USA."

Proclaimed by President Johnson, Law Day USA is designed "to foster respect for law, to increase public understanding of law in American life, and to point up the contrast between freedom under the law in the United States and governmental tyranny under communism."

The presidential proclamation was joined in by Mayor Edwin Wade and by Henry H. Clock, president of the Long Beach Bar Association.

ATTORNEY Robert Wenke, chairman of the Law Day USA program in Long Beach, explained that the observance has been held on May 1 every year since 1958 "because that is the date Communists call attention to their form of government, and it seemed an appropriate time to call attention to the freedoms guaranteed by our Constitution."

In order to give more members of the business community an opportunity to take part in the Law Day observance, Wenke said, this year's program will be held on Friday, April 30, instead of Saturday.

Los Angeles County Sheriff Peter Pitchess will be the featured speaker Friday at a Lafayette Hotel luncheon. At the same time, the Bar Association will make its "Liberty Bell" awards to Long Beach citizens who have contributed to law enforcement, and will award scholarships of $200 each to 10 high school students.

Leo Vander Lans, chairman of the Bar's scholarship committee, revealed that six boys and four girls from six high schools had been selected for the scholarships on the basis of academic excellence and service.

NAMED were Allyson Ruth Cadwell (Millikan) of 7805 Tula St.; Judith Ann Cameron (Poly) of 4140 Country Club Drive; Jeffrey S. Cohen (Millikan) of 3045 San Anselmo; Hilary Ursula Kelvin (Poly) of 3925 Olive Ave.; Peter D. Pesic (Wilson) of 2800 E. First St.; Jean Ann Raders (St. Anthony) of 403 44th Circle; Michael Patrick Rushing (St. Anthony) of 4715 Bontree Ave.; Robert Allen Sams (Jordan) of 4248

Keever Ave.; Robbin Roy Schellhaus (Wilson) of 6231 E. Fifth St., and Rondal D. Zamow (Lakewood) of 3309 Fairman St., Lakewood. Serving with Vander Lans on the scholarship committee, Wenke said, were attorneys Ed Bennett, Ross Bigelow, Marie Cawyer, Douglas Dalton, Louis Hart, Judge Beach Vasey, George Wise and Tim Zeiger.

Tickets for Friday's luncheon, limited to 160 persons, are available from attorney John Carroll in the Farmer's and Merchant's Building, or from the Long Beach Bar Association.

Critics in Debate on Library Books

By RALPH HINMAN JR.

"Our criticism of the public library here is its lack of balance... its imbalance," said the chief of conservative Education Society of Long Beach.

"Balance isn't the problem—rather, the question is one of quality of the books," replied an unofficial spokesman for librarians here and across the nation.

JEWISH Community Center's monthly "Coffee and Controversy" session was living up to its name—except the pot ran dry early in the evening when more than 50 persons turned out.

Joseph Kesler of ESLB, and Dr. Roscoe Bucklin, LBSC English Department chairman, exchanged views during two hours Wednesday night.

KESLER, who described himself as "a native Californian who has lived in Long Beach since 1926... a UCLA graduate in political science... an insurance broker," read most of his direct statements from prepared notes.

Buckland, holder of a Ph.D. in American civilization from the University of Iowa, ad-libbed his remarks.

Seated between the two was Ben Holtzman, "a working moderator."

KESLER began by repeating ESLB's allegation that the public library "maintains de-facto censorship of right-wing books" by not buying and shelving such materials.

He went on to define the society's philosophy as "a belief in God, in liberty as stated in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution and the American free enterprise system."

Books are selected from reviews published in the Sunday New York Times, New York Herald Tribune, Library Journal, Saturday Review and American Library Journal he said, "and these consistently are oriented toward the liberal view."

AS A result, he said, "22 books favorable to communism" were acquired during a period last year when only seven conservative works were bought.

He specifically cited the controversial "None Dare Call It Treason" as a book passed over here. A spectator later was to point out that several copies now are on library shelves.

Lack of such magazines as the Freeman, National Review and others were cited by Kesler as further instances of censorship.

NOTING that "libraries have been attacked throughout man's history," Buckland denied any touch of censorship exists, adding: "There is a noticeable pattern in these attacks against the books."

Touching on "None Dare," Buckland said the 1964 Presidential campaign is over and "that the politically inspired book now is at the back of the paperback book racks."

Since balance is impossible in today's libraries, Buckland declared "the best they can do is to get the best books available."

The library has stocked books requested by ESLB, he said, "but none were borrowed" by the people who so vociferously demanded they be bought.

Laughter, jeers and hisses punctuated each man's presentation, particularly after audience participation began. Although pro-Bucklinites were in the majority, a sizable minority supported Kesler.

Low-Budget Aid Worth a Million

A shoestring budget has not hampered the Unitarian-Universalist church in world service to the needy because the help is offered with no strings attached.

So said Dr. Malcolm R. Sutherland Jr., president of Meadville Theological School of Chicago, speaking Saturday night at the annual meeting of the Unitarian Universalist Association's Pacific Southwest District at the Lafayette Hotel.

Speaking before 200 delegates from churches in Southern California and Arizona, Dr. Sutherland said the numerically small denomination's service committee must be particularly effective in its selection of projects and methods because of a relatively small annual budget of about $750,000 for work throughout the world.

THE denomination, which carries on its medical and social missions without trying to convert the people it helps, must emphasize teaching those being helped to help themselves, said Dr. Sutherland, a member of the service committee executive board. Such workers also must guard against the dehumanizing influence of contemporary society by making those being helped partners in the program, he said.

Earlier in the day-long conference, the denomination elected district officers for the coming year. Among them was Dr. Robert Wylder, of 1817 Iroquois Ave., treasurer.

Loot Worth $350

Prowlers took more than $350 in loot Saturday from a parked car belonging to Daryl G. Geddes, 20-year-old sailor from the USS Hollister. He told police clothing, cigarettes and a watch were taken while his car was parked near Gate 5 at the Long Beach Naval Station.

APPOINTED Robert King, who attended Long Beach City College and San Diego State College, has been appointed to the Long Beach Convention Bureau staff. He will solicit conventions and meetings for the city.

Schools-Week Events Slated

Assemblies and parent visits to schools will mark the observance of Public Schools Week in Seal Beach schools starting Monday.

An evening program at the Mary Zoeter School for kindergarten through third grade starts at 7 p.m. Tuesday. Open house at the J. H. McCaugh School will start at 7:30 p.m. Thursday with a general assembly, followed by visits to classrooms for grades four through eight.

Parents of students at the Mary Zoeter School will receive invitations to visit at a specified time during the regular school day.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

Viet Nam: Stepped-Up Offensive Pays Off

Combined Wire Services
Despite some picketing of the White House, petitions, and an occasional Senate voice in opposition, the Johnson administration clearly had no intention of slowing the attack in Viet Nam.

Quite the contrary. The administration seemed satisfied that its new military initiative in Southeast Asia was paying off.

Future military strategy was worked out at a Honolulu meeting of top military leaders and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, who later reported to a presidential cabinet session.

McNAMARA said morale was up in South Viet Nam, down in North Viet Nam. The air onslaught was beginning to hurt Hanoi, and the stepped-up offensive had the bonus of deepening the rift between Communist China and the Soviet Union.

As to the possibility of Soviet missiles around Hanoi, said McNamara, the picture of confidence: "We have ways and means of dealing with them."

Far from pulling out, he announced plans to increase American aid to South Viet Nam from $207 million to $330 million annually. The United States will support expansion of South Viet Nam forces from 100,000 to 160,000 troops, will train the men and will supply more helicopters and other arms, he said.

Reinforcing his words, Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Senate majority leader, said President Johnson's offer of unconditional discussions "do not require interpretation from Peking, Moscow, or, in all honesty, from anonymous bureaucrats in this city."

"Those who seek peace in Viet Nam," he said, "will be well-advised to note the President's willingness to enter into unconditional discussions and respond to them."

A SENATE colleague, Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, had said a few days earlier that "there might be some value in stopping the bombings." Not so, retorted McNamara. That would only be interpreted as weakness and failure of a strategy.

On the front itself, activity was brisk all week long, and the price came high. At least 18 Americans were killed in battle, the worst week's toll in many months.

The air forces were out in strength, hitting bridges, trucks, anti-aircraft positions and other targets. The raids met little opposition, and in fact intelligence in South Viet Nam said the Hanoi regime was ordering its people to take cover and to halt daylight activity. American planes promptly began night forays against truck movements, claiming many a truck blasted off the roads in the dark.

On the other side of the world the United States handed Moscow a note formally denying Kremlin charges that an atomic arms belt will be established near the West German border.

The note branded as "wholly inaccurate and groundless" a Russian complaint dated last Jan. 18. At the same time the State Department called on Moscow to eliminate "real" mine fields set up in Red East Germany. It also used the occasion to remind the Soviets that nuclear warheads have been stockpiled in Europe "for the protection of the area."

EIGHTEEN thousand persons, many of them squealing children on Easter holiday, packed Madison Square Garden Wednesday morning for a special performance of the Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey Circus.

But one of the clowns was missing.

In a hotel room a few blocks away lay the battered body of Paul Jung, 65, universally-acclaimed king of the clowns. The veteran funny-man, who had "not an enemy in the world," had been beaten to death early Wednesday morning.

In Tampa, Fla., where Jung lived, his widow declared bitterly: "It's that terrible New York City. It's like a jungle."

In response to the rising terror in the city, Mayor Robert F. Wagner ordered 500 more policemen into a special 7 p.m.-to-3 a.m. patrol. "The days ahead will be days of open war — we against the criminals," the mayor declared.

The mayor, who a week earlier had ordered extra police to patrol subway trains and stations, said he would increase the police force by 1,500 men and transfer 564 more from clerical duties to street patrol. "We are going to win," the mayor said. "They (the criminals) are going to lose."

BUT THE city had a gay side. The New York World's Fair reopened Wednesday, for its second and final year, and first-day attendance was a smashing 158,620, more than three times the size of the opening day crowd a year ago. Over succeeding days attendance held up well; the fair was definitely a hit for 1965.

According to the Securities & Exchange Commission, Nov. 12, 1963 was an important day in the life of the Texas Gulf Sulphur Co.

On that day, says the SEC, certain company executives became aware that the company had struck a bonanza in the wilds of Ontario, Canada, and quietly began buying company stock, then selling at about $18 a share.

By late Wednesday, when the SEC filed civil suit against the "insiders," the stock was selling around $70 a share. The SEC charged that the executives had made a killing before letting the public in on it on April 16, 1964.

On that date, at a news conference, President Claude O. Stephens announced that Texas Gulf Sulphur had made "a major discovery of zinc, copper and silver in the Timmins area." Later estimates placed the bonanza at 55 million tons of ore.

THOSE charged in the suit included Stephens, Thomas S. Lamont, a director of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., and several vice presidents, geologists and lawyers associated with Texas Gulf Sulphur.

One of those named in the suit as a beneficiary of an insider's tip, but not as a defendant, was Herbert W. Klotz, assistant secretary of commerce. Seventy-two hours later, Klotz resigned his government job.

The SEC said Klotz confirmed he had bought 2,000 shares on a tip from a secretary in the Commerce Department, who knew one of the company geologists.

As the defendants, in public statements, denied any wrongdoing, Texas Gulf Sulphur held its annual meeting, reported business was excellent. The company's stock closed the week at $67.50 a share.

One great dark cloud hovered over the domestic horizon. The United Steelworkers Union decided to strike against the nation's 11 major steel companies on May 1 if no agreement is reached sooner. The gulf between labor and management was wide.

TOWNSPEOPLE MAN MACHINE GUN in a sod-protected nest at Hatinh, a town of 80,000 about 250 miles south of Hanoi in North Viet Nam, according to the caption provided for this picture last week by Interfoto MTI, a Communist Hungarian agency. The caption also claimed 13 American fighting planes were shot down in the area during March.

The union demanded a package of 17.9 cents, said management's offer was worth less than 8 cents.

Friday, after the breakdown of direct talks, Federal Mediator William E. Simkin began formal efforts to bring peace.

Federal spending passed the $100 billion mark last week but the government still hopes to end the fiscal year June 30 within its announced budget of $97.5 billion.

The Soviet Union launched its first communications satellite and successfully transmitted television programs between Moscow and Vladivostok — 4,100 miles. The U.S. is far in front in this field.

The Senate opened debate on Johnson's historic Negro voting rights bill which must hurdle intense Southern opposition.

The chief executive wound up the Easter holiday on his Texas ranch by flying to Columbia, S.C., to attend memorial services for Sen. Olin D. Johnston, an old Senate colleague and close friend who died last weekend.

FOREIGN PRESS VIEWS

LBJ Offer: Will It Bring Escalation, Negotiation?

By United Press International.

The war in Viet Nam again dominated editorial columns in European newspapers last week.

The Italian MESSAGGERO said, "It is not sufficient to tell those who don't want resistance to aggression that the United States must remain in Viet Nam to keep the promise made first by Eisenhower and then by Kennedy. Undoubtedly it would be fatal for the United States not to live up to its word. But what is really important is why that word was given. The United States has promised to help South Viet Nam to defend itself because it has learned from the sad experience of Korea that non-resistance to aggression does not lead to true peace, but to disastrous war."

The Austrian WIENER ZEITUNG said, "Washington's tactics of combining the offer of negotiations with stepped-up air raids are certainly apt to result in an escalation of the military test of strength in Viet Nam. But it might—and we are tempted to say it will—also lead to the conference table."

The Austrian PRESSE said, "The beginning of a phase apt to produce serious complications was indicated by recent reports on the build-up of Soviet missile pads in North Viet Nam and on the envisaged dispatch of volunteers."

The London DAILY TELEGRAPH said, "Soviet-Chinese rivalry is becoming an increasingly intrusive factor in the search for a way out in Viet Nam. For plainly each of the Communist powers, no less than the United States, desires on its own terms a settlement that would avoid a full-scale war. In the present phase, competitive posturing in Moscow and Peking dictates that they should out-shout on another in professions of resolve and to confront 'American aggression' and help North Viet Nam."

The Finnish MAAKANSA said, "When the present extensive bombings have not in the least changed the situation . . . is there any other way ahead for them (the Americans) than to increase the bombings, bring in more ground forces and begin expansion of the war in 'Korean style'?"

In Tampa, Fla., where Jung lived, his widow declared bitterly: "It's that terrible New York City. It's like a jungle."

In response to the rising terror in the city, Mayor Robert F. Wagner ordered 500 more policemen into a special 7 p.m.-to-3 a.m. patrol. "The days ahead will be days of open war — we against the criminals," the mayor declared.

The mayor, who a week earlier had ordered extra police to patrol subway trains and stations, said he would increase the police force by 1,500 men and transfer 564 more from clerical duties to street patrol. "We are going to win," the mayor said. "They (the criminals) are going to lose."

BUT THE city had a gay-er side. The New York World's Fair reopened Wednesday, for its second and final year, and first-day attendance was a smashing 158,620, more than three times the size of the opening day crowd a year ago. Over succeeding days attendance held up well; the fair was definitely a hit for 1965.

According to the Securities & Exchange Commission, Nov. 12, 1963 was an important day in the life of the Texas Gulf Sulphur Co.

On that day, says the SEC, certain company executives became aware that the company had struck a bonanza in the wilds of Ontario, Canada, and quietly began buying company stock, then selling at about $18 a share.

By late Wednesday, when the SEC filed civil suit against the "insiders," the stock was selling around $70 a share. The SEC charged that the executives had made a killing before letting the public in on it on April 16, 1964.

On that date, at a news conference, President Claude O. Stephens announced that Texas Gulf Sulphur had made "a major discovery of zinc, copper and silver in the Timmins area." Later estimates placed the bonanza at 55 million tons of ore.

THOSE charged in the suit included Stephens, Thomas S. Lamont, a director of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., and several vice presidents, geologists and lawyers associated with Texas Gulf Sulphur.

One of those named in the suit as a beneficiary of an insider's tip, but not as a defendant, was Herbert W. Klotz, assistant secretary of commerce. Seventy-two hours later, Klotz resigned his government job.

The SEC said Klotz confirmed he had bought 2,000 shares on a tip from a secretary in the Commerce Department, who knew one of the company geologists.

As the defendants, denied any wrongdoing, Texas Gulf Sulphur held its annual meeting, reported business was excellent. The company's stock closed the week at $67.50 a share.

One great dark cloud hovered over the domestic horizon. The United Steelworkers Union decided to strike against the nation's 11 major steel companies on May 1 if no agreement is reached sooner. The gulf between labor and management was wide.

TOWNSPEOPLE MAN MACHINE GUN in a sod-protected nest at Hatinh, a town of 80,000 about 250 miles south of Hanoi in North Viet Nam, according to the caption provided for this picture last week by Interfoto MTI, a Communist Hungarian agency. The caption also claimed 13 American fighting planes were shot down in the area during March.

The union demanded a package of 17.9 cents, said management's offer was worth less than 8 cents.

Friday, after the breakdown of direct talks, Federal Mediator William E. Simkin began formal efforts to bring peace.

Federal spending passed the $100 billion mark last week but the government still hopes to end the fiscal year June 30 within its announced budget of $97.5 billion.

The Soviet Union launched its first communications satellite and successfully transmitted television programs between Moscow and Vladivostok — 4,100 miles. The U.S. is far in front in this field.

The Senate opened debate on Johnson's historic Negro voting rights bill which must hurdle intense Southern opposition.

The chief executive wound up the Easter holiday on his Texas ranch by flying to Columbia, S.C., to attend memorial services for Sen. Olin D. Johnston, an old Senate colleague and close friend who died last weekend.

FOREIGN PRESS VIEWS

LBJ Offer: Will It Bring Escalation, Negotiation?

By United Press International.

The war in Viet Nam again dominated editorial columns in European newspapers last week.

The Italian MESSAGGERO said, "It is not sufficient to tell those who don't want resistance to aggression that the United States must remain in Viet Nam to keep the promise made first by Eisenhower and then by Kennedy. Undoubtedly it would be fatal for the United States not to live up to its word. But what is really important is why that word was given. The United States has promised to help South Viet Nam to defend itself because it has learned from the sad experience of Korea that non-resistance to aggression does not lead to true peace, but to disastrous war."

The Austrian WIENER ZEITUNG said, "Washington's tactics of combining the offer of negotiations with stepped-up air raids are certainly apt to result in an escalation of the military test of strength in Viet Nam. But it might—and we are tempted to say it will—also lead to the conference table."

The Austrian PRESSE said, "The beginning of a phase apt to produce serious complications was indicated by recent reports on the build-up of Soviet missile pads in North Viet Nam and on the envisaged dispatch of volunteers."

The London DAILY TELEGRAPH said, "Soviet-Chinese rivalry is becoming an increasingly intrusive factor in the search for a way out in Viet Nam. For plainly each of the Communist powers, no less than the United States, desires on its own terms a settlement that would avoid a full-scale war. In the present phase, competitive posturing in Moscow and Peking dictates that they should out-shout on another in professions of resolve and to confront 'American aggression' and help North Viet Nam."

The Finnish MAAKANSKA said, "When the present extensive bombings have not in the least changed the situation . . . is there any other way ahead for them (the Americans) than to increase the bombings, bring in more ground forces and begin expansion of the war in 'Korean style'?"

Three persons were killed in Long Beach area traffic accidents Saturday, and a divinity student from Paramount died in a two-car collision near Nazarene College, Pasadena.

Rickard Dee Stiff, 18, of 13827 Florine Ave., was killed at 1:45 a.m. in the crash near the college where he was returning after helping his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Stiff, celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary.

The dead youth and his passenger, Janice Carol Johnson, 18, of Reseda, also a student at the college, were thrown from his auto when it collided with a car being driven by Felton Horton, 24, of Duarte. Miss Johnson and Horton received minor injuries.

A GARDENA man, Albert W. Nielsen, 58, of 201 E. Victoria St., died shortly after midnight at Harbor General Hospital after being trapped inside his station wagon when it flipped and skidded on its top more than 100 feet after hitting a dip at Century Boulevard and Wright Road, Lynwood.

Christina Clark, 20, of 20810 Anza Ave., Torrance, was fatally injured, a companion seriously hurt, and the driver of their car suffered a broken right foot when their auto was hit head on at 2:10 a.m. on Torrance Boulevard near Dalton Avenue in the Los Angeles city strip.

Donald William Smith, 24, of 1624 W. 222nd St., Torrance, driver of the second car, was booked on suspicion of manslaughter. Police said his auto swerved across the center strip and hit a car driven by Thomas McDonnell, 26, of 504 El Redondo, Redondo Beach.

McDONNELL'S right foot was broken and Dorothy Ann Cunningham, also 26, of Montebello, was reported in serious condition at Harbor General Hospital suffering from head and internal injuries.

In a Huntington Beach accident, Everett Albert Hyatt, 48, of 8792 Oasis Ave., Westminster, died after being run over by a car after he was thrown from his panel truck on Adams Avenue near Brookhurst Street.

Police said the victim's car was sideswiped by another auto, and after he was thrown to the pavement, a third car, driven by Mrs. Bonnie Marie Spady, 32, of 19871 Kingswood St., Huntington Beach, ran over him. He was dead on arrival at Hoag Memorial Hospital shortly after midnight.

Norman R. Shaffer, president of the county workers' group, urged members to send telegrams to their representatives in the legislature, to Gov. Brown and to members of Congress.

Shaffer said Los Angeles County "has been at a big disadvantage for years because the present composition of the State Senate results in domination by rural areas."

Blaze Rages as Hydrogen Line Bursts

A spectacular hydrogen fire blazed for two hours in Santa Fe Springs Saturday afternoon when a high-pressure line burst.

Santa Fe Springs and Downey fire fighters poured water on the pipe to cool it while Rothchild Petroleum Co. workers drained the broken line into a residue pit, where the hydrogen was allowed to burn itself out.

There were no injuries in the fire at 12354 Lakeland Road.

Police Hunt Two Thugs in Attack

Police pressed their search Saturday for two teen-age thugs who attacked and attempted to assault a young Long Beach mother on a playground at Colorado Lagoon.

The victim told Officer Vern Nutter she had been watching her two children play, and was preparing to leave the lagoon area about 10:30 p.m. Friday when the two youths approached.

She said her young sons had gone to the car, and she was gathering toys and picnic supplies.

SUDDENLY, the woman said, one of the teen-agers grabbed her by the throat and attempted to rip her clothing off. She struggled and screamed, and called for her sons to scream for help. During the battle, the woman said, the two youths made several attempts to drag her into a darkened, brush-covered area near the playground.

The woman's clothing was torn and she suffered several cuts and bruises in the struggle. She said the two youths, frightened by the screams, fled into the lagoon area. However, she was able to give police a good description, Officer Nutter said.

State College Chemistry Unit Wins Approval

The Department of Chemistry at Long Beach State College has been accredited by the American Chemical Society for its program leading to a bachelor of science degree in chemistry.

Dr. Darwin L. Mayfield, chairman of the department, said the accreditation will result in added professional status for the department's graduates and students.

The society conducted an examination of the college program and professors. Of the 18 members of the chemistry faculty, 17 hold Ph.D. degrees.

Smash-and-Grab

A smash-and-grab thief took a $50 vacuum cleaner Saturday in a burglary at the California Vacuum Cleaner Co., 1118 Pine Ave., Officer W. W. Armstrong said the thief hurled a brick through the company display window, grabbed the cleaner and ran.

Officer Held in Bar Brawl

A special policeman was arrested on a court order pending a hearing.

King was arrested by Officers Mike McDonald and Ed Free, after McDonald reported seeing the special officer strike a patron in the bar with a night stick, while working at the bar.

The patron, Joel Cane, 24, of 1028 E. Anaheim St., was treated at St. Mary's Hospital for a slight head injury. Cane told the arresting officers King grabbed him and hustled him towards the door, while he was listening to band music.

King, according to the regular officers, admitted he became angry while attempting to expell Cane from the nightclub.

Police Hunt Two Thugs in Attack

Police pressed their search Saturday for two teen-age thugs who attacked and attempted to assault a young Long Beach mother on a playground at Colorado Lagoon.

The victim told Officer Vern Nutter she had been watching her two children play, and was preparing to leave the lagoon area about 10:30 p.m. Friday when the two youths approached. She said her young sons had gone to the car, and she was gathering toys and picnic supplies.

SUDDENLY, the woman said, one of the teen-agers grabbed her by the throat and attempted to rip her clothing off. She struggled and screamed, and called for her sons to scream for help. During the battle, the woman said, the two youths made several attempts to drag her into a darkened, brush-covered area near the playground.

The woman's clothing was torn and she suffered several cuts and bruises in the struggle. She said the two youths, frightened by the screams, fled into the lagoon area. However, she was able to give police a good description, Officer Nutter said.

State College Chemistry Unit Wins Approval

The Department of Chemistry at Long Beach State College has been accredited by the American Chemical Society for its program leading to a bachelor of science degree in chemistry.

Dr. Darwin L. Mayfield, chairman of the department, said the accreditation will result in added professional status for the department's graduates and students.

The society conducted an examination of the college program and professors. Of the 18 members of the chemistry faculty, 17 hold Ph.D. degrees.

I-PT Reporter Named to Post

Maj. Gen. Charles A. Ott Jr., commanding general of the 40th Armored Division of the California Army National Guard, with headquarters in Los Angeles has announced the appointment of Capt. William S. Hazlett as assistant division information officer.

Capt. Hazlett, who recently joined the 40th Division, is a veteran of 15 years military service. He saw combat duty with the 7th Infantry Division during the Korean War.

In civilian life Hazlett is a reporter for The Independent Press-Telegram.

Smash-and-Grab

A smash-and-grab thief took a $80 vacuum cleaner Saturday in a burglary at the California Vacuum Cleaner Co., 1118 Pine Ave. Officer W. W. Armstrong said the thief hurled a brick through the company display window, grabbed the cleaner and ran.

Officer Held in Bar Brawl

A special policeman was arrested by Long Beach officers early Saturday on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon following a fracas in a downtown bar.

Jailed following the dispute at the Showroom Cocktail Lounge, 638 E. Anaheim St., was Edward King, 45, of 1309 of E. 16th St. He later was released on a court order pending a hearing.

King was arrested by Officers Mike McDonald and Ed Free, after McDonald reported seeing the special officer strike a patron in the bar with a night stick, while working the bar.

The patron, Joel Cane, 24, of 1028 E. Anaheim St., was treated at St. Mary's Hospital for a slight head injury. Cane told the arresting officers King grabbed him and hustled him towards the door, while he was listening to band music.

King, according to the regular officers, admitted he became angry while attempting to expell Cane from the nightclub.

Burtons Buy on Location

NEW YORK—The Richard Burtons, who bought real estate in Mexico (during the "Jaguar" filming) and in Big Sur (during "Sandpiper"), bought property in Jamaica. A movie coming up there? . . . Burt Lancaster's a general sort of actor—he's up for movies about General Patton and General Custer . . . The Kirby Stone Four will tape two TV shows a week—one with Dean Martin, one with Jerry Lewis . . . Rocky Marciano and Rocky Graziano talked at the Beef Box. About fights? No—about their investments.

The ladies who bought tickets to tour Carol Channing's home (for a benefit) got a bonus—they walked in on her husband Charles Lowe. . . . Danny Kaye said at the Brasserie he bought a radio station in Kansas City. . . . John Levy's "Jazz in America" TV series will be syndicated around the world. . . . Gordon Douglas, directing "Harlow," was a messenger boy on the Howard Hughes lot when Harlow was making "Hell's Angels."

Claudia Cardinale, whose wardrobe in "Bebo's Girl" cost $35, wears a 35G gown in "Magnificent Cuckold" . . . Field Marshal Montgomery will be a technical adviser on the "16th of December" film. . . . Pianist Beth Raborn of the Paramus Steak Pit is the sister of new CIA boss William Raborn . . . Killer Joe Piro's album, "Killer Joe's International Discotheque," will go into 50,000 jukeboxes . . . Dwayne Hickman, who did "Ski Party," was signed for 14 more films in seven years . . . Jose Ferrer had a pantomime role with the Ballet Coppelius at Frank Hale's Palm Beach Playhouse. "For the first time I wasn't worried about laryngitis."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Stella Stevens has some nude photos in Playboy, and the producer of her film "Synanon" said: "The movie will do OK—if the guys put down the magazine long enough to go see it."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Henry Youngman says his wife is backyard: "She's been taking driving lessons for 10 years, and still doesn't know how to hold the reins."

REMEMBERED QUOTES: "Automobiles are like men—the less substantial they become, the more knocking they do."

EARL'S PEARLS: Horace McMahon praised Mary Martin, who'll tour in "Hello, Dolly!": "That girl can do anything. She could even play Toots Shor!"

Four Show Hits in Row, Doc Simon Turns to Films

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) — And now it is motion pictures for Neil ("Doc") Simon, who for several years extracted a more-than-comfortable income from television writing then moved on to the Broadway stage precinct with two back-to-back smash-hit comedies.

"At least, I want to try it," said the balding, bland-looking and quiet-mannered 37-so seldom—because of world tours, personal appearances, his Chrysler TV'er—that when he comes in his front door his dtr. exclaims: "Look, Mother—here comes Bob Hope!" . . . That's earl, year-old author of "Barefoot In The Park," now 18 months along, and "The Odd Couple," the town's newest and most desirable hit.

"It seems a natural thing for a writer to do. But I know one thing—success in the movies won't distract me from writing for the stage. There is a special appeal to me in writing for the theater, despite its limitations, that I won't get over."

The film venture, in which Simon is a partner as well as author, is a starring vehicle for Britain's popular Peter Sellers.

So far, Simon has been even more successful in London than on Broadway—that's without production there of "Barefoot" and "The Odd Couple."

His very first play, "Come Blow Your Horn," while not a real smash in New York had a long run and made a lot of money, also was very successful in London, and current there and still extremely popular after five months is the musical com-

Old Mystery Still Delightful

By SAMUEL A. BOYE

Despite a sauntering first act, Community Playhouse's new production of Emyln Williams's "Night Must Fall" is gripping enough to give any murder-mystery audience a run for its money.

A couple of strong performances by two of this town's better gifted actors, Leed D. Rhoads (Dan) and Merrell Ann Haddan (Olivia Grayne), backed by the usually reliable Kathryn Offill (Mrs. Bramson), pulled this chilled chestnut out of the creepy, if not creaky theater ages to which it now rightfully belongs.

Rhoads' performance as Dan was remarkable for its strong, fiery "kick" at the end. Starting rather unevenly, the actor was far too flippant in his earlier scenes. It was hard to believe that he was the angry, young mixed-up waiter from the "Tall Boys" pub with a murder on his hands, a conscience which confused reality with make-believe (acting), and the putative father of the baby of a servant girl, Mary Haas (Dora Parkoe).

IN THOSE early scenes Rhoads acted more like a young gentleman caller who had dropped in at Mrs. Bramson's bungalow in Essex, England, to share some of her soft-centered chocolates and love for reading East Lynne than a chronic, young murderer who would lull her into self-indulgence as a chronic invalid with his "Mighty Lak A Rose" singing—and then smother her to death.

But in the closing scenes Rhoads got into the complex characterization of the part—and "Night Must Fall" still attracts because of Williams's fine, social-conscious character studies rather than on the dubious strength of its plot. Rather old-fashioned in these days of the "Goldfinger"

BLONDE Miss Haddan managed well both her English accent and her characterization as the frustrated niece who was willing to tell lies to save murderer Dan, who had brought her a new kind of life. Her performance would have been more intensifying if this production had been done proscenium-style where it plays "tighter." But here is a serious actress whose real cup of tea is venomous parts and less distilled love scenes. She should be seen more often in more challenging work.

John McNamara (managing) and Ronald D. Young (technical) shared the directing which had the curious bent that the best love scenes is to have a handcuffed prisoner embrace a girl he had previously kept at a clinical distance. Eric Curtis (Hubert Laurie), Gilberta Causey (Mrs. Terence), Terence Doyle (Inspector Belsize) filled the other supporting parts with variable success. Gene Chilson worked lights, and Robert Sutton sound.

Four Show Hits in Row, Doc Simon Turns to Films

By JACK GAVAR

NEW YORK (UPI) — And now it is motion pictures for Neil ("Doc") Simon, who for several years extracted a more-than-comfortable income from television writing then moved on to the Broadway stage precinct with two back-to-back smash-hit comedies.

"At least, I want to try it," said the balding, bland-looking and quiet-mannered 37-year-old author of "Barefoot in the Park," now 18 months along, and "The Odd Couple," the town's newest and most desirable hit.

"It seems a natural thing for a writer to do. But I know one thing — success in the movies won't distract me from writing for the stage. There is a special appeal to me in writing for the theater, despite its limitations, that I won't get over."

The film venture, in which Simon is a partner as well as author, is a starring vehicle for Britain's popular Peter Sellers.

So far, Simon has been even more successful in London than on Broadway—that's without production there of "Barefoot" and "The Odd Couple."

His very first play, "Come Blow Your Horn," while not a real smash in New York had a long run and made a lot of money, also was very successful in London. And current there and still extremely popular after five months is the musical comedy, "Little Me," for which Simon wrote the libretto.

In short, Simon has been to bat four times in the theater and has hit for distance each time. He has achieved an incredible income figure within four years, what with production in many countries of "Come Blow Your Horn" and "Barefoot." He is the latest example of the hotshot comedy writer who comes along every decade or so and, for a period that may be brief or lengthy, seemingly can do no wrong.

"I don't think about that," Simon said. "I like to write, and I just want to keep on writing."

Ex-Drama Teacher Honored by Movie Star Van Heflin

By GEORGE ERES

The famous pupil of a retired Long Beach teacher came home Saturday and publicly planted a kiss on her cheek.

The actor is Van Heflin, stage, screen and television actor who long ago made star-rating and has over a period of years maintained that rating.

The teacher is Lillian Breed, 4003 Olive, who retired in 1954 after teaching 30 years.

Heflin was one of the famous pupils Miss Breed saw through Polytechnic High School drama classes. Others included Barbara Britton, Lorraine Day, Foster Rucker and Nelson Case.

"HE WAS a good actor, even in high school, but he always wanted to play character parts," Miss Breed recalled. "He had a big shock of hair and wasn't the character actor type then." Heflin got his first taste of acting under Miss Breed. He even remembered one of the plays. "It was 'The Goose Hangs High,'" he said.

Miss Breed and Heflin were guests at the Fourth Annual Drama Day celebration, sponsored by the Long Beach Council of Living Theater, Saturday at Long Beach State College.

"Miss Breed taught me how to project," said Heflin, as he addressed the audience which included a contingent of drama students from Poly High, introduced by Master of Ceremonies John Paap as "Heflin's Poly Fan Club."

"The first thing to remember about acting," Heflin said is "Don't be self-conscious about being self-conscious—as I am now. I owe a great debt to what we call the amateur theater. Without it I wouldn't be standing here."

HE TOLD the group that the so-called "amateurs" are "helping to keep alive the theater. Don't look to Broadway. Broadway is the exception—not the rule. The drama, as we know it, is not flourishing. Its place is taken by television. The stock company, as I knew it is dead. Road companies are few and far between. Still the theater must survive," he said and the community theater is the place where it gains its strength, training actors, playwrights and audi noes. "Few today know the living theater—they know only the 'idiot box.'"

"Sometimes I wish I had remained in little theater," Heflin confessed. "The professional's love for the theater is less pure than that of the non-professional's. Ours is based on money. In a sense it must be, since a professional's life is short-lived. Those who survive are lucky—or too stupid to give it up. Nurture your non-professional theater," he urged the audience.

ENTERTAINMENT preceding the luncheon program was by members of the cast of "Where's Cherley?" Long Beach Civic Light Opera production.

"It was smoother than the dress rehearsal of the New York cast with Ray Bolger, that I saw," said Heflin. Cast members, accompanied by Jack Kroesen, and introduced by Harvey Waggoner, were Carol Hatten, Phil Haynes, Neal Nixon, Betty Rhude, Bill Beadle and Diane Payrow. Rosemary Walker, Drama Day chairman for COLT, was presented with the annual COLT award for contribution to drama, by David Emmes, COLT president.

Second principal speaker at the luncheon was Lyle Dye Jr., executive director of the Performing Arts Council of the Music Center, Los Angeles. Dye, formerly general manager of the Huntington Hartford Theater, Hollywood, and executive coordinator of the Theater Group at UCLA, discussed the role and importance of management in theater.

Dr. Stanley Kahan, of the State College drama department, welcomed guests on behalf of the college.

AFTERNOON programs

consisted of production of three prize winning plays in the annual COLT original one-act play contest. Winners were Wendy Keck, in the high school category, presented her award by Harry J. Moore, president of Long Beach Community Playhouse; W. W. Tobin, adult category.

presented his award by Pat Brown, managing director of Magnolia Theater and Russ Des Aulnier, college category, given his award by Dr. David MacArthur of State College. Miss Keck's play, "Good-bye, Little Boy," was staged by the Millikan High School Players; Tobin's "The Old Milwaukee House," by Eleanor Shibley of off-Broadway Theater and Des Aulnier's "The War Bride" by the State College Drama Department. Reviews of the prize-winning plays will appear in a later edition of the Independent and Press-Telegram.

PRODUCTIONS PLEASING

Two Ballets Sparkle

By DANIEL CARIAGA

The Theater Arts Foundation, Valerie Silver, artistic director, presented two performances over the weekend of two ballets created by Miss Silver, a repeat showing of "The Puppet Show Man," and the premiere of "The Dancing Princesses."

Lakewood High School auditorium was well filled for the opening Friday night, and a receptive audience greeted both ballets enthusiastically. There was much to be enthusiastic about in the new "Dancing Princesses," for, in addition to its main ingredient, which is, of course, the excellent delivery of Miss Silver's telling, flowing choreography by every member of the cast, the ballet boasts also some of the richest, most elegant costumes imaginable, and four handsome colorful sets, designed by Ralph Duckwall.

THE CAST showed every evidence of thorough rehearsal, and displayed also a spirit of ensemble which is rare even in professional companies.

The five princesses, whose looks were as lovely as their movements, were Diane Racek, Hope Henry, Reva Pincusoff, Loyita Chapel and Kathy McFadden. All of them danced with grace, with ebullience, and, best of all, with assurance.

Miss Racek's pas de deux with William Tarry was elegant and flawless, the high point of the evening. Besides looking good together, and moving with precision, these two dancers possess a rapport which projects to the back of the theater.

The other princes were Dennis Graham, Michael Quinn, Patrick Spence, and James Mercer. They wore their costumes with aplomb, and moved at all times with naturalness and ease.

Other important members of the cast were Paris Parverish, Charles Pressey (who knows how to use his actor's face), Christine Mills, Janice Montgomery, and Lisa Mills.

The actor is Van Heflin, stage, screen and television actor who long ago made star-rating and has over a period of years maintained that rating.

The teacher is Lillian Breed, 4003 Olive, who retired in 1954 after teaching 30 years.

Heflin was one of the famous pupils Miss Breed saw through Polytechnic High School drama classes. Others included Barbara Britton, Lorraine Day, Foster Rucker and Nelson Case.

"HE WAS a good actor, even in high school, but he always wanted to play character parts," Miss Breed recalled. "He had a big shock of hair and wasn't the character actor type then." Heflin got his first taste of acting under Miss Breed. He even remembered one of the plays. "It was 'The Goose Hangs High,'" he said.

Miss Breed and Heflin were guests at the Fourth Annual Drama Day celebration, sponsored by the Long Beach Council of Living Theater, Saturday at Long Beach State College.

"Miss Breed taught me how to project," said Heflin, as he addressed the audience which included a contingent of drama students from Poly High, introduced by Master of Ceremonies John Paap as "Heflin's Poly Fan Club."

"The first thing to remember about acting," Heflin said is "Don't be self-conscious about being self-conscious—as I am now. I owe a great debt to what we call the amateur theater. Without it I wouldn't be standing here."

HE TOLD the group that the so-called "amateurs" are "helping to keep alive the theater. Don't look to Broadway. Broadway is the exception—not the rule. The drama, as we knew it, is not flourishing. Its place is taken by television. The stock company, as I knew it is dead. Road companies are few and far between. Still the theater must survive," he said and the community theater is the place where it gains its strength, training actors, playwrights and audiences. "Few today know the living theater—they know only the 'idiot box.'"

"Sometimes I wish I had remained in little theater," Heflin confessed. "The professional's love for the theater is less pure than that of the non-professional's. Ours is based on money. In a sense it must be, since a professional's life is short-lived. Those who survive are lucky—or too stupid to give it up. Nurture your non-professional theater," he urged the audience.

ENTERTAINMENT preceding the luncheon program was by members of the cast of "Where's Charley?" Long Beach Civic Light Opera production.

"It was smoother than the dress rehearsal of the New York cast with Ray Bolger, that I saw," said Heflin. Cast members, accompanied by Lana Turner, starring with John Forsythe and Ricardo Montalban in Universal's "Madame X," won't forget the Jean Louis wardrobe she used in the film—and neither will the studio. It cost them over $70,000.

Jack Kroesen, and introduced by Harvey Waggoner, were Carol Hatten, Phil Haynes, Neal Nixon, Betty Rhude, Bill Seadle and Diane Payrow.

Rosemary Walker, Drama Day chairman for COLT, was presented with the annual COLT award for contribution to drama, by David Emmes, COLT president.

Second principal speaker at the luncheon was Lyle Dye Jr., executive director of the Performing Arts Council of the Music Center, Los Angeles. Dye, formerly general manager of the Huntington Hartford Theater, Hollywood, and executive coordinator of the Theater Group at UCLA, discussed the role and importance of management in theater.

Dr. Stanley Kahan, of the State College drama department, welcomed guests on behalf of the college.

PRODUCTIONS PLEASING

Two Ballets Sparkle

By DANIEL CARIAGA

The Theater Arts Foundation, Valerie Silver, artistic director, presented two performances over the weekend of two ballets created by Miss Silver, a repeat showing of "The Puppet Show Man," and the premiere of "The Dancing Princesses."

Lakewood High School auditorium was well filled for the opening Friday night, and a receptive audience greeted both ballets enthusiastically.

There was much to be enthusiastic about in the new "Dancing Princesses," for, in addition to its main ingredient, which is, of course, the excellent delivery of Miss Silver's telling, flowing choreography by every member of the cast, the ballet boasts also some of the richest, most elegant costumes imaginable, and four handsome colorful sets, designed by Ralph Duckwall.

THE CAST showed every evidence of thorough rehearsal, and displayed also a spirit of ensemble which is rare even in professional companies.

The five princesses, whose looks were as lovely as their movements, were Diane Racek, Hope Henry, Reva Pincusoff, Loyita Chapel and Kathy McFadden. All of them danced with grace, with ebullience, and, best of all, with assurance.

Miss Racek's pas de deux with William Tarpay was elegant and flawless, the high point of the evening. Besides looking good together, and moving with precision, these two dancers possess a rapport which projects to the back of the theater.

The other princes were Dennis Graham, Michael Quinn, Patrick Spence, and James Mercer. They wore their costumes with aplomb, and moved at all times with naturalness and ease.

Other important members of the cast were Paris Parverish, Charles Pressey (who knows how to use his actor's face), Christine Mills, Janice Montgomery, and Lisa Mills.

12-WING GERMAN FORCE SPEAKS ENGLISH

New 100,000-Man Luftwaffe Takes to Air in Supersonic U.S. Jets to Help Defend Europe's Skies Under NATO

Louis Dyer, a reserve lieutenant colonel assigned to the Air Force Space Systems Division and the Long Beach Air Force Information Flight, reports on a tour of duty at NATO installations. Dyer, a veteran newspaperman, lives in Torrance.

By LOUIS DYER
(First of Two Articles)

INGOLSTADT AIR BASE, Germany—A new German Luftwaffe has come of age.

It is a supersonic jet force in being with almost 100,000 men, comprising 12 wings of combat aircraft.

It forms part of the NATO force aligned along the borders of the Iron Curtain, ready to defend against a possible enemy attack from the East.

Its pilots fly F84s and F104s. And they speak only English as they zoom through their missions. There is good reason for this—nearly all the pilots have been trained in the United States or Canada.

AT THIS German Air Force base, home of the 51st Reconnaissance Wing, which is more popularly known as the Immelman Wing, two squadrons of F84Fs regularly take off and land as they perform daily missions only 60 miles from the Czech border. It is the NATO base closest to the Iron Curtain.

Presently, pilots of these units are shifting to the F104, which is being manufactured here on the base at a Messerschmitt aircraft plant. The F104

Lockheed Starfighter is being built in Europe for NATO forces under financing by Germany, Belgium, Holland and Italy with some American aid.

But all the aircraft's instruments are lettered in English and the airmen use American-written instruction books.

"We have learned to speak and think in English when it comes to flying," said Capt. Arthur Faigle, 27, of Stuttgart. "All of our training has been with English-speaking instructors, and now it is hard to translate some of the words into German."

Faigle, a typical German pilot, is operations officer of one of the recon squadrons. He has more than 1,000 hours in reconnaissance work and his outfit presently is converting to the F104.

"ALL AVIATION radio talk in West Germany is in English," Faigle explained. "Control tower directions and even weather and mission briefings are in English."

"The reason we haven't switched to the German language is that much of the flier's talk is in slang, which is hard to translate to German because in most cases there are no similar words."

Faigle speaks English quite well. He was trained in Canada in 1958 after he was commissioned. Altogether he has logged about 1,400 hours of flight time.

Most of the officers in the wing speak English as well as Faigle. And this holds true in every German Air Force Wing.

The new Luftwaffe started with American help in 1952 with the selection of a planning staff. The first ground crews and pilots were recruited in 1956. In 1957 the United States provided the first combat planes, F84 fighter-bombers and RF84 recon aircraft.

Most leaders and top officers of this new Luftwaffe are veterans of the World War II German Air Force.

The wing commander, Lt. Col. Bruno Loosen, 42, flew 26 combat missions in ME 210 and 410 reconnaissance planes before he was shot down. He spent nearly four years as a prisoner of war in Canada.

MAJ. WOLFGANG Sauer, 40, a squadron commander, had just finished flying school when World War II ended.

Today all these English-speaking Germans are convinced that the future of Germany is tied to the U.S. and NATO.

As Col. Loosen said to a group of visiting U.S. Air Force reservists: "I hope you have found that the best friends you have live in Germany. I know the best friends Germany has live in America."

"Americans and Germans are the best combination for defending the free world," Loosen added. "If we stay together as brothers and friends, we will perform and reach our common task."

SUNDAY, APRIL 25, 1965

SOME intersections, not always for too-obvious reasons, seem to attract accidents. Residents of the neighborhood become accustomed to the screech of tires followed by the resounding crash of metal on metal, ambulance sirens, collections of spectators and police.

Fellow who lives at one such intersection on Long Beach's east side has made preparations for the inevitable. He keeps a blanket handy to be taken out when the need arises and placed over accident victims. He has used it several times.

Interesting thing about this particular corner is that all the normal things have been done to reduce the hazards, including the installation of traffic signals. But the smash-ups continue, and when the next one hurts somebody, this fellow will be ready with his blanket.

HERE'S a good idea submitted by Mrs. E. Doherty after reading an item here about the guided missile frigate, U.S.S. Bainbridge, being slated to come to Long Beach in September. Mrs. Doherty has a son-in-law on the Bainbridge, and notes that the Bainbridge men have had to move their families twice from coast to coast. They'll be making a third cross-country move when the ship is homeported in Long Beach in early fall.

How things will be for them in this community naturally is the subject of a lot of talk among the Bainbridge people. Mrs. Doherty suggests — and I give a hearty second — that local people write welcoming messages and send them to be posted on the ship's bulletin board now and then between now and September.

Those interested in a little gesture of this kind can send their missives to Mrs. Doherty at 1818 E. Third St., Long Beach, or to the Armed Service Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, 121 Linden Ave., L.B., to be relayed to the Bainbridge.

Sunday morning, make an immediate round of the clocks and set them all ahead an hour. We're back in the business of saving daylight.

It's a little amazing how this change is effected in our area each spring and fall, with a minimum of confusion and missed appointments. It's a tribute to the universality of our communications.

And we can be thankful that the time-change plan here is on a statewide basis and we're well removed from areas that don't follow it. Fellow who drove across the country in a recent summer was dismayed at the hodge-podge of daylight saving — standard time observances he ran into everywhere. In some states time is different in adjoining counties, or only in certain cities, and I've heard of one city that has different time zones within its corporate limits.

Main resistance to the daylight saving system comes from farmers. They point out that you can't explain this thing to chickens and cows. So one finds that states without daylight saving are usually those where small farmers wield a lot of political influence. Most big farmers, I've noticed, are no longer concerned about chickens and cows.

This brought a reproving note from a Bellflower reader, who pointed out a few short Spanish names, including those of some streets, etc. She noted that the Spanish Escuela, mentioned in the item, means something that in English would carry the long handle of Secondary and Preparatory Night School.

Plan Ports of Refuge Along Baja Calif. Coast

Mexicans Give OK to Project

By DON BRACKENBURY
I, P.T. Los Angeles Bureau

Small-boat sailors who like cruising were encouraged last week by a report that Mexican officials are showing "keen interest" in a plan to build harbors of refuge down the coast of Baja California.

The plan, developed by Los Angeles County in cooperation with private boaters and yacht clubs, calls for a chain of harbors at about 100-mile intervals from San Diego to Cabo San Lucas and around the point up to La Paz.

SUPERVISOR Ernest E. Debs headed a delegation last week which went to Mexico City to present an outline of the project to President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz and other Mexican officials.

It pointed out that for many years, "only a few hardy sailors" dared make the trip south along the Baja California coast.

"Due to lack of facilities, restrictive laws on entry and numerous difficulties with local officials, each voyage was fraught with hazard, and in some instances ended in tragedy," Debs told President Diaz Ordaz.

THERE ARE now about 283,000 small boats registered in California, of which about 156,000 are in the Southland, and new technology in construction has greatly increased their cruising ranges, the report said.

The plan calls for 11 anchorages along the 1,057 nautical miles between the San Pedro light and La Paz, including San Diego and Ensenada.

Preliminary response from both Mexican and American businessmen has been "very gratifying," Debs said.

THE PLAN suggests that a corporation be formed through which Mexican and American capital could be funneled, and the designation of some existing Mexican government agency or business organization, such as Petroleos Mexicanos, for operation.

New Air Service to Catalina Planned From L.B., Orange Co.

A new air service to Catalina Island will begin May 1 with four flights daily from Long Beach, Orange County Airport and Burbank, Van Carse, president of C-Air, Inc., 3521 E. Spring St., announced Saturday.

Equipment used by the firm will be a fleet of eight twin-engine De Havilland Doves, which will land at the Catalina airport. Transportation to Avalon will be included in the fare.

The company currently provides two daily flights to Las Vegas from Long Beach, Burbank and Orange County and one daily flight from these points to Searchlight, Nev.

C-Air also plans to open a scheduled commuter service connecting Long Beach, Orange County, Burbank, Riverside, Los Angeles, International Airport and Pomona, Carstedt said.

Catalina Fiesta April 30-May 2

Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, will hold an international carnival April 30-May 2 with street dancing, a beauty contest and parade.

Oscar Meinhardt, former producer of the Miss Universe Pageant, has scheduled a series of events in which groups from 35 countries will participate. The beauty contest will be held in the Avalon Casino May 1 and finals May 2 in the Wrigley Plaza.

Visitors to Avalon may wear costumes of any nation. The Catalina Fiesta coincides with the resumption of S.S. Catalina, "Big White Steamer," service daily from Wilmington to Avalon.

In fact, there are dark glasses for just about everyone.

SOME intersections, not always for too-obvious reasons, seem to attract accidents. Residents of the neighborhood become accustomed to the screech of tires followed by the resounding crash of metal on metal, ambulance sirens, collections of spectators and police.

Fellow who lives at one such intersection on Long Beach's east side has made preparations for the inevitable. He keeps a blanket handy to be taken out when the need arises and placed over accident victims. He has used it several times.

Interesting thing about this particular corner is that all the normal things have been done to reduce the hazards, including the installation of traffic signals. But the smash-ups continue, and when the next one hurts somebody, this fellow will be ready with his blanket.

HERE'S a good idea submitted by Mrs. E. Doherty after reading an item here about the guided missile frigate, U.S.S. Bainbridge, being slated to come to Long Beach in September. Mrs. Doherty has a son-in-law on the Bainbridge, and notes that the Bainbridge men have had to move their families twice from coast to coast. They'll be making a third cross-country move when the ship is homeported in Long Beach in early fall.

How things will be for them in this community naturally is the subject of a lot of talk among the Bainbridge people. Mrs. Doherty suggests — and I give a hearty second — that local people write welcoming messages and send them to be posted on the ship's bulletin board now and then between now and September. # 'The New Majority'

THE MOST REALISTIC analysis of the recent Republican victory in a traditionally Democratic State Senate district in Northern California comes from a Democrat.

Shearing away the excuses and rationalizations, Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh declares that the special election in the 5th Senatorial District reflected the emergence of a "moderate new majority" to whom the partisan label is a secondary consideration.

Unruh said in a speech the other day: "At the risk of seeming naive, I would suggest that the caliber and type of candidate we offer has an effect on the outcome of elections, and that candidates who do not appeal to the new, intelligent, moderate majority cannot expect to be elected solely because they wear the proper political label."

"This, I think, is the lesson of the recent Senatorial election. Democrats must appeal to the dynamic political center. The time is well past when a doctrinaire espousal of either the right or left produced a conditioned response in the electorate. The work of government today is extremely complex and entirely serious, and the public tends to recognize this. People, I believe, are starting to think more profoundly and imaginatively about political issues today, and they are not satisfied with candidates whose thought processes have not developed beyond the slogans of the 1930s when the world was a good deal simpler if less affluent than it is today."

The moderate spirit in California is no sudden new development. It has been emerging into increasingly greater prominence since World War II. The fact that predominantly Democratic California now has two Republican Senators in Washington reflects the movement of public opinion. Both Sens. Kuchel and Murphy represented the moderate position in contests with Democratic candidates who steered courses somewhat left of center.

More proof of Unruh's thesis that a moderate philosophy is more important than partisan identification may be found in a recent California Poll with regard to the 1966 race for Governor. Despite the three to two Democratic advantage in voter registration, California voters indicated they would choose moderate Republican Kuchel over Democratic Gov. Pat Brown, who is by his own definition a strong liberal. Another Republican moderate, ex-San Francisco Mayor George Christopher ran neck-and-neck with Brown in the poll. However, when paired with several Republicans who lean toward the right, Brown was strongly favored. It seems clear that the public gravitated to center ground.

A discerning "moderate new majority" has indeed assumed power in this state and is far ahead of many of the politicians of both parties. The development is a healthy one. Candidates of the future must prove something other than that they belong to a particular party.

Poor Yvette

OUT IN PUERTO RICO in a villa upon the beach there lives a lady named Yvette Powell who has a really fine mode of existence.

She has the sunshine, the domestic luxuries, and the social status of which the hard-working young female secretaries in Washington, D.C., only dream.

Not only that—she gets a salary of $18,907. Of course, there has to be an explanation for all such things. And the explanation in this case is that Yvette Powell is the wife—and coincidentally the secretary—of U.S. Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, the New York Democrat.

Comes now Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, California Democrat, with a proposal which can only spell trouble for nepotism in the Caribbean sunshine.

Van Deerlin has introduced a bill which would limit to $1,500 the salary that an employee on a congressman's staff could get if he (or she) did not work in Washington or the congressman's home district.

Hurried research indicates that there is approximately one person to whom this bill would apply. Yvette Powell, wife of Congressman Powell. Sad.

Brown Champions Inept EDA Despite Its House of Errors

L. P. T. Sacramento Bureau
 SACRAMENTO — Biggest hazard of mushrooming state government is the unwillingness to dump an agency once it becomes entrenched.

Perhaps the best recent example is the controversial State Economic Development Agency. EDA is inept, and has published a series of error-filled booklets for come-to-California industrial promotion brochures.

McCAULEY

EDA claimed credit in its annual report for helping land new California industries. A spot-check of three EDA-claimed industrial catches revealed that the three industries all had decided on California locations before EDA was involved.

Georgia-Pacific Corp., Crown-Simpson Pulp Mill and Humble Oil—the three EDA-claimed industrial successes—were checked out by the staff of Assemblyman Joseph Kennick, D-Long Beach. None came here because of EDA.

EDA omitted Long Beach from the freeway map—also from a map of major California cities with airports. EDA, staffed largely with provincial Northern Californians, wasn't even aware of Southern California railroads. It referred industrial inquiries to San Francisco offices of Southern Pacific and Santa Fe. Ignored were their Southern California offices. Left off the inquiry list entirely was Union Pacific Railroad, a line that doesn't serve Northern California.

Yet EDA staff "experts" earn an average of $13,000 a year—and Gov. Brown has proposed enlarging their budget slightly this year. The proposed 1965-66 EDA budget: $231,000.

ASSEMBLYMAN Kennick has stirred a hornet's nest by proposing that EDA be abolished and replaced with a geographically-balanced new California Business Forum.

Northern California newspapers have editorialized against Kennick.

The Sacramento Union newspaper did a three-part series, winding up with a rundown on what other states are doing on industrial development. The Sacramento establishment resists any move that whittles away at the lucrative state payroll in Sacramento.

The Brown Administration—its prestige on the line because it created EDA—is pulling out all stops to try to save EDA. Democrats are being pressured—as a matter of party loyalty—to save EDA for Gov. Brown.

The administration sent its deputy director of finance, Harold R. Walt, to try to save EDA before a recent Assembly Ways and Means subcommittee hearing.

SUCH IS the wonderland of Sacramento that inefficiency and mistakes no longer justify wiping out an agency.

Political ramifications must be considered. In the private sector, if a local Chamber of Commerce director didn't identify the major railroads and sections of the community in his promotional brochures, he would be fired.

But wiping out EDA is considered by administration officials to be a personal blow at Gov. Brown.

It would take a big man to admit that an agency of his own has become inefficient and error-prone. Such a principled chief executive would clean up the agency and start over. A more parochial politician would try to defend that agency and criticize the attackers.

Long Beach observers will be watching to see what happens to EDA, a come-to-California agency that doesn't even understand California geography.

1860 Court Edict May Bar Kuchel Gubernatorial Race

I, P-T Political Editor

SEARCY DIDN'T think that Grow, who was earning some $500 a year as postmaster, should be eligible to take office as sheriff of Siskiyou County. He cited Article IV of the California Constitution.

But Grow was elected sheriff in that September, 1859, election, resigned his postmastership and was virtually reaching for the badge when he was brought up short by a January, 1860, ruling by the California Supreme Court.

That Searcy Vs. Grow decision has become a landmark with special emphasis 105 years later with respect to the possible eligibility of U.S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel to run for governor in 1966. It is especially significant in view of last week's polls showing Kuchel to be not only the front-runner but a victor in a mythical election today against Gov. Pat Brown.

HOUSER

AS THINGS stand today, Kuchel or his friends must take some legal steps to overturn that 1860 ruling if he is to be a candidate. Because the court ruling is specific. Grow, a century ago, argued that the constitutional provision prohibited HOLDING two offices, not receiving votes for a second office. But the court held that the "plain meaning of the words" was that such candidate would not be eligible, thus not capable of being chosen.

Change or clarity in this constitutional provision is indicated. But unless Kuchel fans seek supreme court adjustment, a change now in the making will be too late to help him in 1966.

The 46-member Constitutional Revision Commission, appointed by the State Legislature in 1963, has come up with a remedy which would allow a federal office holder to seek election to state office without resigning his current position. It is in the form of a recommendation. Its route now is to go to a special session of the Legislature in 1966. If two-thirds majorities in both Assembly and State Senate approve, the change would be submitted to the state's voters as a constitutional amendment in 1966 elections.

COCHAIRMAN of the Commission is former GOP Assemblyman Bruce Sumner, Santa Ana attorney, serving with Robert Gordon Sproul. He stresses that the Commission is nonpartisan and serves without pay. Because of the staggering size of its project—revising the almost undecipherable mess of our over-long and antique state document—the Commission checked in with the Legislature recently to ask if it was really serious about getting a revision job done. "We didn't want to be horsed around," said Sumner, if this was just a wheel-spinning exercise. Well, the Legislature gave the Commission "tremendous support" and the job goes on.

Sumner emphasizes that the Commission does not—in its suggestion for revising election eligibility rules for federal office holders—imply any interpretation of the present provision or of the court ruling.

An interesting sidelight on the matter: In the event there were a case parallel to Kuchel's situation in the future, who would appoint his successor in the U.S. Senate? If he won the governorship, the Senator would have to resign his Senate seat upon election. But the moment of election does not occur in the strict sense on election day—only when the election is certified by the Secretary of State.

THIS QUESTION still to be ironed out: Could the retiring governor on election day appoint a successor to the Senator, the appointment to become effective the split second of the official certification of the senator's election? Or does the retiring governor lose his power in that split second, thus giving the incoming governor the power to name his own successor?

West Side Group Deserves Praise

EDITOR:

The West Side Home Owners Group who presented their grievances against "block-busting techniques" to the City Human Relations Committee deserve the gratitude and support of the entire city, citizens, government and businessmen of Long Beach. George Weeks of the Press-Telegram is to be commended for the excellent news coverage.

A door has been opened—a great opportunity for the building of a truly democratic American city has been presented to Long Beach. It remains to be seen if the people, the City Fathers and the business community have the vision and wisdom to act now. If the policies suggested by the West Side Group are adopted, Long Beach can become a showcase for every other city faced with the evil of "ghetto building" whether by the unscrupulous activities of real estate salesmen or the ignorance of panic-sellers.

I'm writing about the story on Beatles and other singers that I read in your paper. I think it is very rude to write thus about the Beatles. And just because Elvis Presley and Frank Sinatra crow and cackle like roosters and hens doesn't mean that our boys have to inherit the crowing and the cackling.

You guys are so old and out of date that you expect us to be old-fashioned too. Well, I'll tell you one thing, we are not. If I was one of the guys you wrote about I'd come over there and slap whoever wrote it across the room.

I think it is very, very, very rude of you to write that story.

EDITOR:

I am a Cuban refugee and delegate of the Movement for Christian Action of Cuba in Exile.

Nine months ago your paper published that the American missionary, Dr. Herbert Caudill had said that Premier Fidel Castro allowed him to preach and that there was the same liberty to preach the Gospel as always had been.

I wrote you a letter refuting Mr. Caudill's words and it was published June 25. Now, nine months later, Dr. Caudill and David Fite are in jail—victims of Castro's religious persecution.

Last week, Castro denounced a plot to overthrow him and accused Dr. Caudill of being the leader of this plot. Fifty persons were imprisoned, including Dr. Caudill, his son and other Baptist ministers. This is the biggest proof that Dr. Caudill was wrong about Castro's "religious freedom."

High Court Should Not Legislate

EDITOR:

The attitude of your editorial on reapportionment is shocking. You stress the need of Long Beach getting more State Senate representation in a tone that infers you hope the Supreme Court of the U. S. will do it rather than our California Legislature.

It would seem to me that the outlook for Long Beach would be enormously enhanced if you simply pointed out to the citizens the horrible consequences for this country attendant upon the Supreme Court entering the field of legislation. If you have any hope of continuing the free press, you'd better make some effort to put the Supreme Court back in the judging business.

A few more "laws" written by those nine men could put this entire nation in shambles. We'll not need to worry about State Senators if the United States Supreme Court continues in the legislative field.

in this case hasn't.) Aside from the fact that he is a fellow member of a small club that I belong to, John Roosevelt does not impinge upon my consciousness. But the other three keep popping up in the public prints, usually but not always in some political context. In this year of grace a Roosevelt can still get his name in the paper, but the magic has been passed on to the name Kennedy. At political rallies the orators intone "John-F-Kennedy" as they once chanted "Franklin-D-Roosevelt."

Theodore Roosevelt's sons never made as big a splash as their father, although they made pretty good that I have not kept up with the mayoralty situation in Los Angeles. Roosevelt was beaten by Samuel W. Yorty, the incumbent, and I know very little about Yorty except that he opposed the election of John F. Kennedy in 1960. It would seem, though, that Yorty has the right stuff in him, but don't take my word for it. Opposition to the Roosevelts and the Kennedys does not automatically make a man a statesman, although it is a point or two in his favor. Yorty was a congressman before he was elected mayor of Los Angeles four years ago, and Jimmy Roosevelt wanted to follow Yorty from the House of Representatives to City Hall, and maybe have another crack at running for governor of California as he did in 1950. It would have simplified matters to conduct a gubernatorial campaign from the Los Angeles city hall rather than from Washington, D.C.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. has an assistant secretaryship in the Johnson cabinet, and there are mutterings that Elliot Roosevelt, the brigadier, is in politics in Miami, Fla. (Elliot, by the way, describes himself in the 1960-61 Who's Who in America as "writer and rancher," a combination that could make a man a successor to Zane Grey, but

JAMES ROOSEVELT

ALTHOUGH I was not made unhappy by the defeat of James Roosevelt for mayor of Los Angeles, my feelings could not be described as exultation. James, it is true, did not exactly lay it out on the line: he campaigned while keeping a tight hold on his job as congressman, and thus he lost what he did not have but kept what he had. His defeat, therefore, did not send him back to private life—if you can possibly imagine a Hyde Park Roosevelt's having a private life.

PERHAPS IF the Los Angeles voters follow up their rejection of Jimmy's candidacy with a refusal to send him back to Washington for his seventh term, there will be substantial reason for real rejoicing. But let it not be premature. Jimmy lost out on the city-wide count; he might not lose in the 26th Congressional District, which he represents and has represented more or less steadily since 1954. One of the truisms of political life is that you pick your spots, which is why an Englishman sometimes runs for office in a "safe" district that may be 200 miles from his native heath. The 26th California may be a permanently safe district for Jimmy Roosevelt.

'The New Majority'

THE MOST REALISTIC analysis of the recent Republican victory in a traditionally Democratic State Senate district in Northern California comes from a Democrat.

Shearing away the excuses and rationalizations, Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh declares that the special election in the 5th Senatorial District reflected the emergence of a "moderate new majority" to whom the partisan label is a secondary consideration.

Unruh said in a speech the other day: "At the risk of seeming naive, I would suggest that the caliber and type of candidate we offer has an effect on the outcome of elections, and that candidates who do not appeal to the new, intelligent, moderate majority cannot expect to be elected solely because they wear the proper political label."

"This, I think, is the lesson of the recent Senatorial election. Democrats must appeal to the dynamic political center. The time is well past when a doctrinaire espousal of either the right or left produced a conditioned response in the electorate. The work of government today is extremely complex and entirely serious, and the public tends to recognize this. People, I believe, are starting to think more profoundly and imaginatively about political issues today, and they are not satisfied with candidates whose thought processes have not developed beyond the slogans of the 1930s when the world was a good deal simpler if less affluent than it is today."

The moderate spirit in California is no sudden new development. It has been emerging into increasingly greater prominence since World War II. The fact that predominantly Democratic California now has two Republican Senators in Washington reflects the movement of public opinion. Both Sens. Kuchel and Murphy represented the moderate position in contests with Democratic candidates who steered courses somewhat left of center.

More proof of Unruh's thesis that a moderate philosophy is more important than partisan identification may be found in a recent California Poll with regard to the 1966 race for Governor. Despite the three to two Democratic advantage in voter registration, California voters indicated they would choose moderate Republican Kuchel over Democratic Gov. Pat Brown, who is by his own definition a strong liberal. Another Republican moderate, ex-San Francisco Mayor George Christopher ran neck-and-neck with Brown in the poll. However, when paired with several Republicans who lean toward the right, Brown was strongly favored. It seems clear that the public gravitated to center ground.

A discerning "moderate new majority" has indeed assumed power in this state and is far ahead of many of the politicians of both parties. The development is a healthy one. Candidates of the future must prove something other than that they belong to a particular party.

Poor Yvette

OUT IN PUERTO RICO in a villa upon the beach there lives a lady named Yvette Powell who has a really fine mode of existence.

She has the sunshine, the domestic luxuries, and the social status of which the hard-working young female secretaries in Washington, D.C., only dream.

Not only that—she gets a salary of $18,907. Of course, there has to be an explanation for all such things. And the explanation in this case is that Yvette Powell is the wife—and coincidentally the secretary—of U.S. Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, the New York Democrat.

Comes now Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, California Democrat, with a proposal which can only spell trouble for nepotism in the Caribbean sunshine.

Van Deerlin has introduced a bill which would limit to $1,500 the salary that an employee on a congressman's staff could get if he (or she) did not work in Washington or the congressman's home district.

Hurried research indicates that there is approximately one person to whom this bill would apply. Yvette Powell, wife of Congressman Powell. Sad.

Brown Champions Inept EDA Despite Its House of Errors

SACRAMENTO — Biggest hazard of mushrooming state government is the unwillingness to dump an agency once it becomes entrenched.

Perhaps the best recent example is the controversial State Economic Development Agency. EDA is inept, and has published a series of error-filled booklets for come-to-California industrial promotion brochures.

EDA claimed credit in its annual report for helping land new California industries. A spot-check of three EDA-claimed industrial successes—were checked out by the staff of Assemblyman Joseph Kennick, D-Long Beach. None came here because of EDA.

EDA omitted Long Beach from the freeway map—also from a map of major California cities with airports. EDA, staffed largely with provincial Northern Californians, wasn't even aware of Southern California railroads. It referred industrial inquiries to San Francisco offices of Southern Pacific and Santa Fe. Ignored were their Southern California offices. Left off the inquiry list entirely was Union Pacific Railroad, a line that doesn't serve Northern California.

Yet EDA staff "experts" earn an average of $13,000 a year—and Gov. Brown has proposed enlarging their budget slightly this year. The proposed 1965-66 EDA budget: $231,000.

Jimmy Hedged His Bet in Race for Mayor

ALTHOUGH I was not made unhappy by the defeat of James Roosevelt for mayor of Los Angeles, my feelings could not be described as exultation. James, it is true, did not exactly lay it on the line: he campaigned while keeping a tight hold on his job as congressman, and thus he lost what he did not have but kept what he had. His defeat, therefore, did not send him back to private life—if you can possibly imagine a Hyde Park Roosevelt's having a private life.

PERHAPS if the Los Angeles voters follow up their rejection of Jimmy's candidacy with a refusal to send him back to Washington for his seventh term, there will be substantial reason for real rejoicing. But let it not be premature. Jimmy lost out on the city-wide count; he might not lose in the 26th Congressional District, which he represents and has represented more or less steadily since 1954. One of the truisms of political life is that you pick your spots, which is why an Englishman sometimes runs for office in a "safe" district that may be 200 miles from his native heath. The 26th California may be a permanently safe district for Jimmy Roosevelt.

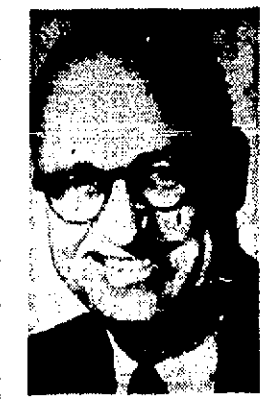

It is such a long time since I lived in California that I have not kept up with the mayoralty situation in Los Angeles. Roosevelt was beaten by Samuel W. Yorty, the incumbent, and I know very little about Yorty except that he opposed the election of John F. Kennedy in 1960. It would seem, though, that Yorty has the right stuff in him, but don't take my word for it. Opposition to the Roosevelt's and the Kennedys does not automatically make a man a statesman, although it is a point or two in his favor. Yorty was a congressman before he was elected mayor of Los Angeles four years ago, and Jimmy Roosevelt wanted to follow Yorty from the House of Representatives to City Hall, and maybe have another crack at running for governor of California as he did in 1950. It would have simplified matters to conduct a gubernatorial campaign from the Los Angeles city hall rather than from Washington, D.C.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. has an assistant secretaryship in the Johnson cabinet, and there are mutterings that Elliot Roosevelt, the brigadier, is in politics in Miami, Fla. (Elliot, by the way, describes himself in the 1960-61 Who's Who in America as "writer and rancher," a combination that could make a man a successor to Zane Grey, but in this case hasn't.) Aside from the fact that he is a fellow member of a small club that I belong to, John Roosevelt does not impinge upon my consciousness. But the other three keep popping up in the public prints, usually but not always in some political context. In this year of grace a Roosevelt can still get his name in the paper, but the magic has been passed on to the name Kennedy. At political rallies the orators intone "John-F-Kennedy" as they once chanted "Franklin-D-Roosevelt."

Theodore Roosevelt's sons never made as big a splash as their father, although they made pretty good

1860 Court Edict May Bar Kuchel Gubernatorial Race

I, P-T Political Editor

SEARCY DIDN'T think that Grow, who was earning some $500 a year as postmaster, should be eligible to take office as sheriff of Siskiyou County. He cited Article IV of the California Constitution.

But Grow was elected sheriff in that September, 1859, election, resigned his postmastership and was virtually reaching for the badge when he was brought up short by a January, 1860, ruling by the California Supreme Court.

That Searcy Vs. Grow decision has become a landmark with special emphasis 105 years later with respect to the possible eligibility of U.S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel to run for governor in 1966. It is especially significant in view of last week's polls showing Kuchel to be not only the front-runner but a victor in a mythical election today against Gov. Pat Brown.

HOUSER

AS THINGS stand today, Kuchel or his friends must take some legal steps to overturn that 1860 ruling if he is to be a candidate. Because the court ruling is specific. Grow, a century ago, argued that the constitutional provision prohibited HOLDING two offices, not receiving votes for a second office. But the court held that the "plain meaning of the words" was that such candidate would not be eligible, thus not capable of being chosen.

Change or clarity in this constitutional provision is indicated. But unless Kuchel fans seek supreme court adjustment, a change now in the making will be too late to help him in 1966.

The 46-member Constitutional Revision Commission, appointed by the State Legislature in 1963, has come up with a remedy which would allow a federal office holder to seek election to state office without resigning his current position. It is in the form of a recommendation. Its route now is to go to a special session of the Legislature in 1966. If two-thirds majorities in both Assembly and State Senate approve, the change would be submitted to the state's voters as a constitutional amendment in 1966 elections.

COCHAIRMAN of the Commission is former GOP Assemblyman Bruce Sumner, Santa Ana attorney, serving with Robert Gordon Sproul. He stresses that the Commission is nonpartisan and serves without pay. Because of the staggering size of its project—revising the almost undecipherable mess of our over-long and antique state document—the Commission checked in with the Legislature recently to ask if it was really serious about getting a revision job done. "We didn't want to be horsed around," said Sumner, if this was just a wheel-spinning exercise. Well, the Legislature gave the Commission "tremendous support" and the job goes on.

Sumner emphasizes that the Commission does not—in its suggestion for revising election eligibility rules for federal office holders—imply any interpretation of the present provision or of the court ruling.

An interesting sidelight on the matter: In the event there were a case parallel to Kuchel's situation in the future, who would appoint his successor in the U.S. Senate? If he won the governorship, the Senator would have to resign his Senate seat upon election. But the moment of election does not occur in the strict sense on election day—only when the election is certified by the Secretary of State.

THIS QUESTION still to be ironed out: Could the retiring governor on election day appoint a successor to the Senator, the appointment to become effective the split second of the official certification of the senator's election? Or does the retiring governor lose his power in that split second, thus giving the incoming governor the power to name his own successor?

West Side Group Deserves Praise

EDITOR:

The West Side Home Owners Group who presented their grievances against "block-busting techniques" to the City Human Relations Committee deserve the gratitude and support of the entire city, citizens, government and businessmen of Long Beach. George Weeks of the Press-Telegram is to be commended for the excellent news coverage.

A door has been opened—a great opportunity for the building of a truly democratic American city has been presented to Long Beach. It remains to be seen if the people, the City Fathers and the business community have the vision and wisdom to act now. If the policies suggested by the West Side Group are adopted, Long Beach can become a showcase for every other city faced with the evil of "ghetto building" whether by the unscrupulous activities of real estate salesmen or the ignorance of panic-sellers.

If You Can't Say Something Nice ...

EDITOR:

I'm writing about the story on Beatles and other singers that I read in your paper. I think it is very rude to write thus about the Beatles. And just because Elvis Presley and Frank Sinatra crow and cackle like roosters and hens doesn't mean that our boys have to inherit the crowing and the cackling.

You guys are so old and out of date that you expect us to be old-fashioned too. Well, I'll tell you one thing, we are not. If I was one of the guys you wrote about I'd come over there and slap whoever wrote it across the room.

I think it is very, very, very rude of you to write that story.

Best Example of Castro 'Freedom'

EDITOR:

I am a Cuban refugee and delegate of the Movement for Christian Action of Cuba in Exile.

Nine months ago your paper published that the American missionary, Dr. Herbert Caudill had said that Premier Fidel Castro allowed him to preach and that there was the same liberty to preach the Gospel as always had been.

I wrote you a letter refuting Mr. Caudill's words and it was published June 25. Now, nine months later, Dr. Caudill and David Fite are in jail—victims of Castro's religious persecution.

Last week, Castro denounced a plot to overthrow him and accused Dr. Caudill of being the leader of this plot. Fifty persons were imprisoned, including Dr. Caudill, his son and other Baptist ministers. This is the biggest proof that Dr. Caudill was wrong about Castro's "religious freedom."

High Court Should Not Legislate

EDITOR:

The attitude of your editorial on reapportionment is shocking. You stress the need of Long Beach getting more State Senate representation in a tone that infers you hope the Supreme Court of the U. S. will do it rather than our California Legislature.

It would seem to me that the outlook for Long Beach would be enormously enhanced if you simply pointed out to the citizens the horrible consequences for this country attendant upon the Supreme Court entering the field of legislation. If you have any hope of continuing the free press, you'd better make some effort to put the Supreme Court back in the judging business.

A few more "laws" written by those nine men could put this entire nation in shambles. We'll not need to worry about State Senators if the United States Supreme Court continues in the legislative field.

G. R. VAN DYKE,

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The editorial in question specifically expressed our hope that the California Legislature, rather than the federal court, would reapportion the Senate.)

New Aerospace Theme Song 'How Deep Is the Ocean?'

By I. P-T Washington Bureau Staff

WASHINGTON—The aerospace industry's deepening interest in the deep has hardly been better epitomized than by displays at last week's Navy League Convention here.

Fully two-thirds of the displays that crammed a cavernous hall in the Washington Hilton Hotel represented undersea developments of firms basically engaged in outer-space activities.

Some examples:
—North American Aviation, Inc., had a mock-up of a marine adaptation of its Snap-10 engine which converts atomic power directly to electrical current. It was shown in a submarine being designed by the firm for marine exploration.

—The Lockheed Aircraft Corp. boosted its Sequester oceanographic submarine, its pioneering work in marine mining and emergency ballast expulsion system for deep-diving subs.

—Douglas Aircraft Co. demonstrated a submarine simulator it's developing for training and a buoy to measure ocean waves.

Space Technology Laboratories explained its wide-ranging activities in developing and testing undersea systems.

The industry representatives explained that conquering outer space and the ocean poses similar technical problems and therefore it's logical for many companies to diversify in depth.

THERE ARE THOSE in Congress who feel that the Apollo-X program equates with the algebraic "X" and they're going to ask some searching questions on the project this week.

A faction of the House Science and Astronautics Committee has sharpened its verbal knives in preparation for discussion of about $45 million budgeted for fiscal 1966 study of programs to follow the Apollo plan for landing two men on the moon for up to 36 hours by 1970.

The group, the same which criticized the Gemini program and brought about a cutback in the Surveyor unmanned moon mission, has deep reservations about spending study money on a program that might never come to fruition.

A big part of the Apollo-X program is putting two or three men on the moon for up to three weeks in a series of landings aimed at detailed study of the lunar surface. But, the faction wonders, why appropriate a large sum for such missions when there's scientific controversy over whether the moon's terrain will be able to support a lunar excursion ship and its occupants.

NASA's answer is that lunar orbiters and the Surveyors will prove the lunar surface's supportability, or lack of it, within the next year or so. Meanwhile, the NASA men claim, it's better to go ahead with post-Apollo studies than to risk a gap in our space exploration during the early part of the next decade.

Mainland Invasion Proper if Red Chinese Intrude in Viet

WASHINGTON—The United States is today engaged in a war in Viet Nam that is directly related to the safety of the American people. Up to now, the emphasis has been on the altruistic desire of America to help the nations in Southeast Asia to preserve their independence and to prevent a Communist takeover of the smaller countries. But generally overlooked is the grim fact that China has begun to develop as a nuclear power and is apparently determined to frighten and terrorize neighboring countries.

LAWRENCE

Some critics have naively pointed out that very few of the nations in Asia are supporting American policy today and that this is an added reason for American withdrawal into isolationism. But the truth is that these same governments would hardly dare to come out openly in favor of American policy, lest they incur the hostility of the Red Chinese. The peoples of the smaller countries, however, would surely be disheartened if the United States withdrew because this would mean the end of their chances for freedom.

The United States has much more at stake than the protection of Southeast Asia. For if Red China possesses powerful nuclear weapons which can threaten not only other countries but even the United States and if America abandons Viet Nam, it will be too late for this country to win allies in Asia or in the Middle East or even in Africa. For by that time the Red Chinese will have gained the upper hand.

The United States not only must win the Viet Nam war, but it must show the Red Chinese that it will not be intimidated and that, if necessary, bombing raids will be extended into every area in which the Red Chinese will have sent arms and ammunition and guerrilla fighters. If the Red Chinese openly participate, the United States must not hesitate to encourage the Nationalist Chinese on Formosa to begin their invasion of the mainland. If air raids are engaged in by the Red Chinese against any American troops or installations, the way will be open to bomb the nuclear facilities of the Red Chinese and destroy them once and for all.

PRESIDENT Johnson has been wrongly criticized for having postponed the visits of the prime ministers of India and Pakistan. The truth is that the Communists are active in those two countries. The United States cannot be in a position at this time of backing down in the Viet Nam war, a policy which is openly being espoused in both India and Pakistan by strong groups with political influence.

The President wisely decided to wait until there has been a clearer demonstration of American military power in Viet Nam, so that the Asian countries, instead of being dispirited and ready to countenance Red Chinese activities, would instead be encouraged to take a more determined stand against the spread of communism. For in every one of the smaller countries there is a deep-seated fear of Communist aggression. While it is not considered discreet openly to support American policy, there is no question about where the sympathies of the people lie, especially as they see the Red Chinese spreading out and announcing their intention to send "volunteers" to North Viet Nam to help in the fight against the United States and South Viet Nam.

THE UNITED STATES is really making progress in Viet Nam. The South Vietnamese government is getting stronger, and the people there are beginning to recognize that American effort is not going to be diminished but increased. As soon as the peoples in the other countries in Southeast Asia are similarly convinced of American determination, they, too, will begin to insist that their governments manifest open support for what the American government is doing.

Departing Chief of CIA Deserves Praise

WASHINGTON — It never hurts a newspaperman—or, I guess, anyone else for that matter—to confess that he has made a mistake. I want to make such a confession regarding a man whose confirmation I vigorously opposed as chief of Central Intelligence—John McCone.

It is my opinion today McCone has done an efficient, self-effacing, democratic job of directing one of the most sensitive and difficult branches of government, the so-called spy agency of the United States.

This kind of job has to be self-effacing. It also requires a man who has the confidence of the public and of Congress. For unlike the other branches of government which are constantly under scrutiny by the press and congressional committees, CIA gets almost no examination by Congress.

Millions of dollars may be spent in certain countries to combat Communist subversion with no one knowing about it except a handful of executives. Other millions are spent studying maps, newspapers, educational reports of sensitive areas of the world.

Under these difficult circumstances John McCone has done a good job, and I am happy to say so and congratulate him, as he now leaves public office.

THE OLD-TIME medicine man who peddled snake oil and root juices was a piker compared with the swindlers who fleece old people out of millions of dollars a year in fake health cures. This is the conclusion of Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., chairman of a Senate subcommittee which has been probing quackery.

"Today's high-pressure quacks and health fraud-promoters do not regard customers as buyers to be served, but as pigeons to be plucked," Williams warns.

"It is almost impossible," he says, "for law enforcement officers to keep abreast of the tide of mass mailings, the slippery language in television commercials and highly mobile pitchmen who infest the fringes of the medical profession and the honest business community."

However, Chairman Paul Rand Dixon of the Federal Trade Commission has announced that he will ask Congress for funds to establish a new office of federal-state cooperation to step up enforcement of antitrust, antideception, and consumer-protection laws. Sen. Williams is drafting a bill to require pre-marketing testing of various health devices.

DEFENSE Secretary Robert McNamara and Rep. Ed Hebert, D-La., are both concerned with a strong national defense, but seldom agree on anything. Especially they don't agree on McNamara's proposal to merge the Army Reserves and the National Guard.

"I think you have defied the law," Hebert charged at one hot session of the House Armed Services Committee. "You have arrogated to yourself powers that I don't believe you have."

The Defense Chief coolly denied this, saying that Hebert had "completely misquoted" him. The debate got hotter as Hebert suggested in courtly tones: "A man is so foolish, particularly a man of your brilliance and astuteness, to say, 'I am going to give you a fair trial before I hang you.'"

"May we stop the record here!" demanded McNamara. "You didn't use the words 'stay and execution.'"

"Let's not play on words," shrugged Hebert.

"I'm not playing on words."

"All right. You won't stop the action?"

"No, I won't," shot back McNamara, pointing out that Congress would have to provide funds for the reserves and the National Guard, thus has the last word. "This is what the lawyers tell me."

"Don't let the lawyers get into it," groaned Hebert.

"Mr. Hebert made some strong statements about the way we handle laws passed by Congress, as to whether we pay attention to the intent of those laws," demurred McNamara. "I think those statements are groundless and do a great disservice."

New Aerospace Theme Song
'How Deep Is the Ocean?'

By I. P-T Washington Bureau Staff

WASHINGTON—The aerospace industry's deepening interest in the deep has hardly been better epitomized than by displays at last week's Navy League Convention here.

Fully two-thirds of the displays that crammed a cavernous hall in the Washington Hilton Hotel represented undersea developments of firms basically engaged in outer-space activities.

Some examples:

—North American Aviation, Inc., had a mock-up of a marine adaptation of its Snap-10 engine which converts atomic power directly to electrical current. It was shown in a submarine being designed by the firm for marine exploration.

—The Lockheed Aircraft Corp. boasted its Sequester oceanographic submarine, its pioneering work in marine mining and emergency ballast expulsion system for deep-diving subs.

—Douglas Aircraft Co. demonstrated a submarine simulator it's developing for training and a buoy to measure ocean waves.

Space Technology Laboratories explained its wide-ranging activities in developing and testing undersea systems.

The industry representatives explained that conquering outer space and the ocean poses similar technological problems and therefore it's logical for many companies to diversify in depth.

THERE ARE THOSE in Congress who feel that the Apollo-X program equates with the algebraic "X" and they're going to ask some searching questions on the project this week.

A faction of the House Science and Astronautics Committee has sharpened its verbal knives in preparation for discussion of about $45 million budgeted for fiscal 1966 study of programs to follow the Apollo plan for landing two men on the moon for up to 36 hours by 1970.

The group, the same which criticized the Gemini program and brought about a cutback in the Surveyor unmanned moon mission, has deep reservations about spending study money on a program that might never come to fruition.

A big part of the Apollo-X program is putting two or three men on the moon for up to three weeks in a series of landings aimed at detailed study of the lunar surface. But, the faction wonders, why appropriate a large sum for such missions when there's scientific controversy over whether the moon's terrain will be able to support a lunar excursion ship and its occupants.

NASA's answer is that lunar orbiters and the Surveyors will prove the lunar surface's supportability, or lack of it, within the next year or so. Meanwhile, the NASA men claim, it's better to go ahead with post-Apollo studies than to risk a gap in our space exploration during the early part of the next decade.

Mainland Invasion Proper if Red Chinese Intrude in Viet

WASHINGTON—The United States is today engaged in a war in Viet Nam that is directly related to the safety of the American people. Up to now, the emphasis has been on the altruistic desire of America to preserve their independence and to prevent a Communist takeover of the smaller countries. But generally overlooked is the grim fact that China has begun to develop as a nuclear power and is apparently determined to frighten and terrorize neighboring countries.

Some critics have naively pointed out that very few of the nations in Asia are supporting American policy today and that this is an added reason for American withdrawal into isolationism. But the truth is that these same governments would hardly dare to come out openly in favor of American policy, lest they incur the hostility of the Red Chinese. The peoples of the smaller countries, however, would surely be disheartened if the United States withdrew because this would mean the end of their chances for freedom.

The United States has much more at stake than the protection of Southeast Asia. For if Red China possesses powerful nuclear weapons which can threaten not only other countries but even the United States and if America abandons Viet Nam, it will be too late for this country to win allies in Asia or in the Middle East or even in Africa. For by that time the Red Chinese will have gained the upper hand.

The United States not only must win the Viet Nam war, but it must show the Red Chinese that it will not be intimidated and that, if necessary, bombing raids will be extended into every area in which the Red Chinese will have sent arms and ammunition and guerrilla fighters. If the Red Chinese openly participate, the United States must not hesitate to encourage the Nationalist Chinese on Formosa to begin their invasion of the mainland. If air raids are engaged in by the Red Chinese against any American troops or installations, the way will be open to bomb the nuclear facilities of the Red Chinese and destroy them once and for all.

PRESIDENT Johnson has been wrongly criticized for having postponed the visits of the prime ministers of India and Pakistan. The truth is that the Communists are active in those two countries. The United States cannot be in a position at this time of backing down in the Viet Nam war, a policy which is openly being espoused in both India and Pakistan by strong groups with political influence.

The President wisely decided to wait until there has been a clearer demonstration of American military power in Viet Nam, so that the Asian countries, instead of being dispirited and ready to countenance Red Chinese activities, would instead be encouraged to take a more determined stand against the spread of communism. For in every one of the smaller countries there is a deep-seated fear of Communist aggression. While it is not considered discreet openly to support American policy, there is no question about where the sympathies of the people lie, especially as they see the Red Chinese spreading out and announcing their intention to send "volunteers" to North Viet Nam to help in the fight against the United States and South Viet Nam.

THE UNITED STATES is really making progress in Viet Nam. The South Vietnamese government is getting stronger, and the people there are beginning to recognize that American effort is not going to be diminished but increased. As soon as the peoples in the other countries in Southeast Asia are similarly convinced of American determination, they, too, will begin to insist that their governments manifest open support for what the American government is doing.

Departing Chief of CIA Deserves Praise

WASHINGTON — It never hurts a newspaperman—or, I guess, anyone else for that matter—to confess that he has made a mistake. I want to make such a confession regarding a man whose confirmation I vigorously opposed as chief of Central Intelligence—John McCone.

It is my opinion today McCone has done an efficient, self-effacing, democratic job of directing one of the most sensitive and difficult branches of government, the so-called spy agency of the United States.

This kind of job has to be self-effacing. It also requires a man who has the confidence of the public and of Congress. For unlike the other branches of government which are constantly under scrutiny by the press and congressional committees, CIA gets almost no examination by Congress.

Millions of dollars may be spent in certain countries to combat Communist subversion with no one knowing about it except a handful of executives. Other millions are spent studying maps, newspapers, educational reports of sensitive areas of the world.

Under these difficult circumstances John McCone has done a good job, and I am happy to say so and congratulate him, as he now leaves public office.

THE OLD-TIME medicine man who peddled snake oil and root juices was a piker compared with the swindlers who fleece old people out of millions of dollars a year in fake health cures. This is the conclusion of Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., chairman of a Senate subcommittee which has been probing quackery.

"Today's high-pressure quacks and health fraud-promoters do not regard customers as buyers to be served, but as pigeons to be plucked," Williams warns.

"It is almost impossible," he says, "for law enforcement officers to keep abreast of the tide of mass mailings, the slippery language in television commercials and highly mobile pitchmen who infest the fringes of the medical profession and the honest business community."

However, Chairman Paul Rand Dixon of the Federal Trade Commission has announced that he will ask Congress for funds to establish a new office of federal-state cooperation to step up enforcement of antitrust, antideception, and consumer-protection laws.

Sen. Williams is drafting a bill to require pre-marketing testing of various health devices.

DEFENSE Secretary Robert McNamara and Rep. Ed Hebert, D-La., are both concerned with a strong national defense, but seldom agree on anything. Especially they don't agree on McNamara's proposal to merge the Army Reserves and the National Guard.

"I think you have defied the law," Hebert charged at one hot session of the House Armed Services Committee. "You have arrogated to yourself powers that I don't believe you have."

The Defense Chief coolly denied this, saying that Hebert had "completely misquoted" him. The debate got hotter as Hebert suggested in courtly tones: "A man is so foolish, particularly a man of your brilliance and astuteness, to say, 'I am going to give you a fair trial before I hang you.'"

"May we stop the record here?" demanded McNamara. "You didn't use the words 'stay and execution.'"

"Let's not play on words," shrugged Hebert.

"I'm not playing on words."

"All right. You won't stop the action?"

"No, I won't," shot back McNamara, pointing out that Congress would have to provide funds for the reserves and the National Guard, thus has the last word. "This is what the lawyers tell me."

"Don't let the lawyers get into it," groaned Hebert.

"Mr. Hebert made some strong statements about the way we handle laws passed by Congress, as to whether we pay attention to the intent of those laws," demurred McNamara. "I think those statements are groundless and do a great disservice."

WHAT CONSTITUTES ENTERTAINMENT?

L.B. Muffles Night Life Near Homes

Night life in bars adjoining residential districts is being muffled by City Hall.

Twice this month the City Council has turned down applications for entertainment cafe permits that would have allowed band music in bars in two widely separated districts. The reason in each case was protests from neighbors who would rather sleep than celebrate.

Now city officials are moving toward a procedure that will notify all property owners within 300 feet whenever a bar licensee seeks an entertainment permit.

The effect could be to generate protests in numerous cases where otherwise the permits would have been issued as routine.

EVEN A LONE DANCER-ENTERTAINER in a bar lacking a permit may be subjected to quicker prosecution than in the past.

Members of the council's Ordinance Committee were not entertained last week when Capt. R. M. Wadt of the police vice division reported there was conflict of opinion whether a single dancer is allowed to perform in such places.

He attributed the divided opinion to City Prosecutor James T. Starr's staff. And he said it accounted for the fact that the police delayed arrests until they caught two or more dancers performing.

Starr declared later there never was any ambiguous opinion in his office. The city ordinance plainly provides, he said, that the entertainment permitted in a bar without an entertainment cafe permit is limited to one musician who may or may not sing.

This also is the opinion of City Atty. Leonard Putnam. His deputy, Phil J. Shafer, filed a written report with the committee to that effect.

NOT CONTENT with more or less clearing up the one-dancer situation, members of the Ordinance

Committee have asked the city attorney, city prosecutor and city manager to confer, interpret and report on what constitutes entertainment.

Councilman Robert F. Crow, committee chairman, suggested that the inquiry may range further to take in social clubs and hotels, now exempt from seeking the entertainment cafe permits.

Crow also noted that the federal government is considerably stricter, when it collects the 10% excise tax on entertainment places, than the city has been in past regulation.

It all adds up to quite a lot of confusion, Crow remarked. So far, the prospects also add up to quieter nights—except for the juke boxes—in residential areas bordered by bars, and also a lack of action for customers who aren't looking for quiet.

It may also amount to some decrease in city revenues. The entertainment cafe permits cost $500 annually with dancing or $250 without the added attraction.

Plan Ports of Refuge Along Coast

(Continued From Page B-1) basis," possibly establishing two or three pilot installations which could be used to determine the best long-range program to follow.

At present, the report said, there are only three all-weather ports south of Ensenada: Magdalena Bay, Turtle Bay and La Paz Harbor.

THE ARID and mountainous terrain of Baja California has discouraged settlements, so the proposed ports of refuge are recommended adjacent to permanent developments such as villages, canneries or commercial shipping points.

The ports would provide potable water, staple foods not needing refrigeration, motor fuel, butane, radio communication with the U.S. and marine accessories such as storage batteries and spark plugs.

To service the visiting craft, the plan suggests the use of amphibious trucks such as the Army DUKW instead of building piers, which would be expensive to construct and maintain.

TO ASSURE satisfactory operation of the ports of refuge and thus encourage coastal cruising to a degree which would make the operation profitable, the proposal makes three related recommendations:

1. Some proportion of each port's attendants should be able to converse in English.

2. Mexican customs clearance, charges and license fees should be standardized for all the ports and not left to the discretion of local officials.

3. Since breakdowns of ship's gear is "inevitable," often requiring parts being ordered from the U.S., special provision should be made by the Mexican customs at the border to clear and forward articles without delay.

Commenting on point three,

Fair Housing Foundation Board Meets

The newly-formed advisory board of the Fair Housing Foundation of Long Beach will hold its first meeting at 7 p.m. today at the Lafayette Hotel.

Attending will be members of the FHF board of directors and advisory board members representing business, industry, churches, schools and colleges and official agencies in the Long Beach area.

Guest speaker will be Robert L. Feiner, a director of the Fair Housing Council of San Fernando Valley. A resident of Sherman Oaks, Feiner is a Realtor, general contractor and the owner of more than 500 "open occupancy" apartment units in three communities.

Myron Blumberg, chairman of the FHF board, will preside at the dinner session and will outline the history of the local volunteer fair housing organization.

"The goal of the Fair Housing Foundation is to promote equal opportunity in residential housing, on a voluntary basis," Blumberg said Saturday.

"We believe that wise action, taken now, can prevent in Long Beach many of the serious social problems and racial tensions which have occurred in other cities across the nation."

the report said "at present, unwarranted delay is reported as the rule rather than the exception."

DEBS TOLD other supervisors last week that President Diaz Ordaz "not only expressed keen interest, but assured me that he would proceed with his own government in working out details such as site selection, construction financing and maintenance."

The ports of refuge proposed by the Los Angeles County plan, below Ensenada, are San Quentin, Port San Jose, Port Bartolome, Asuncion Bay, Pequena Point, Magdalena Bay, Marquis Point, Port San Lucas Bay, Muertos Bay and La Paz.

Their development, Debs told President Diaz Ordaz, not only would provide great recreational facilities to boaters of both countries, it also would do much to improve relations between the citizens of Mexico and the United States.

MEDICAL AIDES, PUBLIC

Classes for All at Memorial

They're holding classes for just about everybody these days at Long Beach Memorial Hospital. And the best part of it is that classes for the general public are free.

With a nationwide reputation in medical circles as a progressive educational institution, the hospital operates accredited schools for medical technologists, X-ray technicians and hospital chaplains.

Students aspiring to be registered nurses and licensed vocational nurses get their clinical training at Memorial.

MEMORIAL ALSO cooperates in a program with California College of Medicine, Los Angeles, under which senior medical students at the college take their clerkships in internal medicine at the hospital.

But this is only part of the overall educational picture. The hospital also maintains "schools" for the general public—at no cost.

Health information forums are presented four times a year by the hospital's foundation and medical staff. The public is invited to hear experts in all fields of medicine discuss new advances and treatment techniques, and questions from the audience are answered.

Prenatal classes are held twice a month for expectant mothers by the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology. All that is required is that the "students" arrange to attend through their doctors' offices.

Prenatal and postnatal exercise programs are offered weekly by the Department of Rehabilitation Medicine, and here, too, doctor's referral is required.

THE STORK CLUB meets the second and fourth Wednesday of each month. Prospective mothers may arrange to attend through their doctors' offices.

The pediatric tour is conducted the fourth Saturday of each month by the Department of Nursing. Children due to be hospitalized are invited, along with their parents.

Attendance at the pediatric tour can be arranged through the doctor's office or by calling the hospital.

Rear Adm. Ned W. Sprow, commander of the 11th Coast Guard District, displays "burgee" of Long Beach Power Squadron just presented him by Cmdr. Maurice Kent, squadron commander. The admiral became the first man to be made an honorary member of the organization in the 25-year history of the squadron.

HONORARY LIFE MEMBER

Power Unit Honors Coast Guard CO

Rear Adm. Ned W. Sprow, commander of the 11th Coast Guard District, was made a life honorary member of the Long Beach Power Squadron Friday night to become the first man in the 25-year history of the local squadron to be so honored.

The admiral, commander of the local Coast Guard district for the past four years, was cited by Cmdr. Maurice "Mossy" Kent, commander of the 540-member LBPS during brief ceremonies at the Commander's Ball at the Lakewood Country club.

PRESENTING THE ADMIRAL with a squadron "burgee," official flag of the local squadron, Cmdr. Kent said, "The assistance and encouragement given by the admiral, his staff, and all Coast Guard personnel in help our squadron achieve its goals of establishing high standards of skill in sail and power boat handling and by encouraging the boating public to enroll in safe boating classes has prevented the loss of an unestimatable number of lives and injuries to the pleasure boating public of Southern California."

"I am grateful for this unusual honor," the admiral responded. "This forges another link in the chain that binds the power squadron and the Coast Guard so closely in the common cause of furthering safe boating."

Gold and silver table decorations fashioned by members of the "Seabags," auxiliary to the local squadron, reminded guests of the quarter century the LBPS has been teaching safe boating practices to area pleasure boaters.

THE GOLD DECORATIONS noted the half century of service that the parent organization, the United States Power Squadrons, has devoted to educating the nation's sail and power boat owners and crews.

The Long Beach Power Squadron, third largest in California, conducted two free 12-week classes each spring and fall open to boat owners and prospective boat owners interested in learning safe small boat handling techniques.

Rear Adm. Ned W. Sprow, commander of the 11th Coast Guard District, displays "burgee" of Long Beach Power Squadron just presented him by Cmdr. Maurice Kent, squadron commander. The admiral became the first man to be made an honorary member of the organization in the 25-year history of the squadron.

HONORARY LIFE MEMBER

Power Unit Honors Coast Guard CO

Rear Adm. Ned W. Sprow, commander of the 11th Coast Guard District, was made a life honorary member of the Long Beach Power Squadron Friday night to become the first man in the 25-year history of the local squadron to be so honored.

The admiral, commander of the local Coast Guard district for the past four years, was cited by Cmdr. Maurice "Mossy" Kent, commander of the 540-member LBPS during brief ceremonies at the Commander's Ball at the Lakewood Country club.

PRESENTING THE ADMIRAL with a squadron "burgee," official flag of the local squadron, Cmdr. Kent said, "The assistance and encouragement given by the admiral, his staff, and all Coast Guard personnel in help our squadron achieve its goals of establishing high standards of skill in sail and power boat handling and by encouraging the boating public to enroll in safe boating classes has prevented the loss of an unestimable number of lives and injuries to the pleasure boating public of Southern California."

"I am grateful for this unusual honor," the admiral responded. "This forges another link in the chain that binds the power squadron and the Coast Guard so closely in the common cause of furthering safe boating."

Gold and silver table decorations fashioned by members of the "Seabags," auxiliary to the local squadron, reminded guests of the quarter century the LBPS has been teaching safe boating practices to area pleasure boaters.

THE GOLD DECORATIONS noted the half century of service that the parent organization, the United States Power Squadrons, has devoted to educating the nation's sail and power boat owners and crews.

The Long Beach Power Squadron, third largest in California, conducted two free 12-week classes each spring and fall open to boat owners and prospective boat owners interested in learning safe small boat handling techniques.

Q. What are gimmicks on misleading ads?
A. I'll do my best to point out a few gimmicks that might mislead you to the dealer who thinks this is the only way cars can be sold.

1. No Down Payment
2. Huge Discounts
3. Our Cars Sold at Invoice
4. You're the Boss
5. Hundreds of $8 More than your car is worth.
6. Name Your Own Deal

There are many more ways to mislead
you in ads: just remember, no one sells something for nothing. We, at Harbor
Chevrolet, have not used any misleading advertising for over forty years, and at this time we are one of the largest Chevrolet dealers in Southern California.

By BEN H. BLAND
General Sales Manager

Q. What are gimmicks on misleading ads?
A. I'll do my best to point out a few gimmicks that might mislead you to the dealer who thinks this is the only way cars
can be sold.

1. No Down Payment
2. Huge Discounts
3. Our Cars Sold at Invoice
4. You're the Boss
5. Hundreds of $8 More than your car is worth.
6. Name Your Own Deal

There are many more ways to mislead
you in ads: just remember, no one sells something for nothing. We, at Harbor
Chevrolet, have not used any misleading advertising for over forty years and at this time we are one of the largest Chevrolet
dealers in Southern California.
We know that through truthfulness, honesty and fair dealings with our customers respect and friendship have been, and will be, built to last for years to come.

HELLO YANK DOLLIES!

Dean Continues Mastery of N.Y.

By ROSS NEWHAN
I. P.T. Staff Writer

NEW YORK—The Yankees have an easier time getting tickets for Hello Dolly than they do hitting Dean Chance.

Chance again illustrated why he is the Dean of American League pitchers on this shivering Saturday gaining his first victory of the season, 6-3, before 13,281 members of the Old Breed.

Supported by a 14-hit assault which included three each by Jose Cardenal and Bobby Knoop, Chance yielded six hits, walked four and struck out eight as he hurled his fourth complete game in a row at Yankee Stadium and scored his fifth successive victory over the dissipating dynasty.

"When you get that many runs you've got to win," said the 23-year-old right-hander. "I was lucky. I really didn't have anything. I walked the leadoff man in three different innings and got away with it."

"STILL, IT felt good to get the first one. I really wanted it. That was only the second time I've gone a distance during the last month. It will take three or four more starts before I'm where I was at the end of last season."

"It wasn't until the eighth inning that the Yankees solved Chance and if it hadn't been for Dean's first major league balk and an error by Lou Clinton, the Bronx Bombers might have suffered their fourth consecutive defeat via the shutout route. As it is, they've touched Chance for only four earned runs in the Allowed six hits while defeating New York Yankees for fifth successive time, 6-3.

Last 72 innings and, in their own roost, have scored but one off him in the last 25 frames.

"I was proud of the way our youngsters went about their business," said Rigney. "They performed as if they've been playing the Yankees all their lives. I didn't even have a pre-game meeting."

RIGNEY included Chance in his summary, but was again particularly proud of Cardenal and third baseman Paul Schaal, who clubbed a 400-foot triple and singled.

Schaal had injured his right ankle prior to the game and is doubtful today. He was relieved by Julio Gotay in the eighth and his caddy promptly turned in the fielding play of the day, robbing Bobby Richardson of a down-the-line double which would have sustained a Yankee rally.

"If Gotay doesn't make that play then I have to take 'Chance out,'" said Rigney. "He'd thrown a lot of pitches (the final count was 134) and the blister was again bleeding a bit, but I wanted to coax a full game out of him because I knew how bad he wanted it. I also wanted to save the big man (Bob Lee) for tomorrow's doubleheader."

THE 22-YEAR old Schaal is now batting .276 while the sensational 21-year old Cardenal is the club leader at

.382. Together, they've driven in 11 of the Angels' 24 runs.

With two doubles, a single and a walk, Knoop rubbed some of the gold off his glove and onto his bat. He's stroking at a .375 pace while his roomie, all-star shortstop Jim Fregosi, is mired at .139.

The Angels shoved a three-run cushion under Chance in the gold off his glove and onto his bat. He's stroking at a .375 pace while his roomie, all-star

A single by Bob Rodgers and Schaal's massive triple ("one of the longest I've ever hit") provided the first run and a double by Knoop and single by Cardenal added two more. A single by Knoop and double by Cardenal made it 4-0 in the sixth.

With two out in the seventh the Angels added two important insurance runs off Steve Hamilton. Singles by Rodgers, Clinton and Schaal and a double by Knoop flavored the icing.

CHANCE WAS in possession of a shutout until the WALNUT—No one was cracking jokes in Walnut Saturday.

This postcard-size hamlet in the San Jose hills, which has produced 14 world records in five years, didn't come close in Saturday's Mt. San Antonio Relays.

Olympians and world record holders from across the land and over the ocean participated in this giant record festival, yet the only truly distinguished achievement was a national junior college pole vault record of 16-0 by Bob Seagren of Mt. San Antonio.

With over 3,000 athletes in the two-day meet, the Sawdust Caesars had a field day. The keepers of the record books had an off day.

Despite the track war, which knocked much quality off the show, 10,200 sunbathers warmly applauded Saturday's interesting windup.

The mile was the "name" event, and the names made it a mystery almost the equal of Perry Mason.

Olympic Games 5,000-meter champion Bob Schul played windbreaker at the start with Cary Weisiger, Jim Grelle and Norm Hoffman within elbow range.

Grelle, inched off the '64

Olympic team, led at the 440 in 60.5 with Weisiger, Schul and Hoffman close.

Weisiger hit the halfway point first in 2:01.3, and now Grelle, Hoffman and Jack Larson were lined up a yard apart like convicts in a chow line.

Looking like a fellow who didn't find the chow digestible, Hoffman dropped out on the backstretch, and at three-quarter mile it was Weisiger (3:02.9) with Grelle a step to the rear and Schul up to third but down 10 yards.

Grelle caught Weisiger easily around the first curve, and it was apparent that Schul, with the biggest "kick" in the race, wasn't wearing his horseshoes.

Grelle pulled on Weisiger—a foot, a yard, five yards on the final curve—and that was that.

Grelle's victory margin was almost 10 yards, while Weisiger had twice that advantage over Schul. Times were Grelle 4:00.3, Weisiger 4:01.9 and Schul 4:06.1. The others never contended.

Schul, an old fox of 27, wasn't ready. He will be in July at Moscow.

Billy Mills, the Master Hero of the Olympics after winning the 10,000 meters, wasn't up to it Saturday. In fact, he wasn't even up to running 5,000 meters.

Mills, a late switch from the mile to the 5,000, led for almost four laps, gradually dropped behind pacesetter Ron Larrieu, a Tokyo also-ran, and after 8½ laps dropped out. Larrieu won by 200 yards in 14:38.0. His three-mile time was a slow 14:08.0.

While Schul and Mills were conditioning failures, most of the open events were won by veterans of the Tokyo campaigns.

Jay Silvester edged fellow Olympian Dave Weill in the discus, 202-11 to 196-1. Pablo McNeil of Jamaica and Compton College captured the 100 surprisingly and decisively in 9.4, but temporary cyclone conditions nullified it as a record.

Two-time Olympian Ralph Boston won the long jump by more than a foot at 26-5, and old-timer Mike Larabee, who has had more ups and downs than a yo-yo, moved from next-to-last down the straightaway to first by two feet in the 440, 47.3.

Jeff Fishback (8:58.4 steeplechase), Billy Hardin (51.9 440 hurdles), Marilyn White (10.6 women's 100), Ron Morris (16-0 pole vault) and Silvester (62-2½ shotput), were other Tokyo veterans to post winning marks Saturday.

American distance runners retracted to "the good old days," showing all the vigor of a bunch of Micro-nesian turtles in the 10,000 meters. Japanese runners were first, second, third and fifth.

Other than the absence of world records, the most unexpected development occurred in the hammer throw. Three-time Olympian Hal Connolly threw 220-11 for second, Ed Burke 221-2 (his lifetime best by six feet) for first.

Silvester was voted field athlete of the meet for his shot-discus double, while Don Shy of Mt. San Antonio was elected runner of the meet for victory in the open high hurdles in 13.7—wind-aided.

Ed Johnson of the Striders was a surprise winner at 7-feet in the high jump. Teammate John Dobroth was second, at the same height, and Olympian Ed Caruthers of Santa Ana College drifted to third at 6-11.

Another outstanding achievement was the 53-1½ triple jump by Art Walker,

There were only five hits in the inning and two didn't leave the infield, but the Dodgers sent 10 men to bat and brought Mauch from the dugout twice to change pitchers.

LOSER Bo Belinsky made his hardest throw as he reached the dugout and Mauch may have bettered the velocity when he came out the second time to rescue Ed Roebuck.

Belinsky hurled his glove halfway across the Phillies dugout after stomping from the mound and Mauch dented the screening in front of the dugout boxes with a wild pitch after taking the ball from Roebuck.

Meanwhile, almost unnoticed was Claude Osteen's route-going performance after an extremely shaky start. Osteen allowed 10 hits, four more than any Dodger pitcher has yielded this season. But eight came in the first four innings and he faced only 17 Phillies, two over par, thereafter.

OSTEEN (2-1) turned in the Dodgers' sixth complete game in nine starts and kept the bullpen waiting in line for unemployment compensation.

Celts Set to Wrap It Up U.S. Foe: Russ, Not Russell

By JEROME HALL

The Yanks and the Reds play a ball game tonight that means nothing to the American League or the National League standings, but it's mighty important to an international conference.

The Yanks and the Reds are otherwise known as the United States and the Russian all-star amateur basketball teams and their game at 7 p.m. in the L.A. Sports Arena will be attended by upwards of 8,000 of the curious.

Though few sports fans in this country realize it—or care—this is one of the world's most important basketball games, for its result counts in World Standings, the only genuine race for the basketball world championship.

RIGHT NOW THE U.S. IS at least co-leader in World Standings with a 1-0 record achieved Friday night in a 72-53 victory over the Russian National team at San Francisco.

There is probably a team in Zamboanga and another in Montevideo with equal records and there may be a title threat in Bagamoyo, Tanganyika, if the I, P-T's scouting reports are correct.

But the two heavyweight contenders for the world basketball championship are the Yanks and the Reds . . . err, the U.S. and Russia.

The two teams currently are on a cross-country exhibition tour of good will, which was done little good by Friday night's game in which 72 fouls were called. (Fortunately for spectators, free throws are rare under international rules even when fouls abound.)

THE TEAMS HAVE PLAYED three games in the series. The U.S. team has won the two times UCLA all-America guard Gail Goodrich has been in the lineup. (The first two games were warmups for Friday night's international conference opener.)

Goodrich will be in the lineup tonight and so will Wichita star Dave Stallworth, who outscored the UCLA star Friday, 26-21.

So, of course, will be Russian stars Armenak Alachachyn and Vyacheslav Khrynin and Zurb Sakandelidze from Tbilisi, names better known around the world than some of those involved in the night's preliminary game which is between the Independent, Press-Telegram sports department and sportswriters from a Los Angeles newspaper called The Times. First stumble is at 5:45.

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Celtics can clinch their seventh straight National championship today by defeating the last-ditch Lakers.

Boston leads the best-of-seven final playoff series 3-1 after its 112-99 victory Friday night at Los Angeles.

Although making no public statements, the Celtics have vowed privately to wrap up the triumph which would add to their status as one of the most successful teams in the history of professional sports.

Boston coach Red Auerbach and team captain Bill Russell both issued terse "no predictions" communiqués.

"If we get the idea this thing will be wrapped up with no strain in the fifth game we'll get flattened and maybe blow the whole thing," Auerbach said.

"The Lakers aren't about to quit."

"Sure we have a good chance to win, but don't think the Lakers will lie down dead," added Russell.

Auerbach squelched published reports his ace scorer, Sam Jones, who contributed 37 points in the fourth contest, was rushed back to Boston for rest and treatment of a serious virus condition.

TV: Channel 7, 11 a.m.

"He came back for a haircut," the Celtics boss said. Operating without all-star forward Elgin Baylor, the Lakers face a "no tomorrow" situation if they lose.

If they win, a sixth game is set for Los Angeles Tuesday night.

Coach Fred Schaus promised a top effort against the team he has tagged "the best ever assembled anywhere."

He refused to criticize star Jerry West who was held to 22 points—including only six field goals—Friday night after averaging over 40 in nine previous playoff games.

However, West said he owed it to the team to "get back in the groove."

"I thought I lost the last game because I didn't shoot better," West said. He connected on 6 of 27 field goal tries.

The Celtics, who scored 62 victories during the season and defeated the Philadelphia 76ers in the Eastern Division playoffs, are gunning for their eighth title in nine years.

A victory in the nationally televised contest will be worth an additional $25,000 to the Celtics, who already have won $26,500 for best won-lost percentage, first place division finish and the division playoff crown.

Go Josie Go Captures Derby

By DON HARDIN

Go Josie Go, with jockey James Dreyer giving the Go Man Go—Josie's Bar

fill a masterful ride from the start, won the $40,000 Pacific Coast Quarter Horse Racing Association Derby at Los Alamitos Race Course Saturday.

Go Josie Go, who had the fastest qualifying time in the Derby Trials, had won four in a row and six out of seven and, running with entry-mate Bar Pink, still got away at 2-1 as the big crowd of 13,149 spread the bets pretty evenly between the winner, Bar Request, Nugita Texas and Duplicate Copy.

Time for the standard Derby distance of 440 yards was 22.1 and the winner's official margin of victory was three-quarters of a length.

Bar Request, with Ernest Trujillo aboard, once again was the bridesmaid to Go Josie Go. Although running strongly toward the end, last fall's Futurity winner never seriously threatened and was hard-pressed to hold off Night Latch to get second.

The entry paid $6, $2.80 and $2.60. Bar Request paid $3.60 and $3.20 and Night Latch $5.40.

Nugita Texas, winner of the first division of the Trials by a length and one-half, was the second favorite but finished out of the money. Bar Request was the third favorite and Duplicate Copy fourth. The latter finished fourth.

Go Josie Go is owned by A. O. Phillips and trained by C. L. Talliaferro. The winning purse was $20,000.

Rulon Goodman, leading owner last fall by virtue of Bar Request's win in the rich Futurity, picked up $9,000 for second. The rest of the purse was distributed thusly: $5,000 for third, $3,000 for fourth, $2,000 for fifth and $1,000 for sixth.

The victory was a sweet one for Dreyer who had been sitting out a 5-day suspension after having once being tied with Charlie Smith for the riding leadership.

Total wagered on the Derby was $124,136 and the million dollar mark was just missed as $998,605 was bet on the nine races.

The fastest 400-yard time of the meeting was recorded in the Barbara B Stakes, a supporting $5,000 feature to the Derby, when even-money favorite Anna Dial raced to a wire-to-wire victory in 20.2.

Anna Dial, ridden by Smith, broke on top from the No. 2 post position and

HELLO YANK DOLLIES!

Dean Continues Mastery of N.Y.

By ROSS NEWHAN
NEW YORK—The Yankees have an easier time getting tickets for Hello Dolly than they do hitting Dean Chance.

Chance again illustrated why he is the Dean of American League pitchers on this shivering Saturday gaining his first victory of the season, 6-3, before 13,281 members of the Old Breed.

Supported by a 14-hit assault which included three each by Jose Cardenal and Bobby Knoop, Chance yielded six hits, walked four and struck out eight as he hurled his fourth complete game in a row at Yankee Stadium and scored his fifth successive victory over the dissipated dynasty.

"When you get that many runs you've got to win," said the 23-year-old right-hander. "I was lucky. I really didn't have anything. I walked the leadoff man in three different innings and got away with it."

"STILL, IT felt good to get the first one. I really wanted it. That was only the second time I've gone a distance during the last month. It will take three or four more starts before I'm where I was at the end of last season."

It wasn't until the eighth inning that the Yankees solved Chance and if it hadn't been for Dean's first major league balk and an error by Lou Clinton, the Bronx Bombers might have suffered their fourth consecutive defeat via the shutout route. As it is, they've touched Chance for only four earned runs in the

GOODRICH

By JEROME HALL

The Yanks and the Reds play a ball game tonight that means nothing to the American League or the National League standings, but it's mighty important to an international conference.

The Yanks and the Reds are otherwise known as the United States and the Russian all-star amateur basketball teams and their game at 7 p.m. in the L.A. Sports Arena will be attended by upwards of 8,000 of the curious.

Though few sports fans in this country realize it—or care—this is one of the world's most important basketball games, for its result counts in World Standings, the only genuine race for the basketball world championship.

RIGHT NOW THE U.S. IS at least co-leader in World Standings with a 1-0 record achieved Friday night in a 72-53 victory over the Russian National team at San Francisco.

There is probably a team in Zamboanga and another in Montevideo with equal records and there may be a title threat in Bagamoyo, Tanganyika, if the I. P. T.'s scouting reports are correct.

But the two heavyweight contenders for the world basketball championship are the Yanks and the Reds...err, the U.S. and Russia.

The two teams currently are on a cross-country exhibition tour of good will, which was done little good by Friday night's game in which 72 fouls were called. (Fortunately for spectators, free throws are rare under international rules even when fouls abound.)

THE TEAMS HAVE PLAYED three games in the series. The U.S. team has won the two times UCLA all-America guard Gail Goodrich has been in the lineup. (The first two games were warmups for Friday night's international conference opener.)

Goodrich will be in the lineup tonight and so will Wichita star Dave Stallworth, who outscored the UCLA star Friday, 26-21.

So, of course, will be Russian stars Armenak Alachachyn and Vyacheslav Khrynin and Zurb Sakandelidze from Tbilisi, names better known around the world than some of those involved in the night's preliminary game which is between the Independent, Press-Telegram sports department and sportswriters from a Los Angeles newspaper called The Times. First stumble is at 5:45.

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Celtics can clinch their seventh straight National championship today by defeating the last-ditch Lakers.

Boston leads the best-of-seven final playoff series 3-1 after its 112-99 victory Friday night at Los Angeles.

Although making no public statements, the Celtics have vowed privately to wrap up the triumph which would add to their status as one of the most successful teams in the history of professional sports.

Boston coach Red Auerbach and team captain Bill Russell both issued terse "no predictions" communiques.

"If we get the idea this thing will be wrapped up with no strain in the fifth game we'll get flattened and maybe blow the whole thing," Auerbach said.

"The Lakers aren't about to quit."

"Sure we have a good chance to win, but don't think the Lakers will lie down dead," added Russell.

Auerbach squelched published reports his ace scorer, Sam Jones, who contributed 37 points in the fourth contest, was rushed back to Boston for rest and treatment of a serious virus condition.

"He came back for a haircut," the Celtics boss said.

Operating without all-star forward Elgin Baylor, the Lakers face a "no tomorrow" situation if they lose. If they win, a sixth game is set for Los Angeles Tuesday night.

Coach Fred Schaus promised a top effort against the team he has tagged "the best ever assembled anywhere."

He refused to criticize star Jerry West who was held to 22 points—including only six field goals—Friday night after averaging over 40 in nine previous playoff games.

However, West said he owed it to the team to "get back in the groove."

"I thought I lost the last game because I didn't shoot better," West said. He connected on 6 of 27 field goal tries.

The Celtics, who scored 62 victories during the season and defeated the Philadelphia 76ers in the Eastern Division playoffs, are gunning for their eighth title in nine years.

A victory in the nationally televised contest will be worth an additional $25,000 to the Celtics, who already have won $26,500 for best won-loss percentage, first place division finish and the division playoff crown hold off Night Latch to get second.

The entry paid $6, $2.80 and $2.60. Bar Request paid $3.60 and $3.20 and Night Latch $5.40.

Nugata Texas, winner of the first division of the Trials by a length and one-half, was the second favorite but finished out of the money. Bar Request was the third favorite and Duplicate Copy fourth. The latter finished fourth.

Go Josie Go is owned by A. O. Phillips and trained by C. L. Taliaferro. The winning purse was $20,000.

Rulon Goodman, leading owner last fall by virtue of Bar Request's win in the rich Futurity, picked up $9,000 for second. The rest of the purse was distributed thusly: $5,000 for third, $3,000 for fourth, $2,000 for fifth and $1,000 for sixth.

The victory was a sweet one for Dreyer who had been sitting out a 5-day suspension after having once being tied with Charlie Smith for the riding leadership.

Total wagered on the Derby was $124,136 and the million dollar mark was just missed as $998,605 was bet on the nine races.

The fastest 400-yard time of the meeting was recorded in the Barbara B Stakes, a supporting $5,000 feature to the Derby, when even-money favorite Anna Dial raced to a wire-to-wire victory in 20.2.

Anna Dial, ridden by Smith, broke on top from the No. 2 post position and

By JERRY WYNN

This is my final column for The Independent, Press-Telegram, Monday I begin my new position as director of public relations for the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League.

A newspaperman is faced daily with writing and editing stories about other people. The fascination of the work is that it never becomes routine. No two stories are the same. Every day's newspaper is an individual little slice of history.

I worked for The Independent, Press-Telegram for 12½ years. There were crests and valleys, banner stories and fillers, victories and defeats. I enjoyed every moment of it.

Sports is a world unto itself. It can be compared to the toy department of a large store. It has no great significance, no essential importance, but it does bring people enjoyment, laughter, thrills. In so doing, it becomes important.

SPORTS EVEN HAS a language unto itself. The news editor often shudders when he reads our headlines about "Big D" and "Four-Ply Swats. But don't let him fool you. He knows the language and is a fan himself. Who isn't?

Sports writing has an attraction unto itself. Thousands of talented young men crave the opportunity to rub elbows with glamorous athletic heroes not realizing that the glamor is soon submerged in the frenzy to meet the deadlines and the sweat of the copy desk. The most important men on any newspaper are those whose byline never or seldom appears.

I was fortunate in the major beats to which I was assigned. I like all sports, but none better than the golf and pro football I covered.

Golf is marvelous recreation and exciting competition. Most of all, it is nice people. From Gene Combs of Recreation Park to Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., the game weaves a green bond of good sportsmanship and good fellowship. I never met a golfer who desired anything grander than to birdie the next hole.

I HAD MANY GREAT thrills in golf, though, alas, not from my own game. Will I ever forget kneeling on the apron of the 18th green at the Olympic Club in San Francisco when Jack Fleck sank the seven-foot birdie putt to tie Ben Hogan in the final round of the 1955 U.S. Open? Never!

I think pro football is the greatest of all spectator sports. The desire in Everyman for personal glory and courage is transferred to the player on the field, who to succeed must possess the highest degree of physical stamina and mental prowess.

There are no more dedicated athletes than pro football players or persons to be admired and pitied as pro football coaches. This is war every Sunday. The casualty list is large.

I've had five years traveling with the Rams. From top to bottom, the organization is top. If they don't have a winning team soon, there is no justice. Stay with them.

MONDAY I JOIN the San Diego Chargers. They have had nothing but winners. For my sake, let there be no change. However, there will have to be a change in my own thinking.

The other day I was interviewed by a San Diego sportscaster, and the first question he asked me was what chance the Chargers would have if they played the Rams.

Without thinking of my new position, I gave an honest answer. I said I really didn't know. What I should have said was that the Chargers would eat 'em up alive!

Poly's Half-Pint Fills Cup at 6-8½

By DOUG IVES

Little Larry Freeman narrowly missed a national high jump record Saturday as Poly High's Big Four became the Big Five and took home the Compton Cup for the third consecutive year.

Freeman, who stands only 5-9, soared over 6-8½ and then flurried with history as he tried times at 6-10½ — three-quarter inch over the interscholastic standard.

The 145-pound senior didn't come close on his first attempt but cleared the magic height on try No. 2 only to kick off the bar with his trail leg. He did the same on his last effort but still won a huge ovation.

"I thought I had it, then I knew I didn't," the boy said about his narrow second-jump failure.

A PART-TIME triple jumper, hurdler and long jumper, Freeman concentrated only on high jumping Saturday and felt this might be the reason for his success.

On a sun-kissed day at Compton's notably fast Ramsaur Stadium, four records were broken and one tied, the most prestigious being Freeman's, of course.

Compton sped to a 1:27.5 in the 880 relay, Pasadena's Rick Wise ran the 220 in 21.0 and Les Hague of Santa Ana vaulted 14-5¼ to break the records, while Loyola's Henry Harris long jumped 24 feet, tying a standard.

It was a banner day for Moore League schools, Poly, Lakewood and Millikan being especially for Poly's Freeman, Manuel Murrell, John Hubbell, Fred Muench and Al Nichols, the latter making the original Big Four now the Big Five.

NICHOLS ran 1:56.5, a phenomenal effort considering it was his first 880 of the season and he has worked out only a few days. Moreover, he borrowed Muench's spikes to do it.

Nichols was second to South Torrance's Wes Fox, who was indeed Fox-fast in 1:54.8, while Lakewood's John Alderete zipped to a photo-finish win of 1:56.4 in the other and more exciting half-mile race.

The durable Murrell sped to a CIF best of 18.9 in the low hurdles, breezed 14.5 in the highs and finished third at 23-6 on the long jump. All this and he also ran in two heats and on Poly's runnerup relay team.

Hubbell, the 11th grade strongboy, threw the shot over 60 feet four times, topped by his winning put of 60-10¼, and Muench was second in the 100 (9.8) and an eyelash back of Wise in the record-setting 220.

Of Poly's 40 points the Big Five figured in 39. They needed them all since Compton was a close second with 35.

A CITY best of 49.5 by Larry Walters in the quarter for second place, a slow but winning 4:27.5 Bill DeVore in the mile and Alderete's 880 paced Lakewood to a fifth-place finish 17 points.

Ulis Stars in Oxy Relays

By BOB SCHMIDT

Occidental didn't have the stars and it didn't have the AAU officials Saturday, but it did have competition aplenty for colleges forced to skip the big track carnival at Walnut because of the NCAA-AAU jurisdictional dispute.

The Eagle Rock school staged a hastily arranged relays meet for schools such as Long Beach St., Arizona, Arizona St., and others who needed competition to prepare for upcoming conference meets.

AAU officials boycotted the meet, just as the colleges boycotted the Mt. SAC meet, with the result that Oxy's faculty, alumni and students had to serve as judges and timers.

Frank Tusaus of Arizona won a keenly contested javelin competition in the day's outstanding performance, throwing 239-10 to better Arizona State's Glenn Wittingham, who threw 228-5, and Santa Barbara's Jim Clark, who threw 225-6½.

Arizona State's Olympic gold medal winner, Ulis Williams, sprinted a 46.1 quarter mile in a distance medley relay leg, and returned later to run 21 second flat for a 220 around a curve during the sprint-medley relay. Neither effort was good enough to help the depleted Sun Devils win a race, though.

The day's other two top performances came in the field events, with ASU's Jon Cole getting off a best-of-his-life discus throw of 181-11 and L.A. State's Rainer Stenius long jumping 25-4¼ to chase Ralph Boston's Patterson Field record of 24-10¼, set in 1963.

Coach Jack Rose's 49ers won two distance events, Ralph Lee capturing the two mile in 9:24.1 and George Lacy winning the 3,000-meter steeplechase in 10:03.4. Long Beach also finished second in the shuttle high hurdles relay and second in the sprint medley.

John Rambo, nursing an ailing shoulder, passed up the high jump, and the event was won by Arizona State's Mike Lange in a creditable 6-8.

Host Occidental had several occasions to cheer, and the fans gave a rousing accolade to hurdler Vance Peterson, who arrived in Los Angeles at 4:30 a.m.

after competing Friday at the Drake Relays (and nabbing a second in the 440-yard hurdles). Peterson anchored the winning shuttle hurdles relay in an unpressed 15.2, ran a leg on the winning 440-yard relay, and then sprinted a 49.2 opening leg quarter in the sprint medley relay to give the Tigers a lead they never relinquished.

Oxy also scored a unique sweep in the triple jump, taking the first four places, with Rich Lazzaro's leap of 46-9¼ leading the way.

VENTURI SIDELINED UNTIL 'AT LEAST MID-JUNE'

Nicklaus, Golf Elite Converge on Vegas

By DAVE LEWIS

The elite of the professional links world will gather in Las Vegas this week for the 13th annual Tournament of Champions over the plush Desert Inn Country Club course . . . and as the countdown started, the original field of 28 dropped to 27 and now is 26.

Latest casualty is U.S. Open champion Ken Venturi, who has withdrawn from the event because of the same type of hand trouble that struck down the Dodgers' Sandy Koufax three years ago.

Earlier, Gary Player revealed he was returning to his native South Africa for a month to be with his wife, who is expecting their fifth child.

Following a week of extensive tests at the famed Mayo Clinic in Cleveland, Venturi announced that doctors have "scratched me" from every tournament until "at least mid-June."

Ken hopes that he will be able to defend his U. S.

Open title at that time, June 16-19, in St. Louis but there is a definite fear that his golf career may be ended.

Venturi is troubled with a circulatory condition in the fingers of both hands called Reynaud's Phenomenon. Koufax' trouble was only on a couple of fingers of his throwing hand.

Doctors at the Mayo Clinic have outlined a full medical program of treatment in an attempt to cure Venturi's problem, but Ken is reported to be extremely discouraged, which means that surgery may be necessary.

If treatment fails, surgery sometimes can correct the condition. Amputation of the affected fingers, of course, is the extreme measure.

The ailment first flared up last fall and finally became acute the past January during the Crosby tournament. Doctors have told Venturi that cold weather and emotional and nervous upsets will bring on attacks.

Meanwhile, the 26 other champions who won PGA-sanctioned tournaments in the 12 months through the Masters three weeks ago will be on hand.

Jack Nicklaus, a "one-man tournament" all by himself, will be gunning for his third straight win in the Vegas event. In 1963, he breezed to a five-stroke victory and last year won by two.

He will enter the event one of the shortest-priced favorites in modern golf history. He is currently listed at 5-2 . . . but the price is expected to drop sharply by Thursday's tee off time after a flood of money hits the Vegas sports books early this week.

Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper are next on the odds sheet at 6-1. Doug Sanders, who tied for second last year, is 8-1, while Tony Lema, Bobby Nichols, Chi Chi Rodriguez and Mike Souchak are quoted at 10-1.

KEN VENTURI
Career in Jeopardy

The Desert Inn course is in its finest condition in years following unusual growth in recent weeks following heavy winter rains. The rough will be extremely thick.

Nicklaus Scares Las Vegas Bookies

It will be Jack Nicklaus against the world of golf and the Las Vegas bookmakers this week when the Big Bear goes on the prowl for his third straight victory in the Tournament of Champions Thursday.

Since there is every reason to believe he'll bag the $12,000 first money for the third year in a row, he has the operators of the Las Vegas sports books in a frenzy.

They eagerly grab every bet they can on the rest of the field . . . but turn deathly white when somebody chunks in a wager on Nicklaus. And they're getting a big play on him.

To a man, they'll be rooting against the new Mr. Big of the fairways. "He'll cost us a lot of money if he wins it again," admits one operator. "He'll darn near ruin us, you mean," says another.

Nicklaus, of course, is at the peak of his game . . . as was demonstrated by his record-shattering victory in the Masters; he likes the Desert Inn course, and he goes into the tournament rested after two weeks away from the tour.

Despite the absence of Ken Venturi and Gary Player, the field of 26 will be one of the most interesting in the history of the most exclusive and unique professional tournament of them all.

In addition to Nicklaus, there will be Arnold Palmer, still tops despite a bad start this year. Arnie has been pointing for this one and hopes to start his '65 surge by bagging the event for the second time. He won it in 1962. Billy Casper has been threatening to win the T. of C. for the past several years and is due for another strong showing if he can keep from being a hospital case again. He is especially effective on desert courses.

SUCH GALLERY FAVORITES will be on hand as Doug Sanders, the "Clown Prince of Golf," Champagne Tony Lema, and funny Chi Chi Rodriguez, the popular Puerto Rican. Sanders made up seven strokes on Nicklaus in the final round last year with a 66 to tie for second.

Also in the field are former winners Mike Souchak and Slammin' Sammy Snead. The latter, who will be 53 next month, became the oldest ever to win a PGA tournament recently when he captured the Greater Greensboro Open.

Bob Charles, the only left-hander ever to score a major tournament victory, is back . . . leading a strong foreign field that also includes Bruce Crampton and Kel Nagle from Australia; George Knudson from Canada, and Rodriguez from the Caribbean.

Then there is Pete Brown, first Negro ever to finish first in a PGA event . . . winning the Waco Turner Open last year the same weekend that Nicklaus was nailing down his second straight triumph in Vegas.

Brown is one of 11 first-time winners to qualify for the tournament this year. Never before have so many registered their initial tour victories as in the past 12 months.

IN ADDITION TO BROWN, here are the first-time winners:

DICK SIKES—Most promising of the newcomers. Won $2,200 in first pro tournament at Cleveland last summer, finishing ninth after shooting a 64 on second round. Art Modell, owner of the Cleveland Browns, began sponsoring him on the tour after that showing. The former two-time National Publich champ clinched Rookie of the Year honors by firing a blazing 62 on the first round of the Sahara Invitational in October and held on to win $12,000 first money. He is outstanding putter and fierce competitor.

CHARLES COODY—Had won only $1,627 in seven months of campaigning in his freshman year last season until he won the Dallas Open and $5,800 in September. Former Texas high school champ and Texas Christian ace posted a hole-in-one in his first professional tournament late in '63.

CHUCK COURTNEY—Former CIF champ from San Diego who became interested in golf career when he caddied for Gene Littler. First win came in St. Paul Open breezing home by three strokes.

BERT WEAVER—Won $56,000 in occasional appearance on tour over nine-year period with a tie for fifth, his best finish until winning the Jacksonville Open in March.

DICK HART—Chicago club pro whose course was covered by snow, went to Florida for fishing vacation, but when weather forced the fishing trip to be called off, decided to play in Azalea Open and phoned in his entry just two minutes before deadline. He then beat Phil Rodgers on eighth hole of playoff.

JACK MCGOWAN—A pro for 10 years, he has followed tour for last five years with little success. Won only $5,300 in '63 . . . but last year at age of 34, he tied for second at St. Paul, was third in the Sahara and finally won the Mountain View Open at Corona in October by four strokes.

MILLER BARBER—Only decent score in first three years on tour was $10,000 for hole-in-one in 1961 Seattle Open, but became solid money winner in '63 and last year he tied with Palmer and Player in Pensacola Open, but lost playoff, and finally made it in year's final tournament—the Cajun Open.

GEORGE ARCHER—Tallest pro on tour at 6-6. Won Lucky International over San Francisco course on which he learned to play. Strangely enough, tournament sponsored by company whose former president sponsors him on tour.

ROD FUNSETH—In three years on tour, he became used to settling for also-ran money . . . but fired 67 in last round to clinch Phoenix Open and $10,500 payoff.

KEL NAGLE—The 44-year-old Aussie has won tournaments in every major golf country except U.S. He qualified for Vegas event by winning Canadian Open.

FROM PEYTON PLACE TO PUTTIN' PLACE

Barbara Parkinson, star of television's "Peyton Place," will reign as queen of the 13th Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas starting Thursday.

Vikes Sweep Twin Bill

Clapp, Cue Stymie Corsairs in Relief

By GARY RAUSCH

Long Beach City College struck early and decisively Saturday to whip host Santa Monica, 7-3 and 9-8, in a Metropolitan Conference doubleheader.

Paul deMetropolis (6-0) and Dennis Moulton (3-3) pitched adequately but not spectacularly and needed help from Ed Clapp and Mike Cue, who picked up their second and first saves of the season.

Ron Drake's two-run homer, two doubles by Barney Scholl and singles by Drake and John McKee highlighted three-run explosions in the third and fourth innings of the opener.

BOOMING triples by Dennis King and Jerry Martin, singles by McKee, Bart Hammer (two), Larry Laurina and Moulton plus John Donatoni's sacrifice fly gave LBCC a 6-1 lead after three innings of the nightcap.

The 27-year-old Texan, playing out of Corona, Calif., four strokes on the first hole and wound up with a 64, his native state, shot four strokes off par on the front nine of the 6,715-yard Oak Hills Country Club course and said a 30-foot downhill putt for his 4th birdie on the 8th hole "was the turning point."

Cupit thus gained eight strokes on the second-round leader, Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga., who lost four strokes on the first four holes and wound up with a two-over par 72 at 204 along with rookie Steve Oppermann of San Francisco.

VENTURI SIDELINED UNTIL 'AT LEAST MID-JUNE'

Nicklaus, Golf Elite Converge on Vegas

By DAVE LEWIS

The elite of the professional links world will gather in Las Vegas this week for the 13th annual Tournament of Champions over the plush Desert Inn Country Club course . . . and as the countdown started, the original field of 28 dropped to 27 and now is 26.

Latest casualty is U.S. Open champion Ken Venturi, who has withdrawn from the event because of the same type of hand trouble that struck down the Dodgers' Sandy Koufax three years ago.

Earlier, Gary Player revealed he was returning to his native South Africa for a month to be with his wife, who is expecting their fifth child.

Following a week of extensive tests at the famed Mayo Clinic in Cleveland, Venturi announced that doctors have "scratched me" from every tournament until "at least mid-June."

Ken hopes that he will be able to defend his U. S.

Open title at that time, June 16-19, in St. Louis but there is a definite fear that his golf career may be ended.

Venturi is troubled with a circulatory condition in the fingers of both hands called Reynaud's Phenomenon. Koufax' trouble was only on a couple of fingers of his throwing hand.

Doctors at the Mayo Clinic have outlined a full medical program of treatment in an attempt to cure Venturi's problem, but Ken is reported to be extremely discouraged, which means that surgery may be necessary.

If treatment fails, surgery sometimes can correct the condition. Amputation of the affected fingers, of course, is the extreme measure.

The ailment first flared up last fall and finally became acute the past January during the Crosby tournament. Doctors have told Venturi that cold weather and emotional and nervous upsets will bring on attacks.

Meanwhile, the 26 other champions who won PGA-sanctioned tournaments in the 12 months through the Masters three weeks ago will be on hand.

Jack Nicklaus, a "one-man tournament" all by himself, will be gunning for his third straight win in the Vegas event. In 1963, he breezed to a five-stroke victory and last year won by two.

He will enter the event one of the shortest-priced favorites in modern golf history. He is currently listed at 5-2 . . . but the price is expected to drop sharply by Thursday's tee off time after a flood of money hits the Vegas sports books early this week.

Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper are next on the odds sheet at 6-1. Doug Sanders, who tied for second last year, is 8-1, while Tony Lema, Bobby Nichols, Chi Chi Rodriguez and Mike Souchak are quoted at 10-1.

KEN VENTURI
Career in Jeopardy

The Desert Inn course is in its finest condition in years following unusual growth in recent weeks following heavy winter rains. The rough will be extremely thick.

Nicklaus Scares Las Vegas Bookies

It will be Jack Nicklaus against the world of golf and the Las Vegas bookmakers this week when the Big Bear goes on the prowl for his third straight victory in the Tournament of Champions Thursday.

Since there is every reason to believe he'll bag the $12,000 first money for the third year in a row, he has the operators of the Las Vegas sports books in a frenzy.

They eagerly grab every bet they can on the rest of the field . . . but turn deathly white when somebody chunks in a wager on Nicklaus. And they're getting a big play on him.

To a man, they'll be rooting against the new Mr. Big of the fairways. "He'll cost us a lot of money if he wins it again," admits one operator. "He'll darn near ruin us, you mean," says another.

Nicklaus, of course, is at the peak of his game . . . as was demonstrated by his record-shattering victory in the Masters; he likes the Desert Inn course, and he goes into the tournament rested after two weeks away from the tour.

Despite the absence of Ken Venturi and Gary Player, the field of 26 will be one of the most interesting in the history of the most exclusive and unique professional tournament of them all.

In addition to Nicklaus, there will be Arnold Palmer, still tops despite a bad start this year. Arnie has been pointing for this one and hopes to start his '65 surge by bagging the event for the second time. He won it in 1962.

Billy Casper has been threatening to win the T. of C. for the past several years and is due for another strong showing if he can keep from being a hospital case again. He is especially effective on desert courses.

SUCH GALLERY FAVORITES will be on hand as Doug Sanders, the "Clown Prince of Golf," Champagne Tony Lema, and funny Chi Chi Rodriguez, the popular Puerto Rican. Sanders made up seven strokes on Nicklaus in the final round last year with a 66 to tie for second.

Also in the field are former winners Mike Souchak and Slammin' Sammy Snead. The latter, who will be 53 next month, became the oldest ever to win a PGA tournament recently when he captured the Greater Greensboro Open.

Bob Charles, the only lefthander ever to score a major tournament victory, is back . . . leading a strong foreign field that also includes Bruce Crampton and Kel Nagle from Australia; George Knudson from Canada, and Rodriguez from the Caribbean.

Then there is Pete Brown, first Negro ever to finish first in a PGA event . . . winning the Waco Turner Open last year the same weekend that Nicklaus was nailing down his second straight triumph in Vegas.

Brown is one of 11 first-time winners to qualify for the tournament this year. Never before have so many registered their initial tour victories as in the past 12 months.

IN ADDITION TO BROWN, here are the first-time winners:

DICK SIKES—Most promising of the newcomers. Won $2,200 in first pro tournament at Cleveland last summer, finishing ninth after shooting a 64 on second round. Art Modell, owner of the Cleveland Browns, began sponsoring him on the tour after that showing. The former two-time National Publix champ clinched Rookie of the Year honors by firing a blazing 62 on the first round of the Sahara Invitational in October and held on to win $12,000 first money. He is outstanding putter and fierce competitor.

CHARLES COODY—Had won only $1,627 in seven months of campaigning in his freshman year last season until he won the Dallas Open and $5,800 in September. Former Texas high school champ and Texas Christian ace posted a hole-in-one in his first professional tournament late in '63.

CHUCK COURTNEY—Former CIF champ from San Diego who became interested in golf career when he caddied for Gene Littler. First win came in St. Paul Open breezing home by three strokes.

BERT WEAVER—Won $56,000 in occasional appearance on tour over nine-year period with a tie for fifth, his best finish until winning the Jacksonville Open in March.

DICK HART—Chicago club pro whose course was covered by snow, went to Florida for fishing vacation, but when weather forced the fishing trip to be called off, decided to play in Azalea Open and phoned in his entry just two minutes before deadline. He then beat Phil Rodgers on eighth hole of playoff.

JACK MCGOWAN—A pro for 10 years, he has followed tour for last five years with little success. Won only $5,300 in '63 . . . but last year at age of 34, he tied for second at St. Paul, was third in the Sahara and finally won the Mountain View Open at Corona in October by four strokes.

MILLER BARBER—Only decent score in first three years on tour was $10,000 for hole-in-one in 1961 Seattle Open, but became solid money winner in '63 and last year he tied with Palmer and Player in Pensacola Open, but lost playoff, and finally made it in year's final tournament—the Cajun Open.

GEORGE ARCHER—Tallest pro on tour at 6-6. Won Lucky International over San Francisco course on which he learned to play. Strangely enough, tournament sponsored by company whose former president sponsors him on tour.

ROD FUNSETH—In three years on tour, he became used to settling for also-ran money . . . but fired 67 in last round to clinch Phoenix Open and $10,500 payoff.

KEL NAGLE—The 44-year-old Aussie has won tournaments in every major golf country except U.S. He qualified for Vegas event by winning Canadian Open.

FROM PEYTON PLACE TO PUTTIN' PLACE

Barbara Parkins, star of television's "Peyton Place," will reign as queen of the 13th Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas starting Thursday.

Cupit Carves Up Native Texas With Sizzling 64

Jack Cupit, posting the lowest 54-hole total of the 1965 golf tour, grabbed a two-stroke lead through the third round of the Texas Open Saturday with a 31-33-64 and a 200 total.

The 27-year-old Texan, playing out of Corona, Calif., but looking for another pro affiliation in his native state, shot four strokes off par on the front nine of the 6,715-yard Oak Hills Country Club course and said a 30-foot downhill putt for his 4th birdie on the 8th hole "was the stroke lead through the third turning point."

Cupit thus gained eight strokes on the second-round leader, Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga., who lost four strokes on the first four holes and wound up with a two-over par 72 at 204 along with rookie Steve Oppermann of San Francisco.

Krishnan Meets Richey in Finals

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Ramanathan Krishnan of India upset Roy Emerson of Australia to advance to the finals of the River Oaks Tennis Tournament Saturday.

Krishnan, 28-year-old Indian Davis Cupper, beat Emerson, the top-seeded player in the tournament, 2-6, 9-7, 7-5, 6-4. Krishnan was fourth seeded. The Indian star will meet Cliff Richey, Dallas teen-ager, in the finals.

Richey defeated Hamilton Richardson, former Davis Cup star from Dallas, 6-0, 6-2, 6-2. Krishnan, making his first River Oaks appearance, mixed angled volleys with lobs and slick-wristed placements in the match that required two hours.

Clapp, Cue Stymie Corsairs in Relief

By GARY RAUSCH

Long Beach City College struck early and decisively Saturday to whip host Santa Monica, 7-3 and 9-8, in a Metropolitan Conference doubleheader.

Paul deMetropolis (6-0) and Dennis Moulton (3-3) pitched adequately but not spectacularly and needed help from Ed Clapp and Mike Cue, who picked up their second and first saves of the season.

Ron Drake's two-run homer, two doubles by Barney Scholl and singles by Drake and John McKee highlighted three-run explosions in the third and fourth innings of the opener.

BOOMING triples by Dennis King and Jerry Martin, singles by McKee, Bart Hammer (two), Larry Lauria and Moulton plus John Donatoni's sacrifice fly gave LBCC a 6-1 lead after three innings of the nightcap.

Valley Rips 49ers Twice

Craven's 3 Homers Stun CCAA Leaders

Long Beach State's baseball club lost its first doubleheader in two seasons Saturday when Valley State dumped the 49ers 8-6, 10-8 in CCAA play on the winners' field.

Terry Craven unloaded two home runs in the first game, including a grand slam. The Matadors' centerfielder hit his third homer of the day in the nightcap to help offset LBSC's three circuit smashes.

For the first time this year our pitching really let us down," coach Bob Wuesthoff said disappointedly. "We had good hitting today, but we gave away too many runs. Four of their runs were earned in the second game."

Barry Wallace was Long Beach's chief nemesis at the plate. Wallace collected five hits in 8 trips, including a pair of home runs. His shot in the 8th inning of the second game traveled an estimated 450 feet.

SPENCE NOTEBOOK suffered his setback of the campaign after tacking up eight consecutive victories. The righthander had a 3-0 lead going into the fifth inning, but he surrendered two runs on two hits and three walks.

Ed Perry came on to relieve Noteboom with the bases loaded and Craven promptly smacked his homer over the right-field fence.

Despite the double defeat, the 49ers remain in first place in conference standings.

Derby Rule: Tip, Lunch or...

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The $2 bettors and lush spenders figure to back their hot tips, hunches and just plain sentiment with $1.5 million to $2 million in the Kentucky Derby next Saturday.

This has become the waging pattern among the traditional crowd of 100,000 at ancient Churchill Downs for this prestige race for 3-year-olds.

The odds appear stacked against the fortune hunters. In the 90 runnings of the Derby, the post-time favorite has won 38 times; run out of the money only 20.

However, in the past 20 years, only four favorites have romped into the winner's circle and the wreath of roses.

The last back-to-back favorites to win the Derby were Whirlaway, Shut Out and Count Fleet in 1941-42. Count Fleet was backed to 40 cents on $1, sharing with Citation, the winner in 1948, and Bimelech, the 1940 runner-up, the distinction of being the shortest price horses ever in the race.

There was a time, though, when the favorite had a monopoly and a few old timers might recall that the choices won in six consecutive years in 1891-1896.

Donerail, in 1913, returned $184.90 on each $2 win ticket, the record payoff in the Derby. On the other hand, Count Fleet and Citation each paid a mere $2.80 for their victories. The last genuine long shot victor was Dark Star who paid $51.80 in 1963.

Derby wagering has fallen below $1 million only once Calumet Farm's great due in the last two decades.

of Citation and Coaltown and a sloppy field reduced the Derby field to six in 1948 and there was no place or show betting. Consequently, the crowd risked only $670,833 at the mutual windows. The record was $2,144,079 on last year's Derby.

In contrast, there was only $18,300 bet on the Derby in 1908, the year the Downs installed its pari-mutuel system.

GO JOSIE GO ALL THE WAY

TOM ROLFE WINS Grey Lag to 'Dude at $16.90

NEW YORK (AP)—Quita Dude, only non-winner of 1965 in the field closed with a rush and won the $85,050 Grey Lag Handicap at Aqueduct Saturday.

Ismael Valenzuela brought the winner home by one-half length ahead of the favored Tibaldo and covered the 1 1/4 miles in 1:49 2/5 on a fast track.

I. Stevens, top-weighted at 126 pounds, was third another 2 1/2 lengths back in the 11-horse field.

Quita Dude paid $16.90, $6.30 and $3.80. Tibaldo returned $4 and $2.80 and Lt. Stevens $4.70.

The winner owned by Sidney Factor, received $55,282.50 of the gross purse, far exceeding his previous total earnings the year. Quita Dude had finished second in the Westchester handicap and third in the Excelsior earlier in the season at Aqueduct.

LOUISVILLE (AP)—Tom Rolfe outlasted Native Charger in the stretch Saturday and won the $6,000 Stepping Stone purse, one of the last major tests for Kentucky Derby hopefuls.

Narushua finished third in the field of seven for the seven-furlong race, opening day attraction at Churchill Downs.

The winner, owned by Powhatan Stables, laid back during the early running and made his move as the field started around the turn.

At the head of the stretch Native Charger moved up on the outside and was within 1 1/4 lengths of catching Tom Rolfe as he crossed the finish line.

The time was 1:22 4/5. Tom Rolfe, ridden by Ron Turcotte, returned $7.28 and $2.40. Native Charger paid $2.40 and $2.20 while Narushua was worth $3.20 in the show.

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (UPI)—Slender John Sellers capped a day that included five winners with a nose victory aboard Time Tested in the 12th running of the Delaware Valley Handicap on opening day of the spring season at Garden State.

A crowd of 34,480 saw the speedy 3-year-old drop his nose in front of Hi-Hasty, who was a neck better than Record Dash.

Sellers, 28, began his sensational performance by completing a $318.20 daily double aboard Timba ($17.40). Larry Gilligan boasted home First Lord in the opener for an $89.60 payoff.

NASCAR, UFAC WILL COMBINE SAME RULES

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock car racing in the United States received an important "lift" Saturday with the announcement that in 1967 the two major stock car racing organizations—NASCAR and UFAC—will operate under one set of rules.

While there were no specific changes detailed, it was understood that in 1967 no internal modification to engines will be allowed and that there will be a "reasonable" weight limit set.

The discussions proved to be the major portion of the meeting of the board of directors of the Automobile Competition Committee for the United States, FIA.

"There are still a great many details to be worked out," said Charles Moran, president of ACCUS. "But I feel that we are definitely on the right track and our members are closer to agreement than they ever have been before."

Meanwhile, for the balance of 1965 and 1966, the two major stock car sanctioning bodies will operate under their own rules.

New Records for Anglers, Hunters

The total number of fishermen and hunters in the United States set a new record last year, the Interior Department revealed last week. The Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, a part of the Interior Department, said that 34,342,176 fishermen and hunters paid more than $132 million for licenses, also a record.

Breaking down those figures, we find that 20,219,457 fishermen paid $60,213,427 for licenses and permits, while 14,122,659 hunters paid $72,071,094 for their licenses and permits. Those figures show a jump of 387,813 fishermen and 123,284 hunters over the previous year.

However, the figures are not an accurate measurement of the actual number of fishermen and hunters because some states don't require licenses. For instance, only six states require licenses for fishing in the ocean.

Also, most boys and girls, too, under 16 don't have to have licenses. So multiply the figures by two and you have a rough idea of how many citizens go fishing and hunting.

California led in the number of fishermen, with 1,744,957 who spent $7,433,495 on licenses and permits. Pennsylvania led with hunters—862,603, who paid $5,456,485.

ONCE AGAIN, DFG WARDENS are warning outdoor enthusiasts not to bother spotted fawns, which might appear to be "abandoned" in the forest. Several cases already have been reported whereby well-intentioned but uninformed persons have tried to take the baby animals to their homes and rear them as pets.

The fawn that appears to have been abandoned often has a mother standing by, but naturally reluctant to expose herself, she stands in the brush and sees her baby taken away.

The DFG always has to issue this warning about baby deer, but it applies to all other wild game. People are reminded that the young of most California wildlife species are protected by fish and game laws.

The young, particularly deer, require expert care and feeding, and usually will not survive if taken from their mothers and their natural environment.

Speaking of wildlife, I just ran across an item about the ostrich. The male has several wives. The females lay all their eggs in one nest, then take off for other parts of the country, leaving all the work to father.

Father has to do most of the hard work in rearing a big family. Apply that same rule to the human race and that population explosion might start to subside.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—Entry deadline for the seventh annual Hawaiian International Billfish Tournament (July 25 through 31) is June 1, says Peter S. Fithian, chairman of the board of governors of the HIBT.

Pete also says that interest is higher than ever. More than 500 individuals have written for the colorful packet depicting highlights of the previous tournaments.

California already has a running start with teams from Balboa Angling Club, Channel Islands Yacht Club, Bel-Air Game Fishing Club and the City of Walnut Creek. George and Patricia Hoag, Newport Beach, who have boated 40 marlin in 15 years of fishing, will be representing BAC for the fifth year.

Pete points out that teams of anglers composed of from one to four members and representing a club, city, state or nation are eligible to enter the tournament. Entry blanks and other information may be had by addressing the HIBT Secretary, P.O. Box 9155, Honolulu, Hawaii 96820.

The National Audubon Society is pushing its drive to stop that Topatopa Reservoir on Sespe Creek because of the danger to the California condors. The society wants to protect those largest living birds at any cost.

Hugo Fisher, administrator of the State Resources Agency, has suggested a meeting with all interested parties, including the proposed water district officials. The Audubon Society says, "Let's have the meeting!"

NEW BOOKS—Four new paperbacks, pocket size, "The Compact Book of Upland Game Birds," "The Compact Book of Waterfowl and Lowland Game Birds," "The Compact Book of Small Game and Varmints," and "The Compact Book of Big Game Animals," have been published by J. Lowell Pratt and Company, Inc., 15 E. 48th St., New York, N.Y.

The books were edited by Ray Orvington and illustrated in black and white and in color by Francis W. Davis. Each sells for 75 cents and is well worth the price. They are not reprints, but entirely new books, and very well done.

Dover Publications, Inc., New York, N.Y., continues with its series on birds. The latest four books are entitled "Life Histories of North American Blackbirds, Orioles, Tanagers and Their Allies," "Life Histories of North American Nuthatches, Wrens, Thrashers and Their Allies," "Life Histories of North American Wagtails, Shrikes, Vireos and Their Allies," and "Life Histories of North American Thrushes, Kinglets and Their Allies."

Those Dover books are large-sized paperbacks and sell for $2.75 each. They are reprints of the works of Arthur Cleveland Bent. They were first published in the early 20s for the Smithsonian Institute and were then labeled as U.S. National Museum Bulletins.

Excellent pictures have been added to make the books delightful reading and looking.

WSC SEASON OPENS THIS WEEK

Tab Nitehawks for Title

By CHUCK MEDICK

The Western Softball Congress season opens this week.

The Long Beach Nitehawks travel to Oxnard to start festivities for the DJ Candy Kings while the Lakewood Chiefs host the Pomona Bombers Wednesday night at Mayfair Park. The Hawks will open their home schedule against the Gardena Merchants Friday night at Park Avenue Field.

This year the seventh Congress season should without a doubt be the most interesting of all.

There are many changes in personnel for all teams with Culver City dropping out entirely. There will be seven teams competing . . . the Long Beach Nitehawks, Lakewood Chiefs (formerly Lakewood Lancers), Pomona Bombers (last year's Etiwanda Bombers), Gardena Merchants, Oxnard DJ Candy Kings, Downey Impalas, and the Buena Park Bobcats (formerly Los Alamitos).

With the many shifts in franchises and personnel, it follows that there will be some shifts in the standings.

The Gardena Merchants, behind K. G. Fincher, were the easy WSC winners in '64. But they ran into trouble in the ISC World's Tournament last fall in Rock Island, where the Downey Impalas accomplished the near impossible, winning three games in the final night to come home with the title.

But this is another season and let's take a look at the league and see how close we can come to determining where each team will finish in the standings.

To refresh all our memories, last year our crystal ball was of little help for we were wrong in four predictions out of eight. This year with only seven teams, let's analyze each club in the order in which we think they will finish. (The rundown is at left).

No. 1: Nitehawks—This appears to be the most improved club. Two strong pitchers, Don Sarne and Gail Wood, each with proven ability. Good power throughout entire lineup. 100% better defensively. Without injuries, should go all the way.

No. 2: Pomona—Good sound club. Ritchie Stephens rates with best of pitchers. Tiger Kamschitz could be a big winner. Adequate hitting, good defense, breaks could make the difference.

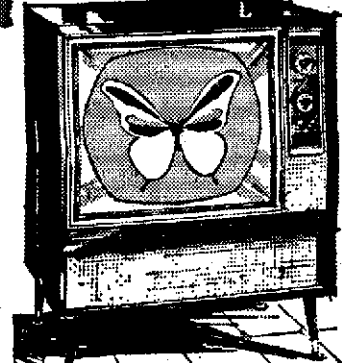

No. 3: Gardena—Without K. G. Fincher this is still a fine club. Tremendous speed, excellent power and adequate defense. Al Johnson may come into his own as a pitcher this year, and with Art Bunge rounding into shape, they could finish higher than third.

No. 4: Lakewood—Good solid club offensively and defensively, but could be a long season for George Pearson and newly signed Ed Klecker.

No. 5: Oxnard—Improved with addition of Lloyd Wood, fine hitter. Jack Newman always tough on the mound and Johnny Flores looks like first-line hurler now. But overall, still weak at bat, and defense could be problem.

No. 6: Downey—A club in real trouble now. Pitching not in shape. No improvement in hitting, but could catch fire if left-hander Bob Wills and slinker-bell pitcher Ed Dewey get in shape. Acquisition of Bert Verdugo will give Impalas a bullpen.

No. 7: Buena Park—A young team, good spirit, good determination, but little else. Poor hitting, defense that may make too many mental mistakes because of youth, and to date only one pitcher under contract. Ageless Butch Lockery at 42 is a great competitor, but he'll have to be Superman to change handwriting on the wall.

Eyes on Future at New Cosmodyne Plant

ment made by Cosmodyne to be used as ground support for future space shots at Cape Kennedy. In center picture, liquid nitrogen vapor rises around huge tankers being filled by George Goble, operating recharger. Photo at right was taken in 'clean room' used for parts requiring strict cleanliness specifications before and during installation. This room reportedly is one of best equipped of its kind in U.S.

EVEN 'DEEP FREEZE'

Head of New Torrance Plant Sees 'Big Future'

TORRANCE — Shareholders of the Cosmodyne Corp. were offered some "way-out" speculation on the possibility of immortality through a "deep freeze" together with a down-to-earth report on operations at the company's annual meeting in Torrance Saturday.

Cosmodyne President James L. Bartlett Jr. said the company anticipates "substantial improvement" in sales and profits in 1965 as a result of increased efficiencies in engineering and manufacturing operations, and a greater percentage of commercial business.

THE MEETING was coordinated with official opening of the company's new 113,000 square foot building on nine acres of ground at 2920 Columbia St. Shareholders attended the meeting in the morning and toured the facilities; and an open house was held for employees, their families and friends in the afternoon.

The deep freeze for humans was mentioned by Bartlett in outlining some of the more distant research horizons in the field of cryogenics — the science of temperatures of -250 F degrees and colder—where Cosmodyne is a leading equipment and systems manufacturer.

SPECIFICALLY, he referred to the recently published book, "The Prospect of Immortality," by Robert C. W. Ettinger.

Ettinger's thesis is that it is theoretically possible to freeze human beings after they die and then revive them hundreds of years later when medical science has progressed to the point where they can be cured.

Noting that such a prospect seems incredible and outlandish, Bartlett pointed out, however, that within the memory of most adults the prospect of landing a man on the moon at one time seemed equally unlikely.

HE EMPHASIZED that Cosmodyne now is concentrating its efforts on "less glamorous" opportunities for near-term profitability, such as the manufacture of tankers for hauling liquid nitrogen and oxygen. However, he said, shareholders also could find satisfaction in the fact that their company is part of an industry that still has great potential for future scientific research and development.

Cosmodyne's new facility in Torrance will house corporate and administrative offices, as well as manufacturing, research, engineering and testing activities.

IT FEATURES 23,000 square feet of modern air-conditioned office and engineering space and also includes one of the largest facilities for processing ultra-high vacuum parts in Southern California.

Representing an integration of three previous facilities located in Hawthorne, the new building will provide much greater efficiency of operations, Bartlett said.

The building itself occupies only about half the nine-acre site. The remaining ground has been reserved for future expansion.

Start First of Major Avalon Developments

First step in major housing developments on Catalina Island is now under way with construction launched on 21 Mediterranean-style Townhouse apartments. These will be followed shortly with construction of 60 luxury homes built in the hills overlooking the island bays.

The development is a joint venture of Al Solomon, president of Alcu-Pacific Construction Co., Westminster, and the Urbanus Square Corp., Los Angeles.

At the groundbreaking ceremonies, guest speaker, Meno Wilhelms, vice president of William L. Pereira & Associates, project designers, announced this is the first development to commence since his firm's Avalon Land Use Study had been prepared and accepted by the City of Avalon.

ACCORDING TO WILHELMS, the architecture as devised by the Pereira firm and the Santa Catalina Island Co. is a blend of Spanish and Mediterranean style in conforming to the traditions of the island.

Solomon, builder-developer of more than 2,200 homes in Orange County, recently has become active in Catalina Island civic affairs. He said the one and two-bedroom Townhouse apartments are primarily designed to meet the needs of the permanent residents of Avalon.

IN KEEPING WITH the historic legend of Catalina Island, an authentic antique Spanish shovel was used to turn the first ground.

Dignitaries assisting in the dedication of the new construction were Lloyd Weverka of the Catalina Island Co., Fred G. Hochberg, mayor of Avalon, Leo Zager, president, Catalina Island Chamber of Commerce, Oscar Meinhardt, Catalina Island Steamship Co., and Joseph S. Guion.

Buffums' Best Year Reported by Young

Vaile G. Young, president of Buffums' department stores, reported the theme of the annual report was "the best year in Buffums' 60 year history".

Sales of $25,676,306 compared with $21,745,377 the previous year. Net earnings amounted to $812,597 versus $523,446. Earnings per share were $1.45 against 95c. Net worth was $9,381,110 versus $8,637,400.

By action of the board of directors on March 15, quarterly dividends were increased from 10c a share to 12½c a share, bringing the annual rate of 50c versus 40c a share paid last year. Earnings reinvested were $591,721 versus $303,670. New comparative figure was introduced into the Annual Report which is the percentage of earnings to net.

John Wayne Buys L.B. Office Building

By VERN ANTHONY
Editor of Progress Section

Purchase of the multi-story California World's Fair office building at 230 E. 4th St., in the heart of the downtown Long Beach business district by actor John Wayne was announced last week by the WisCava Corp., Beverly Hills, which is operating the building for the Wayne interests.

—Staff Photo

In making the announcement, Arnold Wisper, president of WisCava, said:

"We are pleased to add this important office building to the other properties we operate for John Wayne and others."

The World's Fair building, so named when previously occupied as headquarters for the once-planned California World's Fair, was purchased by the film star for $1.25 million.

LOCATION of the building puts it in close access to the Southland freeway system. The air-conditioned structure is 100% leased, Wisper said.

Its tenants include the following State of California departments: State Lands, Rehabilitation, Youth Authority, Industrial Relations, Safety and Court Room facilities and the nationally known firm of Dial Finance.

Donald LaCava, executive vice president of WisCava, indicated that the corporation, in addition to office buildings, handles cotton and cattle ranches in Arizona, oil fields in Oklahoma and Texas as well as hotel operations across the United States in addition to substantial investments in Mexico and South America.

WISCAVA also owns and manages the 208,000 square foot C-E-I-R Building in Beverly Hills, high rise headquarters for the company. Future plans include high rise buildings in the Westwood and Beverly Hills areas.

WisCava represents a cross-section of leading professional movie, TV and acting personalities throughout the Southern California area.

Current research is under way to select a Long Beach site for a major high rise office structure.

STRESSING confidence in the future growth of Long Beach, Wisper added:

"WisCava was created to fill an unusual need particular to Southern California. Many substantial people in the entertainment, medical and legal professions are seeking conservative investment opportunities to expand their estates and create tax shelters. We have developed a unique program that will allow limited-partnership real estate investments geared to individual requirements."

LaCava served as a naval aviator during the Korean War. Upon his return to civilian life he attended Loyola Law School. He presently heads up Markab Associates handling individual and corporate business tax planning.

Torrance Due to Have Big Financial Center

TORRANCE—Construction of a multimillion dollar financial center, predicted to be the largest of its kind in the world within five years, will get under way here by June.

Scheduled for construction on the northwest corner of Hawthorne Avenue and Carson Street, the complex will cover 10 acres and include savings and loan institutions, banks, brokerage houses, title companies and exclusive shops.

Plans were unveiled officially by J. M. Moore of Del Amo Properties Co., which is handling the project.

Doors Open Monday at New Bullock's Lakewood

Hailed by previewers as one of the most beautiful stores they ever have seen, the $4.75 million Bullock's Lakewood store will open its doors to the public at 9:30 a.m. Monday.

Located in the Lakewood Shopping Center at the northwest corner of Clark Avenue and Del Amo Boulevard, it is the Southern California firm's eighth store.

Shopping hours will be 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, and from 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Monday and Friday.

THE LAKEWOOD STORE will feature merchandise to suit the specific desires of its customer area, with emphasis on quality, Frank Gillett, president, said.

Under Bullock's autonomy policy for management, the new store will be operated by a "committee" consisting of Wes Lloyd, divisional administrator; Donald West, store superintendent; and Bruce Pusch and Phil Stein, divisional merchandise administrators.

The store is dedicated to service, quality and fashion, Lloyd declared at a press preview last week. He voiced special appreciation to City of Lakewood officials for their cooperation with Bullock's.

The building was designed by Welton Becket & Associates, architects and engineers.

C. L. Peck was general contractor for the reinforced concrete structure and Ruth Patricia Shellhorn of Shell-horn-Kueser, landscape architects, designed the elaborate landscaping.

OLD WORLD ELEGANCE and contemporary simplicity keynote the interiors created by Raymond Dexter, vice president of Bullock's store design, in association with the Becket firm.

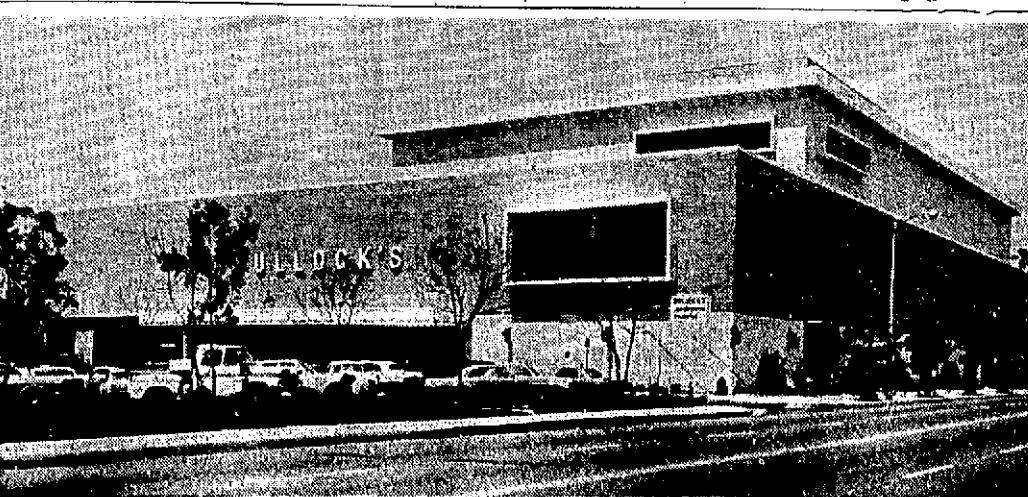

Dexter, collected the many decorative items in travels through Europe and the Far East.

By developing a split level site, the architects have provided direct entrances from parking levels on both the first and second floors. Parking for 1,450 cars is located on three sides, with no entrance to the store from the conventional street side. A landscaped plaza surrounds the building.

Eyes on Future at New Cosmodyne Plant

ment made by Cosmodyne to be used as ground support for future space shots at Cape Kennedy. In center picture, liquid nitrogen vapor rises around huge tankers being filled by George Goble, operating recharger. Photo at right was taken in 'clean room' used for parts requiring strict cleanliness specifications before and during installation. This room reportedly is one of best equipped of its kind in U.S.

EVEN 'DEEP FREEZE'

Head of New Torrance Plant Sees 'Big Future'

TORRANCE — Shareholders of the Cosmodyne Corp. were offered some "way-out" speculation on the possibility of immortality through a "deep freeze" together with a down-to-earth report on operations at the company's annual meeting in Torrance Saturday.

Cosmodyne President James L. Bartlett Jr. said the company anticipates "substantial improvement" in sales and profits in 1965 as a result of increased efficiencies in engineering and manufacturing operations, and a greater percentage of commercial business.

*****

THE MEETING was coordinated with official opening of the company's new 113,000 square foot building on nine acres of ground at 2920 Columbia St. Shareholders attended the meeting in the morning and toured the facilities; and an open house was held for employees, their families and friends in the afternoon.

The deep freeze for humans was mentioned by Bartlett in outlining some of the more distant research horizons in the field of cryogenics — the science of temperatures of -250 F degrees and colder—where Cosmodyne is a leading equipment and systems manufacturer.

SPECIFICALLY, he referred to the recently published book, "The Prospect of Immortality," by Robert C. W. Ettinger.

Ettinger's thesis is that it is theoretically possible to freeze human beings after they die and then revive them hundreds of years later when medical science has progressed to the point where they can be cured.

Noting that such a prospect seems incredible and outlandish, Bartlett pointed out, however, that within the memory of most adults the prospect of landing a man on the moon at one time seemed equally unlikely.

HE EMPHASIZED that Cosmodyne now is concentrating its efforts on "less glamorous" opportunities for near-term profitability, such as the manufacture of tankers for hauling liquid nitrogen and oxygen. However, he said, shareholders also could find satisfaction in the fact that their company is part of an industry that still has great potential for future scientific research and development.

Cosmodyne's new facility in Torrance will house corporate and administrative offices, as well as manufacturing, research, engineering and testing activities.

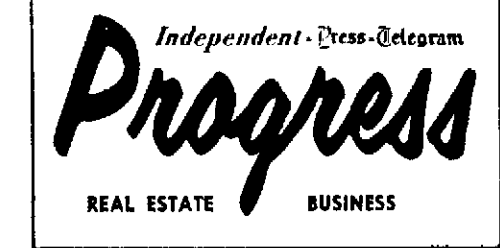

IT FEATURES 23,000 square feet of modern air-conditioned office and engineering space and also includes one of the largest facilities for processing ultra-high vacuum parts in Southern California.

Representing an integration of three previous facilities located in Hawthorne, the new building will provide much greater efficiency of operations, Bartlett said.

The building itself occupies only about half the nine-acre site. The remaining ground has been reserved for future expansion.

Start First of Major Avalon Developments

First step in major housing developments on Catalina Island is now under way with construction launched on 21 Mediterranean-style Townhouse apartments. These will be followed shortly with construction of 60 luxury homes built in the hills overlooking the island bays.

The development is a joint venture of Al Solomon, president of Alco-Pacific Construction Co., Westminster, and the Urbanus Square Corp., Los Angeles.

At the groundbreaking ceremonies, guest speaker, Menn Wilhelm, vice president of William L. Pereira & Associates, project designers, announced this is the first development to commence since his firm's Avalon Land Use Study had been prepared and accepted by the City of Avalon.

ACCORDING TO WILHELMS, the architecture as devised by the Pereira firm and the Santa Catalina Island Co. is a blend of Spanish and Mediterranean style in conforming to the traditions of the island.

Solomon, builder-developer of more than 2,200 homes in Orange County, recently has become active in Catalina Island civic affairs. He said the one and two-bedroom Townhouse apartments are primarily designed to meet the needs of the permanent residents of Avalon.

IN KEEPING WITH the historic legend of Catalina Island, an authentic antique Spanish shovel was used to turn the first ground.

Dignitaries assisting in the dedication of the new construction were Lloyd Weverka of the Catalina Island Co., Fred G. Hochberg, mayor of Avalon, Leo Zager, president, Catalina Island Chamber of Commerce, Oscar Meinhardt, Catalina Island Steamship Co., and Joseph S. Guion.

John Wayne Buys L.B. Office Building

Editor of Progress Section

Purchase of the multi-story California World's Fair office building at 230 E. 4th St., in the heart of the downtown Long Beach business district by actor John Wayne was announced last week by the WisCava Corp., Beverly Hills, which is operating the building for the Wayne interests.

Arnold Wisper (left) and Donald LaCava are standing in front of California World's Fair Building, 230 E. 4th St., Long Beach, which has been bought by actor John Wayne and is being operated by WisCava Corp. of Beverly Hills. Wisper and LaCava head the corporation.

In making the announcement, Arnold Wisper, president of WisCava, said:

"We are pleased to add this important office building to the other properties we operate for John Wayne and others."

The World's Fair building, so named when previously occupied as headquarters for the once-planned California World's Fair, was purchased by the film star for $1.25 million.

LOCATION of the building puts it in close access to the Southland freeway system. The air-conditioned structure is 100% leased, Wisper said.

Its tenants include the following State of California departments: State Lands, Rehabilitation, Youth Authority, Industrial Relations, Safety and Court Room facilities, and the nationally known firm of Dial Finance.

Donald LaCava, executive vice president of WisCava, indicated that the corporation, in addition to office buildings, handles cotton and cattle ranches in Arizona, oil fields in Oklahoma and Texas as well as hotel operations across the United States in addition to substantial investments in Mexico and South America.

WISCAVA also owns and manages the 208,000 square foot C-E-I-R Building in Beverly Hills, high rise headquarters for the company. Future plans include high rise buildings in the Westwood and Beverly Hills areas.

WisCava represents a cross-section of leading professional movie, TV and acting personalities throughout the Southern California area.

Current research is under way to select a Long Beach site for a major high rise office structure.

STRESSING confidence in the future growth of Long Beach, Wisper added:

"WisCava was created to fill an unusual need particular to Southern California. Many substantial people in the entertainment, medical and legal professions are seeking conservative investment opportunities to expand their estates and create tax shelters. We have developed a unique program that will allow limited-partnership real estate investments geared to individual requirements."

LaCava served as a naval aviator during the Korean War. Upon his return to civilian life he attended Loyola Law School. He presently heads up Markab Associates handling individual and corporate business tax planning.

Coast Bank to Establish Newport Beach Branch

Harris C. McFerrin, president of Coast Bank, announced recently that the California State Banking Department has granted permission to establish a branch of office at Newport Beach Boulevard and Pacific Coast Highway, Newport Beach.

The new office will incorporate the most modern banking facilities available. A special feature will be the new TV banking outlet in the parking lot. A customer can drive to the TV camera and see and talk to the teller while conducting his banking business. A pneumatic tube transfers the deposit or withdrawal between the bank and the teller. A television set in the bank also enables the teller to see the customer while doing business.

With headquarters in Long Beach, this will be Coast Bank's second branch. The Garden Grove office is two years old, and on March 15th their new building was opened to the public. This new facility, located near the corner of Beach and Garden Grove Boulevard, cost over one-half million dollars. Coast Bank was founded

Honeywell Expanding in Gardena

Honeywell Inc. has begun construction of 41,580 square feet of additional manufacturing and warehouse space for the Residential Division factory in Gardena, Ralph Allen, plant manager, announced.

"The expansion project reflects increased demand, both in the United States and in Europe, for Honeywell gas controls used on central furnaces, space heaters and water heaters," Allen said.

THE ADDITION, scheduled to be completed in May, will increase the factory's size by 21 per cent, to 240,000 square feet, Allen said. "Efficiency will be improved by centralizing warehousing, part of which is now conducted in a leased building elsewhere in Gardena, by enlarged shipping and receiving facilities and by greater manufacturing and assembly space."

The Gardena factory is Honeywell's principal manufacturing point for appliance controls. Production and employment, rising steadily over the past few years, has been boosted further by the surge in gas space heater sales in Europe following the 1962 discovery of major natural gas reserves off the Dutch coast, Allen explained.

Keeping drains clean is a simple matter, if given regular attention. The drain in the kitchen sink can be kept clear, for instance, by pouring boiling water down it once a day.

Phone Building at Bellflower to Be Enlarged

Construction on a $150,000 addition to the Bellflower central office building of the General Telephone Co., 9826 Oak St., will get under way about mid-May, according to Robert W. Weeks, division manager.

The addition will encompass 4,000 square feet in a two-story structure. It will provide space for additional dial switching equipment.

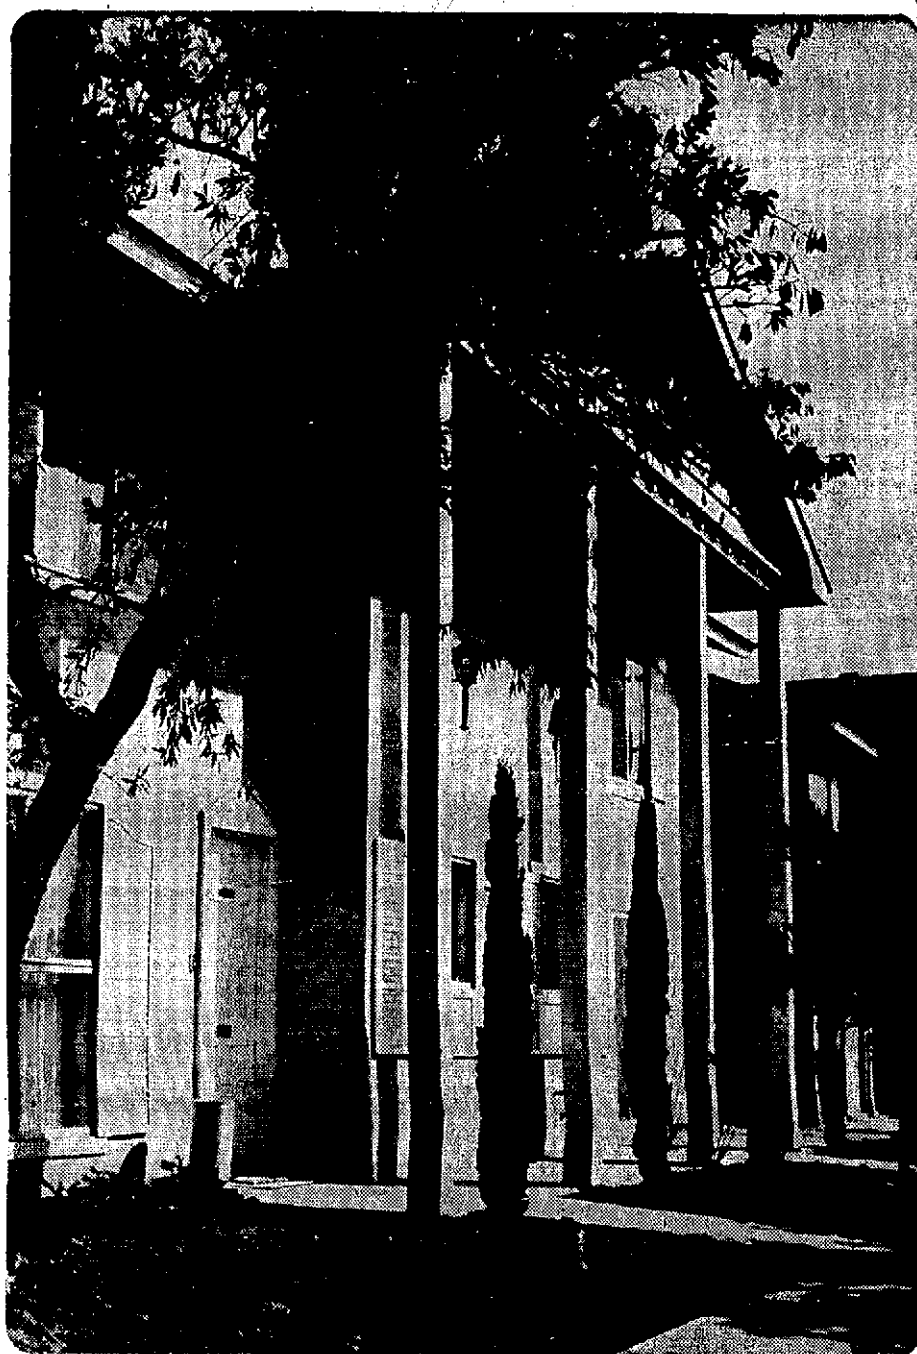

Completion is scheduled for around the end of the year. John A. Nordbak of Downey is the architect.

New San Diego Hotel Planned

Developers of the first major hotel to be built in downtown San Diego since 1927 are negotiating for the final piece of property that will give them a square block for the 800-room structure.

Westgate-California Corp. is planning to build a 15-story hotel on the block bounded by Broadway, Second Avenue, C Street and Third Avenue.

The final parcel is a 30-foot piece along Third Avenue and the firm said it believes it will have no trouble purchasing it.

Realty and Financing Interests to Join in Builders' Conference

National leaders of the real estate and financing industries, inseparable partners with the home building industry in the never-ending effort to provide adequate housing for every American, will reveal the courses their industries have charted for the immediate future at the seventh annual Pacific Coast Builders Conference, to be held at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco on June 1-3. Coming from opposite sides of the continent Maurice G. Read, Berkeley, 1965 president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and C. C. Cameron, Raleigh, N. C., 1965 president of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America, will balance Western and Eastern thought on housing trends.

AUGMENTING the national outlook will be an appraisal of the specific factors affecting the housing market in California by David N. Robinson, Berkeley, 1965 president of the California Real Estate Association. The panel will be moderated by Frank W. Cortright, San Francisco mortgage banker and former executive vice president of the National Association of Home Builders.

The government perspective on housing will be detailed by U.S. Sen. John Sparkman, chairman, Subcommittee on Housing of the Senate Committee on Banking & Currency. The veteran Alabama legislator has been the Senate author of practically every major piece of housing legislation that has become law since World War II. A FULL DAY of the conference will be devoted to advanced management techniques now being adopted by the Western building industry. A record-breaking crowd of builders from 13 states is expected to attend the three-day conclave, Elwood Leep, PCBC chairman, disclosed. A special ladies' program for the hundreds of wives who will attend the builders conference has been planned. A feature of the convention will be the installation of new officers for the Home Builders Council of California, legislative arm of the state's home building and light construction industry and sponsor of the conference.

U.S. National, Pacific State Banks Will Merge

HAWTHORNE—A preliminary agreement has been reached toward a merger of United States National Bank and Pacific State Bank, board chairmen of the two institutions jointly announced last week.

C. Arnholt Smith, president and chairman of U. S. National, and Ernest W. Hahn, chairman of Pacific State, said directors of the two banks have approved merger terms, which will be submitted in their final form to the shareholders of both institutions. Under the present plan, the merger involves an exchange of stock, with U. S. National remaining the sole entity.

The merger would give U. S. National 39 branches in Southern California with resources totaling $300 million.

COMPLETION of all requirements for the merger is expected within 60 days, upon approval by banking authorities and the shareholders.

U. S. National, headquartered in San Diego, operates 33 offices in the five major Southern California counties. Pacific State Bank began operations in 1955. It maintains six offices in the southwestern section of Los Angeles County; two in Hawthorne, and one each in Lennox, Windsor Hills; Torrance and Rolling Hills Estates.

Greenwood Joins Clive Graham in Marketing Post

The Clive Graham Co., 800 E. Ocean Blvd., has added Walter P. Greenwood to its staff as director of marketing, according to Clive Graham, owner of the firm and prominent Long Beach Realtor.

Greenwood, also will assist the company's Income Property Division in a sales capacity. ### SHE'S 'MISS AWNING'

Robert M. Wilson, mayor of Costa Mesa and president of the Western Awning Association, has proclaimed April as Aluminum Awning Month, illustrated above by June Lindeman as "Miss National Aluminum Awning."

Fullerton Business Woman Honored

Mrs. Stella Russell, vice president of Hunt Foods & Industries, Inc., Fullerton, has been named outstanding business woman for the year in Southern California by the Los Angeles Chapter of the National Association of Accountants.

Horace W. Brower, chairman and chief executive officer of the Occidental Life Insurance Co. and of Transamerica Corp., Los Angeles, was named outstanding businessman.

These citations are presented annually to individuals the accountants' association feel have made the most noteworthy contributions during the past year to the continued growth and progress of the Southern California business community.

THE AWARDS are presented each year in conjunction with the Southern California Business Show, a business community service project sponsored by the local NAA chapter. They were presented Tuesday at a banquet in the Coconut Grove in Los Angeles.

Brower was cited for his business acumen as chief executive of two major California corporations, for his outstanding work as a community leader and industry spokesman, and for his pioneering efforts in spearheading the current redevelopment of the downtown Los Angeles business area.

MRS. RUSSELL was accorded equal honors for her outstanding work as a vice president, director and member of the policy-setting Finance Committee for Hunt Foods.

Particular tribute was paid to her almost "Horatio Alger" success story, involving, as is the case, her rise from a Yugoslavian immigrant girl to a top executive position with a major U.S. corporation.

Higher Interest Cuts Earnings

Increased interest rates on deposits caused a decrease in the Bank of America's net operating earnings in the first quarter to $21,755,000, off 5.4% from $22,989,000 in 1964. Per share earnings amounted to 76c as compared with 81c in the first quarter last year, President Rudolph A. Peterson reported.

In other areas the bank scored impressive gains over the comparable 1964 levels. Deposits rose to $13,921,910,000, representing a gain of $870,048,000 over the total of $13,051,862,000 on March 31, 1964. Total resources were up to $15,400,545,000, against the 1964 figure of $14,626,850,000.

Here's what you are assured of when you purchase a home that displays the P.I.P.E. Blue Ribbon Home Award:

1. Adequate gas piping system including gas heating and, where fireplaces are provided, gas log lighter outlets. This gives you the savings of efficient, low-cost operation in home heating. Over a period of years this can add up to a sizeable amount.
2. A five-year unconditionally guaranteed gas water heater. Gas water heaters are less expensive to operate. With an unconditional guarantee you get full refund, not just a portion, should it need replacing within five years.
3. All valves and faucets must be high corrosion-resistant and have replaceable or renewable working parts. After years of constant use, the worn parts can be replaced without having to buy a new valve or faucet. It won't be necessary to tear the wall out or remove tile to repair valves behind the wall.
4. All plumbing fixtures must meet commercial standards of "A" grade. This means you're getting fixtures that will stand up to the wear and tear of constant use for years to come.
5. A minimum of two bathrooms, with one on every floor used for living accommodations. The convenience feature of more than one bath makes this a must for any quality home. One-bath homes are difficult to sell if you decide to move later.
6. A food waste disposer. Not only does this item contribute greatly to the convenience of the kitchen . . . it also keeps the kitchen free from odors and makes for sanitary conditions in and around the house.
7. One external hose outlet for every 75 feet of exterior wall. The practicality of this feature makes it well worthwhile. It means you needn't invest in 150 feet of garden hose and drag it around with you just to water the lawn.
8. A pressure regulator where the main water pressure exceeds 80 lbs. per square inch. This device will increase the longevity of your piping system because it guards against damage. It also tends to reduce the 'knocking' noises that often accompany over-pressure in pipes.
9. Adequate water and drain facilities for automatic washer and gas outlet for dryer. The cost of installing these outlets when constructing a house amounts to just a portion of what it would cost to provide them later. Even if you won't use them now . . . you should look to the future when you probably will.
10. A main water shutoff valve for house and independent shutoffs for sinks, lavatories and water closets. Not only can you easily shut off all water, you can also shut off the supply at individual fixtures without affecting water in other parts of the house.

These ten quality plumbing, heating and piping features make a home a better buy. Be sure the home you buy has been awarded the P.I.P.E. Blue Ribbon Home Award. You'll be a happier homeowner if you do.

Realty and Financing Interests to Join in Builders' Conference

National leaders of the real estate and financing industries, inseparable partners with the home building industry in the never-ending effort to provide adequate housing for every American, will reveal the courses their industries have charted for the immediate future at the seventh annual Pacific Coast Builders Conference, to be held at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco on June 1-3.

Coming from opposite sides of the continent Maurice G. Read, Berkeley, 1965 president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and C. C. Cameron, Raleigh, N. C., 1965 president of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America, will balance Western and Eastern thought on housing trends.

AUGMENTING the national outlook will be an appraisal of the specific factors affecting the housing market in California by David N. Robinson, Berkeley, 1965 president of the California Real Estate Association.

The panel will be moderated by Frank W. Cortright, San Francisco mortgage banker and former executive vice president of the National Association of Home Builders.

The government perspective on housing will be detailed by U. S. Sen. John Sparkman, chairman, Subcommittee on Housing of the Senate Committee on Banking & Currency. The veteran Alabama legislator has been the Senate author of practically every major piece of housing legislation that has become law since World War II.

A FULL DAY of the conference will be devoted to advanced management techniques now being adopted by the Western building industry.

A record-breaking crowd of builders from 13 states is expected to attend the three-day conclave, Elwood Leep, PCBC chairman, disclosed. A special ladies' program for the hundreds of wives who will attend the builders conference has been planned.

A feature of the convention will be the installation of new officers for the Home Builders Council of California, legislative arm of the state's home building and light construction industry and sponsor of the conference.

U.S. National, Pacific State Banks Will Merge

HAWTHORNE—A preliminary agreement has been reached toward a merger of United States National Bank and Pacific State Bank, board chairmen of the two institutions jointly announced last week.

C. Arnholt Smith, president and chairman of U. S. National, and Ernest W. Hahn, chairman of Pacific State, said directors of the two banks have approved merger terms, which will be submitted in their final form to the shareholders of both institutions. Under the present plan, the merger involves an exchange of stock, with U. S. National remaining the sole entity.

The merger would give U. S. National 39 branches in Southern California with resources totaling $300 million.

COMPLETION of all requirements for the merger is expected within 60 days, upon approval by banking authorities and the shareholders.

U. S. National, headquartered in San Diego, operates 33 offices in the five major Southern California counties.

Pacific State Bank began operations in 1955. It maintains six offices in the southwestern section of Los Angeles County; two in Hawthorne, and one each in Lennox, Windsor Hills, Torrance and Rolling Hills Estates.

SHE'S 'MISS AWNING'

Robert M. Wilson, mayor of Costa Mesa and president of the Western Awning Association, has proclaimed April as Aluminum Awning Month, illustrated above by June Lindeman as "Miss National Aluminum Awning."

Fullerton Business Woman Honored

Mrs. Stella Russell, vice president of Hunt Foods & Industries, Inc., Fullerton, has been named outstanding business woman for the year in Southern California by the Los Angeles Chapter of the National Association of Accountants.

Horace W. Brower, chairman and chief executive officer of the Occidental Life Insurance Co. and of Transamerica Corp., Los Angeles, was named outstanding businessman.

These citations are presented annually to individuals the accountants' association feel have made the most noteworthy contributions during the past year to the continued growth and progress of the Southern California business community.

THE AWARDS are presented each year in conjunction with the Southern California Business Show, a business community service project sponsored by the local NAA chapter.

They were presented Tuesday at a banquet in the Coconut Grove in Los Angeles. Brower was cited for his business acumen as chief executive of two major California corporations, for his outstanding work as a community leader and industry spokesman, and for his pioneering efforts in spearheading the current redevelopment ment of the downtown Los Angeles business area.

MRS. RUSSELL was accorded equal honors for her outstanding work as a vice president, director and member of the policy-setting Finance Committee for Hunt Foods.

Particular tribute was paid to her almost "Horatio Alger" success story, involving, as is the case, her rise from a Yugoslavian immigrant girl to a top executive position with a major U.S. corporation.

Higher Interest Cuts Earnings

Increased interest rates on deposits caused a decrease in the Bank of America's net operating earnings in the first quarter to $21,755,000, off 5.4% from $22,989,000 in 1964. Per share earnings amounted to 76c as compared with 81c in the first quarter last year, President Rudolph A. Peterson reported.

In other areas the bank scored impressive gains over the comparable 1964 levels. Deposits rose to $13,921,910,000, representing a gain of $870,048,000 over the total of $13,051,862,000 on March 31, 1964. Total resources were up to $15,400,545,000, as against the 1964 figure of $14,626,850,000.

Here's what you are assured of when you purchase a home that displays the P.I.P.E. Blue Ribbon Home Award:

1. Adequate gas piping system including gas heating and, where fireplaces are provided, gas log lighter outlets. This gives you the savings of efficient, low-cost operation in home heating. Over a period of years this can add up to a sizeable amount.
2. A five-year unconditionally guaranteed gas water heater. Gas water heaters are less expensive to operate. With an unconditional guarantee you get full refund, not just a portion, should it need replacing within five years.
3. All valves and faucets must be high corrosion-resistant and have replaceable or renewable working parts. After years of constant use, the worn parts can be replaced without having to buy a new valve or faucet. It won't be necessary to tear the wall out or remove tile to repair valves behind the wall.
4. All plumbing fixtures must meet commercial standards of "A" grade. This means you're getting fixtures that will stand up to the wear and tear of constant use for years to come.
5. A minimum of two bathrooms, with one on every floor used for living accommodations. The convenience feature of more than one bath makes this a must for any quality home. One-bath homes are difficult to sell if you decide to move later.
6. A food waste disposer. Not only does this item contribute greatly to the convenience of the kitchen... it also keeps the kitchen free from odors and makes for sanitary conditions in and around the house.
7. One external hose outlet for every 75 feet of exterior wall. The practicality of this feature makes it well worthwhile. It means you needn't invest in 150 feet of garden hose and drag it around with you just to water the lawn.
8. A pressure regulator where the main water pressure exceeds 80 lbs. per square inch. This device will increase the longevity of your piping system because it guards against damage. It also tends to reduce the "knocking" noises that often accompany over-pressure in pipes.
9. Adequate water and drain facilities for automatic washer and gas outlet for dryer. The cost of installing these outlets when constructing a house amounts to just a portion of what it would cost to provide them later. Even if you won't use them now... you should look to the future when you probably will.
10. A main water shutoff valve for house and independent shutoffs for sinks, lavatories and water closets. Not only can you easily shut off all water, you can also shut off the supply at individual fixtures without affecting water in other parts of the house.

These ten quality plumbing, heating and piping features make a home a better buy. Be sure the home you buy has been awarded the P.I.P.E. Blue Ribbon Home Award. You'll be a happier homeowner if you do.

Census Bureau to Make Survey of Home Repairs

A sample survey of residential alterations and repairs covering the first quarter of 1963 will be made among selected families in this area starting April 1, according to Mrs. Gladys Evans, acting director of the Bureau of the Census regional office in Los Angeles.

The survey will require about two weeks to complete, and is part of a national study involving about 8,000 home owners throughout the nation.

The data collected provide a statistical picture of the importance of home alterations and repairs in the U. S. economy.

As government programs and policy expand the aids available for improving and conserving existing homes, the information collected in this census survey will also become increasingly valuable for urban renewal.

Housing Bill Flaws Seen

Long Beach area real estate boards, and others in the state, have received communications from officers of the National Association of Real Estate Boards pointing out the multi-million dollar administration housing bill now before Congress could affect profoundly not only the real estate market for the next few years but also the future pattern of home ownership.

Information sent out indicated that the administration's proposal is a plan to supplement the rent in excess of 20% of income for selected middle-income families.

"IT IS DISTRESSING to learn that the federal government proposes to dole out funds to anyone in the middle class, the vast bulk of whom are adequately housed, but it is even more disturbing to contemplate where this 'foot-in-the-door' plan will lead," a spokesman said.

NEW DELHI (AP)—Things often move slowly in India's ponderous bureaucracy, but New Delhi's city government had no especially trying time recently getting a new traffic signal switched on.

The signal stood darkly at a busy intersection for six months before it finally got electricity sanctioned.

Pays Dividend

Security First National Bank has declared the usual quarterly dividend of 45 cents per share on the 7,600,000 outstanding shares of common stock, payable May 5 to stockholders of record April 20.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards has asked Congress to limit the present FHA section 221(d) (3) program to families of low income and instead of the present 3% sub-market interest rate set the rate at possibly 2%.

This would bring the rents down to upper public housing income levels.

Families still with insufficient incomes could receive a rent supplement or rent certificate to be furnished by the local welfare agency through public assistance funds which it already disburses for shelter and other necessities for needy families.

PRICED FROM $19,950 to $23,950, these homes provide a grant deed and full home-ownership tax advantages. No isolated, far-away community, the homes are expertly designed amidst the splendor of a county club setting.

Rossmoor Townhouses may be reached via the Long Beach Freeway and the Harbor Freeway to the San Diego Freeway, South to Los Alamitos Blvd. North Exit, then left 5 blocks on Los Alamitos Blvd. to Rossmoor Shopping Center.

From Long Beach, go East on Seventh St. to Los Alamitos Blvd. North Exit, then left 5 blocks on Los Alamitos Blvd. to the shopping center.

North American Exec to Address Systems Chapter

Edwin B. Gangel, executive assistant in the Office of the Assistant to the President, North American Aviation, will address the Long Beach Chapter of Systems and Procedures on "Detachment" at the Hawaiian Restaurant at 7 p.m., Wednesday.

Gangel's talk will present how one should "detach" himself from the problem at hand, in order to better view it and submit an objective answer not mixed with personal emotions.

This talk should prove interesting to all people making decisions whether in a small business or the largest corporation, a chapter spokesman said.

Gangel has been employed by NAA for the past 25 years, except for a two year period in which he operated his own business. He was a member of a NAA team which opened the Kansas Division during World War II and the Columbus Division during the Korean Conflict.

Reservations for the dinner meeting may be made by contacting A. C. Wright, Long Beach Oil Development Co.

Avoid pouring grease down the kitchen sink drain. It collects in the trap and eventually causes stoppages.

Housing Bill Flaws Seen

Long Beach area real estate boards, and others in the state, have received communications from officers of the National Association of Real Estate Boards pointing out the multi-million dollar administration housing bill now before Congress could affect profoundly not only the real estate market for the next few years but also the future pattern of home ownership.

Information sent out indicated that the administration's proposal is a plan to supplement the rent in excess of 20% of income for selected middle-income families.

"IT IS DISTRESSING to learn that the federal government proposes to dole out funds to anyone in the middle class, the vast bulk of whom are adequately housed, but it is even more disturbing to contemplate where this 'foot-in-the-door' plan will lead," a spokesman said.

Foothill Village Townhouses Offer Ideal Living in Luxury

Warm weather this past week served to enhance Foothill Village Townhouses in the eyes of prospective home buyers, according to H. R. Brookman one of the developers.

Brookman said it was a sign of things to come. Homebuyers can now appreciate the comfort resulting from an insulated and an integrated, ducted, air-conditioned house. Economic factors should also be considered. He pointed out that Rockwool full thick batt insulation in all perimeter walls and four inches rock-wool insulation blown in on ceilings results in considerable savings through the cold months and increased comfort throughout the summer months.

Pop Drummer Sets the Audience on Fire

DUDLEY, England (AP)—An 18-year-old pop drummer tried out a fire-eating trick at the finale of a show—and set the audience alight.

Barry Smith had practiced for months with gasoline to perfect his flame-spurting stunt. On stage, however, he tripped on a microphone cable and sent flames shooting into the audience.

Barry himself was afire and a boy and a girl in the front row were burned. Women screamed and fainted. Members of Barry's group beat out the flames. The three injured persons were treated at a hospital.

Now, says Barry, "we must think up something safer—like sword swallowing."

U.S. Steel Expands Oil Facilities Here

Start of construction of a new oilfield service store here is announced by Donald S. Grubbs, manager-western area, Oilwell Division of U. S. Steel. Scheduled for use by early summer, the new supply store and warehouse is being built in the Signal Hill area at 3187 Cherry Ave.

Carl Brooks, Long Beach, is general contractor for erection of the steel-framed building, Grubbs said. Warehouse, sales and service facilities will be included in the structure.

The new Oilwell unit is designed to offer full-line service to oil and gas field customers, Grubbs said, pointing out that this expansion "represents another example of U. S. Steel's continuing interest in the fast-growing Southern California market."

"MORE MODERN facilities will permit us to better serve stepped-up oil industry activities and off-shore drilling program in the Wilmington-Long Beach harbor areas which call for drilling some 1,000 wells by 1968," Grubbs said.

"With this new service center plus existing units at Huntington Beach, Ventura, and a warehouse at Vernon, we can offer complete sales and engineering staff services to what soon will be one of the largest oil producing areas in the world."

Oilwell has had a store in Long Beach for a number of years but service has been limited to small production equipment and a shop for reworking sub-surface pumps, according to Grubbs.

A DIVISION OF U. S. Steel,

Oilwell, with headquarters in Dallas, markets tubular products, Oilwell drilling equipment, production and pipeline equipment as well as complete lines of valves, fittings and miscellaneous supplies.

Innovations recently announced by Oilwell include new heavy duty drilling equipment featuring the industry's first slush pump designed to operate at 1,700 h.p. and a new line of injection equipment to steam and water flood wells for secondary recovery of crude oil.

New Oil Fault Is Producing

Discovery of a new oil-bearing East-West fault block in the Prado Dam area by Jade Oil & Gas Co. was announced by Johnny Mitchell, President of the Los Angeles-based exploration and development firm, which holds a lease on a 995 acre parcel at the fault location.

Completion of a new well, Langstaff-Willis No. 1, at a depth of 4541 feet resulted in an initial production of 28 degree gravity oil at a rate of 120 barrels per day, and which has now settled down to a sustained rate of 60 bpd, Mitchell stated. Prospects for seven additional locations at this comparatively shallow depth are excellent, he said.

The new Prado Dam fault block discovery is located in the southwest corner of San Bernardino County.

Pan Am Dividend

Directors of Pan American World Airways, Inc., recently declared a dividend of 15 cents per share payable May 14, to stockholders of record at the close of business on April 23. This is the 82nd dividend paid by Pan Am.

Bosses Cautioned About Compulsive Gamblers

The employee who is busy writing notes all morning and constantly on the telephone in the afternoon may not be as diligent as he looks. He actually may be comparing the odds on his favorite racehorse and phoning his bookie, warns the Bureau of Business Practice, leading publisher for office workers and management.

A recent study in BBP's "Office Supervisor's Bulletin" reveals that America's six million compulsive gamblers present a greater problem to business than top management might think.

THE BULLETIN points out that the consequences of obsessive gambling range all the way from low job performances to theft and embezzlement. The employee who is caught up in the thrill or the worry of gambling finds it difficult to concentrate on his work. Management should be particularly concerned with compulsive gambling because it is a major cause of embezzlement.

Because gambling is contagious, the Bulletin indicates that there is a definite threat to company morale.

MANY social gamblers can become compulsives due to the influence of a chronic gambler who works in the same department.

The Bulletin stresses that employees must be discouraged from adding fuel to the fire by loaning the gambler money.

The compulsive gambler suffers from a disease that can never be cured. It can only be arrested and most often this cannot be done without knowledgeable guidance and cooperation from both management and fellow employees.

U.S. Steel Expands Oil Facilities Here

Start of construction of a new oilfield service store here is announced by Donald S. Grubbs, manager-western area, Oilwell Division of U. S. Steel. Scheduled for use by early summer, the new supply store and warehouse is being built in the Signal Hill area at 3187 Cherry Ave.

Carl Brooks, Long Beach, is general contractor for erection of the steel-framed building, Grubbs said. Warehouse, sales and service facilities will be included in the structure.

The new Oilwell unit is designed to offer full-line service to oil and gas field customers, Grubbs said, pointing out that this expansion "represents another example of U. S. Steel's continuing interest in the fast-growing Southern California market."

"MORE MODERN facilities will permit us to better serve stepped-up oil industry activities and off-shore drilling program in the Wilmington-Long Beach harbor areas which call for drilling some 1,000 wells by 1968," Grubbs said.

"With this new service center plus existing units at Huntington Beach, Ventura, and a warehouse at Vernon, we can offer complete sales and engineering staff services to what soon will be one of the largest oil producing areas in the world."

Oilwell has had a store in Long Beach for a number of years but service has been limited to small production equipment and a shop for reworking sub-surface pumps, according to Grubbs.

New Oil Fault Is Producing

Discovery of a new oil-bearing East-West fault block in the Prado Dam area by Jade Oil & Gas Co. was announced by Johnny Mitchell, President of the Los Angeles-based exploration and development firm, which holds a lease on a 995 acre parcel at the fault location.

Completion of a new well, Langstaff-Willis No. 1, at a depth of 4541 feet resulted in an initial production of 28 degree gravity oil at a rate of 120 barrels per day, and which has now settled down to a sustained rate of 60 bpd, Mitchell stated. Prospects for seven additional locations at this comparatively shallow depth are excellent, he said.

The new Prado Dam fault block discovery is located in the southwest corner of San Bernardino County.

Bosses Cautioned About Compulsive Gamblers

The employee who is busy writing notes all morning and constantly on the telephone in the afternoon may not be as diligent as he looks. He actually may be comparing the odds on his favorite racehorse and phoning his bookie, warns the Bureau of Business Practice, leading publisher for office workers and management.

A recent study in BBP's "Office Supervisor's Bulletin" reveals that America's six million compulsive gamblers present a greater problem to business than top management might think.

THE BULLETIN points out that the consequences of obsessive gambling range all the way from low job performances to theft and embezzlement. The employee who is caught up in the thrill or the worry of gambling finds it difficult to concentrate on his work.

Management should be particularly concerned with compulsive gambling because it is a major cause of embezzlement.

Because gambling is contagious, the Bulletin indicates that there is a definite threat to company morale.

MANY social gamblers can become compulsives due to the influence of a chronic gambler who works in the same department.

The Bulletin stresses that employees must be discouraged from adding fuel to the fire by loaning the gambler money.

The compulsive gambler suffers from a disease that can never be cured. It can only be arrested and most often this cannot be done without knowledgeable guidance and cooperation from both management and fellow employees.

BUSINESS AND ECONOMY NOTES

Coal-Generated Electricity Seen for Southland in Future

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

Coal is coming to California in a big but invisible way!

To meet the state's growing demand for electric power, the National Coal Association announced that coal-generated electricity soon will be provided California in major proportions.

In fact, the association says, some coal-generated electricity already is being used in California by the Imperial Irrigation District which purchases power from the Arizona Public Service Co.

Southern California Edison Co., which now uses no coal on its systems, has invited bids on construction of a 1.5 million kilowatt coal-fired generating system to be installed near Farmington, N.M., atop coal fields in the area.

Stephen F. Dunn, president of the coal association, says some 255 billion tons of bituminous coal deposits are located in five Western states, sufficient, he contends, to serve the entire needs of the United States for about 300 years.

"STUDIES HAVE SHOWN that electric power can be brought from mine-mouth plants in Arizona, New Mexico or Utah to the greater Los Angeles area for as low as 5.08 mills per kilowatt hour," he said. "Power generated in the Los Angeles area using natural gas delivered by pipeline from Texas would cost 5.70 mills."

There is no plan for burning the coal in the immediate smog-problem area. One suggestion has been to haul coal in high-speed unit trains at a low cost to a generating station near Victorville and the power generated there transmitted to Southern California.

CONTROL TECHNOLOGY INC., headquartered in Long Beach, has been acquired by Milgo Electronic Corp., Miami, it was announced. CTI, headed by Dr. Albert Jackson, is known for development of computer programs and techniques in combining analog and digital systems for hybrid operation. It will be operated as a wholly owned subsidiary of Milgo.

CITY PRODUCTS CORP., which owns varied chains of stores, has purchased American Furniture Co., El Paso, and its affiliated companies. The transaction is expected to add $8 million annual volume to City Products sales.

WHEELBARROWS have been used by man since discovery of the use of the wheel. Yet no one ever took a U. S. patent on one. This was learned when a Virginia inventor recently became the first and only holder of a patent on the device. De Graff Du Pay of Roanoke devised a new grip on a wheelbarrow and in seeking a patent on the grip, learned that no one had ever taken a patent on the wheelbarrow itself.

Now the inventor and his lawyers are seeking royalties from 43 American companies who manufacture them.

ROYAL INDUSTRIES, INC., Pasadena, has been granted a patent on a basic pump designed to pump moist materials such as plaster, concrete, mortar and similar materials and to provide an even flow of spray of these materials. The "Tommy Gun" pump has provided uniform spray rates in pumping plaster from the ground level straight up 32 floors.

HANGING a picture on a steel wall is now possible without making a hole in the wall. Magnet Sales Co., Los Angeles, is producing a "magnetic sky hook" to suspend objects on steel awils.

The new hanger uses Koroseal flexible magnetic strip, a thermo plastic material manufactured by B. F. Goodrich Co. The 1/16th inch thick magnet covers the back of a metal plate that has a hook on the front surface. The device has permanent magnetic properties.

U. S. OIL and gas well completions were up in several states last week, including Texas, Kansas and Illinois.

The survey shows total well completions at 769, up 116 from the week before.

Texas completions total was at 257, up 52 from the previous week. Kansas had 73, up 19; Illinois 49, up 35, and for Ohio 44, up 28 from the week before.

Included in the 769 new completions were 253 crude producers, 94 gas wells, 22 service wells and 300 dry holes. The week's 152 wildcat wells resulted in 25 producers and 127 dry holes.

W-Bar-B Ranch Is Appealing

Early pioneers loved the W-Bar-B Ranch land in Walker Basin, Kern County even as the present buyers do, says Don Smith, sales agent.

History shows that the early pioneers, among them legendary scout Joe Walker who gave his name to Walker Pass and Walker Basin, fell in love with the beauty of the land, too. Walker first discovered the passway in the Sierra Nevada Mountains through which he led General Fremont's troops out of the desert in 1833.

Today businessmen are seeking rest, peace and quiet from the pressures of commerce and industry, in the stillness of the Basin where quiet is predominant, broken only by the call of birds... or more rarely very occasional aircraft.

LOCATED 3500 feet up, at the base of the Piute Mountains, and a short way from the towering Sierra Nevada, W-Bar-B offers all the excitement of outdoor pleasures for the man who wants a weekend or summer cabin, 2½ hours from Los Angeles.

Keeping of horses is permitted, and the preservation of this historical land as a recreation locale is protected by reasonable building restrictions. Further information on the 2½-acre sites may be obtained from Don Smith at W-Bar-B Ranch Sales office, 6314 Woodman, Van Nuys, Calif., phone HA 9-1354 or ST 2-7365.

There are townhouses—and townhouses... So look around. We invite you to compare Foothill Village Townhouses with any other townhouses. We invite you to compare our automatic refrigerated air conditioning—a ducted system which is an integral part of the home—cooling to your comfort as much as 1776 square feet of living space. Compare this with a unit stuck in the window. One is superior quality, the other is not. We invite you to examine the exteriors of slumpstone, used brick and durable cedar; then compare this with stucco and other materials frequently found elsewhere. One is superior quality, the other is not. We invite you to investigate such features as Rockwool full thick batt insulation in all perimeter walls and four inches rockwool insulation blown in on the ceilings. Foothill Village Townhouses has them, most others do not. One is quality, the other is not. Our concept is quality. We welcome comparison. We challenge competition. Why don't you come in today and let us show you around? We'd be proud to.

Big Water Conversion Plant Eyed

Westinghouse Electric Corp. is prepared now to build and guarantee a water conversion plant that would produce 50 million gallons of fresh water daily, stockholders were told last week.

President D. C. Burnham told stockholders at their annual meeting in Chicago: "We believe there is tremendous potential in this field, and we have the resources to do the job that needs to be done, from the standpoint of both technology and economics."

"WE HAVE the know-how to power a 50-million-gallon water conversion plant with either nuclear or conventional fuels to achieve the most economical operating rate," Westinghouse is building a combination plant in the Virgin Islands which will generate 7,500 kilowatts of electricity and purify one million gallons of seawater a day. The cost per thousand gallons will be 90 cents or less, Burnham said, compared with a cost of $1.45 a thousand gallons for water shipped by barge from Puerto Rico.

BURNHAM, who noted that the company has built or has on order a total of 30 seawater conversion plants throughout the world, said that world attention was focused on seawater conversion last year when Cuba cut off the water to the U.S. Navy's Guantanamo Naval Base. Westinghouse engineers dismantled a fresh water plant they had built for the Interior Department earlier near San Diego and reassembled it at Guantanamo.

Simultaneously, the company built two additional water conversion units for Guantanamo, giving the U.S. base a completely independent water supply of 2,250,000 gallons of fresh water a day. In addition, the company constructed a 15,000-kilowatt electric generating station that provides the base with all of its electric power needs.

New Fast Check on Credit Card

NEW YORK (UPI) — The shopper using a stolen credit card, or whose account is overdue, can be quickly identified through a new "electronic detective" developed for sales clerks' use. When the clerk punches the purchaser's account number on the telephone-size device, an electronic memory drum back in the credit office checks the number and can activate a danger light to warn the clerk before the culprit's suspicions are aroused. If the account is not questionable, the Ultronic Systems unit quickly prints a validating stamp on the sales slip, and the shopper is on her merry way.

Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach offer a wide variety of one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom, two and three-bath homes priced from $24,500. The development has 800 homes.

The location of a home development is extremely important to the success of the project, relates Dan Mytinger, marketing director for the 800-home Prestige Homes community in Huntington Beach, built by the Doyle & Shields Development Co., Inc. Prestige Homes ideal location has, according to Mytinger, been one of the principal reasons why over 180 homes have been purchased since the first of the year. A new grade school is situated within the community; a high school is within walking distance, as are two shopping areas; a public golf course is a five-minute drive; beaches are 10 minutes distant; the new Douglas Space Center in

OFFERED IN COSTA MESA

Here is one of the models of the large Northgate Homes offered by builder Charles W. Hester in Costa Mesa.

The unique pleasures of living in one of Southern California's most favored coastal locations is being offered home seekers by Charles W. Hester, developer of luxurious Northgate Homes in Costa Mesa.

The excellent area, with schools for all ages, including elementary through college, takes full advantage of the famous beach location. Newport Harbor is nearby, with its many facilities for enjoying water sports, and many of the Southland's best swimming and recreational beaches are within minutes of the homes. Within walking distance of the one- and two-story dwellings is a major shopping center and other established shopping areas are just minutes away.

The spacious three- and four- and five-bedroom homes with family rooms are built on oversize lots. Wall-to-wall carpeting, built-in Westinghouse appliances, including range and oven, dishwasher and disposer, complete block wall fencing, sprinkler systems and landscaping are some of the features of Northgate Homes.

Distinctive exteriors have brick or stone masonry, planters, siding and decorative trim. Interior plans are equally functional, with the two-story homes offering an extra 500 or 600 square feet of room on the second level to be adapted to the needs of the family. This room is equipped with a bath plumbed for future use and can be a studio, guest apartment, two bedrooms, playroom or whatever the family wishes.

Even Closing Costs Included in $995 Down Payment on Home

A new sales policy has been introduced for the Valentine Series Homes in Sherwood Estates, according to George D. Buccola, president of the developing organization bearing his name.

Effective this week, said Buccola, the total down payment required is only $995. The normal closing costs are included in the down payment.

Public reaction to the "Move in for $995" policy thus far has been enthusiastic according to Tommy Crosson of Crosson & Dewey, Inc., sales agents for the multi-million-dollar Sherwood Estates development at Slater & Newland in Orange County. "Families ready to buy a home don't appreciate surprises," said Crosson. "They resent having the fact of closing costs brought up at the last moment, usually after they've budgeted every penny for something else."

CROSSON indicated, in view of the public's acceptance of the new, everything-covered-in-the-down-payment policy, additional sources of financing have been arranged to increase the scope of the selling operation for Sherwood Estates Valentine Series, and render faster, more efficient service for the increased numbers of prospective home-buyers attracted by the new offer.

BERKELEY (UPI) — The University of California recommends an area at least two feet square be kept clear around the trunks of trees planted in a lawn. Studies indicate a cleared area aids growth and reduces crown rot, which is caused by overwatering.

Located within a five-minute drive of the ocean, Sherwood Estates residents enjoy all the recreation which abounds in the Huntington Beach-to-Newport area. The Sherwood Estates development is easily reached via Santa Ana Freeway to Beach Boulevard; south to Slater, then left on Slater to Newland Avenue.

Where's Charley?

CAPRICIOUS CAPERS of Charley involve his friends in improbable situations, complicate his own life incredibly and convulse audiences with laughter as they watch "Where's Charley?" This durable Frank Loesser musical, which opened on Broadway in 1948 to chalk up 792 performances, is based on the farce, "Charley's Aunt," written by Brandon Thomas in 1892. That play ran for 1,466 performances in London and its broad comedy is based on timeless humor. Long Beach Civic Light Opera will produce the musical for the first time in this area April 29 and May 1, 2, 6, 7, 8 and 9. ## ON SALE: Treasures, trifles Dames Club's annual Treasure and Trifles Fair is no trifling matter. Sales at the imaginative bazaar (Thursday, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., Veteran's Park Clubhouse, 101 E. 28th St.) add up to burgeoning budgets for charity.

Want a handsome necklace? Have an eye out for a spring bag? Hankering for something different in home accessories, some new reading material, or just something good to eat? Head to the fair.

The Dames (idea gals behind the event) and 17 other local civic groups (900 members in all) have worked like demons baking, sewing, combing cupboards. Result: they've come up with bargains to please the most persnickiness of shoppers.

The fair, now in its third year, will be bigger than ever before. And as the Dames pay the major share of expenses (such as rental of the hall), the rest of the clubs are free to donate nearly all their proceeds to pet charities.

Which all goes to prove there is, after all, nothing like a Dame.

You'll be on the right track if you go to the race track May 5. That date, fast-paced as the swiftest ponies, will mark St. Mary's Hospital Guild's 11th Annual Day at the Races at nearby Los Alamitos Track.

This traditional charitable event will be carried out in a brilliant "Cinco de Mayo" theme. In addition to watching a full slate of quarter horse races (fastest horses in the world), those who attend with tickets purchased from St. Mary's Guild members will enjoy after-race socializing in the spacious track clubhouse.

Featured will be an hors d'oeuvres buffet, musical entertainment and dancing. It has been said of this event, "it is the one day and place where you see everyone you know."

Far beyond the pleasure of the races (and the anticipation of a streak of luck at pari-mutuel windows) is the personal reward supporters realize. Proceeds will begin paying off guild's second $100,000 pledge to the hospital.

Objective of this pledge: to furnish a new X-ray machine, electronically amplified with television and motion picture devices, as well as an electronic monitoring system for continuous evaluation of patients in the hospital's new intensive care unit.

WILD WAVES SAY

Charley, horses, old frat brothers

By Lola Masterson
I, P-T Women's Editor

WHETHER IN Long Beach, New York or London Town, first night performances of a new show have a special kind of bubbly exhilaration about them. Now, to give opening shows of Civic Light Opera even more zing, Women's Guild members have come up with a great idea for first-nighters.

No host cocktail party will be from 6 to 7 p.m. Dinner will be served promptly at 7—then on in splendid fettle to the concert hall of the auditorium for a night filled with more laughs than the fun house. Those who decide to attend will be officially known as Opening Nighters and it will become standard procedure for show-goers to attend such parties prior to future productions. For reservations contact Mrs. Donald (Virginia) Gore, 20—7th Place, or Mrs. Raymond (Madeleine) Boley, 2843 Broadway.

NOT THAT I'm trying to draw any pictorial conclusions in this space today between beauty and the—well, guess I won't go THAT far, but anyway, in photo below, from left, Harold Reusch and "Widgie" Griffiths are caught in a sentimental "remember when" mood.

At moment camera clicked they were looking over a bulletin board with prized collection of old pictures, programs, etc., from the golden days of Alpha Sigma Lambda, during reunion of the Poly and Wilson High gang of that fraternity's brotherhood of the 1920 to early '30's era.

At least Harold, "Widgie" still can claim noggin's of hair as verdant as any freshmen. Four charter members of good, old Alpha Sig were there—Willis Cutting, Harold Hedrick, Reusch and Morley Bates.

Reunion was inspiration of Keith Drew, Bob Wilson, and Griffiths, who spent weeks wiring, writing and otherwise tracking down "lost" buddies. The result was gathering of 31 at Long Beach Yacht Club. Name tags, men admitted, helped identify the bald, the grey and others to each other.

A few of those present—Vern Schacht from Palm Springs; Lyle Gregory of La Jolla; Jack McMullen of Northridge; Berny Stine, Vista; Bill Edmundson, Playa del Rey; Bill Tucker, Oceanside; Russ Soule, Woodland Hills.

Forid memories — Easter Weeks spent at Mt. Baldy—and weekends at Catalina (popular then as now)—the good old Rendezvous Ballroom in Balboa and formal dances at Pacific Coast Club and (best of all, no doubt) the open houses with SFO, GG's, Chi Sigs, Phi Gams, Thetas. If those sorority names from old high school days ring no bells, you're post-war new here.

Those present who have remained true blue natives included, Bud Dietz, Ole Johnson, George Potter, Al Shell, Chuck Ryan, George Thorndyke and Roy Willis.

NEXT Saturday, Rancho Visitadores take off again for their famous, annual horseback tour deluxe through the hills and valleys of the live oak studded back country up north. Riders (550 strong this year, with representatives from 42 states and several countries) will leave from old Las Tajiguas Ranch, 25 miles north of Santa Barbara. Aiming their steeds toward Buellton, they'll ride for seven days, breaking camp, back where they started from, on May 8.

Long Beach Visitadores, who wouldn't miss this internationally famous horseman's classic for the world, are Bob McNulty, Fred Dean, Ben Knight, Hal Haney, Marvin Haney, Jim Bragg and Doug Graham.

YOU CAN take the boy or the girl out of The Farm—but you can't take love for The Farm out of the boy or the girl. Stanford University "The Farm" alumni, I mean. Stanfordites, guided by Bill Burke and Ray Lake, have formed a Stanford Club of Long Beach. Its first function, a cocktail party at Lakewood Country Club, was enthusiastically received.

Now the club plans to have a Stanford Forum at Virginia Country Club May 4. It will be a cocktail (at 6 p.m.) and dinner (at 7) plus think night as Claude A. Buss, professor of history at The Farm, appears as guest speaker to discuss the topic, "U. S. and Southwest Asia." Stanfordians wishing to join in forum should contact William B. Burke, 5312 Berkeley Ave., Westminster.

A few men and their wives of the charter membership are Dr. Selden and Sheri Beebe, Steven and Fran Conley, Liz and John Hancock, Jody and Ray Lake Jr., Janet and Don Proudfoot, the Bob Savages, Nancy and Jerry D. Thompson, Sandra and Harry Von Lienke. A good group? A VERY good group!

WILD WAVES SAY

Charley, horses, old frat brothers

By Iola Masterson
I, P-T Women's Editor

WHETHER IN Long Beach, New York or London Town, first night performances of a new show have a special kind of bubbly exhilaration about them. Now, to give opening shows of Civic Light Opera even more zing, Women's Guild members have come up with a great idea for first-nighters.

No host cocktail party will be from 6 to 7 p.m. Dinner will be served promptly at 7—then on in splendid fettle to the concert hall of the auditorium for a night filled with more laughs than the fun house. Those who decide to attend will be officially known as Opening Nighters and it will become standard procedure for show-goers to attend such parties prior to future productions. For reservations contact Mrs. Donald (Virginia) Gore, 20—7th Place, or Mrs. Raymond (Madeleine) Boley, 2843 Broadway.

NOT THAT I'm trying to draw any pictorial conclusions in this space today between beauty and the—well, guess I won't go THAT far, but anyway, in photo below, from left, Harold Reusch and "Widgie" Griffiths are caught in a sentimental "remember when" mood.

At moment camera clicked they were looking over a bulletin board with prized collection of old pictures, programs, etc., from the golden days of Alpha Sigma Lambda, during reunion of the Poly and Wilson Highs gang of that fraternity's brotherhood of the 1920 to early '30's era.

At least Harold, "Widgie" still can claim noggin's of hair as verdant as any freshmen. Four charter members of good, old Alpha Sig were there—Willis Cutting, Harold Hedrick, Reusch and Morley Bates.

Reunion was inspiration of Keith Drew, Bob Wilson, and Griffiths, who spent weeks wiring, writing and otherwise tracking down "lost" buddies. The result was gathering of 31 at Long Beach Yacht Club. Name tags, men admitted, helped identify the bald, the grey and others to each other.

DURING JACL CONVENTION

Something new under rising sun

...a fashion show where East meets West

A 'hop' and a hula . . .

To visit Hawaii and Japan, you don't need to fly or go by ship, all you need is a "Passport to Fashion." Judy Narita (above) earns hers by learning hula from Miss Trudy. Jan Rinella, fashion commentator, gains hers by plucking Koto under watchful eye of Hanaka Manaka. You can win your "passport" by attending JCL's style show—the show where East and West merge to tune of chic models, sassy hulas and soft Koto melodies.

East meets West and, together, all will take an imaginary—and stylish—tour of the East when Long Beach chapter of the Japanese-American Citizens League presents its "Passport to Fashions" luncheon and fashion show next Sunday.

The place: Edgewater Marina Hotel. The occasion: it's the piece de resistance for ladies during JACL's two-day (Saturday and Sunday) ninth biennial district convention.

Jan Rinella, well-known Southern California fashion commentator and coordinator, will show guests what-to-wear-where during a fantasy hop from here to Hawaii to Japan.

Judy Narita will introduce the stopover in Hawaii with native dances . . . and Darlene Hiroto will greet guests on their "arrival" in Japan.

AS AN ETNA side trip, Rickshaw of Hollywood will present 15 models during the second half of the program. Exhibiting elegant hand-fashioned wigs and wiglets under the supervision of Miss Alice, stylists will be Janet Morishita and Clara Sumida; coordinator will be Etsuko Ando.

Sue Joe, remembered locally for her performance as Linda Low in Civic Light Opera's "Flower Drum Song," will present a program of songs. She has performed in Chicago and Los Angeles and currently is appearing at Kyoto Restaurant, Gardena.

The exotic fashion tour is open to the public, says Barbara Miura, chairman. Reservations (the deadline is Wednesday) may be made with Fran Kobata, 2790 Daisy Ave., or Alice Fujikawa, 505 Flint Ave.

HOW TO GET MARRIED

Bridal fashions speak for themselves--and you, too!

By JUDY HAZLETT
L. P-T Staff Writer
Fourth in a Series

In the heart of every bride is the desire to look her loveliest on her wedding day. What you wear will be of great importance as you walk down the aisle to join your husband-to-be. This will be the first time he has seen you in your bridal ensemble and you want him to feel a surge of pride as the eyes of the guests all turn to focus on you--the bride.

Choose a gown because it compliments both you and the ceremony. The veil and flowers will complement the gown.

There is a large variation of fabrics from which to choose, depending on the season of your marriage. In the spring, fabrics range from satin to taffeta and, as the season advances, chiffon, organza and dotted swiss combined with marisettes and nets take the spotlight.

The lighter materials will carry through July but they reach their deadline by the middle of August. Taffeta will then become popular and, of course, satin can be worn anytime.

THE STYLE of your gown depends on the ceremony you have chosen and, of course, what is most becoming to you. White is the usual bridal color (denoting virginity) with varying shades of cream and ivory also acceptable. Pastels are used generally for brides to whom white is not becoming. (There is a superstition that yellow denotes jealousy, green brings bad luck.)

When considering your dress style, remember the back is most important. In the front, you have your own pretty face and a bouquet of lovely flowers. But guests look at the back of your gown at least 20 minutes during the ceremony.

The shorter train is more appropriate for garden or home weddings for obvious reasons. If you choose the longer one, however, don't forget canvas for the bride to walk on... particularly for the garden ceremony.

With a long cathedral train, space is one of the drawbacks. Check the area in front of the altar at your church or synagogue to see if you can stand through the ceremony without wrinkling your train.

THE VEIL is an important part of your bridal ensemble, but should never be worn by a divorcee or widow.

It may be short (a must for the short gown), fingertip length, three-quarter length (falling into the folds of the train) or full-length (one yard longer than the train of the gown). If the veil is of tulle, the fabric always should be cut, not rolled. Fingertip length became popular during World War I and World War II when fabrics were in short supply. Now they have been adapted as a trend.

For an elaborate formal wedding gown there is really no veil as correct as a full-length one.

The headdress is most successfully worn with a small comb sewed underneath at the front with a narrow elastic in the back. There is considerable tug on the veil, so be sure to use more pins than you feel necessary to insure its security.

When you plan your wedding slippers, be sure to buy a pair that is comfortable. You will be doing a lot of standing, both before and after the ceremony, so don't ruin the occasion with that miserable feeling of aching feet.

GLOVES ARE optional. If you decide to wear them, remember to make a provision for placement of the wedding ring on your left hand.

Now that your ensemble has been purchased and alterations are underway (if any are needed), keep one thing in mind

If you have any questions concerning wedding etiquette for bride, parent or guest, write to "How to Get Married," Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach. All questions will be answered by mail or in this column.

... don't ever sit on your bridal gown or veil. What could look worse than the back of your beautiful ensemble embedded with deep wrinkles? When you get into the car, lift your skirt and sit on the petticoat or slip; see that your veil is not placed under you.

For luck and happiness, tradition and custom says each bride should wear:

"Something old and something new,
Something borrowed and something blue,
With a four-leaf clover in your shoe."
(Next: Attire for the groom and attendants.)

Diller of a show next at Melodyland

Jimmy Durante closes today at Melodyland, Anaheim, and will be followed Tuesday by Phyllis Diller, aided by vocalist Glen Yarbrough, late of the Limelights. Their act will play through next Sunday.

The zany Miss Diller promises that she'll have a suitcase full of new material plus a brand new hairdo and new wardrobe. The new coiffure, she says, will be even wilder than before. Her hair-stylist will bring down a wind machine used in making movies and, turning it on full blast, will aim it at her head for a full hour.

Yarbrough, who became a single a year ago after four years of being a Limeliter, will perform his special brand of pops and folk tune singing.

PEGGY LEE and Benny Goodman, in a happy reunion of two great stars of the music world will headline a swinging jazz show for a week's engagement beginning May 3.

Miss Lee will be joined by Goodman for their first appearance in concert since the singing star started her rise to fame as a vocalist with Goodman's orchestra.

Poly band, orchestra stars in musical show

The Poly High School orchestra and dance band will feature a program Monday, 8 p.m., in the Exhibit Hall of Long Beach Auditorium.

HOW TO GET MARRIED

Bridal fashions speak for themselves--and you, too!

By JUDY HAZLETT
I, P.T. Staff Writer
Fourth in a Series

In the heart of every bride is the desire to look her loveliest on her wedding day. What you wear will be of great importance as you walk down the aisle to join your husband-to-be. This will be the first time he has seen you in your bridal ensemble and you want him to feel a surge of pride as the eyes of the guests all turn to focus on you—the bride.

Choose a gown because it compliments both you and the ceremony. The veil and flowers will complement the gown.

There is a large variation of fabrics from which to choose, depending on the season of your marriage. In the spring, fabrics range from satin to taffeta and, as the season advances, chiffon, organza and dotted swiss combined with marisettes and nets take the spotlight.

The lighter materials will carry through July but they reach their deadline by the middle of August. Taffeta will then become popular and, of course, satin can be worn anytime.

THE STYLE of your gown depends on the ceremony you have chosen and, of course, what is most becoming to you. White is the usual bridal color (denoting virginity) with varying shades of cream and ivory also acceptable. Pastels are used generally for brides to whom white is not becoming. (There is a superstition that yellow denotes jealousy, green brings bad luck.)

When considering your dress style, remember the back is most important. In the front, you have your own pretty face and a bouquet of lovely flowers. But guests look at the back of your gown at least 20 minutes during the ceremony.

The shorter train is more appropriate for garden or home weddings for obvious reasons. If you choose the longer one, however, don't forget canvas for the bride to walk on... particularly for the garden ceremony.

With a long cathedral train, space is one of the drawbacks. Check the area in front of the altar at your church or synagogue to see if you can stand through the ceremony without wrinkling your train.

THE VEIL is an important part of your bridal ensemble, but should never be worn by a divorcee or widow.

It may be short (a must for the short gown), fingertip length, three-quarter length (falling into the folds of the train) or full-length (one yard longer than the train of the gown). If the veil is of tulle, the fabric always should be cut, not rolled. Fingertip length became popular during World War I and World War II when fabrics were in short supply. Now they have been adapted as a trend.

For an elaborate formal wedding gown there is really no veil as correct as a full-length one.

The headress is most successfully worn with a small comb sewed underneath at the front with a narrow elastic in the back. There is considerable tug on the veil, so be sure to use more pins than you feel necessary to insure its security.

When you plan your wedding slippers, be sure to buy a pair that is comfortable. You will be doing a lot of standing, both before and after the ceremony, so don't ruin the occasion with that miserable feeling of aching feet.

GLOVES ARE optional. If you decide to wear them, remember to make a provision for placement of the wedding ring on your left hand.

Now that your ensemble has been purchased and alterations are underway (if any are needed), keep one thing in mind

If you have any questions concerning wedding etiquette for bride, parent or guest, write to "How to Get Married," Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach. All questions will be answered by mail or in this column.

... don't ever sit on your bridal gown or veil. What could look worse than the back of your beautiful ensemble embedded with deep wrinkles? When you get into the car, lift your skirt and sit on the petticoat or slip; see that your veil is not placed under you.

For luck and happiness, tradition and custom says each bride should wear: "Something old and something new, Something borrowed and something blue,

With a four-leaf clover in your shoe." (Next: Attire for the groom and attendants.)

Spring blossoms for ball

Discussing plans and decor for St. Cyprian's Parish Council springtime ball are Mrs. Bernard Foley, president, and Mrs. William Gensemer, dance chairman. Event is planned for Friday, 9 p. m. to 1 a. m., in Elks Club ballroom. Assisting with plans are Mmes. Joe Ardizzone, Jim Orr, Bernard Cain, Edmund Coyne, Gene Vawter and John Arthur. The public is invited.

Bright Heaters

Gas room heaters do more than warm those hard-to-heat areas of the house, such as the recreation room or basement. The Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association points out that add-on heaters now are beautifully-styled and come in a wide variety of colors. They're a welcome addition to any room decor.

Diller of a show next at Melodyland

Jimmy Durante closes today at Melodyland, Anaheim, and will be followed Tuesday by Phyllis Diller, aided by vocalist Glen Yarbrough, late of the Limelights. Their act will play through next Sunday.

The zany Miss Diller promises that she'll have a suitcase full of new material plus a brand new hairdo and new wardrobe. The new coiffure, she says, will be even wilder than before. Her hair-stylist will bring down a wind machine used in making movies and, turning it on full blast, will aim it at her head for a full hour. Yarbrough, who became a single a year ago after four years of being a Limeliter, will perform his special brand of pops and folk tune singing.

PEGGY LEE and Benny Goodman, in a happy reunion of two great stars of the music world will headline a swinging jazz show for a week's engagement beginning May 3.

Miss Lee will be joined by Goodman for their first appearance in concert since the singing star started her rise to fame as a vocalist with Goodman's orchestra.

Poly band, orchestra stars in musical show

The Poly High School orchestra and dance band will feature a program Monday, 8 p.m., in the Exhibit Hall of Long Beach Auditorium.

The orchestra will play selections by Wagner, Johann Strauss, Offenback and Leroy Anderson. The dance band, featuring Joel Montgomery on trumpet, will

The two orchestras will play for old-time and square dancing following the stage show with Joe Marshall as caller. A community sing will open the program at 7:30 p.m.

Sponsored by the Long Beach Recreation Department, the program is open to the public.

DEAR ABBY

Remember, he went along

DEAR ABBY: My daughter-in-law invited my husband and me to have Easter Sunday dinner at their home. Just as we were getting ready to leave for their house, they presented themselves at our home all dressed up. This is the way she put it: "Your son decided to take ME out for Easter Sunday dinner instead, just the two of us. Wasn't that sweet of him?" And off they went! Since we had planned to have dinner at their home, I had nothing prepared at home, so my husband and I went to a restaurant and ate by ourselves.

A few days later I found out that my son and his wife when to HER parents' home for Easter Sunday dinner. This upset me terribly and has been preying on my mind. What is your opinion of a daughter-in-law like that?—UPSET the full cooperation of your son in order to pull it off, so he is as guilty as she is. Don't let it fester. At the opportune time, tell them both that you are wise, and clear the air.

DEAR UPSET: It was a very shabby trick, but your daughter-in-law had to have

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the letter signed "THREW HIM OUT," from a woman who did just that when she learned that her husband, who had grown cold to her, had girl friends all over town to whom he was undoubtedly warmer: However justified "THREW HIM OUT" was in writing her letter, it is only one specific case, but to read it in your column one could assume that it is more general than specific. For the sake of the many women who have needlessly been made suspicious and unhappy by this inference, you should promptly print what every doctor, lawyer and clergyman knows: that a husband's physical ardor is not a fair measure of his true love and devotion, his health or his fidelity. Sign me... "GIRL FRIENDLESS HUSBAND"

DEAR HUSBAND: While a deficiency of physical ardor is no fair measure of a husband's true love, devotion or fidelity, neither is an abundance of physical ardor proof of it. And that goes double for wives.

Problems? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR ABBY

Remember, he went along

DEAR ABBY: My daughter-in-law invited my husband and me to have Easter Sunday dinner at their home. Just as we were getting ready to leave for their house, they presented themselves at our home all dressed up. This is the way she put it: "Your son decided to take ME out for Easter Sunday dinner instead, just the two of us. Wasn't that sweet of him?" And off they went! Since we had planned to have dinner at their home, I had nothing prepared at home, so my husband and I went to a restaurant and ate by ourselves.

A few days later I found out that my son and his wife when to HER parents' home for Easter Sunday dinner. This upset me terribly and has been preying on my mind. What is your opinion of a daughter-in-law like that?—UPSET the full cooperation of your son in order to pull it off, so he is as guilty as she is. Don't let it fester. At the opportune time, tell them both that you are wise, and clear the air.

DEAR UPSET: It was a very shabby trick, but your daughter-in-law had to have

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the letter signed "THREW HIM OUT," from a woman who did just that when she learned that her husband, who had grown cold to her, had girl friends all over town to whom he was undoubtedly warmer: However justified "THREW HIM OUT" was in writing her letter, it is only one specific case, but to read it in your column one could assume that it is more general than specific. For the sake of the many women who have needlessly been made suspicious and unhappy by this inference, you should promptly print what every doctor, lawyer and clergyman knows: that a husband's physical ardor is not a fair measure of his true love and devotion, his health or his fidelity. Sign me... "GIRL FRIENDLESS HUSBAND"

DEAR HUSBAND: While a deficiency of physical

ardor is no fair measure of a husband's true love, devotion or fidelity, neither is an abundance of physical ardor proof of it. And that goes double for wives.

OUT TO LUNCH-IN APRONS!

Class-y cooking

By MARY NETH
I, P-T Staff Writer

2—Never flustered Karen Williams sizes-up dish with expert home economist's eye.

It was no place for the calorie conscious . . . blenders whirled, pots bubbled, delectable odors wafted from the ovens. The setting: the weekly cooking class at Edison building. There, 20 or so women get together one day a week to prove too many cooks don't spoil the broth, burn the roast or curdle the sauce. With furrowed brows, the ladies peer, poke, chop and beat their way toward their goal: a do-it-yourself gourmet luncheon and a diploma in "care-free living."

3—The ladies line-up with out-stretched plates for handouts of their own cooking.

5—A dash will do it? Housewife-student adjusts seasoning.

6—And, then there were moments when inanimate objects fought back. A lid refuses to fit and a lady grimaces in painstaking concentration.

1—Finally all is simmered and done. Class participant gives forkful of chicken marenango the taste test.

The Entree of the Day CHICKEN MARENGO

- 1 frying chicken (2-3 lbs.) cut up
  - 1 package spaghetti sauce mix
  - 1/2 cup seasoned fine bread crumbs
  - 1/4 cup salad oil
  - 1/2 cup Sauterne wine
  - 3 tomatoes, peeled and quartered
  - 1 cup mushrooms, sliced & drained.
- Sprinkle chicken with seasoned salt. Blend spaghetti mix and crumbs and roll chicken in mixture. Fry in oil in medium hot skillet. Add rest of ingredients. Cover, simmer one hour.

4—Sometimes it took two to marenango—decipher the recipe, that is.

7—But, all in all, it was fun. The women smiled as they worked—well, most of the time, anyway.

Squeeze play good for slam

This hand from England is a real gem. East's double of four clubs was rather questionable and if West had led a club against the spade slam it would have made the play a cinch but West made the brilliant opening lead of his singleton trump.

East took his ace and led a second trump which was won in dummy. At this point if you look at all the cards you may not see how South made the hand but he did and there was no defense to beat him.

The key was in that double of four clubs. Declarer led dummy's king of clubs and East covered. Now declarer ruffed and simply ran off all his trumps.

This brought everyone down to five cards. Dummy held three hearts, a diamond and the jack of clubs. West was down to the queen of clubs and four red cards. He elected to keep three hearts and one diamond while East hung on to three diamonds and two hearts.

NOW all South had to do was to cash his two good diamonds and West was squeezed in hearts and clubs.

If West had elected to unguard hearts and hold diamonds, East would have been able to guard the hearts but would have had to unguard the diamonds whereupon declarer would have led a heart to dummy's king and cashed the ace to squeeze poor West between diamonds and that same queen of clubs.

WHEN A WOMAN HAS FIVE O'CLOCK SHADOW...IT'S LATER THAN SHE THINKS!

Los Angeles — If you are among the 4-out-of-5 women who suffer the embarrassment of superfluous hair, you can throw away your tweezers, razors and depilatories. Now, with the electronic development of the Kree Dermotone Method, hair can be removed permanently and safely, from the face, arms and legs.

"Our customers are thrilled with this new gentle electrolysis system... and with their new hair-free loveliness," said a Kree technician at May Company. And, the technician reports, the new bare look in fashions is causing concern with some hair on other body areas where Kree is equally effective.

Trained Kree technicians are staffed at May Co. Beauty Salons. To those interested in learning more about this revolutionary electrolysis, consultations are offered without obligation. Phone for an appointment: Lakewood, ME 3-0111, Ext. 342, and find out how to get rid of five o'clock shadow forever.

Here's Charley!

Despite mix-ups, misadventures and meanderings, Charley wins his beloved Amy in "Where's Charley?" which Long Beach Civic Light Opera will open Thursday night. Bill Beadle plays Charley, Diane Payrow is Amy.

New stars shine for CLO

When Long Beach Civic Light Opera's smartly paced, rollicking musical, "Where's Charley?", opens Thursday night in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium, three pretty girls who have never before had leads with the company will be in top roles.

Diane Payrow, who has a major part as Amy, is a CLO graduate, coming up from the chorus. Carol Hatten is cast as Kitty and Betty Rhude plays Donna Lucia.

Others in the cast are Bill Beadle as Charley, Phil Haynes as Jack, Neal Nixon as Sir Francis and Arthur Carrah as Spettigue.

The merry plot concerns situation entangles the plot a group of young English in a more unlikely development college men at the turn of ment.

Diane, a pert, pretty brunette, played chorus and minor parts in CLO's "Long Beach Story," "Wizard of Oz" and "Song of Norway."

A 1960 Jordan High graduate and an alumna of Long Beach City College, she has spent the past couple of years studying voice but her only dancing training has been with CLO.

WHEN CHARLEY'S aunt — whom he has never seen — is due to visit him from Brazil it seems an ideal time for the girls' visit. But the aunt is delayed, the uncle arrives unexpectedly, Charley is forced to masquerade as the aunt and complications begin. Each hilarious

"IT'S A bit scary playing the lead," she admits. "In the chorus the others are there backing you up, but in a lead you're on your own. You have a responsibility to the audience and to yourself."

"But Amy is a sort of a little nut—she's fun to play. I'm doing my best!"

When Betty Rhude came to CLO just five months ago to understudy Madam Thiang in "The King and I," she was returning to her own element—music.

SHE RECEIVED all her dramatic, voice and dancing training in Long Beach and, as Betty Bowman, before her marriage, she often sang for Long Beach groups. For the past 15 years she has devoted her time to her husband and four children.

"It's wonderful to be singing again!" she exclaims. "It is important to do what you enjoy and can do best. No talent should go to waste—it's God-given and should be used."

BLONDE, blue-eyed Carol Hatten is playing her first role for CLO, but she's been playing leads since she starred in "Molly Be Jolly" in the sixth grade. Even so, she says, "I always get stage fright—even at rehearsals. It's easier before a large audience and the very worst is to sing before a handful of friends in the living room. But I love the stage and I'm going to continue to audition as long as they'll have me."

And the chorus of "Where's Charley?" It's made up of some of the company's finest talent who have played leads in many CLO productions. They're stepping down to let the newcomers shine!

'Light Switch' is on

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

"Light Switch," first exhibit to be organized, designed and constructed by Long Beach State College students, opens today with a reception at 7 p.m. in the college art gallery.

Sponsored by the art department and Associated Students, the show explores the aesthetic uses of light. Students in two art classes designed and built the 20 exhibits, using mirrors, fabrics, plastics, glass and other materials in their examination of light phenomena. Class instructors are Donald Dame and Taizo Miake.

Monday, the gallery will open at 11 a.m. for a special student viewing and then will remain open Mondays through Fridays from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. through May 15.

TO REKINDLE the interest of painters in the backstage and on-the-turf drama of thoroughbred racing, Hollywood Park is sponsoring an art competition.

Open to both amateurs and professionals, it will last through April and May and into mid-June. Dates for receiving entries are June 6 and 7 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Qualified artists will be given access as guests of the track to all races and to areas and activities of Hollywood Park which the public normally does not get to see, such as the stables and morning workouts.

MILLARD Sheets, distinguished California artist, will serve as coordinator of the Hollywood Park competition and will act as a member of the jury with Lorser Feitelson, painter and teacher, and Richard Haines, Los Angeles painter.

Sheets predicts that the competition will create among artists an excitement about racetrack subjects unequalled since the days when the early French impressionist, Degas, began painting Paris racing scenes.

Judging will be done June 19. Prizes are $1,000, $500, $300 and $200. Prize-winning and other selected paintings will hang at the track for the entire meet, exposing them to thousands of racing devotees.

For further information, write to Painting Competition, Hollywood Park, P.O. Box 369, Inglewood.

THE THIRD annual "California Juried Exhibition" closes today at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

During the week, various galleries may be temporarily closed to the public as May exhibits are installed.

ROBERT ADAMS, head of the art department at Polytechnic High School, has an exhibit of recent oils and caseins at Bay Shore Branch Library. It will hang through Thursday. Adams also instructs evening art classes at Long Beach City College. He is a member of California Water Color Socety and one of his paintings recently was selected by that organization for a traveling exhibit in the South.

HAWAII: TRULY ALLURING Its Flavor Is Foreign; All the Rest Is U.S.A.

By Dorothy Gale

If you want to vacation where there's foreign flavor, yet keep your dollars in the U.S.A., then Hawaii is for you.

Since this Polynesian playground of the Pacific is also the 50th State, English is the language and there are no foreign exchange or customs problems, no foreign thugs and no foreign bugs.

Your news vendor is apt to be a smiling Hawaiian lad, it's true. But the paper you buy tells you "where to go and what to do" in your language. It also gives you everything from Buchwald and "Dear Abby" to the latest from Wall Street and Washington, as well as reports on where the biggest marlin was landed and where the biggest sale of mummus is going on.

IN HAWAII you can be as adventurous as you choose and still be the welcome and "beautiful American" to your fellow Americans of Polynesian, oriental, Filipino and caucasian heritage.

If you get tired of hula shows and Japanese tea-houses and native Hawaiian feasts, you can play golf or go bowling, rent a TV set or see the latest Hollywood films.

True, you will also want to dig deeply into Hawaiian lore. This could be a trip to see ancient Hawaiian fishponds and temple ruins, a stop at the Bishop museum for priceless old Hawaiian artifacts or a visit to the Hawaiian Wax Museum for scenes from Hawaiian history.

THERE ARE rare birds of paradise at the Honolulu zoo, jewel-like reef fish at the aquarium and trained porpoises at Sea Life Park. The latter have Hawaiian names, but "answer" in English, as do the mynah birds in cages in front of Don the Beachcomber's.

At the market you browse among Hawaiian wood carvings and seed and shell jewelry, pandanus mats and hats, kangaroo-skin jackets from "down under," baskets from Korea, tea from Taiwan, slippers from Manila, made-in-Honolulu okolehau-flavored tobacco and sake, champagne and foie gras from France, kimonos from Japan, glass fruits from Italy, sardines from Portugal, kosher pickles and salami, Edam cheese, Danish beer and Kona coffee.

YOU RELAX in an outdoor ice cream parlor by a fern-fringed waterfall, deliberating between fresh coconut or mango or passion-fruit sundaes. Or you kill time before the free show of Tahitian and Samoan dancing by ordering pizza, a bowl of salmon, potato pancakes or box on a bagel.

That's the best thing about Hawaii. You're right at home in the U.S.A., even while enjoying the hula shows, touring Buddhist temples, trying out a surfboard or renting a U-Drive for a trip to the pineapple fields where you won't get lost because you can read all the signs.

Next Tourist Hot Spot Certain to Be Turkey

Here's the name of the next hot tourist attraction: Turkey.

It can't miss. Friendly people, prices are right, and the greatest ruins of the ancient world in the whole business.

And beaches, mountains, lakes. All with plenty of history.

Better hurry, though. Give the place five years and it will be like Spain, where the fellow under the next sombrero sells insurance in Wichita, Frankfurt or Liverpool.

The Turks have discovered the tourist dollar and they are going after it.

At first, that means there are, or soon will be, hotels with hot water and no lumps in the beds—novelties in these parts.

IN TURKEY today, many of the places where human history was made remain in remarkable preservation. A main reason is that there was for centuries no way for attackers to get to them and smash them up, as was done in so many other places.

You may run across a useable Greek temple at any turn in the road.

Take Ephesus, where St. Paul preached and St. John wrote part of the Bible. Pythagoras, the father of high school home work, was born here.

THE TROJAN WAR was fought, and Alexander conquered, Cleopatra met Mark Anthony for the first time—in St. Paul's home town.

Take Istanbul, or Constantinople, the last outpost of the Roman Empire. The walls the Turks stormed in 1453 are still standing.

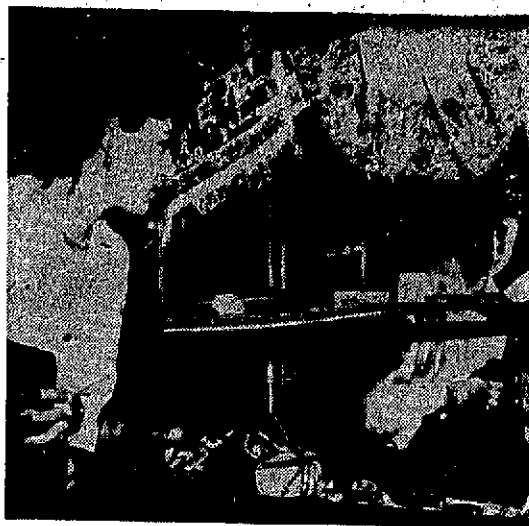

Napoleon said possession of the city astride the narrow waters that separate Europe from Asia was the key to world domination.

Istanbul may not be that vital any more, but it's still a charmer. It looks European if you come from Asia, and Asian if you come from Europe.

But it's impossible to tell how old anything is. It is sort of a civic Jack Benny.

KIDS KICK footballs around in an authentic Greek palace of 1,400 years ago. Next door, the thing that looks like a Roman ruin is only a 1912 slum.

The sultan's palace is

next door to St. Sophia.

The sultans gave Turkey a forbidden flavor for many years, and then the young Turks got the country in on the losing side in World War I.

It has taken Turkey a long time to live that down, and the result is it has been left out of most tourist itineraries until recently.

NOW TURKEY is out to get on the inside. Taxi drivers and tour guides are practicing up their English, French and German.

Walters are busy figuring out what is 15% of the bill in all foreign currencies.

And, on top of all this, Turkey is investing more than $76 million in a Five-Year Plan for Tourism which will see the constructions, camping grounds and other accommodations. The project, began in 1963, will continue through 1967.

HAWAII: TRULY ALLURING Its Flavor Is Foreign; All the Rest Is U.S.A.

By Dorothy Gale

If you want to vacation where there's foreign flavor, yet keep your dollars in the U.S.A., then Hawaii is for you.

Since this Polynesian playground of the Pacific is also the 50th State, English is the language and there are no foreign exchange or customs problems, no foreign thugs and no foreign bugs.

Your news vendor is apt to be a smiling Hawaiian lad, it's true. But the paper you buy tells you "where to go and what to do" in your language. It also gives you everything from Buchwald and "Dear Abby" to the latest from Wall Street and Washington, as well as reports on where the biggest marlin was landed and where the biggest sale of mummus is going on.

IN HAWAII you can be as adventurous as you choose and still be the welcome and "beautiful American" to your fellow Americans of Polynesian, oriental, Filipino and caucasian heritage.

If you get tired of hula shows and Japanese tea-houses and native Hawaiian feasts, you can play golf or go bowling, rent a TV set or see the latest Hollywood films.

True, you will also want to dig deeply into Hawaiian lore. This could be a trip to see ancient Hawaiian fishponds and temple ruins, a stop at the Bishop museum for priceless old Hawaiian artifacts or a visit to the Hawaiian Wax Museum for scenes from Hawaiian history.

THERE ARE rare birds of paradise at the Honolulu zoo, jewel-like reef fish at the aquarium and trained porpoises at Sea Life Park. The latter have Hawaiian names, but "answer" in English, as do the mynah birds in cages in front of Don the Beachcomber's.

At the market you browse among Hawaiian wood carvings and seed and shell jewelry, pandanus mats and hats, kangaroo-skin jackets from "down under," baskets from Korea, tea from Taiwan, slippers from Manila, made-in-Honolulu okolehau-flavored tobacco and sake, champagne and foie gras from France, kimonos from Japan, glass fruits from Italy, sardines from Portugal, kosher pickles and salami, Edam cheese, Danish beer and Kona coffee.

YOU RELAX in an outdoor ice cream parlor by a fern-fringed waterfall, deliberating between fresh coconut or mango or passion-fruit sundaes. Or you kill time before the free show of Tahitian and Samoan dancing by ordering pizza, a bowl of salmon, potato pancakes or box on a bagel.

That's the best thing about Hawaii. You're right at home in the U.S.A., even while enjoying the hula shows, touring Buddhist temples, trying out a surfboard or renting a U-Drive for a trip to the pineapple fields where you won't get lost because you can read all the signs.

Before arriving in Moscow three weeks later, the groups will have traveled by camel, horse, hydrofoil, bus, train and jet.

From Moscow, tour members may return directly home or continue through the Central Asiatic Republics of the USSR.

Next Tourist Hot Spot Certain to Be Turkey

Here's the name of the next hot tourist attraction: Turkey.

It can't miss. Friendly people, prices are right, and the greatest ruins of the ancient world in the whole business.

And beaches, mountains, lakes. All with plenty of history.

Better hurry, though. Give the place five years and it will be like Spain, where the fellow under the next sombrero sells insurance in Wichita, Frankfurt or Liverpool.

The Turks have discovered the tourist dollar and they are going after it.

At first, that means there are, or soon will be, hotels with hot water and no lumps in the beds—novelties in these parts.

IN TURKEY today, many of the places where human history was made remain in remarkable preservation. A main reason is that there was for centuries no way for attackers to get to them and smash them up, as was done in so many other places.

You may run across a useable Greek temple at any turn in the road.

Take Ephesus, where St. Paul preached and St. John wrote part of the Bible. Pythagoras, the father of high school home work, was born here.

THE TROJAN WAR was fought, and Alexander conquered, Cleopatra met Mark Anthony for the first time—in St. Paul's home town.

Take Istanbul, or Constantinople, the last outpost of the Roman Empire. The walls the Turks stormed in 1453 are still standing.

Napoleon said possession of the city astride the narrow waters that separate Europe from Asia was the key to world domination.

Istanbul may not be that vital any more, but it's still a charmer. It looks European if you come from Asia, and Asian if you come from Europe.

But it's impossible to tell how old anything is. It is sort of a civic Jack Benny.

KIDS KICK footballs around in an authentic Greek palace of 1,400 years ago. Next door, the thing that looks like a Roman ruin is only a 1912 slum.

The sultan's palace is

next door to St. Sophia.

The sultans gave Turkey a forbidden flavor for many years, and then the young Turks got the country in on the losing side in World War I.

It has taken Turkey a long time to live that down, and the result is it has been left out of most tourist itineraries until recently.

NOW TURKEY is out to get on the inside. Taxi drivers and tour guides are practicing up their English, French and German.

Waiters are busy figuring out what is 15% of the bill in all foreign currencies.

And, on top of all this, Turkey is investing more than $76 million in a Five-Year Plan for Tourism which will see the constructions, camping grounds and other accommodations. The project, begun in 1963, will continue through 1967.

"What kind of small transistor radio is best for Europe?"

GET ONE with the longest range possible. I had one that worked fine in Paris but faded when I got 20 miles out of town. The AM/FM types are no use—not enough FM in Europe. AM plus short-wave is what I carry. Local radio on AM. Switch to short wave and you get Voice of America news in English, Armed Forces music, and some interesting Iron Curtain propaganda broadcasts.

"Can we get batteries for it?"

YES, BUT I'D BE careful to get batteries from one of the big manufacturing countries — German, British, Swiss. I bought batteries in Portugal a few months ago. They leaked. Corroded a flashlight so badly I had to throw it away.

"Suggest a very inexpensive vacation for a family of four."

I THINK CAMPING is the cheapest and most rewarding—and maybe the only way most people will be able to afford. It has a great range. From shoestring to luxury. Best places: The American West, Canada, Mexico.

For the West, the National Park Service, Washington, D.C., has a list of park campsites. There is a very good and inexpensive cabin or tent thing you can rent in Grand Teton National Park, for instance. Groceries and firewood nearby. Good fishing. Raft trips on the Snake River. Walks, rides and talks by rangers. Get a price list by writing Grand Teton Lodge Company, Jackson Hole, Wyoming.

Canada has a lot of wilderness areas. The Canadian Government Tourist Office at Ottawa, Canada, will flood you with good information.

MEXICO is a little primitive. But there is some beach camping along the West Coast. Particularly at Tapatambo Bay near Los Mochis. A day south is the town of Mazatlan. And new overnight car ferry will take you to La Paz in Lower California. Very primitive. And roads for any distance would ruin your car. But there are miles of beaches all to yourself.

For American West travel: Standard Oil travel service will route you, give you maps, list scenic and historic places enroute—handhold you all the way. Chevron and Standard Oil stations have the application forms. And it's free.

Canadian tourist information is very complete. But in Mexico you are on your own. Best information I've seen is free by writing Dan Sanborn, McAllen, Tex. Ask specifically for the car ferry train from Chihuahua to Topolobampo — cheap and through wild country. The car ferry boat to La Paz. And general road information.

A place to look into for beach camping: Padre Island has miles and miles of beach off Corpus Christi, Texas. Many dramatic Spanish shipwrecks here in early days. And beach walkers sometimes turn up ancient coins.

FOR PIONEERS: A rough but reasonable road runs from Oaxaca (in the south of Mexico) to little Puerto Angel on the West Coast. No tourists, no hotels. But I remember it as a pretty tropical bay. Carry insect repellent and anti-malaria pills. This is hammock country—too warm for beds. Buy Indian hammocks in Oaxaca.

What to read: The paperback library is what you want. Excellent books on how to camp. Books for rockhounds, bird watchers, amateur archaeologists. I like a little historical background on the place I'm going.

"How do we arrange to get married by the Captain on a cruise ship?"

YOU'D BETTER ask a good lawyer. It depends on the ship's port of registry and a lot of other things. For example, a ship registered in New York. New York excludes ships' captains in its list of persons who can perform legal marriages. You might be tying a slip knot.

Rome Revisited

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

ROME—Few cities respond to the call of spring like this ancient metropolis of popes and kings. The air, soft as a baby's touch, has exploded the countryside into splendiferous greenery. Buds are popping in the trees along the avenues. Azaleas, wild cherries and acacias are swarming with color.

Why it had been my first visit in several years, I do not know. It's hard to understand why one can resist such a city so long. This time I arrived the easy way—on a spacious Alitalia Airlines' Long Beach-made DC-8.

Rome revisited is much different from the first sojourn. Then it was just another melting pot of tired if not shattered people struggling to recoup the losses of war. Now, the 2½ million residents (this estimate is theirs) are busy and appear prosperous. They walk with a buoyant step, smile and sing.

GOOD FRIDAY found me strolling down the Via Veneto, pausing now and then for refreshment at the pink-awned sidewalk cafes; climbing the Spanish Steps where giant azaleas competed with Easter bonnets for color; tossing another coin into the Fountain of Trevi; gawking unashamedly at the Colosseum; taking a fresh look at St. Peter's; and joining pilgrims from all over the world at Vatican City with its brilliantly costumed Swiss guards.

The through-Monday holiday called for celebration among the Romans and, I am told, they departed in throngs for the Italian Riviera and mountain retreats. Filling the gaps, however, were literally thousands of visitors, up to their craning necks with cameras, eyes popping.

Romans say this is the busiest spring for tourists that they can remember, the visitors arriving earlier, too, than in years past. But it's the time to come, and the ideal season will continue—the natives say—through May.

THE CARABINIERES, those elegantly costumed police with Napoleonic hats, long white gauntlets and swords, patrol in pairs. Their courtesy in answering questions matches their dashing appearance.

Siesta time is 1 to 4 p.m. A sprinkling of Romans dash hither and dither with artistic bouquets selected from the gay sidewalk stands. The tourists tour on shanks' mares, but where are the other Romans? Now, when the nap's over, traffic rises to a bedlam again. The smaller shops reopen to welcome the swarm of tourists whose pockets are bulging with newly converted lira.

From open windows on the upper floors, Romans not fortunate enough to go on a holiday sit comfortably, gazing down contentedly on the ever-changing street scene. They are fortunate. The memory of Good Friday in Rome is unforgettable.

'Electra' on LBSC bill

"Electra," Euripedes' classic version of murder, adultery and revenge in ancient Greece, will be screened twice at Long Beach State College today.

Irene Pappas plays the title role in the production which will be shown in the Little Theater at 5 and 7:30 p.m.

The 1962 Cannes Festival prize-winner was directed by Michael Cacoyannis and photographed by Walter Cassally.

The tragedy becomes even harsher as it is acted out by native players against a bleak background of rocky bays, olive groves, mountains and fields in Greece.

An unusual short subject, "Confessions of a Cat," precedes the feature film.

Recipe 'full of beans'

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
P-T Food Editor

He was born and raised in the great San Joaquin Valley where his father maintained a ranch and managed a food processing company—he writes music—plays the piano and does radio commentating, yet his actual vocation is in the field of public relations.

Marshall C. Neel, today's Chef of the Week, established the public relations department for Long Beach Water Department two and a half years ago.

His family moved from Turlock to Modesto, Calif., when Neel was 14. Graduating from high school there, he enrolled in the U. of California, Berkeley. World War II interrupted his plans, he joined the Air Force and spent the next three years in the European theater.

Returning to Berkeley after the war, he graduated with a degree in business administration, then did post graduate work in such related fields as management behavioral science and public relations, at UCLA, at San Francisco State and at the University of Santa Clara.

NEEL completed 15 years in the field of public relations and Chamber of Commerce management in northern California before coming south.

A member of the Auto Engineering Society and the International Society for General Semantics, Neel is active in the American Chamber of Commerce Executives, the California Organization of Chamber Managers and the Southland Water Works Assn.

Manager of public relations for the City Employee's Association, he edits the newsletter for the California Society of American Waterworks Assn., is chairman of the Loans Executive Program for United Way and is actively interested in the United Crusade.

Neel met his wife, Carol, when she was an education major at San Francisco State College. They have a daughter, Susan, 10.

Our "Chef" goes back into the limbo of the past for his recipe. He calls it Bachelor's Black Bean Soup.

BACHELOR'S BLACK BEAN SOUP

2 cans black bean soup
1/2 pint sour cream
3 tbslp. canned red kidney beans
10 dashes Worcestershire sauce
1/4 cup milk
1/2 cup (or to taste) dry sherry wine
1/4 cup lemon juice
Blend 2 cans black bean soup with sour cream. Rinse blender with milk. Stir in wine and lemon juice slowly and place over medium heat in sauce pan. Add beans and Worcestershire. Stir continuously until boiling point. Float tablespoon of sour cream on each serving.

The new Mrs. Chapman was graduated from Wilson High School and now is attending Long Beach State College, where she is a member of Delta Delta Delta. Following a trip to San Francisco, the couple will reside in Long Beach.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

Parental guidance needed

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:
I'm afraid my girl friend is in trouble—or she will be. She is 14 and going with a boy of 20. Her parents work nights and I'm sure they don't know she is going with this guy. If they did they would have a fit. They think she stays home while they are gone. I've talked to her and told her what might happen but she won't listen to me. Maybe a word from you will be more effective. — CONCERNED FRIEND.

DEAR CONCERNED FRIEND:

If she won't listen to you (her friend), she won't listen to me, I'm sure.

A 14-year-old girl should not be left alone every night. Her parents are just asking for trouble and someone should talk to them. I know it's a touchy subject and no one wants to "rat" on a friend, so maybe your mother or some friend of her mother will get it over to her that the girl is headed for trouble.

Her parents should at least check up on her occasionally, by phone or otherwise, rather than leave her complete freedom every night. They, more than your friend, are making the big mistake. — M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:
I'm told I'm the envy of all my acquaintances but, really, I'm lonely, bored and trapped.

Our lovely home is bursting at the seam with teenagers and young adults with the hi-fi going constantly and appetites that are never filled. But I am lonely.

My husband works from early morning till late at night, so we have no social life or close friends. The only people who can share my time are widows and spinsters with whom I have nothing in common. I won't complain to my husband, he has enough problems of his own. If he ever thinks I'm unhappy, I immediately receive flowers or candy.

I have a part-time job working with children, a hobby I love, PTA, etc., but none of these fill my need. How can a person be lonely in a houseful of youngsters and a world of people. — ALONE.

DEAR ALONE:
You are just plain lonely for your husband and I don't blame you. He should have some time to spend with his wife. All the flowers and candy in the world won't replace HIM.

I think you should tell him how you feel. He may not realize how much you miss him. At least a few evenings and weekends should (and could) be spent with you, no matter what business problems or pressures he has. Money isn't the most important thing in the world! No, it isn't ridiculous! — M. M.

NOTE TO WORRIED:
Your problem is frustrating, but compared to hundreds of others that cross my desk your problem with your husband is not insurmountable. You might send his suitcase along the next time he jumps when his family whistles. If being chauffeur for his Mama is more important than doing the same for his wife and kids, let Mama keep him. It might shake him up a little to realize you really mean it. — M. M.

Don't Under-load

It is considered as undesirable to under-load as to over-load an automatic washer. Before washing just a few pieces or one bulky item, add a few bath towels as buffers to balance the load. This lets the soap or detergent solution penetrate all the fabric equally to loosen and remove soil.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD: I'm afraid my girl friend is in trouble—or she will be. She is 14 and going with a boy of 20. Her parents work nights and I'm sure they don't know she is going with this guy. If they did they would have a fit. They think she stays home while they are gone. I've talked to her and told her what might happen but she won't listen to me. Maybe a word from you will be more effective. — CONCERNED FRIEND.

DEAR CONCERNED FRIEND:

If she won't listen to you (her friend), she won't listen to me, I'm sure.

A 14-year-old girl should not be left alone every night. Her parents are just asking for trouble and someone should talk to them. I know it's a touchy subject and no one wants to "rat" on a friend, so maybe your mother or some friend of her mother will get it over to her that the girl is headed for trouble.

Her parents should at least check up on her occasionally, by phone or otherwise, rather than leave her complete freedom every night. They, more than your friend, are making the big mistake. — M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD: I'm told I'm the envy of all my acquaintances but, really, I'm lonely, bored and trapped.

Our lovely home is bursting at the seam with teenagers and young adults with the hi-fi going constantly and appetites that are never filled. But I am lonely.

My husband works from early morning till late at night, so we have no social life or close friends. The only people who can share my time are widows and spinsters with whom I have nothing in common. I won't complain to my husband, he has enough problems of his own. If he ever thinks I'm unhappy, I immediately receive flowers or candy.

I have a part-time job working with children, a hobby I love, PTA, etc., but none of these fill my need. How can a person be lonely in a houseful of youngsters and a world of people. Ridiculous, isn't it? — ALONE.

DEAR ALONE: You are just plain lonely for your husband and I don't blame you. He should have some time to spend with his wife. All the flowers and candy in the world won't replace HIM.

I think you should tell him how you feel. He may not realize how much you miss him. At least a few evenings and weekends should (and could) be spent with you, no matter what business problems or pressures he has. Money isn't the most important thing in the world! No, it isn't ridiculous! — M. M.

NOTE TO WORRIED: Your problem is frustrating, but compared to hundreds of others that cross my desk your problem with your husband is not insurmountable. You might send his suitcase along the next time he jumps when his family whistles. If being chauffeur for his Mama is more important than doing the same for his wife and kids, let Mama keep him. It might shake him up a little to realize you really mean it. — M. M.

OUR COVER

Were it not for the Long Beach Public Library's Bookmobile, many of the community's children might be deprived of the happy hours that books can bring, just as such pleasure is brought to Carolyn, 8, and Clay Granger, 6, on today's Southland cover. The Bookmobile brings the library to the patrons. Branch library facilities are not easily available to all sections of the city and it is not feasible to install them in some cases. The need for library service was recognized long ago, however, and the Bookmobile began a schedule in 1944—Long Beach being the first California city to install such a facility. The career of the Bookmobile has not been without incident, but the service has been faithful and "book days" have become anticipated events in the areas thus served. For more about this interesting activity, turn to "Books by the Bus Load" on Page 8.

There are many ways to better homes and better communities—by individuals making their homes better to live in and better to look at—by city departments cleaning and pointing up highways, byways and parkways—by businessmen improving commercial buildings. DISNEY GARDENERS CREATE CARTOONS

Sculptures from Plants

By Lou Jobst

AT DISNEYLAND even the gardener is a cartoonist.

Working with pliable shrubs and plants, Disneyland horticulturists are creating a set of green masterworks for a Topiary Garden.

Topiary is the art of creating life-like sculptures from plants.

Headed by Morgan Evans, Disney's chief landscape architect, the ornamental gardeners are growing—and clipping, naturally—the figures of 25 shrub animals.

THESE INCLUDE two elephants, a crocodile, a French poodle, a llama, unicorn, giraffe, dodo bird, two bears, lions, seals, a pig, camel, donkey and several backgrounds pieces from the Wonderland of Alice.

Creation of a topiary figure, from seedling to finished evergreen sculpture, usually takes five years, but Disney has cut the process to three.

When completed later in the year the plants will be arranged as a permanent exhibit.

The animal shrubs are given more care and attention than most animals in a zoo. They're bathed, fed, doctor, barbered and pampered.

THEY ARE FED a special food, given frequent soil tests and watered by tensiometers, instruments which automatically decide when the ground is dry enough to warrant a dousing.

Horticulturists meticulously clip the branches, both inside and out.

"Only in this way," explains Evans, "can we obtain maximum above-ground growth while confining the root system in wooden tubs, necessary so they can be moved to their permanent location later on."

The plants are given frequent doses of fungicides and insecticides to guard against disease and destruction.

The figures are a studio staff creation.

AFTER EVANS' workers receive drawings of plants animals from the Disney studio artists they make up a full size template of the proposed character. From this a frame of pencil-thick steel is shaped. Designed in sections, the frame is then fitted to a specially selected tree or shrub and the design is cut at regular intervals of growth.

Disney character Peter Pan is shown with plants in topiary garden at the famed park. Items are kept mobile by cultivation in box-like containers.

Outside House Painting Now Outdated!

Another space age boon has been accomplished for home owners... an exterior wall coating so tough and durable it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 10 years. This remarkable product is TEX-COTE, combining the long lasting properties of fiberglass, asbestos, mica and perlite to make a wall surface that resists all climatic extremes.

Guided missile manufacturers for the United States government have found TEX-COTE a superior product for insulation of heat shields used in the space programs.

School boards everywhere have found textured coating more economical and longer lasting. They now specify this material.

After more than 10 years' exposure to extreme weather, thousands of textured coating applications on homes, commercial and industrial buildings world-wide, remain in perfect condition.

The United States government, large corporations, such as Shell Oil, Pacific Telephone, Thunderbird International Hotels are using TEX-COTE. TEX-COTE comes in 12 beautiful decorator colors — adds new beauty, better insulation and waterproofing to the building, thus increasing its value. Through the use of silicones, today's scientific advance, a water-repellent "blanket" envelops the entire building so no moisture can penetrate to damage the interior. TEX-COTE with its fiberglass and perlite maximum insulating materials, cools the building in summer and warms it in winter.

Applied with a Gun

TEX-COTE is applied with heavy duty spray equipment under high pressure. It fuses itself to the wall surface to a thickness 15 to 20 times that of normal paint. It remains flexible and withstands cracking and normal surface expansion and contraction.

10-Year Factory Guarantee

Every TEX-COTE job is registered and factory guaranteed for 10 years against chipping, flaking or peeling. TEX-COTE is the only coating with this qualified guarantee.

No Obligation

Ask for free information on how easily you may have TEX-COTE applied at low bank terms with no down payment. If you are a home owner, mail this coupon or call collect 24 hours a day, GA 3-8411, within 5 days and permit our representative to make a home demonstration of TEX-COTE.

IT WOULD be out of the question to print what some people thought about it! Others described it as "a gaudy form of Main Street burlesque adopted by a bar." Unsurprisingly, also, various foot-loose young men around town—sailors and others—called it a "real interesting situation."

These comments — plus others in a similar vein — referred to "that place" out on Pacific Coast Highway. You know, the one which several days ago threw Torrance City officials into a tailspin.

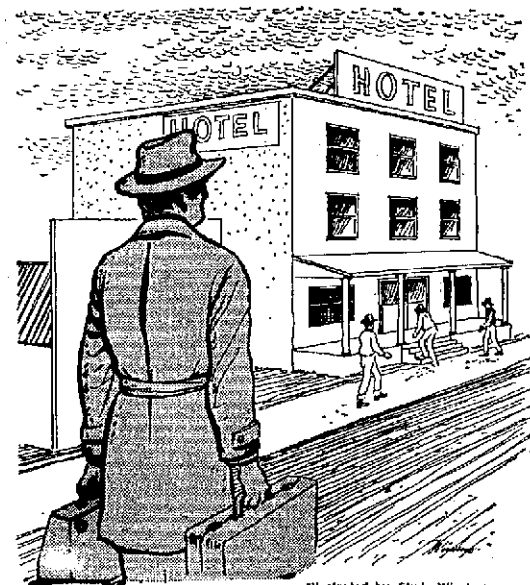

Which brings to mind an almost incredible situation which existed for weeks in a little Oregon town named Ontario. A national magazine gave me a year-long assignment to investigate off-the-beaten-track "wild places" around the U.S. — wide-open, rowdy, brawling towns far removed from the big city sin exposed by the spectacular Kefauver probe.

In response to a curiosity-arousing tip, I headed for little Ontario, a cowboy and onion-farmer town located across the Snake River in Oregon. With a cat-that-swallowed-the-canary grin on his face, my informant had urged: "Go to Ontario and, by turns, check into its three main hotels. You're in for a lulu of a surprise at all three places!"

AFTER reaching Ontario I held on to my bag and portable typewriter and climbed one flight of stairs at the largest hotel. There, behind a flower-covered desk in the lobby, sat a buxom, smiling woman in a gaudy robe.

He initial greeting was: "Hi, sport — what would you like?" Playing it straight, as per an earlier suggestion I'd received, I replied: "I'd like to check into a room with private bath for two nights, please."

A startled look on her face, she threw me a measuring glance — then came her outburst of guffawing. After a moment of that, she whistled between her fingers and almost bellowed: "Hey, (Continued on Page 22)"

Outside House Painting Now Outdated!

Another space age boon has been accomplished for home owners... an exterior wall coating so tough and durable it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 10 years. This remarkable product is TEX-COTE, combining the long lasting properties of fiberglass, asbestos, mica and perlite to make a wall surface that resists all climatic extremes.

Guided missile manufacturers for the United States government have found TEX-COTE a superior product for insulation of heat shields used in the space programs.

School boards everywhere have found textured coating more economical and longer lasting. They now specify this material.

After more than 10 years' exposure to extreme weather, thousands of textured coating applications on homes, commercial and industrial buildings world-wide, remain in perfect condition.

The United States government, large corporations, such as Shell Oil, Pacific Telephone, Thunderbird International Hotels are using TEX-COTE. TEX-COTE comes in 12 beautiful decorator colors — adds new beauty, better insulation and waterproofing to the building, thus increasing its value. Through the use of silicones, today's scientific advance, a water-repellent "blanket" envelops the entire building so no moisture can penetrate to damage the interior. TEX-COTE with its fiberglass and perlite maximum insulating materials, cools the building in summer and warms it in winter.

Applied with a Gun

TEX-COTE is applied with heavy duty spray equipment under high pressure. It fuses itself to the wall surface to a thickness 15 to 20 times that of normal paint. It remains flexible and withstands cracking and normal surface expansion and contraction.

When You're in Small Claims Court . . .

You Don't Need a Lawyer

By BOB SCHMIDT

How small claims court works: Municipal Judge Charles T. Smith hears simulated case with Lois Hiatt and Philip Jones, court employees posing as defendant and plaintiff, without the services of a lawyer.

IN AUGUST 1956, the lavish, luxurious homes in the Portuguese Bend area began sliding ungracefully toward the sea. Before the slippage was checked, 145 residences were destroyed or damaged.

The homemakers felt that the County of Los Angeles was responsible, in some way, for the loss. They hired themselves some high-priced, highly-skilled lawyers, and sued.

Last January 22, the State Supreme Court upheld a Superior Court verdict in favor of the homeowners and directed the county to pay $6.25 million in damages and interest.

Each homeowner involved needed costly legal service. Fortunately, they were able to afford it.

BUT SUPPOSE someone not so wealthy is financially damaged. Suppose, for example, a pensioner pays $40 to have an appliance repaired, and the appliance winds up worse than before. And suppose the repair man ignores demands to do the job right or return the $40.

What does the pensioner do? A lawyer's fee would be substantially more than the possible judgment, so that's not the solution.

Fortunately, California's lawmakers have come up with the answer.

The small claims courts!

Any dispute involving $200 or less can be settled in small claims, and not only is a lawyer not needed, litigants are not even allowed to have one there.

THE IDEA is not original with California, although the system here is among the nation's most efficient.

From its earliest beginnings in England in 1605, the small claims movement has had for its purpose the reduction of expense and delay in the legal settlement of disputes involving relatively small sums of money.

The process doesn't pay for itself—experts estimate that only about 63% of actual costs are met by the small fees involved—and it is gradually being turned into a device for collecting commercial rather than personal debts, but there's no doubt that the small claims court is here to stay.

In the 1963-64 fiscal year, according to Harry Palmer, chief clerk of the Long Beach Municipal Court civil division, 6,268 cases were filed, compared with 5,369 for the preceding year.

The 1964-65 figure will show a comparable increase, he predicts.

AND THE INCREASE will undoubtedly include claims like one filed recently by a man who contended that a bank's mishandling of his checking account had resulted in the loss of a friend. The loss of the friend, he said, was worth $60.

Or the woman who sued a beauty salon—for dogs—because, she said, it kept her pet poodle under a dryer too long, causing it injuries from which it died. She asked for, and collected, $175.

But the more routine small claims case is less unusual. Two cars collide, both drivers deny liability, or the driver who admits liability feels the repair bill is too high. They present their respective stories to the judge, he asks questions, then assigns liability and costs, if any.

Having a small claims case heard in Long Beach involves going to Room 215 of the Long Beach County Building at 415 W. Ocean Blvd. There, the claimant fills out a pink form, with a clerk standing by ready to give help if needed.

THE INSTRUCTIONS require that the claimant "must be the ORIGINAL OWNER of the claim, and have demanded payment." In addition, he or she must state if under 21 years of age and unmarried.

The claim limit is $200; a larger claim may be reduced to that amount, but the balance is forever waived.

The parties being sued must reside in the court's judicial district, which includes Long Beach and Signal Hill, or the action was contracted to be performed here, or the injury to person or to personal property occurred here.

An absolutely essential item of information the claimant must bring with him during the first visit is the correct name and address of the person he is suing. This might mean a preliminary trip to city hall to find out whose name is on a business license, if the claim is against a business.

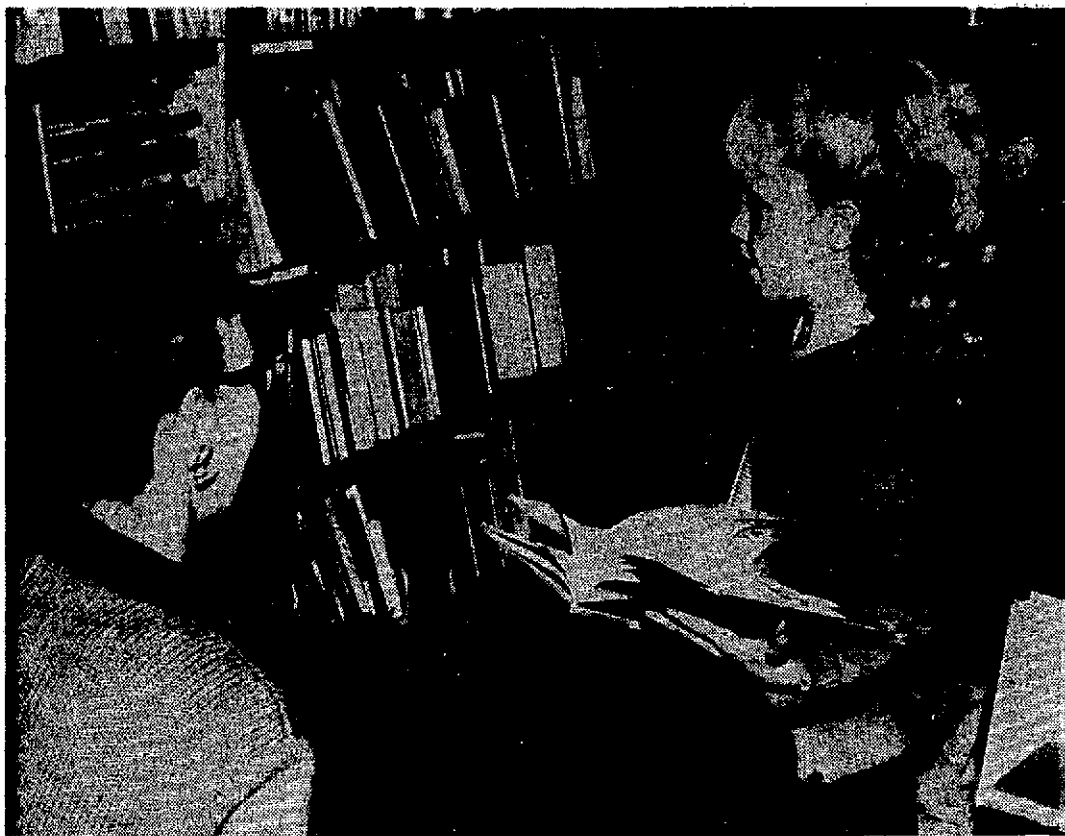

From this pink form, a clerk types a "Declaration and Order of Appearance," in which the cause is spelled out and a hearing date is set. So far, the total fee for all of this is $1.

THEN, A disinterested party, usually the marshal or sheriff, serves the defendant (the claimant is the "plaintiff") at a cost of $2 plus mileage. The hearing date must be within 30 days; in Long Beach's efficient court, the average is between 14 and 21 days after filing.

At 8:45 a. m. on the appointed day, plaintiff and defendant appear in the Municipal Court's Department 7 in Room 201. Cases to be contested are assigned to the various judges by clerk Kermit Van Leuven and are heard the same morning. Default cases, in which the defendant does not contest the claim, are assigned to Commissioner Loyd Lavender. About 20% to 25% of small claims cases are not contested.

A judge may give judgment the same day he hears a case, or he may take the matter under submission and advise the parties of his decision at a later date, in writing. His decision is binding on the plaintiff, but a losing defendant can appeal to the Superior Court if he wishes.

Justice wears informal robes, sometimes, as in small claims matters, and occasionally smiles on the wrong person. But, generally, she does well.

Sometimes it's hard to decide between a dinosaur book or a fairy tale. . . . Or so it is with young patrons of the Long Beach Library's Bookmobile that serves areas lacking branch library facilities.

By ROBERTA NICHOLS

IT TOOLS along freeways but creeps past children at play. Because it once got caught in two funeral processions in one day, it avoids certain streets. On Monday it wanders through Orange County and the City of Los Alamitos to reach El Dorado Park Estates in Long Beach. There, with missionary zeal, its personnel serve one of eight Long Beach areas that do not have nearby branch libraries.

"It" is the Public Library's specially built 30-foot Bookmobile. Empty, it weighs 19,340 pounds. Add 3,600 books, a crew of three, a typewriter and book-charging machine, and you understand why complicated itineraries must be devised to get the heaving 10-year-old from one stop to another without negotiating hills.

Long Beach was the first incorporated California city to use a Bookmobile. That was in 1944. But other libraries such as Baltimore's Enoch Pratt Free Library had already pioneered the service carrying books to patrons in a horse-drawn wagon. Strains of xylophone music heralded weekly visits. Early in the World War II period, the Nutley, N. J., Library substituted books for bottles in a milk wagon and hired a boy as bell-ringer. Edmonton, Alberta, served its sprawling wartime population by loading books into a retired street car and shunting it to special spurs in outlying areas.

MEANWHILE in Long Beach the city

Bookmobile action is good. Scenes such as this take place as soon as the vehicle halts on station. Service is library supplement, not duplication.

librarian, Mrs. Theodora Brewitt, was struggling with the problem of providing library service for residents of crowded war-housing developments and tract-homes. Eventually she found a solution—a 1936 panel truck, already retired from active duty.

The city garage equipped it with let-down sides that exposed shelves of books. They added more shelves that pulled out from the rear and were propped up on a metal foot like a tray of glazed doughnuts in a home delivery bakery truck. With books, patrons and librarians exposed, service was necessarily erratic during bad weather. But public response was tremendous.

After the war came a remodeled bus which accommodated more books and permitted "walk-in" service. In 1954 the present vehicle was purchased.

According to Miss Alice Appell, assistant librarian in charge of the branches division, bookmobile service is not intended to duplicate that of a main or branch library. The keynote is recreational reading for the entire family. Space permits neither the inclusion of special research material nor room for patrons to do reference work. Three hundred and fifty to four hundred books are often checked out in less than two hours, usually in the ratio of three-to-one in favor of children's books. This makes getting from one end of the bus to the other like running an obstacle course.

BUT THE BOOKMOBILE staff likes the hectic life, the informality that comes from sharing inconveniences and unusual experiences with patrons. Jo Macintyre glows when she talks about it.

Jo sort of grew up with the Bookmobile, having been hired in the days before

Books by the Bus Load

male college students took over as drivers

She remembers her first driving lesson in the present bus. The instructor had just complimented her when suddenly the gear shift lever came off in her hand. In a daze she herded the bus to the curb. Unperturbed, the instructor nodded approval. "Good. If this happens again, just crawl under the engine and tighten that long screw." It's never happened again, and Jo wonders if the crisis was planned to see how she would react in an emergency.

Other things have happened though, like getting caught in funeral processions (poor places to plug books, observed the driver, John Ayala, after extricating the bus). Too, there was the cold day when the crew boomed down the freeway, warm for the first time in months because they had a new heater. But joy was short-lived. Motorists began honking and gesturing until Jo looked out the window and saw a black plume of smoke. "For a moment I thought we were going to inaugurate the first bookmobile service on Mars," she says. It was exciting but not serious. Batting from the newly installed heater was smoldering.

WHEN LONG BEACH lost the Pacific Electric Railway, Jo lost a friend, a motor-man whose name she never learned. Evenings they met on Long Beach Boulevard as if by assignment. They paced themselves, keeping almost shoulder to shoulder, nodding and trying to exchange pleasantries above the traffic din.

The nearest Jo ever came to an accident while she drove the Bookmobile was the day a woman on the Red Car heaved

WHEN LONG BEACH lost the Pacific Electric Railway, Jo lost a friend, a motorman whose name she never learned. Evenings they met on Long Beach Boulevard as if by assignment. They paced themselves, keeping almost shoulder to shoulder, nodding and trying to exchange pleasantries above the traffic din.

The nearest Jo ever came to an accident while she drove the Bookmobile was the day a woman on the Red Car heaved

Five hundred children under the age of 5 years die each year, a half-million others are treated for some poison or harmful concoction they have swallowed. The medicine cabinet is often the offender, but it has many accomplices in and about the household. A health officer tells what to do about it.

Killer in Your Home

By WALT HOSTER

DEATH LURKS in virtually every Long Beach household!

So says Dr. Irving D. Litwack, City Health Officer, and he added that the lair of the killer is the family medicine cabinet.

Chief victims are children.

Dr. Litwack has some dreaded figures to go along with his claims: 500 children under the age of 5 year die each year in the United States from some poison or harmful medicine.

"These children actually die—the victims of some solutions they gulped in their own homes—but more than a half-million other children are treated for poisoning. The health of thousands of the youngsters is impaired by the toxic formulas they have swallowed," he declared.

Dr. Litwack's business is to save lives and protect people from any potential danger to their health. He does not like scare-talk. He does know accidental poisoning of children is a major health problem. He points out it is an aggravating situation that is nationwide.

DR. LITWACK and his staff work closely with all physicians and hospitals in the Long Beach area in an effort to check the constant threat to the life of a child when he somehow, some way finds a harmful ingredient in his home.

Death in the medicine cabinet has many accomplices. They are found in the garage, garden, kitchen, bedroom, living room, automobile or in as many places as a house has rooms.

It seems children have an affinity for things they should not have and then for some reason not known even to top psychiatrists will pop the forbidden item smack-dab into their mouths.

The crawler or toddler can set off a reaction that may reach a score or more of persons. A frantic parent calls another parent or a relative or a neighbor—anyone. That is, anyone but the right one.

Dr. Litwack emphasizes the only call should be to the family doctor.

A DOCTOR can reach the poison control center faster than a frantic parent. He can learn what the substance contained. He can learn the antidote immediately.

"That is what spells the difference between life and death for a child," Dr. Litwack explained. "Exacting measures must be taken at once. Poisons act quickly. A child's system has little resistance to the dreaded effects of poison or a harmful medicine." And he added, "If there is nothing in the medicine cabinet, the child can usually find some solution such as kerosene, detergent, garden spray, or ant paste. He might wander into the garden and find some bright berries, maybe some oleander or castor beans. He may attempt to pick a few bees off some flowers. Drop by drop the venom of a bee is just as potent as the bite of a rattlesnake."

The manifold problems of child poisoning is perhaps better exemplified by the variance in the calls that reach the Poison Control Center in Los Angeles' Children's Hospital. It is the only one in the county.

THE CENTER received 16,172 calls in 1963, the latest year for a complete total. The poison picture is not pretty—more than 1,000 calls for external medicines children had swallowed.

Internal medicines accounted for 4,400 calls, more than 1,000 were for household preparations; 1,500 for cosmetics and nail polish; 1,300 for pesticides; more than 1,000 for garden plants, and just in case you are not informed, youngsters often toss off a swig of paint, varnish, acid or cleaning fluid.

Dr. Litwack stresses that doctors realize the problem by the constant calls that come from harassed parents who frantically ask help.

"Immediate action is imperative," Dr. Litwack said. "There is no faster way to reach help than a call to the family physician."

With the upsurge in population—especially the abundant crop of children—he believes a center in the Long Beach area is an urgent need.

"Because a life is involved, communication with the center must be almost constant," he said. "Some poisons act on children in seconds."

DOCTORS and health officials believe the one poison control center for widespread Los Angeles County is not adequate. Sometimes, when trunk lines are loaded, it is difficult just to get a call through to Children's Hospital. Meanwhile a child's life hangs in the balance as doctors seek the ingredient of a solution—and the antidote. Prescription numbers and labels are often lost from bottles and jars which have aged and accumulated in medicine chests.

Incense-burning Chinese clock assembled; disassembled, see below.

MAN CAN MARK IT BUT NOT STOP IT:

The Flight of Time

By Stephen Pinney

WHEN prehistoric man knotted a dampened rope and set it afire, a slowly creeping spark marked the flight of time. Sundials were used in the 8th century B.C. and in 400 B.C. Plato introduced a water clock, the first mechanical time-piece, into Greece.

Passage of time was marked by the slow escape of water in this clepsydra or "water thief."

During the Middle Ages, when hour glasses and time candles were generally used, the first weight-driven clocks were invented. Many such clocks had no faces, but told time by striking a bell every hour. In fact our word "clock" comes from the French word "cloche," meaning bell.

FEW OF US are familiar with the Incense Clock of the Ming dynasty, but Mrs. Abbott Smith of Orange, having read "The Scent Of Time" by Silvio Bedini in the American Philosophical Society publication, instantly recognized two incense clocks listed as "incense burners" in an estate sale last November.

She consulted Leo Severns, president of the Southern California Chapter, National Association of Watch and Clock Collectors, and expressed her desire to purchase one of these clocks as a Christmas gift for her husband.

Both Dr. Abbott Smith and Severns are now proud owners of rare Chinese Incense Clocks.

Severns' clock is made of Partong and shaped like a Ju'i scepter, with archaic inscription on the perforated cover. The sou character represents long life with a design of seal characters for happiness, good luck and health. One of the five sections is filled with sand and covered with a grating for the incense path, on which the incense is carefully patted down before it is lighted to burn the minutes away.

AN OLD ENGLISH water clock inscribed "H. Brinkworth Fecit of Ye Olde Towne Salisbury, Anno Dom 1685" is in the Severns' collection. It has a brass dial and one heavy brass hand. A brass figure of King Charles II is mounted on the door of the oak case, and a brass tank in the lower section is engraved with an ancient scene in which the sun is dominant.

The operation of the clock is very simple. Inside the door is a brass tank with a brass water cylinder and a (Continued on Page 23)

Mirrors above sofa and piano are important decorating accessories in the spacious living room. Area adequately accommodates large sofa.

Mirrors play an important role throughout the house, but nowhere more prominently than on the walls of the bath.

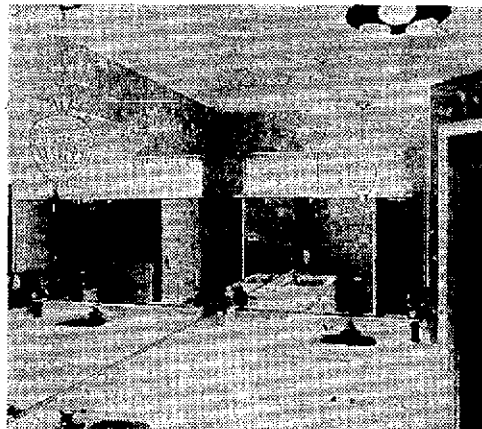

the room with cupboards below and china closets at the sides. The exposed area is covered with antique mirror.

Drapes in all three rooms are of white linen. The ceiling is beamed. Paneling is birch.

A DINETTE area is divided from the kitchen by a white tile bar. A glass top protects the walnut dinette table which is surrounded by captain's chairs. Above a built-in desk in the dinette is a china cabinet with leaded glass door. Appliances are in turquoise blue.

Adjoining the kitchen is a small study or den where a long built-in sideboard runs the length of the room with bookshelves above. Red leather easy chairs with matching hassocks invite a restful evening at home.

Space again is the key word in the master bedroom suite. The carpeting extends down the hall to the dressing room and into the bedroom. The color accent used in the bedspread is a shade of lime or mint green. The entire wall above the built-in dressing table is mirrored as is the wall in the adjoining bath above the wash basins. The basin area is white marble with twin pink sinks.

Another upstairs room which Mrs. Speohl calls her sewing room is done in gold with daisy wallpaper.

The homesite is larger than average, thus the patio area is ideal for entertaining. Separated from the house by a breezeway is a pool room where the table can be set up permanently, ready for instant use.

The Speohls designed their home themselves, and Mrs. Speohl did her own decorating. The total area—about 3,000 square feet—has been customized with undeniable skill.

What Your Name Means

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif., 90812, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Will you explain the surnames PINE, PYNE—M.G., P.P., Long Beach; A.P., Avalon.

PINE and PYNE both originated in ancient England, with the significance "dweller at the pine tree." Family ancestors include Thomas and Herbert de Pyn of Devonshire in 1271; Hercules Pine lived in Oxford in 1563. The Pyne armorial shield granted to Oliver Pyne of Devon in 1296 has an ermine chevron between three gold pineapples on a red background.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you inform us on BARRETT. — H. B., J. M., F. B., Long Beach.

BARRETT evolved in Britain from an early German-French hero name "Bero-ett" meaning "little bear." The bear symbolized strength in battle. A tenant-in-chief named Beret a baronial land owner, is the first recorded ancestor, listed in the Domesday Book of 1066. Two centuries later John Baret was a Lincolnshire resident. The Barrett shield, granted in 1383, is red, decorated with a silver stripe across the top, and a blue border. Richard, Robert and Thomas Barrett were Concord, Mass., residents prior to 1650.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on ORDUNO. — F. O., Santa Ana.

F. O.: ORDUNO, Spanish in background, developed from the ancient Roman term "Ordinis," and described "person of high rank." The Orduna shield from the Spanish Island of Majorca is silver. On it is double-ended key engraved in the center with a three-headed bird.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain ASPROMONTE. — S. L., Lakewood.

S. L.: ASPROMONTE is an Italian lineage, but this surname originated in France as Aspremont. The root-phrase, the Latin "Aspremontis" meant "rough mountain." The Aspremont shield is silver, crossed by a red stripe.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze GOUKER. — G. J., Long Beach.

G. J.: GOUKER originated in medieval Germany as "Gott-Heri" denoting "Divinely inspired warrior." Provincial dialect distortion resulted in the change from Gott-Heri to Got-her and and Gouker.

Strawberry Gelato is a new version of Italian soft ice cream made with California strawberries and instant nonfat dry milk crystals. The little tree is made with glazed strawberries, an edible decoration.

Strawberry Gelato

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

FRESH OR FROZEN strawberries are "the most."

The strawberry season brings endless delights to the eye and to the appetite. Frozen strawberries may be used in a new dessert as cool and smooth as Italian silk. Next we employ the berries—fresh—in the making of an Italian topiary tree. Glazed with currant jelly and chilled, the strawberries become an enchanting centerpiece, to be nibbled off their little tree at will.

The recipe is Strawberry Gelato . . . adapted from the soft ice cream sold in the streets of Italy during the burning Mediterranean summer. Made with instant nonfat dry milk crystals and whole milk, the Gelato is simple and inexpensive to prepare and packs substantial nourishment. The instant crystals actually fortify the milk to which they are added, providing double the proteins, B vitamins, phosphorus and calcium. Another admirable feature of this new Gelato is, of course, that it is considerably lower in calories than ordinary ice cream.

COIN ROUNDUP

New Market

By Maurice M. Gould

WITH COIN investing increasing at a rapid pace each year and with teletypes firmly established, the time was bound to come when the coin market would follow the same pattern as the stock, grain and metal markets.

Recently the world's first coin market opened in Canada and this portends what the future holds in store for us in this medium. This market will have customers' men, boards, teletypes, etc., along the same line as the world's other leading exchanges.

Glamour is added by having attractive young women who keep the quotations posted on the various boards. But instead of dealing in shares, this market will deal in coins, and there is no doubt but it will be a busy one because of the great number of investors attracted each year.

THREE TICKER tapes will transmit quotations, bids and other information into the market and will be linked with 200 United States dealers, as well as 90 dealers in the eastern part of Canada, eventually extending across to the West Coast.

The market will be open six days a week and will be available for public inspection; visitors will be given the opportunity to see how transactions are carried out, including local transactions flashed on closed circuit TV.

This coin market owns a Swiss machine, one of the three that exist today. This machine can magnify a coin or currency to 20 times its normal size. The other two are used at the mints in Switzerland and Austria to detect counterfeit currency.

There is no doubt that shortly we will have this type of market in the various large cities of the United States and, hopefully, it will spread over the entire North American continent.

EMBOSSSED CARDS are advertising novelties made mostly in the 1860s, usually the size of a silver dollar, and are fashioned of heavy cardboard.

They usually have the head of Liberty, with the date underneath on the obverse; the reverse will have the name of a product, with an eagle or other trademark, and are mostly gilded to resemble a $20 gold piece.

Many of these items have been destroyed over the years and it is difficult to find them in nice condition. A good many of the country's leading firms in the 1860s used this form of advertising, and many exnumismat and token collectors are eagerly seeking them.

Jenny Lind is one of the famous beauties whose picture appears on one of these cards, and many other famous beauties of opera and stage have also appeared on them. There are some known of George Washington, who appears on the obverse, and these are quite rare.

Condition is very important, as many of them come badly stained, torn, and mutilated. Items in nice condition are estimated to be worth $10 to $25 each.

IN KEEPING with the government's plans to some day reach the moon, a well known coin dealer has issued a Moon Token. It is octagon in shape and states, "Good for $1 (1 astron), redeemable for $1 (1 astron) at any store or bank on the Moon until 12-31-1969." The dealer is optimistic, as he expects us to be on the moon before 1969, but is to be commended because he does not want the coin collectors to be caught napping when we achieve our goal.

How Reagan Thinks

By Vera Williams

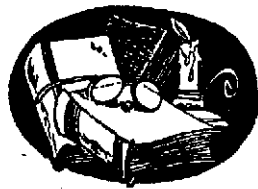

Southland Magazine Book Editor

RONALD REAGAN, veteran actor expected to become a Republican candidate for governor of California next year, tells how his political viewpoint changed from liberal to conservative in his autobiography "WHERE'S THE REST OF ME?" written with Richard Hubler (Duell, Sloan and Pearce, $5.95).

Reagan, a lifelong Democrat, became a Republican in the 1960 presidential campaign. The book ends with one of Reagan's key speeches pinpointing his beliefs in the fundamental freedoms which he believes must be carefully guarded if this country is to remain a democracy. He defines his faith in the individual "as opposed to the faceless masses who trudge along the path of totalitarianism."

The actor, whose career coincided with some of the stormiest days of the Screen Actors Guild, strikes, the rash of political and pseudo-political organizations which used the big name value of stars, says he changed from liberal to conservative when he realized subversive forces were attempting to take over Hollywood.

SHIRLEY SCHOONOVER, 25, who already has won two O. Henry prizes for short stories, has written her first novel "MOUNTAIN OF WINTER" (Coward-McCann, $4.95). She tells the hard, exacting life of a mountain farming community in the Midwest, where Finns determinedly have set about making an existence and turn to their saunas and shivarees for some diversion. The novel has primary strength and a basic honesty.

ALEXANDER the Great, possibly the luckiest and most brilliant conqueror of the ancient world, was unlucky so far as his place in history is concerned. Works of the main historians of his conquests, describing in detail how he built the great empire of the ancient world, were lost.

Thus archaeology became an important factor in filling the gaps in knowledge of his history and that of his empire. From every part of the ancient world sculpture, coins and inscriptions have come to light. From the representations on coins, rings, emblems, gems and mosaics to the fine sculptures echoing the style of Lysippos, Leochares and Apelles, a line can be constructed of value in reconstructing the art history of the Hellenistic and Roman worlds.

"ALEXANDER THE GREAT IN GREEK AND ROMAN ART" by Margarete Bieber (Argonaut, $7.50) is of exceptional interest to Alexander and art fans.

JACK PAAR has observed that the best stories are true stories. In his autobiographical "THREE ON A TOOTHBRUSH" (Doubleday, $4.95) he tells the funny, touching and sometimes dangerous experiences he, his wife Miriam and daughter Randy encountered as they traveled to exotic corners of the globe — from Africa and Tahiti to Red Square and Rockefeller Center.

Paar has spent the night in a tree in Africa, been the victim of a hit-and-run rickshaw in Zanzibar, and accused of creating an incident at the Berlin Wall. He has traveled by jet, ocean liner, camel, helicopter, pirogue, land rover and rickshaw. Writer Jack Douglas has called him "the Typhoid Mary of travel." Paar himself enunciates Paar's Law: "When Paar comes, trouble can not be far behind!"

A BOOK to be treasured as a basic reference work in any library is "MASTERPIECES OF GREEK SCULPTURE" by Adolf Furtwangler (Argonaut, $20) with chapters on the outstanding sculptors of the classical age such as Pheidias, Kresilas, Myron, Polykeitos, Praxiteles, Skopas and Euphranor, and sections on the masterpieces, the Apollo Belvedere and the Venus de Milo. The volume contains 75 full-page illustrations, 24 plates and 158 additional inset photographs and drawings. An appendix contains new material on Greek masterpieces recovered by excavation in recent years.

FROM THE 17th Century when Colonial traders drove barnyard cattle to Boston over the Bay State Cow Path until the late 1880s when the era of trail driving ended, the great frontier highways wound their way through American history. Even their names — Chisholm Trail, Wilderness Road, Osage Trace, Shawnee, Western, Cut-off, Dodge and Goodnight-Loving, among others — are a proud heritage. Harry Sinclair Drago, who wants no myths or folklore mixed with his hard Western facts, is the author of "GREAT AMERICAN CATTLE TRAILS, The Story of the Old Cow Paths of the East and the Longhorn Highways of the Plains" (Dodd, Mead, $5).

...And Now 'Lord Jim'

THE TWO plum motion picture roles of modern times, the title roles of Lawrence in the Sam Spiegel-David Lean Academy Award-winning production of "Lawrence of Arabia," and now Jim, in "Lord Jim," a film by Richard Brooks, have fallen on the unassuming, but extremely capable, shoulders of Peter O'Toole, a young actor who has barely crossed the threshold of his 30th year.

O'Toole was largely unknown to world film audiences just a few short years ago although he had previously distinguished himself on the British stage. He now stands at the blazing pinnacle of international film stardom.

"Lord Jim," based on Joseph Conrad's tale of high adventure and romance, also stars James Mason, Curt Jurgens, Eli Wallach, Jack Hawkins and Paul Lukas and co-stars Akim Tamiroff with Daliah Lavi as "The Girl." The Columbia Pictures release, filmed on location in Hong Kong and Cambodia in Super Panavision 70 and Technicolor, will arrive here soon.

O'TOOLE came to the title role of "Lord Jim" from a tremendously successful run as Hamlet, in the production which opened Sir Laurence Olivier's National Theatre in London.

He was born Peter Seamus O'Toole in Connemara, County Galway, Ireland. His family eventually moved to Leeds, England, Peter O'Toole has plucked another plum from the modern motion picture pie in "Lord Jim," the Conrad tale. He was also star of "Lawrence of Arabia."

where at 14, he secured his first job, as office boy on the Yorkshire Evening News. He rose to the position of reporter, but finding this personally unrewarding, he turned to acting after two years of service in the Royal Navy.

He applied for and won a scholarship to the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts.

THE ACTOR became a star with his second London play, "The Long and the Short and the Tall," which earned him the "Best Actor of the Year" award in 1959 and the Paris Festival Award.

O'Toole made his film debut in a small role in "Kidnapped." He was then signed by Jules Buck for the role of a young lieutenant of the Scots Guards in "The Day They Robbed the Bank of England." Later, O'Toole and producer Buck formed their own company, Keep Films Ltd., which shares co-production credit with Columbia on "Lord Jim."

The young star turned down several film contracts to act at the Stratford-on-Avon Shakespeare Memorial Theatre. He alternated in roles, Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice," Petruchio in "The Taming of the Shrew" and Thersites in "Troilus and Cressida."

It was at this point in his fast-rising career that O'Toole was asked to play the title role in "Lawrence of Arabia." He devoted more than a year to making the film on the remote sands of the Jordanian desert. Result was worldwide acclaim and a sure place in the international star galaxy. His other international film was "Becket."

How Reagan Thinks

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

RONALD REAGAN, veteran actor expected to become a Republican candidate for governor of California next year, tells how his political viewpoint changed from liberal to conservative in his autobiography "WHERE'S THE REST OF ME?" written with Richard Hubler (Duell, Sloan and Pearce, $5.95).

Reagan, a lifelong Democrat, became a Republican in the 1960 presidential campaign. The book ends with one of Reagan's key speeches pinpointing his beliefs in the fundamental freedoms which he believes must be carefully guarded if this country is to remain a democracy. He defines his faith in the individual "as opposed to the faceless masses who trudge along the path of totalitarianism."

Lack Effective Anticancer Drugs

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

DOCTORS are becoming disappointed with the anticancer drugs now available.

Only one type of human cancer can now be cured by drugs alone. In all other instances of malignancy, drugs offer only the possibility of bringing about a temporary remission of the disease process, or use as a palliative or adjunct to surgery and radiation.

How ever, Dr. Warren H. Cole, noted surgeon and a former president of the American Cancer Society, believes more effective anticancer drugs are on the way.

It's just a matter of time, he says. "With so many people working on it, it can't fail," he says.

PATIENTS who have survived a heart attack frequently display symptoms of depression, like those seen in grief, two Duke University psychiatrists report.

Those persons with mild heart symptoms experience rather severe depressive symptoms for the first three years of their illness, the study discloses. After that, the depression is mild.

Those with severe heart symptoms experience severe depressive emotions throughout their illness.

Still another finding: Regardless of the severity of the patient's heart ailment, the more often he is hospitalized, the more likely he is to have severe depressive symptoms.

Details of the study are in the journal Geriatrics.

CHILDREN of U. S. parentage being reared in tropical climes are smaller in stature than youngsters growing up on U. S. soil, a study shows.

The finding is based on a four-year study of nearly 200 children of U. S. businessmen stationed in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. The children, 6 to 12 years old when the study began, had already spent several years in the tropics.

They were significantly smaller in weight, stature and girth of the calf, compared to groups of children studied in California, Iowa and Ohio. Boys in the Brazilian study were also smaller in leg length and shoulder width.

Dr. Phyllis Eveleth, anthropologist of Sao Paulo, Brazil, says the differences are apparently a consequence of acclimatization to a relatively hot, humid climate. The report is in Medical Tribune.

VIRUS-CAUSED corneal ulcers respond to an antiviral agent called interferon, according to Dr. Veikko Tommila of the University of Helsinki.

Seventeen patients, given the drug, found treatment pleasant, he reports in Acta Ophthalmologica. Use of the agent caused no toxicity to the eye, he says.

Until recently the eye condition has been difficult to treat. Another new antiviral agent, idoxuridine, recently was made available for general use to treat virus infections in the eye. Interferon still is an experimental compound.

THE PAIN of tooth eruption in children can often be controlled by a salve containing equal parts of lidocaine ointment and a dental protective paste called Orabase.

Two Greenwich, Conn., researchers say the compound relieves pain in 4 to 15 minutes after application. They recommend it be applied to tissue over the erupting teeth three times a day. The report is in Dental Abstracts.

(This column frequently reports advances in medical research and opinions of medical authorities not yet accepted in general practice.)

Strawberry Gelato

container, a wooden dowel or spike, a styrofoam sphere, ribbon, colored foil and lots of fresh California strawberries.

Start with a container that is about 4 inches in diameter. Use a wood receptacle or spray a clay pot gold, red or what you will with aerosol paint (available in hardware and variety stores). When dry, fill with pebbles, marbles, putty or any substance that will hold a dowel in place. Insert a dowel, wooden peg or stick . . . about 8 inches high and no more than 1 inch in diameter . . . into container and wrap, if you wish, with matching ribbon. (We have left both container and dowel plain.) Now cut a piece of styrofoam or oasis (available at florists and variety stores . . . often already cut into shapes) into a 6-inch sphere. Cover completely with plain or colored foil. Using wooden toothpicks broken in half, attach strawberries to the sphere. You will require about 4 pints of berries and can use any left over to garnish the Gelato. Keep chilled. Shortly before serving, brush strawberries lightly with a hot glaze made by bringing 1/2 cup currant jelly and 2 tablespoons water to a boil. Chill again until needed. The glaze gives the strawberries added flavor and shine.

Strawberry Gelato

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 2 cups instant nonfat dry milk crystals
- 1 quart whole milk
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen sliced California strawberries, thawed
- Few drops red food coloring (optional)

Sprinkle gelatine over water to soften. Stir instant crystals into whole milk; blend in softened gelatine and sugar. Stir over low heat until gelatine dissolves. Cool.

Meanwhile, blend strawberries in electric blender or force through food mill. Sieve the strawberry puree, then stir into gelatine mixture along with food coloring. Turn into refrigerator trays and freeze until firm, then beat until smooth. Serve with additional strawberries, if desired. Makes 8 to 12 servings.

Save Branches

Branches pruned from trees or shrubs may be saved and used for staking peas—either edible peas or sweet peas grown for their beauty and perfume. It's easier to stick branches into the ground than to install chicken wire or plastic-coated netting and the vines will climb either type of support.

Free Swimming Pool Planning Kit

If you are planning a pool this year here is your opportunity to get a free kit showing all phases of pool construction. Also included are tips on pool buying plus complete information on special equipment. Kit is packed with facts and ideas you will want to know before you build.

This free kit was put out by Anthony Pools, world's largest pool-builder.

Its authoritative information was developed by Anthony, based on the building of over 24,000 pools.

In the pictures and text it describes the way modern pools are constructed. The growing use of high-speed automatic equipment for excavation and gunite cementing has kept the price of Anthony pools low while prices in general have gone up. A modern pool is just about the biggest bargain you can get these days.

It is important that you choose a builder large enough to offer you modern speed and economy.

During the first four months of this year Anthony has built more pools in the greater Los Angeles area than the next three largest pool builders combined. This is a dramatic endorsement of Anthony's value, service, and reputation.

Kit also describes such Anthony exclusive accessories as Hida-Sweep automatic pool cleaner — it is never removed from the pool — and Antho-Pure, the automatic pool purifier that holds up to six months' supply of Gardex.

Other sub-assemblies and accessories manufactured in Anthony's 15 acre plant and sold direct to the pool buyer help keep Anthony's price low. Anthony Pools' stock is listed on the American and Pacific Coast Stock exchanges.

For your free copy of this valuable kit, drop in or call Anthony Pools South Gate office at 5871 Firestone Blvd., phone SP 3-2210, TO 1-0381, or our Torrance office, 25412 S. Gresham Blvd., phone 832-5391 or our Anaheim office at 2050 So. Harbor, phone JE 4-3100.

Lack Effective Anticancer Drugs

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

DOCTORS are becoming disappointed with the anticancer drugs now available.

Only one type of human cancer can now be cured by drugs alone. In all other instances of malignancy, drugs offer only the possibility of bringing about a temporary remission of the disease process, or use as a palliative or adjunct to surgery and radiation.

However, Dr. Warren H. Cole, noted surgeon and a former president of the American Cancer Society, believes more effective anticancer drugs are on the way.

It's just a matter of time, he says. "With so many people working on it, it can't fail," he says.

PATIENTS who have survived a heart attack frequently display symptoms of depression, like those seen in grief, two Duke University psychiatrists report.

Those persons with mild heart symptoms experience rather severe depressive symptoms for the first three years of their illness, the study discloses. After that, the depression is mild.

Those with severe heart symptoms experience severe depressive emotions throughout their illness.

Still another finding: Regardless of the severity of the patient's heart ailment, the more often he is hospitalized, the more likely he is to have severe depressive symptoms.

Details of the study are in the Journal Geriatrics.

CHILDREN of U. S. parentage being reared in tropical climes are smaller in stature than youngsters growing up on U. S. soil, a study shows.

The finding is based on a four-year study of nearly 200 children of U. S. businessmen stationed in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. The children, 8 to 12 years old when the study began, had already spent several years in the tropics.

They were significantly smaller in weight, stature and girth of the calf, compared to groups of children studied in California, Iowa and Ohio. Boys in the Brazilian study were also smaller in leg length and shoulder width.

Dr. Phyllis Eveleth, anthropologist of Sao Paulo, Brazil, says the differences are apparently a consequence of acclimatization to a relatively hot, humid climate. The report is in Medical Tribune.

VIRUS-CAUSED corneal ulcers respond to an antiviral agent called interferon, according to Dr. Veikko Tommila of the University of Helsinki.

Seventeen patients, given the drug, found treatment pleasant, he reports in Acta Ophthalmologica. Use of the agent caused no toxicity to the eye, he says.

Until recently the eye condition has been difficult to treat. Another new antiviral agent, idoxuridine, recently was made available for general use to treat virus infections in the eye. Interferon still is an experimental compound.

THE PAIN of tooth eruption in children can often be controlled by a salve containing equal parts of lidocaine ointment and a dental protective paste called Orabase.

Two Greenwich, Conn., researchers say the compound relieves pain in 4 to 15 minutes after application. They recommend it be applied to tissue over the erupting teeth three times a day. The report is in Dental Abstracts.

(This column frequently reports advances in medical research and opinions of medical authorities not yet accepted in general practice.)

Strawberry Gelato

container, a wooden dowel or spike, a styrofoam sphere, ribbon, colored foil and lots of fresh California strawberries.

Start with a container that is about 4 inches in diameter. Use a wood receptacle or spray a clay pot gold, red or what you will with aerosol paint (available in hardware and variety stores). When dry, fill with pebbles, marbles, putty or any substance that will hold a dowel in place. Insert a dowel, wooden peg or stick
... about 8 inches high and no more than 1 inch in diameter ... into container and wrap, if you wish, with matching ribbon. (We have left both container and dowel plain.) Now cut a piece of styrofoam or oasis (available at florists and variety stores ... often already cut into shapes) into a 6-inch sphere. Cover completely with plain or colored foil. Using wooden toothpicks broken in half, attach strawberries to the sphere.
You will require about 4 pints of berries and can use any left over to garnish the Gelato. Keep chilled. Shortly before serving, brush strawberries lightly with a hot glaze made by bringing 1/2 cup currant jelly and 2 tablespoons water to a boil.
Chill again until needed. The glaze gives the strawberries added flavor and shine.

Strawberry Gelato

- 2 envelopes unflavored
gelatine
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 2 cups instant nonfat
dry milk crystals
- 1 quart whole milk
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen sliced
California strawberries, thawed
- Few drops red food coloring (optional)

Sprinkle gelatine over water to soften. Stir instant crystals into whole milk;
blend in softened gelatine and sugar. Stir over low heat until gelatine dissolves.
Cool.

Meanwhile, blend strawberries in electric blender or force through food mill.
Sieve the strawberry puree, then stir into gelatine mixture along with food coloring. Turn into refrigerator trays and freeze until firm, then beat until smooth.
Serve with additional strawberries, if desired. Makes 8 to 12 servings.

Save Branches

Branches pruned from trees or shrubs may be saved and used for staking peas—either edible peas or sweet peas grown for their beauty and perfume. It's easier to stick branches into the ground than to install chicken wire or plastic-coated netting and the vines will climb either type of support.

Double Duty Chest

Combining many uses in one unit, this handsome chest-coffee table, shown by Marianna Hill of NBC, has natural appeal for homemakers.

By Steve Ellingson

THERE'S something satisfying about convertible furniture other than its obvious function. This type of furniture, appearing to be one thing and then doing double duty as another, has a natural appeal to homemakers. Women like it because it fulfills a need to change the appearance of a room. Men like it for its "gadget" quality. You will have a hard time finding a project that helps a small home more than the handsome coffee table shown here with NBC actress Marianna Hill. Here is a unit that does many jobs well.

In it a teen-ager can store hopes for a bright future. Mom or grandmother will find it a place for keepsakes from the past. Handy, too, for storing such things as bedding for that pull-out sofa. Casters make it easy to move. The rack across the front keeps magazines orderly.

You may use this unit as a conventional coffee table. Then too, it makes a good looking window seat. Many home makers keep the chest at the foot of their bed. Just lift the hinged top and you have space for storing countless items.

THE CHEST shown was made of birch plywood, but you may use any one of the dozens of fancy plywoods now available. Building the chest is no trick at all when you use the easy-to-follow pattern. Inexpensive too, when you do your own building.

To obtain the easy-to-follow coffee table-chest pattern number 275, send $1 by currency, check or money order with name and address to Steve Ellingson, Pattern Dept., Southland Magazine, Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

Sex vs. Business

girls — come out here a minute and get a load of what just blew into town."

She continued to shake with ribald laughter, but managed to add: "This guy wants a room with private bath for two nights, I'll have you know!" Glancing around a bit sheepishly, I noticed that a sizable audience was gathering to take a gander at the real-gone "square"—yours truly, who had come there looking for a hotel room.

HOTEL "maids" began popping out of the various rooms on that floor, all of them rouged, perfumed, and in various stages of undress. Some of the male guests also thrust their heads through the open doors long enough to cast highly amused glances at me — a backwoods hick if they'd ever seen one.

Well, that incident rudely introduced me to the latest wrinkle in hotel "business" in Ontario at that time.

Double Duty Chest

Combining many uses in one unit, this handsome chest - coffee table, shown by Marianna Hill of NBC, has natural appeal for homemakers.

By Steve Ellingson

THERE'S something satisfying about convertible furniture other than its obvious function. This type of furniture, appearing to be one thing and then doing double duty as another, has a natural appeal to homemakers. Women like it because it fulfills a need to change the appearance of a room. Men like it for its "gadget" quality.

You will have a hard time finding a project that helps a small home more than the handsome coffee table shown here with NBC actress Marianna Hill. Here is a unit that does many jobs well.

In it a teen-ager can store hopes for a bright future. Mom or grandmother will find it a place for keepsakes from the past. Handy, too, for storing such things as bedding for that pull-out sofa. Casters make it easy to move. The rack across the front keeps magazines orderly.

You may use this unit as a conventional coffee table. Then too, it makes a good looking window seat. Many home makers keep the chest at the foot of their bed. Just lift the hinged top and you have space for storing countless items.

THE CHEST shown was made of birch plywood, but you may use any one of the dozens of fancy plywoods now available. Building the chest is no trick at all when you use the easy-to-follow pattern. Inexpensive too, when you do your own building.

To obtain the easy-to-follow coffee table-chest pattern number 275, send $1 by currency, check or money order with name and address to Steve Ellingson, Pattern Dept., Southland Magazine, Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

She continued to shake with ribald laughter, but managed to add: "This guy wants a room with private bath for two nights, I'll have you know!" Glancing around a bit sheepishly, I noticed that a sizable audience was gathering to take a gander at the real-gone "square"—yours truly, who had come there looking for a hotel room.

HOTEL "maids" began popping out of the various rooms on that floor, all of them rouged, perfumed, and in various stages of undress. Some of the male guests also thrust their heads through the open doors long enough to cast highly amused glances at me — a backwoods hick if they'd ever seen one.

Poised for a jump is Col. Clinton Gould, sky-diving veterinarian of U. S. Army paratroopers.

When he isn't chuting earthward, Col. Gould inspects camp food, doctors scout dog platoon.

The Army's 'Sky Vet'

By Walter Finch

UNCLE SAM'S anti-guerilla forces now have a sky-diving animal doctor.

He is Army Col. Clinton L. Gould of Hydesville, Calif., a veterinarian who recently graduated from paratroop school at Ft. Benning, Ga.

"I did it because today's Army is mobility conscious," says Col. Gould, who, at 50, is about 30 years older than the average parachute trainee.

Special Forces, Army's elite anti-insurgent cadre, had asked that jumping veterinarians be added to its ranks of military specialties.

A JUMPING vet has at least two important uses.

Working with MAAG (Military Assistance Advisory Group) units, such as are deployed in South Viet Nam, an airborne vet may be asked to fly to an isolated area to diagnose an outbreak of disease among animals that threatens the population in peace time.

Special Forces, the Army says, could use a jumping veterinarian during combat to deal with animal and human health problems in agricultural countries.

Health of native and domestic animals can have a direct effect on the health of both the local population and a country's troops as well as U.S. advisers.

AS CHIEF Army veterinarian for Ft. Benning, Col. Gould, a veteran of 24 years military service, inspects all food and supplies for the post.

He also gives medical care to the 30 canine members of the famed 28th Infantry Scout Dog Platoon stationed at the base and is responsible for disease control among wild animals in a big section of that region of the state.

Col. Gould says he gained some insight into the need for an airborne animal doctor while veterinarian for the Seine Area Command in France three years ago.

HE ATTENDED an international conference called to discuss a worldwide outbreak of African horse sickness.

"It is such outbreaks of disease among animals," he states, "that makes it important to be able to jump into an area where local personnel might need our help in making a diagnosis in time to prevent a widespread occurrence of the disorder."

A native of Northern California, Col. Gould is a graduate of Washington State University.

When the water has left the upper container and all is in the lower one, the clock has run down. To rewind it, a drain spigot is provided in the lower container so the water may be drained off and poured again into the upper compartment.

Galileo's discovery of isochronism, which led to the use of the pendulum, was applied more than a half century later in making an astronomical clock.

In his eager study of time, man has developed the chronometer and the chronoscope; all kinds of watches; the French mystery clock, cuckoos, alarms, world time clocks and others too numerous to mention. But he can never stop Time—not even for a second.

Color vs. Character By Eleanor Avery Price

SAN GABRIEL Valley Kennel Club has an unbenched show and obedience trial today at Recreation Park, Shamrock Avenue at Lemon Street, Monrovia. The season is on now for dog shows, puppies are everywhere (and so are kittens), and many prospective pet owners are wondering what breed would be best for them.

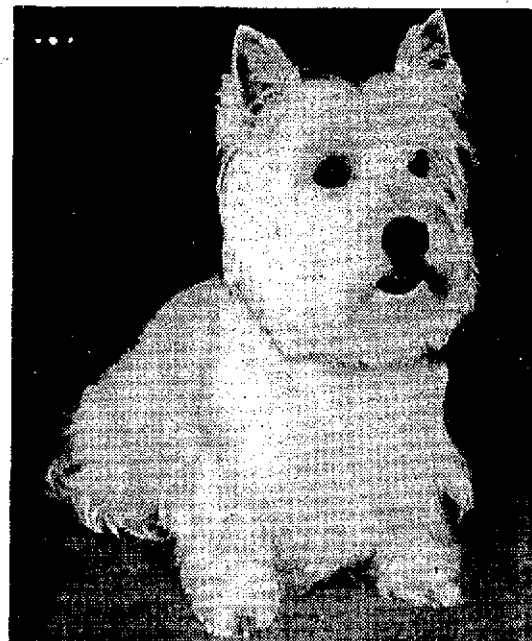

Pictured are West Highland white terriers owned by the David A. Mocabee family, 7082 Kermore Lane, Stanton. It took determined independent breeders to give us the Westie. In litters of old-time Cairn terriers a white puppy would appear now and then. Shocked and dismayed, most breeders did away with them and never acknowledged their appearances. But a few white Cairns were secretly kept and gradually were collected and bred together until a distinct terrier evolved. And fortunately, too, for the Westie is a hardy outdoor dog, yet ideal for a home pet. He is merry and a real doll. A thorough daily brushing keeps him clean.

IT ALWAYS dismays me when I hear of breeders eliminating a healthy purebred pup for no other reason than because of his coloring. It would seem the least they could do would be to have the pet altered and placed in a good home. Yellow Schipperkes, parti-colored poodles, and some other "undesirables" can make perfectly wonderful pets. Controlled breeding keeps the color pretty well in line, but a latent gene is a remarkable thing and can pop up in any litter.

Even more dismaying, of course, is the story of the mix-breed pet. There are not enough homes for them. Taking them to an animal shelter does not guarantee them a home. Those that are placed are too often not valued, and a few months later they contribute to the hundreds of thousands that never find a home.

A MIXED breed puppy (or kitten) can be just as lovable as the purebred but should, each and every one, be altered. My advice is to buy a purebred pet and take good care of it, never once allowing it to run the streets to create a mixed litter.

Killer in Your Home

(Continued from Page 9) ment staff dread the calls that proclaim another child is the victim of some medicine or poison. Care must be observed in disposal of unused medicines, they say. Children are curious and will investigate. Discarding of medicines no longer needed is a key factor in protecting children from these killers in the homes.

One incident concerned a 3-year-old girl who swallowed an unknown number of pills that had been left atop a bedroom nightstand. When the child arrived at the hospital she was in convulsions, turning blue and in a coma from which she never recovered.

ANOTHER CASE involved a 14-month-old child, a bottle of pain killer his mother was taking, a chair he could push to the medicine chest and a normal tot's curiosity. He swallowed an unknown quantity and died.

"Of course all medicine and poison gulping cases do not result in death," Dr. Litwack declared, "but the child's health can be impaired for months, years and even for life as the result of some potentially toxic product. All medicines that cannot be destroyed should be returned to their proper containers and to a shelf a child cannot reach, or better, placed in a locked cabinet. Never put gasoline, kerosene, lye solutions or any of the thousands of the useful products found in our homes today in soft drink or milk bottles or in paper cups."

Children enjoy the game of playing "doctor" or "nurse" and will give some toxic solution to a sibling as part of the play-acting.

One distraught Long Beach mother called a store where she had purchased a product to ask what her child might have taken. The clerk and others did not know. Pharmacists were called. Several others were asked in a desperate plea. Eventually someone called the Long Beach Health Department. A call was put through to the control center. The child lived.

Dr. Litwack offers this sage advice: "Remember, the medicine that may save the life of one may claim the life of another."

weight. The upper section drains into a lower section through regulation of a small spigot. As the water level sinks in the upper container, a float sinks with it, and the action turns the hands of the clock.

When the water has left the upper container and all is in the lower one, the clock has run down. To rewind it, a drain spigot is provided in the lower container so the water may be drained off and poured again into the upper compartment.

A mariner's astrolabe was used by Columbus on his first voyage.

Galileo's discovery of isochronism, which led to the use of the pendulum, was applied more than a half century later in making an astronomical clock.

In his eager study of time, man has developed the chronometer and the chronoscope; all kinds of watches; the French mystery clock, cuckoos, alarms, world time clocks and others too numerous to mention. But he can never stop Time—not even for a second.

Color vs. Character By Eleanor Avery Price

SAN GABRIEL. Valley Kennel Club has an unbentched show and obedience trial today at Recreation Park, Shamrock Avenue at Lemon Street, Monrovia. The season is on now for dog shows, puppies are everywhere (and so are kittens), and many prospective pet owners are wondering what breed would be best for them.

Pictured are West Highland white terriers owned by the David A. Mocabee family, 7082 Kermore Lane, Stanton. It took determined independent breeders to give us the Westie. In litters of old-time Cairn terriers a white puppy would appear now and then. Shocked and dismayed, most breeders did away with them and never acknowledged their appearances. But a few white Cairns were secretly kept and gradually were collected and bred together until a distinct terrier evolved. And fortunately, too, for the Westie is a hardy outdoor dog, yet ideal for a home pet. He is merry and a real doll. A thorough daily brushing keeps him clean.

IT ALWAYS dismays me when I hear of breeders eliminating a healthy purebred pup for no other reason than because of his coloring. It would seem the least they could do would be to have the pet altered and placed in a good home. Yellow Schipperkes, parti-colored poodles, and some other "undesirables" can make perfectly wonderful pets. Controlled breeding keeps the color pretty well in line, but a latent gene is a remarkable thing and can pop up in any litter.

Even more dismaying, of course, is the story of the mix-breed pet. There are not enough homes for them. Taking them to an animal shelter does not guarantee them a home. Those that are placed are too often not valued, and a few months later they contribute to the hundreds of thousands that never find a home.

A MIXED breed puppy (or kitten) can be just as lovable as the purebred but should, each and every one, be altered. My advice is to buy a purebred pet and take good care of it, never once allowing it to run the streets to create a mixed litter.

WEST HIGHLAND White Terrier Club of California has a match today after judging at San Gabriel show in Monrovia at 15 Woodlyn Lane, Bradbury (one mile from Monrovia show site).

There will be classes for all ages without championship points.

Several fine events are scheduled for next Saturday: California Collie Clan at Lynwood Park; California Sierra Doberman Pinscher Club at Highway 66 and Citrus Avenue, Fontana; Cocker Spaniel Club of Southern California at Griffith Play-ground; and English Springer Spaniel Field Trial Assn. at Prentiss Park, Santa Ana.

Killer in Your Home

(Continued from Page 9) sult of some potentially toxic product. All medicines that proclaim another child is the victim of some medicine or poison. Care must be observed in disposal of unused medicines, they say. Children are curious and will investigate. Discarding of medicines no longer needed is a key factor in protecting children from these killers in the homes.

One incident concerned a 3-year-old girl who swallowed an unknown number of pills that had been left atop a bedroom nightstand. When the child arrived at the hospital she was in convulsions, turning blue and in a coma from which she never recovered.

ANOTHER CASE involved a 14-month-old child, a bottle of pain killer his mother was taking, a chair he could push to the medicine chest and a normal tot's curiosity. He swallowed an unknown quantity and died.

"Of course all medicine and poison gulping cases do not result in death," Dr. Litwack declared, "but the child's health can be impaired for months, years and even for life as the re-

Children enjoy the game of playing "doctor" or "nurse" and will give some toxic solution to a sibling as part of the play-acting.

One distraught Long Beach mother called a store where she had purchased a product to ask what her child might have taken. The clerk and others did not know. Pharmacists were called. Several others were asked in a desperate plea. Eventually someone called the Long Beach Health Department. A call was put through to the control center. The child lived.

Dr. Litwack offers this sage advice: "Remember, the medicine that may save the life of one may claim the life of another."

Troubles We Don't Talk About

What Troubles? Complaints so personal that few people talk about them—burning, irritation and itching in the sensitive perianal (rectal and genital) area. What Causes Them? Many things, but especially the lack of hygiene. Doctors say that lack of proper cleanliness often prevents the condition from clearing up. This is true because the perianal area is repeatedly contaminated with potentially harmful bacteria and fungi.

What Do Specialists Recommend? Thorough and regular cleansing, particularly after each bowel movement. This halts the vicious "itch-scratch" cycle. In many cases, this alone will solve the problem of burning, itching, and irritation.

Why Not Plain, Ordinary Soap? Because soap washes away natural skin oils. Frequent and repeated use of soap can cause dryness and irritation, resulting in itching.

What Should Be Used? A new, foamy aerosol medication called ANNUL. It is a gentle but thorough cleanser to be used on toilet tissue or cotton. ANNUL is an antibacterial, antifungal cleanser—soothing, emollient and protective. Soothes burning and irritation. Helps to protect against secondary infection of raw, irritated skin.

The Best Way to stop itch-irritation is never let it get started. Begin regular use of ANNUL this week. Or if you suffer now, begin relief in seconds with ANNUL. It relieves itch-irritation without local pain killers that can mask symptoms and postpone sound medical treatment. If your discomfort persists by all means see your doctor. Ask your doctor whether it isn't wise to use ANNUL with other medications.

Effective Deodorant: Women especially, can be troubled with embarrassing odor. ANNUL is an effective deodorant foam because of its superior cleansing and antibacterial actions. Makes you feel fresher. Secure. Completely groomed.

Most people, after they have tried ANNUL, never use toilet tissue without it. And so inexpensive. You'll find ANNUL in your pharmacy.

Books by the Bus Load

an armload of books into the window. "Return these to the library for me," she yelled. The books missed Jo by a hair's breadth.

Since the war, Long Beach has built more and larger branch libraries, but they have not eliminated the need for the Bookmobile. There is always a new neighborhood waiting to be served. And two areas—Cabrillo Homes and the vicinity of Starr King School have been served continuously since 1944.

Mrs. Macintyre is now supervisor of the big, crazy bus that continues to give top service in the smallest amount of space. But such limitations are good, she thinks. They lead to goodwill between patron and staff and promote a warm sort of informality.

Only occasionally must restrictions be imposed, and they usually resolve themselves happily—like the time the small girl and the toddler stood hesitantly on the Bookmobile steps. They looked familiar but the driver couldn't place them. "Aren't you coming in?" he asked.

The girl brightened. "Can we, mister? Can we really? My brother's wearing rubber pants today."

Color for the Sunny Side

Amaranthus foliage is of fiery hue and develops color best when planted in full sun.

By Joe Littlefield

PLANT SOME annual amaranthus tri-color, Joseph's-coat, or one of the other foliage-color varieties your nurseryman may recommend, in full sun or a sunny location, and preferably against a heat reflected wall. When the upper foliage starts to color up, your neighbors will wonder if the plant, are on fire. The vivid colors blotted and streaked with bright red, yellow, and possibly orange leaves are such eye catchers, there's hardly any other lovely, colorful attractive flowering plants that can compete with amaranthus vivid color foliage.

Many of the fall planted winter-spring blooming annuals are about through. This means we can replant with summer into fall flowering sun loving annuals. As long as you're planting them, why not plant them in combinations and you'll have showier contrasting massed color effects.

As an example, plant a staggered row of petunias in front of a row or two of zinnias. The tall zinnias in bright gay colors will be accented more by the fewer more subdued colors of the petunias.

BOTH PLANTS furnish cut flowers. The zinnia blossoms last longer than petunias as cut blooms. Plant tips should be pinched out to force more branch growths, hence many more flowers later.

Annuals should be fed at least twice from the time they are set out till the flower buds set.

Another attractive but more subdued planting combination in sunny areas is asters set out behind a staggered row of dwarf ageratum or annual phlox. The small mounded ageratum provides miniature lavender puff ball flowers in clusters. The large double aster blooms in colors of white, purple, rose, pink, or lavender, tie in.

A bright planting could be yellow dwarf French marigolds in front of rich orange African marigolds.

It is much easier to have more varied colors with flowers that grow in sun than those in shade. We can, however, add lots of color in the shade garden, too. Plant coleus, impatiens, begonias and fuchsias in shady areas.

FUCHSIAS in Southern California like periodic shower baths during hot, dry, summer weather.

You should have pruned your fuchsias late January in mild areas, waited till early March if in frost sections. Now, we wouldn't prune them drastically, but if they need a little shaping up, trim them lightly.

Now's a good time to plant young gallon can size fuchsias available at many nurseries. Mix some mulch material with the soil to make it friable. Firm the soil well whether you plant them in pots, tubs, hanging, baskets, in the ground, or in outdoor planters.

Fuchsia hobbyists usually fertilize their fuchsias two or three times with a fertilizer of high nitrogen content, then change to a fertilizer that contains only a small amount of nitrogen, but lots of phosphorus and potash. Purpose of this latter type of fertilizer is primarily for better and continued bloomings.

Metal garden tools can be kept rust-free by wrapping in clear plastic wrap. If they have been exposed to moisture, it is a good idea to wipe them with an oiled rag, then place in air-tight clear plastic bag or wrap, according to the "Glad" home service group.

Books by the Bus Load

an armload of books into the window. "Return these to the library for me," she yelled. The books missed Jo by a hair's breadth.

Since the war, Long Beach has built more and larger branch libraries, but they have not eliminated the need for the Bookmobile. There is always a new neighborhood waiting to be served. And two areas—Cabrillo Homes and the vicinity of Starr King School have been served continuously since 1944.

Mrs. Macintyre is now supervisor of the big, crazy bus that continues to give top service in the smallest amount of space. But such limitations are good, she thinks. They lead to goodwill between patron and staff and promote a warm sort of informality.

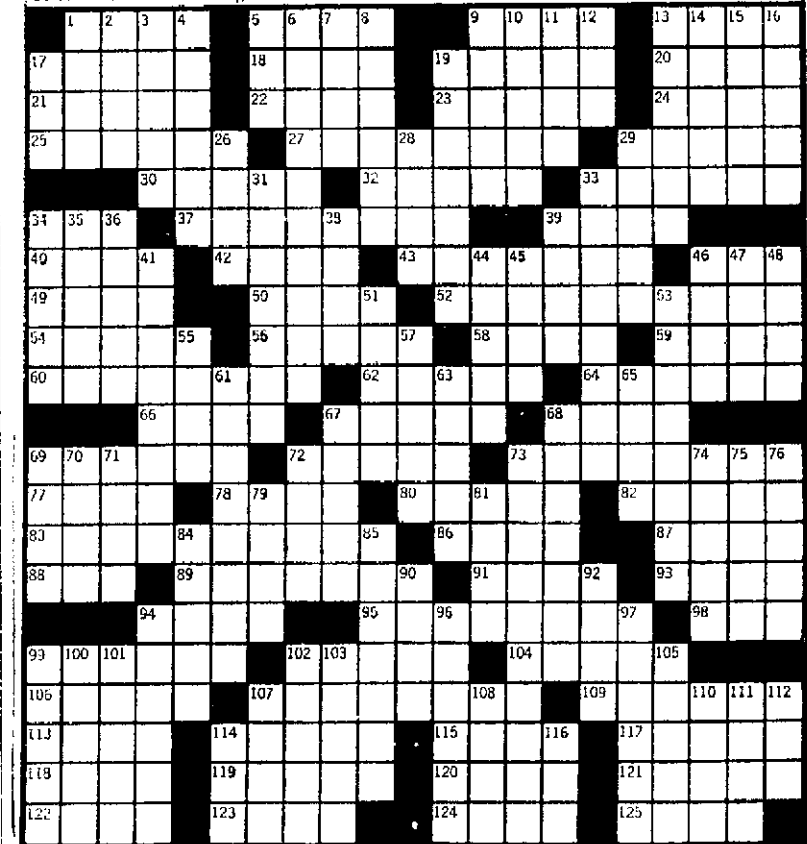

Only occasionally must restrictions be imposed, and they usually resolve themselves happily—like the time the small girl and the toddler stood hesitantly on the Bookmobile steps. They looked familiar but the driver couldn't place them. "Aren't you coming in?" he asked.

The girl brightened. "Can we, mister? Can we really? My brother's wearing rubber pants today."

LOOKING BACK a bit, I note that I've been dining happily at Sam's Sea Food restaurant for more than 15 years, off and on. It's interesting to see that the menu there has grown in exact proportion to Sam's vast physical expansion.

When I first started going there, Sam's had a conventional menu of a front and back cover with two inside pages of entrees. Following a disastrous fire in 1959, the place was rebuilt into a million-dollar Polynesian palace seating 650 persons. Additional expansions have occurred since then and more are under way. Next month work will be completed on a new banquet room which will permit more parties on weekends. Seating 150, it will increase Sam's capacity to 800 persons.

In keeping with all growth, Sam's now offers for the perusal of its guests a magnificent menu with six huge, color-tinted pages of reading matter inside. On Page 2 are photographs and mouth-watering descriptions of tropical beverages. On Page 3 are lists of delightful appetizers, such as littleneck clams, bluepoint oysters and cracked crabs; plus special soups, salads and sandwiches. Pages 4 and 5 offer descriptions of Sam's de luxe dinners, including nearly 60 different sea food, Polynesian, beef and chicken entrees, priced from $2.65. Page 6 offers Sam's delightful wine and champagne list, while Page 7 provides photographic glimpses and brief biographical data on the hosts and proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Katsaris and their eldest son, Richard. (Not pictured are two other lively sons, Gary and Bob, an editorial omission which undoubtedly will be corrected in the future).

It's also interesting to note that Sam's, which listed its address as 16178 Pacific Coast Hwy., Surfside, for 40 years, now has a Huntington Beach address. This, of course, is in keeping with the beach city's remarkable growth to the north.

SUNDAY TREAT — Since daylight savings time starts today, there'll be an extra hour of sun, making a leisurely Sunday drive into Orange County even more enjoyable than usual. The highlight of such a trip could well be dinner at Arnold's Farm House, 6601 Manchester Blvd., adjacent to the Santa Ana Freeway in Buena Park. This huge establishment, one of the area's finest family restaurants, has a superb variety of entrees, moderately priced. Open from 11:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., it's closed Mondays.

LOOKING BACK a bit, I note that I've been dining happily at Sam's Sea Food restaurant for more than 15 years, off and on. It's interesting to see that the menu there has grown in exact proportion to Sam's vast physical expansion.

When I first started going there, Sam's had a conventional menu of a front and back cover with two inside pages of entrees. Following a disastrous fire in 1959, the place was rebuilt into a million-dollar Polynesian palace seating 650 persons. Additional expansions have occurred since then and more are under way. Next month work will be completed on a new banquet room which will permit more parties on weekends. Seating 150, it will increase Sam's capacity to 800 persons.

In keeping with all growth, Sam's now offers for the perusal of its guests a magnificent menu with six huge, color-tinted pages of reading matter inside. On Page 2 are photographs and mouth-watering descriptions of tropical beverages. On Page 3 are lists of delightful appetizers, such as little neck clams, bluepoint oysters and cracked crabs; plus special soups, salads and sandwiches. Pages 4 and 5 offer descriptions of Sam's de luxe dinners, including nearly 60 different sea food, Polynesian, beef and chicken entrees, priced from $2.65. Page 6 offers Sam's delightful wine and champagne list, while Page 7 provides photographic glimpses and brief biographical data on the hosts and proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Katsaris and their eldest son, Richard. (Not pictured are two other lively sons, Gary and Bob, an editorial omission which undoubtedly will be corrected in the future).

It's also interesting to note that Sam's, which listed its address as 16178 Pacific Coast Hwy., Surfside, for 40 years, now has a Huntington Beach address. This, of course, is in keeping with the beach city's remarkable growth to the north.

SUNDAY TREAT—Since daylight savings time starts today, there'll be an extra hour of sun, making a leisurely Sunday drive into Orange County even more enjoyable than usual. The highlight of such a trip could well be dinner at Arnold's Farm House, 6601 Manchester Blvd., adjacent to the Santa Ana Freeway in Buena Park. This huge establishment, one of the area's finest family restaurants, has a superb variety of entrees, moderately priced. Open from 11:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., it's closed Mondays.

'Let's Make a Deal' Hit the Road Before the Air

BERT RESNIK

TV and Radio Editor

Like a Broadway show that plays New Haven first, Monty Hall took his "Let's Make A Deal" on a six-month tour prior to its NBC-TV network opening.

There was a reason for the non-televised tryouts—four reasons. That was the number of shows that had flopped in the time period Monty's program was slated to occupy.

So Monty played to 12 people atop a supermart in Panorama City. He brought the show to a church knitting bee at 9 a.m. He played to anyone wanting entertainment at anytime within 50 miles of Hollywood.

"And we learned everybody, no matter what age-group, what sex, went for it," said Monty.

"They went for it even though we were using make-believe money and make-believe prizes."

BY THE TIME the show was ready for its daily television debut in January 1964, Monty was convinced of one thing.

"People love the trading bit. Police love to gamble, to parlay nothing into something."

The show also offered the opportunity to parlay something into nothing. A contestant could walk away virtually empty-handed.

"There has to be this risk," said Monty. "Otherwise, greed would take over if they knew they couldn't lose."

Armed with the six-months' road tour knowledge, Monty felt he could predict how people would react on the show. His preconceptions, however, were wrong.

"There was, for example, an unemployed man who had $800 in his hand and I asked him if he wanted to trade for what was behind the curtain. I was sure he wouldn't."

"But I was wrong. He

'THE FUGITIVE' RUNS AND RUNS

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ Rumors Won't Stop Him as Third Season Comes Up

By RICK DU BROW

United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—All across the land, up and down, sideways and crosswise, over hill and dale, north and south, east and west, northeast and southwest, northwest and southeast, on the sea and in the air, the question burns: What will happen to ABC-TV's "The Fugitive?"

Will he be captured? Will he be declared America's greatest long-distance runner and be named to the 1968 Olympic team? Will he be perforated permanently by the trusty gat of the remorselessly pursuing detective named Gerard, and be stuffed?

The answer to all these questions, according to ABC-TV, is no, no, a thousand times no—at least while the ratings are so good. He will be back next season; he will still be played by David Janssen; he will still protest his innocence of his wife's murder, for which he was convicted before escaping when the train taking him to prison had an accident. He will still wish he could practice his profession of doctoring. Anything else you hear is malicious gossip, says ABC-TV.

STILL—THE RUMORS PERSIST, and they are even now of concern in higher educational quarters. An editor writes that his son, who attends a large university, says the program is an obsession of his college set. The great game, writes the editor, is to find out what is going to happen to The Fugitive in the end, if there is an end, and "bets on that subject have been made." And the college bettors have tried to contact knowledgeable sources before betting.

All of this seemed a good reason to pursue the source of the rumors further, and so we asked a Hollywood man-about-town named Stanley to look into the matter, and here is what our man Stanley found:

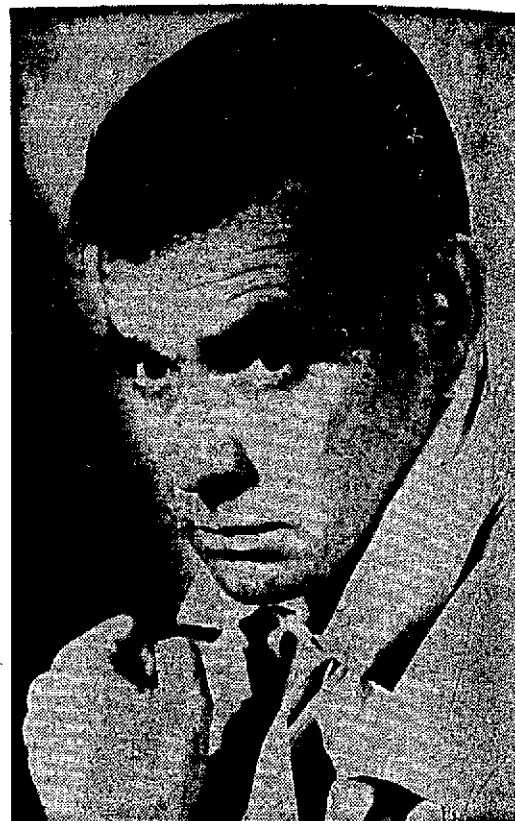

"One of the surest signs of success on television is to have your show a prime object for rumors. As far back as when the 'Mickey Mouse Club' made its debut, the rumors started immediately and the show was established as a success. Rumors like 'The kids are actually midgets—Disney has scouts covering all the grade schools from Seattle to Miami,' etc.

"MUCH OF THE VERBAL action about 'The Fugitive' started when the word got around that the show had filmed a final episode in which Janssen is cleared and it is proved that the real murderer is none other than Gerard. No one has been able to trace down the origin of this theory. Barry Morse, who plays Gerard, says, 'I was informed some unknown writer had brought out a paperback book using the format of our show. Obligated to come up with a dramatic ending for his story, this writer hit upon the device of making Gerard the real criminal.' But no one on the show, including Morse, has seen such a book.

"However, one slight cloud hangs over the series. Within the last weeks, the state of Indiana has abolished the death penalty. The Fugitive, convicted in that state, has had a death sentence hanging over him, but if he is caught now, life imprisonment is the maximum penalty. But Alan Armer, the producer, is not overly concerned at the moment. He says, 'We have all of our shows completed storywise for this year. When we start working on next year's shows we'll start thinking about how to meet this development.'"

Well, that's the word from Stanley, who is very reliable, and before you start making fun of all our work and research, and say that "The Fugitive" is silly in its idea, just remember, says ABC-TV, that Victor Hugo didn't do too badly with a faintly similar idea in "Les Miserables."

Monty Hopes for Summer 'Deal'

traded. Instead of going home with $800, he left the show with a bicycle."

THERE WAS a woman who won a $1,000 mink jacket. She was overwhelmed. She cried with happiness. Between tears, she said:

"Where, in my lifetime, would I ever expect to get one of these?"

Fifteen minutes later, as icily as a millionaire rolling the dice for $10,000, she agreed to trade the mink jacket for what was behind a door.

What was behind the door, in this instance, wasn't a bicycle. It was $2,300 worth of merchandise.

By way of contrast, there was a well-dressed, prosperous-looking couple who won $100. This couple declined to trade the $100 for whatever was in a box.

When the show hit the air, there was something that Monty couldn't predict. That was that it would become the program with the largest ticket demand of any series on the West Coast.

So large, in fact, that Johnny Carson, when he was on the West Coast for origination of his "Tonight" show, commented:

"We have a full house tonight. We must have the overflow from 'Let's Make A Deal.'"

★ ★ ★
SURE, Monty concedes, there's a large ticket demand because members of the audience think they have an opportunity to get something for nothing.

"But why, after the 42 traders are selected, do the other 510 stay and cheer their heads off instead of going home?" he rhetorically asked.

"The answer is that there's an atmosphere of huge fun. Everybody is in a great frame of mind."

Monty, a few months ago, was in a poor frame of mind. It had nothing to do with the show. He had a medical problem, had gone to his doctor and was awaiting the results of X-rays.

Finally, a call came from the nurse at the doctor's office.

"Your X-rays are back," she told him.

There was a pause.

"The doctor's wife wants to know if she can get four tickets for 'Let's Make A Deal.'"

"Oh yes, the X-rays are ok."

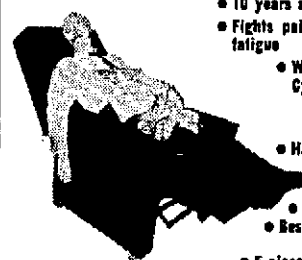

The doctor's wife got her tickets.

Right now, Monty would like to make a new deal with NBC-TV. He'd like to see his show go in prime-time in the evenings.

"If we went in the summer," he said, "we'd be the hottest summer attraction of any network, bar none."

"And we'd have bigger crowds at NBC Burbank than Walt Disney has at Anaheim."

BALDNESS

Like Time and Tide Waits for No Man!

Most people don't stop to realize that in 95% of the cases where a person is on the road to baldness, common sense on his or her part could prevent tragedy. People simply do not get around to doing something about their balding condition until, in many cases, it is too late. Yet, baldness, such as excessive hair-fall, dandruff, itchings, dry scalp, thinning or bald spots—in those years they probably spend substantial sums on their teeth and general body health. Yes, it is peculiar, but because oncoming baldness doesn't hurt like most parts of the body that are wasting away, many people simply let it go too long.

Our Turoff Clinics, in many major cities, are growing by leaps and bounds because more and more intelligent people are discovering that the secret of a healthy, thick head of hair is professional treatment to remove the causes of their hair loss.

What Are Treatments Like?

Briefly, Turoff scalp treatments are a scientific combination of ultra-violet stimulation, exclusive laboratory-created, clinically tested formulae, special germicidal applications and professional massage . . . administered in private. As a service to the public every Turoff Clinic offers a free hair and scalp examination AT NO OBLIGATION. By taking this examination, you can quickly find out exactly how serious your hair and scalp condition is and what you can do about it.

We have more than one million treatments behind us. Bring your hair problem to us now. Examination is free. No appointment needed.

BALDNESS

Like Time and Tide Waits for No Man!

Most people don't stop to realize that in 95% of the cases where a person is on the road to baldness, common sense on his or her part could prevent tragedy.

People simply do not get around to doing something about their balding condition until, in many cases, it is too late. Yet, baldness, such as excessive hair-fall, dandruff, itchings, dry scalp, thinning or bald spots—in those years they probably spend substantial sums on their teeth and general body health. Yes, it is peculiar, but because oncoming baldness doesn't hurt like most parts of the body that are wasting away, many people simply let it go too long.

Our Tuross Clinics, in many major cities, are growing by leaps and bounds because more and more intelligent people are discovering that the secret of a healthy, thick head of hair is professional treatment to remove the causes of their hair loss.

What Are Treatments Like?

Briefly, Tuross scalp treatments are a scientific combination of ultra-violet stimulation, exclusive laboratory-created, clinically tested formulae, special germicidal applications and professional massage... administered in private. As a service to the public every Tuross Clinic offers a free hair and scalp examination AT NO OBLIGATION. By taking this examination, you can quickly find out exactly how serious your hair and scalp condition is and what you can do about it.

We have more than one million treatments behind us. Bring your hair problem to us now. Examination is free. No appointment needed.

CRITIC'S CORNER

Excerpted Reviews on Recent TV Shows

Program: "Marineland Carnival," aired last Sunday on channel 2.

Just about once a year some TV network has the idea of doing a special program from California's Marineland. And last night CBS took us on our annual vicarious visit.

It seems to me that over the years I've inspected Marineland with Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, Lloyd Bridges and the Beverly Hillbillies to mention a few. Last night it was the Munster family that had the difficult job of trying to provide some land-locked comedy moments for the youthful audience in "Marineland Carnival."

No matter who the human celebrities are at Marineland, the only real stars are those docile, apparently friendly porpoises, whales, walruses and even octopuses, and they were as usual, quite fascinating. But the Munsters didn't have a chance with them around.

Critic Cynthia Lowry of AP

There are certain acts on TV, non-human, which never seem to wear out their welcome on the home tube. Foremost are the Marquis Chimps and nipping at their heels are the playful porpoises of Marineland.

The star act, the dolphins, came up with no new tricks. Neither have the chimps, but the lookers never seem to tire of them.

Critic Helm of "Variety"

Program: "Our Man in Washington," aired last Tuesday on channel 4.

As "Our Man in Washington," David Brinkley exposed how youngsters in the nation's capital are taught to sip soup and adults learn how to nip oysters.

In the nipping category, he related a story of a bygone congressman who consistently put away 40 shot-glasses of whisky every day, each filled to the brim.

With wry Brinkmanship, David noted:

"The congressman said his eye-sight was so bad, he couldn't tell if the glasses were filled until they ran over."

There were films of Mrs. Lady Bird Johnson planting pansies and wishing one and all:

"Good luck and good gardening."

There was extensive coverage of a woman's garden club and it was noteworthy that not one of the green-thumbed femmes smoked—at least not in front of the camera.

There were 1,700,000 still photos made by late photographer Charles M. Bell, who started his capital clicking in 1893.

Brinkley noted that Bell's family had wanted to make a greenhouse out of the glass photographic plates.

It was the greenhouse's loss and not necessarily the televiewer's gain.

In fact, unlike the bygone congressman, the televiewer with good eye-sight most likely came away from this hour special without his cup runneth over with joy.

Critic Bert Resnik of "TeleVues"

CRITIC'S CORNER

Excerpted Reviews on Recent TV Shows

Program: "Marineland Carnival," aired last Sunday on channel 2.

Just about once a year some TV network has the idea of doing a special program from California's Marineland. And last night CBS took us on our annual vicarious visit.

It seems to me that over the years I've inspected Marineland with Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, Lloyd Bridges and the Beverly Hillbillies to mention a few. Last night it was the Munster family that had the difficult job of trying to provide some land-locked comedy moments for the youthful audience in "Marineland Carnival."

No matter who the human celebrities are at Marineland, the only real stars are those docile, apparently friendly porpoises, whales, walruses and even octopuses, and they were as usual, quite fascinating. But the Munsters didn't have a chance with them around.

Critic Cynthia Lowry of AP

There are certain acts on TV, non-human, which never seem to wear out their welcome on the home tube. Foremost are the Marquis Chimps and nipping at their heels are the playful porpoises of Marineland.

The star act, the dolphins, came up with no new tricks. Neither have the chimps, but the lookers never seem to tire of them.

Critic Helm of "Variety"

Program: "Our Man in Washington," aired last Tuesday on channel 4.

As "Our Man in Washington," David Brinkley exposed how youngsters in the nation's capital are taught to sip soup and adults learn how to nip oysters.

In the nipping category, he related a story of a bygone congressman who consistently put away 40 shot-glasses of whisky every day, each filled to the brim.

With wry Brinkmanship, David noted: "The congressman said his eye-sight was so bad, he couldn't tell if the glasses were filled until they ran over."

There were films of Mrs. Lady Bird Johnson planting pansies and wishing one and all: "Good luck and good gardening."

There was extensive coverage of a woman's garden club and it was noteworthy that not one of the green-thumbed femmes smoked—at least not in front of the camera.

There were 1,700,000 still photos made by late photographer Charles M. Bell, who started his capital clicking in 1893.

Brinkley noted that Bell's family had wanted to make a greenhouse out of the glass photographic plates.

It was the greenhouse's loss and not necessarily the televiewer's gain.

In fact, unlike the bygone congressman, the televiewer with good-eye-sight most likely came away from this hour special without his cup runneth over with joy.

Critic Bert Resnik of "TeleVues"

'ORIENTALS CAN SCREAM'

Aki Hara 'Sick' of Shy, Sweet, Humble Roles

By ROBERT WILCOX

If they ever erect a monument to Aki Hara, maybe they should call her the girl with the comeliest carefully covered knees in Hollywood.

Or maybe the actress with the best controlled urge to throw things—anything.

In a half-dozen top national TV roles, the former Long Beach City College coed has been alternately shy—or quiet—or sweet—or just plain humble.

"It's sickening," says Aki, 18, who doesn't care much about acting anyway. "Something should be done. Producers don't seem to realize that Orientals can scream, get mad, pull their hair. I do it all the time at home."

AKI'S PROBLEM with "the Oriental image" started two years ago when she was singing three nights a week at the Los Angeles New Ginza night club and drowsing in economics classes at Long Beach Poly High.

With urging, she tried out and defeated 250 more experienced Oriental actresses for a starring role on the TV show "My Three Sons." Aki played a "very shy girl" from Hong Kong.

Subsequently—with time out for a quiet semester at

City College and a trip to Japan—she's been a quiet teen-ager ("Mr. Novak"), a demure pen-pal (Petticoat Junction) a shy Korean ("Gomer Pyle, U.S. Marine Corps"), a retiring servant ("The Bing Crosby Show") and a reticent aspiring actress ("That Funny Feeling"—a movie).

ONCE AKI thought she had her big break as a Chinese burlesque comic in "Valentine's Day." But even Chinese burlesque comedians, it turned out, are severely inhibited.

Aki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fukuhara of 2140 California Ave., plugged away at the accordion through Barnett and Hughes schools then switched to jazz singing. Today she spends $20 a week on records and buys "almost no clothes at all."

Hollywood agent Thelma White caught her at the New Ginza and switched her to acting. "I knew that anyone who could sing with such heart and soul could also act," lauds Miss White.

But Aki, who's already achieved a measure of fame which would make many a girl envious, has other ideas. "I'm just not ambitious at all about acting," she says.

The B student figures to take a few more roles and then maybe go back to college. That is unless they start giving her a chance to play a real live wire—say, like Mata Hari.

SPECIAL

CHARLIE CHAPLIN: King of Comedy—Guests Chester Conklin and Sterling Holloway join host Sam Edwards in an hour's tribute to the talent which made the whole world laugh. Featured at 8 p.m., ch. 13, are segments of "A Night at the Show" and "Shanghai," the latter featuring Chaplin in his famed "little tramp" character.

MY NAME IS BARBRA—They told her to change her name, Streisand, so she changed Barbara Instead. And the unpredictable Brooklyn-born star of "Funny Girl," who turned 23 last Saturday, has had her own non-conforming way in just about everything else since a 1960 talent contest won her a singing engagement in a Village nightclub, the Bon Soir. At 9 p.m., ch. 2, Barbra stars in the first of three specials over a two-year period, produced by her own company, for which CBS guarantees her an excess of one million dollars. More than a score of songs are offered in the one-woman, three-segment hour, moving from a surrealistic "Alice in Wonderland" excursion to a 9-minute fun - and - fashion fantasy taped at posh Bergdorf Goodman (and featuring songs of poverty and the depression) and on to a concert of songs from her albums, from "Funny Girl" and from Fannie Brice's "My Man."

Her manager, Marty Erlichman, makes his performing debut as the coachman who helps Barbra from her carriage at Bergdorf's.

YOUTH'S SALUTE to Liberty—The 30-foot-high 25-scene Birth of Liberty mosaic, dedicated last Sunday at Forest Lawn, is the focal point for an hour's special at 9 p.m., ch. 11, narrated by Pat Boone, and featuring orchestras, youth bands and an 800-voice intra-high school chorus. Don Grady, of "My Three Sons" and this week's Novak guestar, reads the national prize winning high school essay, "I Am an American," especially set to music by Carmen Dragon.

Networks Put Movie 'Squeeze' on Independents

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA)—Live television may be coming back, and in the unlikelyst place.

Independent television stations, of which there are nearly 50 scattered in major markets across the United States, as well as network affiliates which must fill many hours on a local basis, are feeling a programming pinch resulting from a combination of network competition, a dwindling supply of old movies, and high prices for those features still available.

When television was in its infancy and the networks filled with live programming, independents and affiliates found that old movies were the cheapest way to fill their program schedules.

It was nice while it lasted.

But the law of supply and demand is now overpricing those Hollywood films still available to television. One independent television executive with problems is Hathaway Watson. He is president of RKO

General, which owns television stations in New York, Boston, Detroit, Memphis and Los Angeles. He feels the answer to the problem may come from live programming.

"IN 1959," Watson says, "a first-rate feature film cost $12,500. The current price is not less than $25,000 per title. CBS paid $38,000 per title last spring. I have been told to expect prices in a year to run as high as $60,000 each."

Good features have been snapped up by the networks for their weekly shows.

One alternative for independents is "off-network" programming, reruns of network series. But this has its problems, too. "Shows are becoming scarce or expensive," Watson says.

"Networks hold on to their successful products to run in the daytime."

The final, and perhaps most hopeful alternative, is live programming.

Because of budgets, most of the live shows are talk-fests.

'ORIENTALS CAN SCREAM'

Aki Hara 'Sick' of Shy, Sweet, Humble Roles

By ROBERT WILCOX

If they ever erect a monument to Aki Hara, maybe they should call her the girl with the comeliest carefully covered knees in Hollywood.

Or maybe the actress with the best controlled urge to throw things—anything.

In a half-dozen top national TV roles, the former Long Beach City College coed has been alternately shy—or quiet—or sweet—or just plain humble.

"It's sickening," says Aki, 18, who doesn't care much about acting anyway. "Something should be done. Producers don't seem to realize that Orientals can scream, get mad, pull their hair. I do it all the time at home."

AKI'S PROBLEM with "the Oriental image" started ed two years ago when she was singing three nights a week at the Los Angeles New Ginza night club and drowsing in economics classes at Long Beach Poly High.

With urging, she tried out and defeated 250 more experienced Oriental actresses for a starring role on the TV show "My Three Sons." Aki played a "very shy girl" from Hong Kong.

Subsequently—with time out for a quiet semester at

City College and a trip to Japan—she's been a quiet teen-ager ("Mr. Novak"), a demure pen-pal (Petticoat Junction) a shy Korean ("Gomer Pyle, U.S. Marine Corps"), a retiring servant ("The Bing Crosby Show") and a reticent aspiring actress ("That Funny Feeling"—a movie).

ONCE AKI thought she had her big break as a Chinese burlesque comic in "Valentine's Day." But even Chinese burlesque comedians, it turned out, are severely inhibited.

Aki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fukuhara of 2140 California Ave., plugged away at the accordion through Barnett and Hughes schools then switched to jazz singing. Today she spends $20 a week on records and buys "almost no clothes at all."

Hollywood agent Thelma White caught her at the New Ginza and switched her to acting. "I knew that anyone who could sing with such heart and soul could also act," lauds Miss White.

But Aki, who's already achieved a measure of fame which would make many a girl envious, has other ideas. "I'm just not ambitious at all about acting," she says.

The B student figures to take a few more roles and then maybe go back to college. That is unless they start giving her a chance to play a real live wire—say, like Mata Hari.

COATES ON: The Killing —Both sides of the "getting involved" or good samaritan question are probed at 8:30 p.m., ch. 11. In his monthly special, Coates examines the story of Eugene Johnston, convicted of manslaughter in 1983 after going to the aid of a woman involved in a fight with her ex-husband. Then he recalls the incident that same year when 38 people in New York let a woman die on the street.

WORLD'S FAIR Entertainment Spectacular — For their third Electric Showcase special, Gordon and Sheila MacRae ride the Swiss sky ride to the fair grounds where they welcome guests Al Hirt and the New Christy Minstrels. Performers at the leading pavilions also will be featured during the 10 p.m. hour, ch. 7, including the La Jota dancers (Spanish), Huntsman dance (African), Tray dance (Moroccan), Fire dance (Polynesian), Villarroel band (Venezuelan) and little girls from the Danish pavilion's Tivoli Gardens, as well as Les Poupees de Paris and the Auto Thrill Show.

SPECIAL

CHARLIE CHAPLIN: King of Comedy—Guests Chester Conklin and Sterling Holloway join host Sam Edwards in an hour's tribute to the talent which made the whole world laugh. Featured at 8 p.m., ch. 13, are segments of "A Night at the Show" and "Shanghaied," the latter featuring Chaplin in his famed "little tramp" character.

MY NAME IS BARBRA—They told her to change her name, Streisand, so she changed Barbara. Instead. And the unpredictable Brooklyn-born star of "Funny Girl," who turned 23 last Saturday, has had her own non-conforming way in just about everything else since a 1960 talent contest won her a singing engagement in a Village nightclub, the Bon Soir. At 9 p.m., ch. 2, Barbra stars in the first of three specials over a two-year period, produced by her own company, for which CBS guarantees her an excess of one million dollars. More than a score of songs are offered in the one-woman, three-segment hour, moving from a surrealistic "Alice in Wonderland" excursion to a 9-minute fun- and -fashion fantasy taped at posh Bergdorf Goodman (and featuring songs of poverty and the depression) and on to a concert of songs from her albums, from "Funny Girl" and from Fannie Brice's "My Man." Her manager, Marty Erlichman, makes his performing debut as the coachman who helps Barbra from her carriage at Bergdorf's.

YOUTH'S SALUTE to Liberty—The 30-foot-high 25-scene Birth of Liberty mosaic, dedicated last Sunday at Forest Lawn, is the focal point for an hour's special at 9 p.m., ch. 11, narrated by Pat Boone, and featuring orchestras, youth bands and an 800-voice intra-high school chorus. Don Grady, of "My Three Sons" and this week's Novak guestar, reads the national prize winning high school essay, "I Am an American," especially set to music by Carmen Dragon.

Pan and Fan Mail

What has happened to Count Marco? Why was no advance notice given that he was going off the air? Will he be back on?

Mrs. K. L. Ferguson, Long Beach

The Count has been stripped from channel 7's programming to make room for Gypsy Rose Lee. Her daily 8:30 a.m. show will start May 3.

Currently, there are no plans for the Count to come back on since it's easier to tell what's coming off with Gypsy.

Could you please tell me if "As the World Turns" will be on both night and day.

I read somewhere that in May it would be on in the evening. I've watched it ever since it's been on TV.

N. R. Allen, Long Beach

It will be on night and day.

The night version, which will be called "Our Private World," will air Wednesdays and Fridays starting May 5.

Geraldine Fitzgerald has been signed for a lead role in the night version. Eileen Fulton, who plays Lisa Hughes in the daytime, will be moved to the night series.

Night and day. Holy Toledo!

Shouldn't something be done about poor Illya (from UNCLE) always being hurt?

It seems like almost every week he gets hit over the head, thrown down a dark well or some gruesome thing.

Of course, he always comes out gallant and beautiful in the end, but that doesn't soften the blows any.

Do you think there will be as many hits on the head for Illya in the future?

All the Way With Illya!
Shirlee Bendenson, Long Beach

MGM, which likewise goes all the way with Illya K, feels that the man who portrays the role, David McCallum, should have his say. And David wants more roughhousing, rather than less. What he wants less of is romance.

I have two questions which are:

Is the TV series "The Man From UNCLE" doomed to failure? If so, I will miss it.

In the series, there is mention of a counter-organization called THRUSH. What does it stand for?

And also where can I send to for an UNCLE card?

Joseph Ungaro, San Pedro

"UNCLE" will be back

next season—on Fridays.

"THRUSH" is so secretive, even the producers of the series don't know what it stands for. They suspect it's the ultimate computer. It controls man rather than vice versa.

And in reply to your THIRD question, Joseph (where did you learn to count?), send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to:

UNCLE Headquarters, MGM, Culver City, Calif.

If you're interested, THRUSH cards are also available.

Was wondering if you could tell me whether the Del Courtney now married to, I believe, Yvonne King of the King Sisters, is the same Del Courtney who had a band at one time in Calgary, Alberta, Canada and also in Edmonton, Alberta?

Mrs. Veronica Eubank, Downey

Yes.

Networks Put Movie 'Squeeze' on Independents

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA)—Live television may be coming back, and in the unlikely place.

Independent television stations, of which there are nearly 50 scattered in major markets across the United States, as well as network affiliates which must fill many hours on a local basis, are feeling a programming pinch resulting from a combination of network competition, a dwindling supply of old movies, and high prices for those features still available.

When television was in its infancy and the networks filled with live programming, independents and affiliates found that old movies were the cheapest way to fill their program schedules.

It was nice while it lasted.

But the law of supply and demand is now overpricing those Hollywood films still available to television. One independent television executive with problems is Hathaway Watson. He is president of RKO

General, which owns television stations in New York, Boston, Detroit, Memphis and Los Angeles. He feels the answer to the problem may come from live programming.

"IN 1959," Watson says, "a first-rate feature film cost $12,500. The current price is not less than $25,000 per title. CBS paid $38,000 per title last spring. I have been told to expect prices in a year to run as high as $60,000 each."

Good features have been snapped up by the networks for their weekly shows.

One alternative for independents is "off-network" programming, reruns of network series. But this has its problems, too. "Shows are becoming scarce or expensive," Watson says.

"Networks hold on to their successful products to run in the daytime."

The final, and perhaps most hopeful alternative, is live programming.

Because of budgets, most of the live shows are talk-fests.

Pan and Fan Mail

What has happened to Count Marco? Why was no advance notice given that he was going off the air? Will he be back on?

Mrs. K. L. Ferguson,
Long Beach

The Count has been stripped from channel 7's programming to make room for Gypsy Rose Lee. Her daily 8:30 a.m. show will start May 3.

Currently, there are no plans for the Count to come back on since it's easier to tell what's coming off with Gypsy.

next season—on Fridays. "THRUSH" is so secretive, even the producers of the series don't know what it stands for. They suspect it's the ultimate computer. It controls man rather than vice versa.

And in reply to your THIRD question, Joseph (where did you learn to count?), send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to:

UNCLE Headquarters,
MGM, Culver City, Calif.

If you're interested, THRUSH cards are also available.

Was wondering if you could tell me whether the Del Courtney now married to, I believe, Yvonne King of the King Sisters, is the same Del Courtney who had a hand at one time in Calgary, Alberta, Canada and also in Edmonton, Alberta?

Mrs. Veronica Eubank,
Downey

Yes.

Could you please tell me if "As the World Turns" will be on both night and day.

I read somewhere that in May it would be on in the evening. I've watched it ever since it's been on TV.

N. R. Allen, Long Beach

It will be on night and day.

The night version, which will be called "Our Private World," will air Wednesdays and Fridays starting May 5.

Geraldine Fitzgerald has been signed for a lead role in the night version. Eileen Fulton, who plays Lisa Hughes in the daytime, will be moved to the night series.

Night and day. Holy Toledo!

Shouldn't something be done about poor Ilya (from UNCLE) always being hurt?

It seems like almost every week he gets hit over the head, thrown down a dark well or some gruesome thing.

Of course, he always comes out gallant and beautiful in the end, but that doesn't soften the blows any.

Do you think there will be as many hits on the head for Ilya in the future?

All the Way With Ilya K!
Shirlee Benderson,
Long Beach

MGM, which likewise goes all the way with Ilya K, feels that the man who portrays the role, David McCallum, should have his say. And David wants more roughhousing, rather than less. What he wants less of is romance.

I have two questions which are:

Is the TV series "The Man From UNCLE" doomed to failure? If so, I will miss it.

In the series, there is mention of a counter-organization called THRUSH. What does it stand for?

And also where can I send to for an UNCLE card?

Joseph Ungaro, San Pedro
"UNCLE" will be back

The new JFD Cap-Electronic Dipole LPV Log Periodic is the first and only single antenna that works on all channels 2 to 83, (and FM). Features super-sensitive new capacitor-coupled dipoles that work electronically for more picture power on every channel.

It is based on the same design as that of satellite-tracking antennas to give you brilliant reception in COLOR, black/white TV—even FM Stereo. So if you are converting your set or buying a new all-channel 2-83 UHF/VHF TV, a new JFD LPV Log Periodic with Cap-Electronic dipoles is a "must." Developed from research performed at the University of Illinois Antenna Research Laboratories.

Parlez Vous Habla Espanol, Pardner?

By ROBERT MUSEL

NEW YORK (UPI)—The posse, cantering through its own dust in its desert pursuit of a fugitive badman, reined up to talk to an Indian silent in the shadow of a cactus. Well-versed in the ways of the red man, they waited for him to open the conversation. Finally the Indian raised his palm and said:

"Wie gehts?"

Stiff-legged the cowboy stalked down the main street of Rigor Mortis, N.M., arms arched and fingers hooked for the draw. He did not see an accomplice of the villain slide from the livery stable to bring him down from behind with a rifle. But an old prospector, lurching out of the saloon, shouted:

"Prenez garde, Monsieur!"

Shot twice by desperadoes in the pay of the cattlemen, Buck Roe staggered towards the saloon to die in the arms of his lady love, Klondike Kitty. He opened the swing doors to find her kissing the owner of a gold mine. And as he sank to the floor, he murmured:

That may not be exactly what the fellow said when the three scenes paraphrased above were filmed for television in Hollywood, but that's the language audiences heard when the films were shown in Germany, France and Italy with dialogue dubbed by native speakers.

Anywhere you travel today, in any country where television opens its little window on the world, you are apt to see more American TV programs than local ones. In the nations of the Eurovision network which links Europe, they know all about Perry Mason, I Love Lucy, Petticoat Junction, The Beverly Hillbillies and other top-rated shows of the American networks.

Moppets in Britain and elsewhere went through a craze of carrying six-shooters and mimicking Wyatt Earp or Gunsmoke to the chagrin of British elders who wondered why the rich vein of their own long history had not inspired youngsters to act like knights in armor or Robin Hood.

ASTHMA & SMOG

Air poisoned by smog, gas, dust and pollen aggravates recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. At the first sign of difficult breathing, wheezing, coughing and mucus congestion from such causes, start taking MENDACO to combat allergy, loosen and help remove choking phlegm, and thus promote freer breathing and more restful sleep. Most druggists keep and recommend MENDACO.

Parlez Vous Habla Espanol, Pardner?

By ROBERT MUSEL

NEW YORK (UPI)—The posse, cantering through its own dust in its desert pursuit of a fugitive badman, reined up to talk to an Indian silent in the shadow of a cactus. Well-versed in the ways of the red man, they waited for him to open the conversation. Finally the Indian raised his palm and said:

"Wie gehts?"

Stiff-legged the cowboy stalked down the main street of Rigor Mortis, N.M., arms arched and fingers hooked for the draw. He did not see an accomplice of the villain slide from the livery stable to bring him down from behind with a rifle. But an old prospector, lurching out of the saloon, shouted:

"Prenez garde, Monsieur!"

Shot twice by desperadoes in the pay of the cattlemen, Buck Roe staggered towards the saloon to die in the arms of his lady love, Klondike Kitty. He opened the swing doors to find her kissing the owner of a gold mine. And as he sank to the floor, he murmured:

"La donna e mobile."

That may not be exactly what the fellow said when the three scenes paraphrased above were filmed for television in Hollywood, but that's the language audiences heard when the films were shown in Germany, France and Italy with dialogue dubbed by native speakers.

Anywhere you travel today, in any country where television opens its little window on the world, you are apt to see more American TV programs than local ones. In the nations of the Eurovision network which links Europe, they know all about Perry Mason, I Love Lucy, Petticoat Junction, The Beverly Hillbillies and other top-rated shows of the American networks.

Moppets in Britain and elsewhere went through a craze of carrying six-shooters and mimicking Wyatt Earp or Gunsmoke to the chagrin of British elders who wondered why the rich vein of their own long history had not inspired youngsters to act like knights in armor or Robin Hood.

ASTHMA & SMOG
Air poisoned by smog, gas, dust and pollen aggravates recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. At the first sign of difficult breathing, wheezing, coughing and mucus congestion from such causes, start taking MENDACO to combat allergy, loosen and help remove clogging phlegm, and thus promote freer breathing and more restful sleep. Most dramatic keep and recommend MENDACO.

A child runs for help to Mrs. Donald Pettit's "Block Home," one of many in Omaha, Neb.

HELPING HANDS FOR KIDS IN DANGER

by ELAINE Q. BARROW

Within minutes after a would-be molester tried to lure a school-girl into his car, police were snapping handcuffs on his wrists. "How did you get me so fast?" he gasped.

"We got a phone call 30 seconds after you spoke to the child," an officer said. "You were caught by the Helping Hand."

The scene was Casper, Wyo. In communities of at least a dozen states across the nation similar crimes are being thwarted by Block Parent plans like Helping Hand.

Although names and details vary, most programs follow this basic method: At least one resident in every block of a school district volunteers her home as a refuge to a child walking along the street who becomes frightened, ill, lost or otherwise in need of help. The telephone is always ready to summon outside help.

A window placard, readily seen from the street, identifies the volunteer's home. In Casper, the placard bears the silhouette of a white hand on a black background. Some cities use lettering, BLOCK HOME or BLOCK PARENT.

Child protection plans are usually organized and operated on an independent, local school district basis, so that each program is shaped to individual needs. Omaha, Neb., and Casper, Wyo., are typical examples of how different requirements are met.

In Omaha, a city of 300,000, the program was introduced in 1964 by the Mason School PTA. The Mason district covers 50 blocks in the heart of the city.

Organized by Mrs. Donald Pettit, PTA president, the Mason plan operates 24 hours a day, 12 months a year. Volunteers are parents of pupils, parents of pre-school toddlers, grandparents and childless couples.

Block Parent homes are supplemented during certain hours by two grocery stores, a beauty salon and the non-denominational Christ Child Recreation Center. All display 8 by 10-inch wooden placards with BLOCK HOME in letters 2 inches high. The homes, or "stations," are situated so several can be seen from any one spot along the street. Thus if one volunteer is called away unexpectedly, another is near-by.

strikes home

The three most common "rescues" deal with lost children, small boys bitten by dogs and small girls teased by bullies.

The program's value was demonstrated recently with one of Mrs. Pettit's own daughters. A truck with 3 men in it swerved to the curb where the 10-year-old Pettit girl stood. Leaning from the cab, one man began mouthing obscenities. The terrified girl ran toward a house with the familiar BLOCK HOME sign—just as the men, too, spotted the sign. The truck sped away.

"Helping Hand" and "Block Home" signs mean safety for many children in U.S.

Casper, a city of 39,000 population, launched its Helping Hand following the attempted pickup of a girl in the Pineview school district. Incidents ceased in that district after the program was established.

Now, all 18 public elementary schools and 1 Catholic school in Casper participate in the program, with some 1,500 volunteers keeping a watchful eye on more than 8,000 youngsters.

Mrs. Arthur Biggs, who initiated the program, notes that distances are not great in Casper, and children are expected to be home from school by 4 P.M. Until they do arrive, block watchers exercise the closest supervision.

how to help police

Casper's Helping Hand was started when Mrs. Biggs presented the idea to Superintendent of Schools Morris Griffin and police chief Paul Danigan. They endorsed it heartily. A meeting was arranged to put the proposal before parents of the student body. Following their approval, Chief Danigan explained the liaison between his department and the volunteer watchers. He told them how to describe a person for later identification: height and weight, clothing, other identifying marks. When a car is involved, write down the license number before phoning the police so memory doesn't confuse the numbers with the digits on the telephone dial. After the groundwork was laid, the program was detailed to the children in school, stressing basic rules:

- Don't talk to strangers.
- Don't accept money, candy or gum from strangers.
- Don't accept rides from strangers or accompany a stranger anywhere.

- Walk to and from school in groups.
- Use the same route to school each day and avoid isolated streets.
- Go directly to and from school — don't play on the way.
- If a stranger approaches you, tell a block parent, your teacher and your parents.

Although there is no nation-wide blueprint to follow, child safety programs have arrived at remarkably similar procedures. Block watchers are instructed:

- If you suspect the presence of a molester in the vicinity, call the police and school.
- In case of a serious accident call the police and the child's home. Do NOT administer first aid except to stop obviously dangerous bleeding or to restore breathing. Do NOT transport the child in your car.
- You are not expected to break up fights, but you may protect a child from bullying.

At this writing, Block Parent plans are in operation in at least a dozen states, and as more communities learn about the program, others will follow. Information on how to set up a plan can be obtained by writing to: Mason School, 1010 South 24th St., or Mrs. Donald Pettit, 1019 South 22nd St., both in Omaha, Neb. 68108.

LIBRARIES

Our Children Need Them Badly

by Jack Harrison Pollack

Did it ever occur to you that something crucially important may be missing in your child's school? And that he may be handicapped for the rest of his life because of it?

Today's changes in education and the explosion of knowledge make it impossible for one teacher with one textbook to teach your child everything he should know about a subject. Today, both the slow 1st-grader and the gifted high school senior desperately need a good school library. With increasing pressure to acquire knowledge at an accelerated rate, the student of tomorrow may spend as much as 60 per cent of his time in independent study, forging ahead as fast as he can assimilate the information.

Yet nearly half the public schools across the nation—34,270 of them—don't have libraries. Some of the nation's largest cities are without a single public elementary school library. This means 10 million children are without supplementary books and materials they often require.

Furthermore, even where libraries exist, they are often deplorably below par. One leading educational journal described them as "in a dreadful state. Only a handful are worthy of the name. They don't even meet the demands of below-average students."

Here are some of the "dreadful" facts:

- According to the American Library Association, each pupil should have at least 10 library books at his disposal. Yet the national average in schools with libraries is only six books per pupil.
- The average annual book expenditure in all school libraries is $2.28 per pupil. Minimum professional standards require $4 to $6.
- A trained librarian, with a college degree in library science, is essential to helping youngsters find pleasure in books—as well as the books themselves. Yet 4 out of 5 public schools—or nearly 50,000 in all—have no librarian. In some school libraries, inexperienced teachers or mothers pinch-hit as librarians. Educators say that a librarian can serve no more than 300 pupils effectively. But across the U.S., there is only 1 librarian available for every 1,606 children!

- Despite the fact that audiovisual materials like records and film strips have proved invaluable aids to effective teaching, most libraries don't have them.
- Even some libraries which have good books and supplementary materials aren't open long enough.
- Nor is it enough merely to install a school library; continued school budget support is a must. Unhappily, 11 states don't have even 1 qualified person on a state level to plan and help start public school libraries—much less to improve those already in existence.

'UNAPPETIZING MESS'

The sad state of America's horse-and-buggy school libraries in today's Space Age was recently described to the House Education Committee by Edwin Castagna, president of the American Library Association: "Schools . . . often have a small room with jerry-built shelves, holding a shabby assortment of books. You might find an old mutilated encyclopedia or two and a few other tattered reference books. The unappetizing mess is probably under the part-time supervision of a teacher or volunteer without library training . . . In some schools the janitor is on the organization chart but not the librarian!"

What is the reason for this shocking discrepancy between what our children require and what they actually have at their disposal? Why are elementary school pupils being short-changed at an age when their study habits are being formed, their curiosity awakened, their reading skills developed?

One reason is the vast number of administrative problems schools have to deal with. Another is overcrowding and lack of space. And despite all the evidence in favor of school libraries, many short-sighted taxpayers—even some educators—consider them "frills," "luxuries," "extras."

In some cases, libraries have been eliminated as an economy measure. San Diego is typical. According to William H. Stegeman, assistant superintendent of schools, the city has been too busy building classrooms since World War II to build libraries. Instead it uses a system of rotating books on long-term loan from a central collection. Now, Stegeman says, San Diego is considering an elementary library system.

In such cities as Boston and St. Louis, elementary library services are provided through the public library system, which sends bookmobiles on regular calls, or provides for regular visits by children. Library advocates note, however, that this is not the same as having books right in school where children can get them when they want them. Cleveland, which formerly relied completely on public libraries, now is in a three-year program to put a library in every grade school.

Nor has the situation escaped the watchful eye of government leaders.

U.S. Commissioner of Education Francis Keppel calls America's school libraries a "national disgrace."

President Johnson, in his January education message to Congress, urged spending $100 million during the coming fiscal year to revitalize school libraries.

Vice-President Humphrey told PARADE, "Most drugstore book racks today have better and more up-to-date books than many school libraries."

With National Library Week, which starts today,

New type 8mm. movie is one of many audiovisual aids available to pupils in advanced Plainview, N.Y., school.

HELPING HANDS FOR KIDS IN DANGER

by ELAINE Q. BARROW

Within minutes after a would-be molester tried to lure a school-girl into his car, police were snapping handcuffs on his wrists. "How did you get me so fast?" he gasped.

"We got a phone call 30 seconds after you spoke to the child," an officer said. "You were caught by the Helping Hand."

The scene was Casper, Wyo. In communities of at least a dozen states across the nation similar crimes are being thwarted by Block Parent plans like Helping Hand.

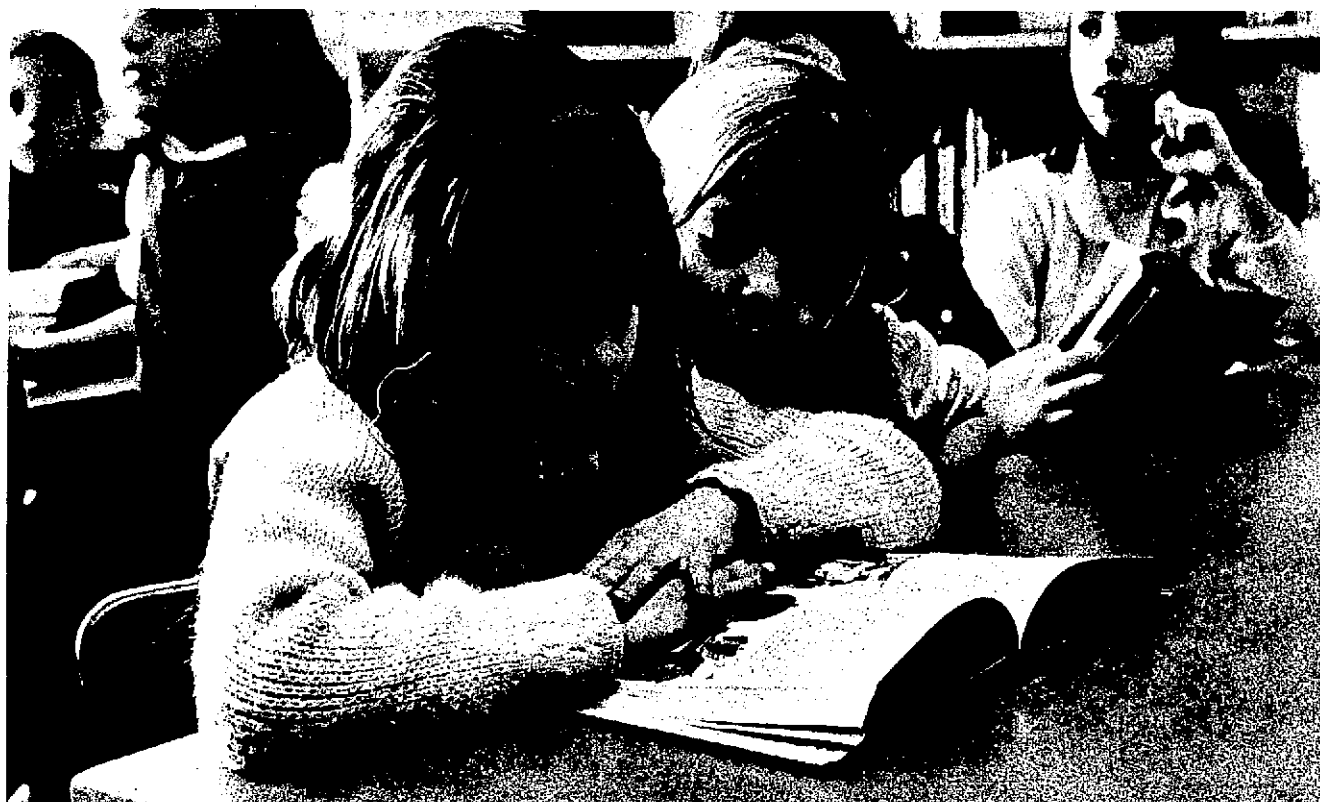

Although names and details vary, most programs follow this basic method: At least one resident in every block of a school district volunteers her home as a refuge to a child walking along the street who becomes frightened, ill, lost or otherwise in need of help. The telephone is always ready to summon outside help.

A window placard, readily seen from the street, identifies the volunteer's home. In Casper, the placard bears the silhouette of a white hand on a black background. Some cities use lettering, BLOCK HOME or BLOCK PARENT.

Child protection plans are usually organized and operated on an independent, local school district basis, so that each program is shaped to individual needs. Omaha, Neb., and Casper, Wyo., are typical examples of how different requirements are met.

In Omaha, a city of 300,000, the program was introduced in 1964 by the calling particular attention to the problem, PARADE recently toured school libraries—and was appalled to observe the woefully inadequate conditions which prevail in most of them. One Eastern elementary school has its library in a musty, dark hallway. In an overcrowded Midwestern junior high, books are often locked up at the order of a principal bent on protecting the books from the children! In a new Western grade school, the library is magnificent and thick-carpeted, with excellent acoustics and attractive tables, chairs, shelves. But it lacks one important thing: books!

The books in countless other school libraries are scandalously obsolete. Some still offer tattered physics books published in preatomic 1938, dog-eared 1934 encyclopedias claiming Lindbergh the only man to fly across the Atlantic and World War II books describing Stalin as premier of the Soviet Union.

Is it any wonder that so many students jam the public libraries to do their homework, crowding out irritated adults? Recently 32 high school seniors flocked into one to "get something by Matthew Arnold." The first five took out the only books available.

THE MAGIC IS MISSING

It is in the elementary school library that a child discovers that reading is fun, an adventure. Yet these libraries—when they exist—are even worse than high school libraries. Thus the focal point of excitement and magic largely fails in its function—or is missing altogether.

"It is impossible to describe [children's] joy and air of expectancy," explains Los Angeles School Library Supervisor Mildred P. Frary. "Children who have never been close to books are told, 'Touch them, hold them, look at them, read them. They're yours!'"

"If your elementary school has no central school library, your children are being short-changed," warns Dorothy A. McGinniss, executive secretary of the American Association of School Librarians. "It's heartbreaking to begin to be a failure at 6."

A good school library can also help kids of different abilities. "It can enable the slow reader to gain confidence, the average reader to increase his skill and the gifted child to find challenge and stimulation," explains Virginia Mathews, deputy director of the National Library Week Program.

It can also help your child once he reaches college. "Students who do best in college," asserts Dr. Nancy Larrick, past president of the International Reading Association, "are usually the ones who were library users in high school."

One 10-year-old Michigan girl who had read almost no books has eagerly read 30 during the 6 months since her school library opened. A 7th-grade Illinois boy, whose reading had been on a 4th-grade level, had his interest sparked by an alert librarian who, knowing him to be a sports car enthusiast, gave him books on the subject. He jumped three grades in reading achievement during a single school year. "I never knew this kind of stuff was in books," he admitted.

Nearly everyone favors school libraries when he understands what they can mean to a child. But too many people merely give them lip service.

Two years ago, the Knapp Foundation of New York farsightedly gave $1,130,000 to the American Library Association to demonstrate the educational value of excellent school libraries.

Two elementary "Schools of Tomorrow" were chosen to serve as demonstration centers. One was the Central Park Road Elementary School in suburban Plainview, N.Y., the second the Marcus Whitman Elementary School in Richland, Wash.

At Plainview, which PARADE recently visited, children from kindergarten on find the library the most exciting place in the school. Youngsters eagerly come there with their classroom teachers to learn library techniques under the guidance of two full-time librarians and two aides. Teamwork between classroom teachers and librarians is extraordinary. Plainview's card catalog is color-coded: white for printed material, blue for filmstrips, orange for records. Children as young as 6 are becoming familiar with main entries, sub-entries, cross references—in short, acquiring good library habits for a lifetime.

The Encyclopaedia Britannica is likewise sparking better school libraries, and the National PTA has also given high priority to school libraries. PTA recently launched a nation-wide drive to collect 1 million books for the poverty-stricken Appalachia area.

Furthermore, schools are devoting attention to keeping libraries open longer. One school system, the Herricks District Schools in New Hyde Park, N.Y., keeps one elementary school library open to children on Saturdays. Last summer, Wakonda Elementary School in Omaha, Neb., began opening its library several days a week. The library in Melbourne, Fla., high school is open year-round, day and evening.

SUPPLEMENTARY MATERIALS

Another step in the right direction is being taken by schools which realize that a good school library should also be a resource center for audiovisual material—up-to-date films, recordings, photographs, charts, maps, magazines and other teaching tools.

What can you do to improve school libraries in your community? PARADE consulted with the experts and came up with the following suggestions:

1. Visit your child's school library. Is it attractive, well-equipped, professionally staffed? Is it open when it is most in demand?
2. Talk to your principal or school superintendent about the library. Compare it with the recommended standards mentioned earlier. Have your state, county, local public or high school librarian help you evaluate it. Visit schools with good libraries. Make sure a library advisor attends PTA meetings.
3. If there is no professional librarian in your child's school, see to it that one is hired.
4. Send for professional help. Write for the 16mm. color film, And Something More, which you can purchase or borrow from the Knapp School Libraries Project, 50 East Huron St., Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Today even the best education programs fail if not backstopped by good school libraries. We can open new windows to our children by helping them cultivate lifetime reading habits.

Mason School PTA. The Mason district covers 50 blocks in the heart of the city.

Organized by Mrs. Donald Pettit, PTA president, the Mason plan operates 24 hours a day, 12 months a year. Volunteers are parents of pupils, parents of pre-school toddlers, grandparents and childless couples.

Block Parent homes are supplemented during certain hours by two grocery stores, a beauty salon and the non-denominational Christ Child Recreation Center. All display 8 by 10-inch wooden placards with BLOCK HOME in letters 2 inches high. The homes, or "stations," are situated so several can be seen from any one spot along the street. Thus if one volunteer is called away unexpectedly, another is near-by.

strikes home

The three most common "rescues" deal with lost children, small boys bitten by dogs and small girls teased by bullies.

The program's value was demonstrated recently with one of Mrs. Pettit's own daughters. A truck with 3 men in it swerved to the curb where the 10-year-old Pettit girl stood. Leaning from the cab, one man began mouthing obscenities. The terrified girl ran toward a house with the familiar BLOCK HOME sign—just as the men, too, spotted the sign. The truck sped away.

"Helping Hand" and "Block Home" signs mean safety for many children in U.S.

Casper, a city of 39,000 population, launched its Helping Hand following the attempted pickup of a girl in the Pineview school district. Incidents ceased in that district after the program was established.

Now, all 18 public elementary schools and 1 Catholic school in Casper participate in the program, with some 1,500 volunteers keeping a watchful eye on more than 8,000 youngsters.

Mrs. Arthur Biggs, who initiated the program, notes that distances are not great in Casper, and children are expected to be home from school by 4 P.M. Until they do arrive, block watchers exercise the closest supervision.

how to help police

Casper's Helping Hand was started when Mrs. Biggs presented the idea to Superintendent of Schools Morris Griffin and police chief Paul Danigan. They endorsed it heartily. A meeting was arranged to put the proposal before parents of the student body. Following their approval, Chief Danigan explained the liaison between his department and the volunteer watchers. He told them how to describe a person for later identification: height and weight, clothing, other identifying marks. When a car is involved, write down the license number before phoning the police so memory doesn't confuse the numbers with the digits on the telephone dial. After the groundwork was laid, the program was detailed to the children in school, stressing basic rules:

- Don't talk to strangers.
- Don't accept money, candy or gum from strangers.
- Don't accept rides from strangers or accompany a stranger anywhere.

- Walk to and from school in groups.
- Use the same route to school each day and avoid isolated streets.
- Go directly to and from school — don't play on the way.
- If a stranger approaches you, tell a block parent, your teacher and your parents.

Although there is no nation-wide blueprint to follow, child safety programs have arrived at remarkably similar procedures. Block watchers are instructed:

- If you suspect the presence of a molester in the vicinity, call the police and school.
- In case of a serious accident call the police and the child's home. Do NOT administer first aid except to stop obviously dangerous bleeding or to restore breathing. Do NOT transport the child in your car.
- You are not expected to break up fights, but you may protect a child from bullying.

At this writing, Block Parent plans are in operation in at least a dozen states, and as more communities learn about the program, others will follow. Information on how to set up a plan can be obtained by writing to: Mason School, 1010 South 24th St., or Mrs. Donald Pettit, 1019 South 22nd St., both in Omaha, Neb. 68108.

LIBRARIES

Our Children Need Them Badly

by Jack Harrison Pollack

Did it ever occur to you that something crucially important may be missing in your child's school? And that he may be handicapped for the rest of his life because of it?

Today's changes in education and the explosion of knowledge make it impossible for one teacher with one textbook to teach your child everything he should know about a subject. Today, both the slow 1st-grader and the gifted high school senior desperately need a good school library. With increasing pressure to acquire knowledge at an accelerated rate, the student of tomorrow may spend as much as 60 per cent of his time in independent study, forging ahead as fast as he can assimilate the information.

Yet nearly half the public schools across the nation—34,270 of them—don't have libraries. Some of the nation's largest cities are without a single public elementary school library. This means 10 million children are without supplementary books and materials they often require.

Furthermore, even where libraries exist, they are often deplorably below par. One leading educational journal described them as "in a dreadful state. Only a handful are worthy of the name. They don't even meet the demands of below-average students."

Here are some of the "dreadful" facts:

- According to the American Library Association, each pupil should have at least 10 library books at his disposal. Yet the national average in schools with libraries is only six books per pupil.
- The average annual book expenditure in all school libraries is $2.28 per pupil. Minimum professional standards require $4 to $6.
- A trained librarian, with a college degree in library science, is essential to helping youngsters find pleasure in books—as well as the books themselves. Yet 4 out of 5 public schools—or nearly 50,000 in all—have no librarian. In some school libraries, inexperienced teachers or mothers pinch-hit as librarians. Educators say that a librarian can serve no more than 300 pupils effectively. But across the U.S., there is only 1 librarian available for every 1,606 children!

- Despite the fact that audiovisual materials like records and film strips have proved invaluable aids to effective teaching, most libraries don't have them.
- Even some libraries which have good books and supplementary materials aren't open long enough.
- Nor is it enough merely to install a school library; continued school budget support is a must. Unhappily, 11 states don't have even 1 qualified person on a state level to plan and help start public school libraries—much less to improve those already in existence.

'UNAPPETIZING MESS'

The sad state of America's horse-and-buggy school libraries in today's Space Age was recently described to the House Education Committee by Edwin Castagna, president of the American Library Association: "Schools . . . often have a small room with jerry-built shelves, holding a shabby assortment of books. You might find an old mutilated encyclopedia or two and a few other tattered reference books. The unappetizing mess is probably under the part-time supervision of a teacher or volunteer without library training . . . In some schools the janitor is on the organization chart but not the librarian!"

What is the reason for this shocking discrepancy between what our children require and what they actually have at their disposal? Why are elementary school pupils being short-changed at an age when their study habits are being formed, their curiosity awakened, their reading skills developed?

One reason is the vast number of administrative problems schools have to deal with. Another is overcrowding and lack of space. And despite all the evidence in favor of school libraries, many short-sighted taxpayers—even some educators—consider them "frills," "luxuries," "extra."

In some cases, libraries have been eliminated as an economy measure. San Diego is typical. According to William H. Stegeman, assistant superintendent of schools, the city has been too busy building classrooms since World War II to build libraries. Instead it uses a system of rotating books on long-term loan from a central collection. Now, Stegeman says, San Diego is considering an elementary library system.

In such cities as Boston and St. Louis, elementary library services are provided through the public library system, which sends bookmobiles on regular calls, or provides for regular visits by children. Library advocates note, however, that this is not the same as having books right in school where children can get them when they want them. Cleveland, which formerly relied completely on public libraries, now is in a three-year program to put a library in every grade school.

Nor has the situation escaped the watchful eye of government leaders.

U.S. Commissioner of Education Francis Keppel calls America's school libraries a "national disgrace."

President Johnson, in his January education message to Congress, urged spending $100 million during the coming fiscal year to revitalize school libraries.

Vice-President Humphrey told PARADE, "Most drugstore book racks today have better and more up-to-date books than many school libraries."

With National Library Week, which starts today,

New type 8mm. movie is one of many audiovisual aids available to pupils in advanced Plainview, N.Y., school.

A LESSON I LEARNED FROM LIFE

by EDWARD G. ROBINSON

EDITOR'S NOTE: At 71, Edward G. Robinson has long been recognized not only as a veteran top-flight film star—he first achieved international fame in 1931 for his portrayal of Little Caesar—but also as one of America's most discerning art connoisseurs. His fabulous Picassos, Manets, Rouaults, Bonnards, Renoirs, Corots, Cézannes, Van Goghs constitute one of the greatest private collections in the world. Robinson makes it available to the public on a selective basis. Each year thousands of art lovers wander through his Beverly Hills home, at which time he retreats to his den, paints pictures of his own, such as the self-portrait on today's cover, reads, talks in one of eight languages to the many friends who come to listen to this dynamic, talented, educated citizen of the world.

When I was graduated from the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in 1913, I was an impressionable 19 years of age. Back then, finding work as an actor was difficult. When has it been easy? We had no radio, hardly any film industry and, of course, no television or any similar source of employment. The only opportunity for a struggling young actor lay in stage work.

The toughest part of any career is breaking in, getting your first job, acquiring the experience all employers seem to demand. For an unknown like me—short, dark, with a foreign cast to my face—no doors were open.

As I trudged from one producer's office to another, I thought many times that I should have become a doctor, lawyer or teacher—anything but an actor.

Realizing how frequently actors starved, I decided to seek work as a stage manager, then gradually edge my way into acting, maybe getting a bit part here and there.

I got a job with a stock company in Binghamton, N.Y. After a while I was entrusted with the bit part of Sato in a play called Paid in Full. I can't tell you how overjoyed I was. After nights and nights of ringing up and ringing down the curtain, I was finally going to appear on stage in front of an audience and recite a few lines. I was literally thrilled to my toes. I rehearsed those six or seven lines until I wore them out.

My big night came, and I will never forget it. I will never forget it because my fellow actors in that play were incredibly and unforgettably miserable to me. Their behavior was horrible. I was a pretty good actor even back then, and I tried my hardest. But when they got me on stage, they did everything possible to destroy me. They were cruel, brutal, downright mean.

two against one

There were two of them, the leading man and the character man. They made faces at each other in order to break my concentration. They pulled every cheap, shabby, shoddy trick in the actor's book. They upstaged me. They moved about when I spoke. They distracted the audience. I was so demoralized, so frightened, so scared I wanted to flee the stage, but I didn't.

When the performance was over, I hoped they both would apologize or tell me they'd been kidding. No such word came. I didn't know what to do. I was humiliated, but after all, I was a new, punk kid just starting out. How could I talk back to these two veteran stock actors? They never made Broadway but they'd been in stock for decades.

That night I made a solemn vow to myself. I decided that if ever I got anywhere in life, if ever I achieved anything or reached a position of importance, I would never, never act unkindly to any aspiring youngster. I would bend over to be helpful, to encourage. I would raise man's spirits, not sink them.

they meet again

Some years later, when I graduated from stock to Broadway, appearing in 10 Theatre Guild productions, I was made a member of The Lambs club in New York. One afternoon, who should walk into the club but that veteran leading man of Paid in Full who had given me such a bad time in Binghamton.

Since I was then on the way up and he at 65 on the way down, he greeted me with phony warmth and affectations sincerity, never once mentioning his brutal behavior to me. I was polite but reserved, and as we spoke I realized that it was this cruel, thoughtless, inconsiderate man who had brought home to me one of life's major lessons: Never belittle the young or belabor the man who is trying his best. Youth and effort deserve, among all else, encouragement. Which is why, in addition to the works of the masters, I like to buy the paintings of the beginners.

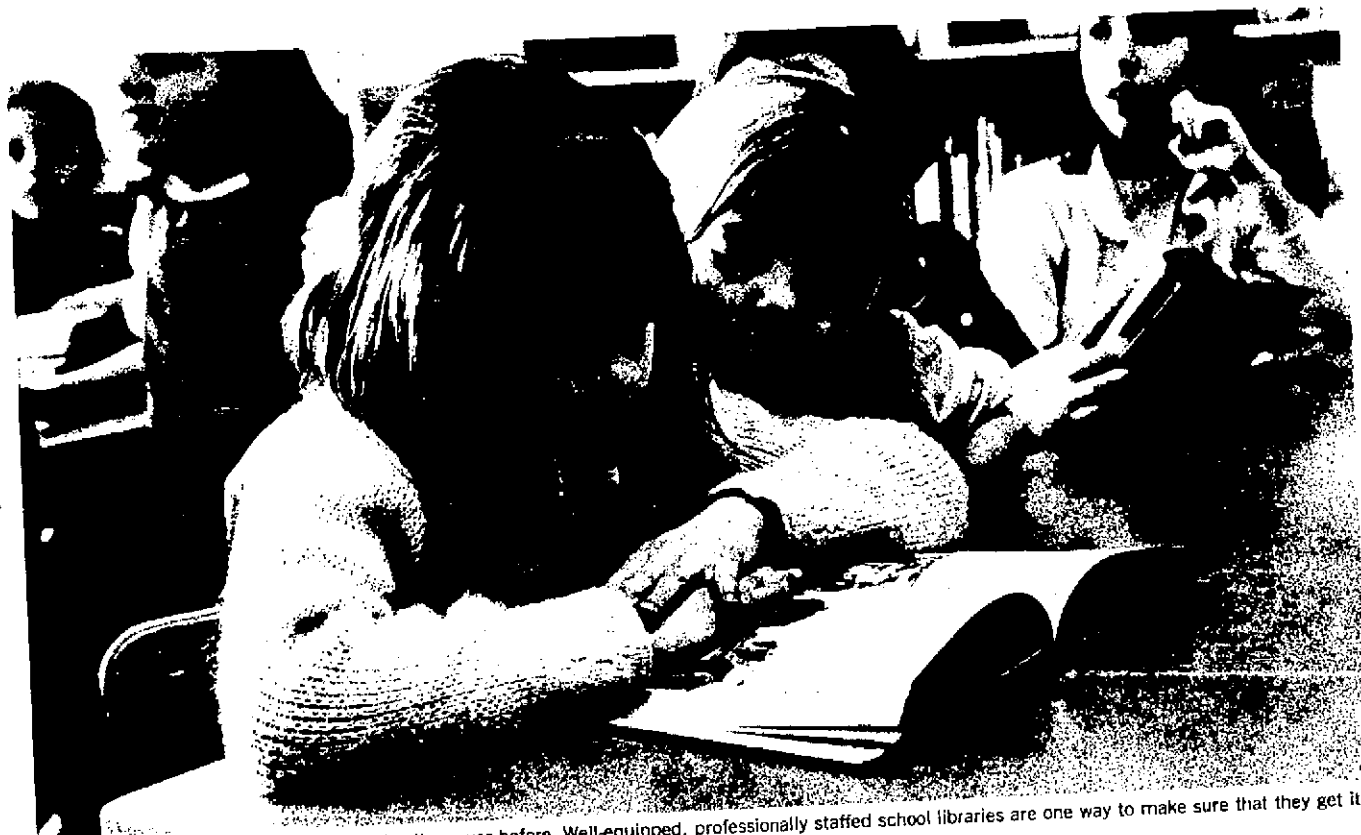

So frequently they, too, become the masters.

Edward G. Robinson puts reassuring arm around shoulder of Fergus McClelland in forthcoming film, A Boy Ten Feet Tall.

On the way up: Robinson and Alfred Lunt in 1927 version of The Brothers Karamazov.

Electronically paired for Carleton College's smash-hit Computer Date Night, couple chats in Great Hall.

BY NEAL ASHBY

NORTHFIELD, MINN.

Hesitant and apprehensive, young men of Carleton College entered the lobby of Gridley Hall women's dormitory one by one. To a coed serving as "bell girl" each gave not the name of the girl he'd come to call for but a number. He had no idea what her name was.

The number was called out. Another coed raised a trumpet and sounded a fanfare. Then down the stairs, to the surprise, delight, disbelief, bewilderment—or dismay—of her date, stepped the girl owning the number. The girls registered the whole range of astonished reactions, too.

Nobody knew who was dating who until girl confronted fellow in her residence hall. For Carleton's recent student-organized Computer

Date Night, 464 dates were arranged by an IBM 1620.

And the computer did a creditable job of matchmaking. The majority of daters questioned by PARADE in crowded movies, cafes, lounges and at a furious rock 'n' roll dance in the gym said they were well pleased with their mystery partners.

FAVORABLE RESULTS

"The computer did a good job tonight," said a coed from Illinois. "I mean, when I saw him coming I didn't run."

Elsewhere, a boy commented: "We aren't getting married or anything, but we're having a good time and it's nice to meet a new girl."

Some couples obviously were wasting no time getting well acquainted. Most had not known each other before. Some had merely seen their dates around. A few had gone out together previously. And one or two couples paired by the computer on the basis of their answers on a questionnaire actually had been going steady.

The mass electronic blind date was a powerful builder of campus unity. And it was especially helpful to youths too shy or bookish to ask girls for dates, and for dateless girls.

To participate in Computer Date Night, more than 900 of Carleton's 1,350 liberal arts students answered 90 written questions, selecting 1 of 5 numbered answers for each. The questions had to do with preferred physical characteristics and personal background in a dating partner and with the student's favorite interests and activities.

Data from 464 girls and the first 464 boys who applied was punched onto IBM cards and fed into the computer in the basement of Laird Hall. The 1620 had been specially programmed by student operator Dick Smiley, a red-bearded math major from Lake Bluff, Ill. Whirling and grinding, the computer made the matches, including one for Smiley, striving for the greatest compatibility between fellow and girl.

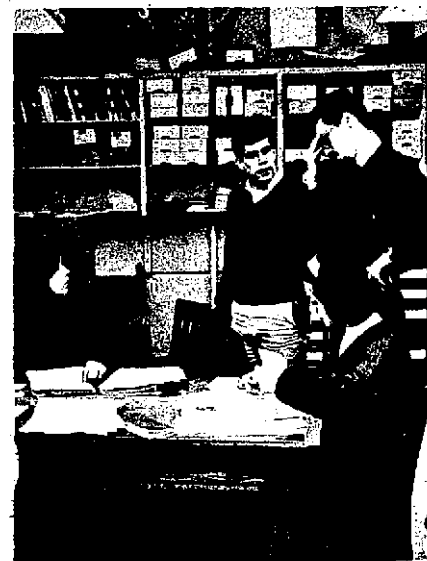

The cards, telling boys their date's number, dorm and what time to pick her up and the girls their number and the time, were not delivered until THE day.

In the week or two before Computer Date Night, the campus here was buzzing with anticipation. After a couple of small-scale versions of the occasion, Carleton had a very successful Computer Night last year (at least two of the matched couples have become engaged). This time, keener interest and an improved procedure made it one of the two or three biggest events of the campus year.

Freshmen boys, who always find getting dates hardest, were the most excited.

"Those poor kids think they'll wind up with the girl of their dreams—hah!" scoffed a senior. There were a few other skeptics. Said one: "I'm not ready to be reduced to a number."

But most participants went to work eagerly on the questionnaire. In the girls' dorms, interest flourished in the "Lemon Pool." The girls contributed 25¢ each, to be turned over to the one who drew the biggest "lemon," or least desirable boy, for her date. In the boys' dorms, it was the "Dog Pool."

Dick Smiley put in 100 man-hours improving the questionnaire and priming the computer. Members of Co-op, the student social organization, devoted 200 hours to tabulating data and punching cards.

"Our main idea," explains Smiley, "was to match people with nearly equal answers in terms of interests and topics of conversation. Personality traits, we felt, should be opposite, so we tried to match the outgoing persons with introverted persons."

Male computer ratings ranged from 1 youth for whom there were only 2 compatible girls to a 6-foot skier-student leader who could expect to hit it off with 408 different girls.

On the appointed Saturday, each participant's punched card was slipped into his mail.

THE BIG MOMENT

At Myers Hall that night, the girls came down an inside stairway and stepped into view just a few feet from where their flustered escorts stood. There were a few cries of glad recognition. In most cases, it was an awkward exchange of "Hi," or "I'm John Smith"—"I'm Jane Jones." After watching a few of the ensuing meetings, the couples drifted out.

PARADE took a closeup look at one of the computer couples. Don Girod (M194) of Winona, Minn., and Marianne McKay (F834) of Rosemont, Pa. Their questionnaires showed each is 21; he's 5-feet-9 and she 5-feet-8. He had dated "2 or 3" different girls since entering high school and she "11 to 15" boys. Both had indicated they enjoy talking about other people and their problems "a great deal," but were "very little" interested in business and financial matters. Both said they would like to have four children when they marry. They had known each other slightly but had never dated.

After seeing a French movie in downtown Northfield, Don and Marianne went to the campus tea room.

"Computer dating is a lot of fun," he said. "It gives you a chance to meet people you'd ordinarily not meet." Marianne said: "I think the computer did well. Don and I had a wonderful time."

Dick Smiley was encountered playing Scrabble with his date in the austere Great Hall. Now and then he glanced about to see in the flesh some of the couples his computer had matched, and once seemed to wince as a boy passed with a girl taller than he was.

Near midnight, the evening's curfew hour, couples scurried toward the girls' dorms. There were friendly good-bys and more than a few warm kisses. Who won the pools and what was said in post mortem inside the dorm rooms is the private knowledge of the participants in Carleton's Computer Date Night.

A LESSON I LEARNED FROM LIFE

by EDWARD G. ROBINSON

EDITOR'S NOTE: At 71, Edward G. Robinson has long been recognized not only as a veteran top-flight film star—he first achieved international fame in 1931 for his portrayal of Little Caesar—but also as one of America's most discerning art connoisseurs. His fabulous Picassos, Manets, Rouaults, Bonnard, Renoirs, Corots, Cézannes, Van Goghs constitute one of the greatest private collections in the world. Robinson makes it available to the public on a selective basis. Each year thousands of art lovers wander through his Beverly Hills home, at which time he retreats to his den, paints pictures of his own, such as the self-portrait on today's cover, reads, talks in one of eight languages to the many friends who come to listen to this dynamic, talented, educated citizen of the world.

When I was graduated from the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in 1913, I was an impressionable 19 years of age. Back then, finding work as an actor was difficult. When has it been easy? We had no radio, hardly any film industry and, of course, no television or any similar source of employment. The only opportunity for a struggling young actor lay in stage work.

The toughest part of any career is breaking in, getting your first job, acquiring the experience all employers seem to demand. For an unknown like me—short, dark, with a foreign cast to my face—no doors were open.

As I trudged from one producer's office to another, I thought many times that I should have become a doctor, lawyer or teacher—anything but an actor.

Realizing how frequently actors starved, I decided to seek work as a stage manager, then gradually edge my way into acting, maybe getting a bit part here and there.

I got a job with a stock company in Binghamton, N.Y. After a while I was entrusted with the bit part of Sato in a play called Paid in Full. I can't tell you how overjoyed I was. After nights and nights of ringing up and ringing down the curtain, I was finally going to appear on stage in front of an audience and recite a few lines. I was literally thrilled to my toes. I rehearsed those six or seven lines until I wore them out.

My big night came, and I will never forget it. I will never forget it because my fellow actors in that play were incredibly and unforgettably miserable to me. Their behavior was horrible. I was a pretty good actor even back then, and I tried my hardest. But when they got me on stage, they did everything possible to destroy me. They were cruel, brutal, downright mean.

two against one

There were two of them, the leading man and the character man. They made faces at each other in order to break my concentration. They pulled every cheap, shabby, shoddy trick in the actor's book. They upstaged me. They moved about when I spoke. They distracted the audience. I was so demoralized, so frightened, so scared I wanted to flee the stage, but I didn't.

When the performance was over, I hoped they both would apologize or tell me they'd been kidding. No such word came. I didn't know what to do. I was humiliated, but after all, I was a new, punk kid just starting out. How could I talk back to these two veteran stock actors? They never made Broadway but they'd been in stock for decades.

That night I made a solemn vow to myself. I decided that if ever I got anywhere in life, if ever I achieved anything or reached a position of importance, I would never, never act unkindly to any aspiring youngster. I would bend over to be helpful, to encourage. I would raise man's spirits, not sink them.

they meet again

Some years later, when I graduated from stock to Broadway, appearing in 10 Theatre Guild productions, I was made a member of The Lambs club in New York. One afternoon, who should walk into the club but that veteran leading man of Paid in Full who had given me such a hard time in Binghamton.

Since I was then on the way up and he at 65 on the way down, he greeted me with phony warmth and affectations sincerity, never once mentioning his brutal behavior to me. I was polite but reserved, and as we spoke I realized that it was this cruel, thoughtless, inconsiderate man who had brought home to me one of life's major lessons: Never belittle the young or belabor the man who is trying his best. Youth and effort deserve, among all else, encouragement. Which is why, in addition to the works of the masters, I like to buy the paintings of the beginners.

So frequently they, too, become the masters.

Putting a colorful two-coat TEFLON finish on a cooking utensil is quite a trick. The pan must be hospital-clean. The thickness of the finish has to be exactly right and exactly the same, all over the surface. And the time and temperature for baking it on are more critical than they are in your best cake recipe.

MIRRO was the first to accomplish this delicate job, and got Du Pont's first Seal of Approval for doing it. So, you can be sure that the no-stick TEFLON finish on any MIRRO utensil will do just what it's supposed to do.

It's good to know, too, that beneath that super-slick surface there's thick, solid MIRRO aluminum, the material that's best for every kind of cooking. It absorbs heat rapidly and spreads it evenly, with no "hot spots."

Insist on TEFLON-finished MIRRO, the finest aluminum. The finish itself and the pan beneath are the finest you could have, for no-stick cooking and no-scour cleanup.

Beat together egg yolks, lemon juice and seasonings in top of double boiler. Divide butter into 3 equal portions. Add one portion of butter to the egg mixture. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until butter is melted. FROM PARADE'S TEST KITCHEN

Electronically paired for Carleton College's smash-hit Computer Date Night, couple chats in Great Hall.

BY NEAL ASHBY

NORTHFIELD, MINN.

Hesitant and apprehensive, young men of Carleton College entered the lobby of Gridley Hall women's dormitory one by one. To a coed serving as "bell girl" each gave not the name of the girl he'd come to call for but a number. He had no idea what her name was.

The number was called out. Another coed raised a trumpet and sounded a fanfare. Then down the stairs, to the surprise, delight, disbelief, bewilderment—or dismay—of her date, stepped the girl owning the number. The girls registered the whole range of astonished reactions, too.

Nobody knew who was dating who until girl confronted fellow in her residence hall. For Carleton's recent student-organized Computer

Date Night, 464 dates were arranged by an IBM 1620.

And the computer did a creditable job of matchmaking. The majority of daters questioned by PARADE in crowded movies, cafes, lounges and at a furious rock 'n' roll dance in the gym said they were well pleased with their mystery partners.

FAVORABLE RESULTS

"The computer did a good job tonight," said a coed from Illinois. "I mean, when I saw him coming I didn't run."

Elsewhere, a boy commented: "We aren't getting married or anything, but we're having a good time and it's nice to meet a new girl."

Some couples obviously were wasting no time getting well acquainted. Most had not known each other before. Some had merely seen their dates around. A few had gone out together previously. And one or two couples paired by the computer on the basis of their answers on a questionnaire actually had been going steady.

The mass electronic blind date was a powerful builder of campus unity. And it was especially helpful to youths too shy or bookish to ask girls for dates, and for dateless girls.

To participate in Computer Date Night, more than 900 of Carleton's 1,350 liberal arts students answered 90 written questions, selecting 1 of 5 numbered answers for each. The questions had to do with preferred physical characteristics and personal background in a dating partner and with the student's favorite interests and activities.

Data from 464 girls and the first 464 boys who applied was punched onto IBM cards and fed into the computer in the basement of Laird Hall. The 1620 had been specially programmed by student operator Dick Smiley, a red-bearded math major from Lake Bluff, Ill. Whirring and grinding, the computer made the matches, including one for Smiley, striving for the greatest compatibility between fellow and girl.

The cards, telling boys their date's number, dorm and what time to pick her up and the girls their number and the time, were not delivered until THE day.

In the week or two before Computer Date Night, the campus here was buzzing with anticipation. After a couple of small-scale versions of the occasion, Carleton had a very successful Computer Night last year (at least two of the matched couples have become engaged). This time, keener interest and an improved procedure made it one of the two or three biggest events of the campus year.

Freshmen boys, who always find getting dates hardest, were the most excited.

"Those poor kids think they'll wind up with the girl of their dreams—hah!" scoffed a senior.

There were a few other skeptics. Said one: "I'm not ready to be reduced to a number."

But most participants went to work eagerly on the questionnaire. In the girls' dorms, interest flourished in the "Lemon Pool." The girls contributed 25¢ each, to be turned over to the one

NEW WEAPON AGAINST STAPH INFECTIONS AND OTHER DEVELOPMENTS FROM THE FIELD OF MEDICINE

GOOD BUGS TO KEEP OUT BAD. Despite antibiotics, some people get repeated outbreaks of boils and carbuncles—even to the point of being incapacitated. A new hope now is to colonize them, by deliberate inoculation, with a special harmless strain of staph bacteria to prevent invasions by the virulent staph strains that cause the outbreaks.

The strategy—first tried successfully in newborn infants to protect them against "hospital staph" epidemics in hospital nurseries—now has been used successfully in treating a housewife plagued with boils and carbuncles which, for an eight-year period, had recurred about every two months, hitting every part of her body except palms and soles.

Finally, in the midst of an acute outbreak, she entered University of California Hospital in San Francisco, where Drs. Walter G. Strauss, Howard I. Maibach and Valerie Hurst decided to try using good bugs to combat the bad. After a course of antibiotics to reduce the numbers of the latter, she was loaded with friendly staph organisms. Seven times in a 9-day period, she was given a drop of broth containing 50 million organisms. In the 13 months since, she has had no outbreaks.

SAVING LUNG CLOT VICTIMS. Each year almost 50,000 Americans lose their lives because of pulmonary embolisms—blood clots that get into a lung artery and block flow of blood from heart to lung. The deadly embolisms can affect young and old. Usually, they form in a leg, break loose and move to the lung artery, where they become lodged. People with heart disease, anemia and various blood disorders are predisposed to the clots—but they may occur, too, in hospital after routine surgery.

Now a new technique promises to save the lives of as many as 80 per cent of those who would otherwise die. A team of Baylor University, Houston, doctors has developed and applied successfully a portable heart-lung machine that is ready for instant use without priming. It can be tapped into a leg vein to draw off oxygen-poor, used blood, refresh it, then feed it back into an artery, thus partially by-passing heart and lungs, keeping the patient alive until he can be taken to an operating room. There his chest can be opened and the machine connected up to allow heart and lungs to be by-passed completely while the blocked lung artery is opened and the clotted blood massaged out of the vessel.

AN ANTIDIABETES PILL FOR ARTHRITIS. Phenformin, a drug for diabetes, can help some patients with rheumatoid arthritis, three physicians at Gloucestershire Royal Hospital, Gloucester, England, have found. The compound, in addition to antidiabetes activity, recently has shown clot-dissolving (fibrinolytic) properties helpful to certain patients with blood vessel disorders. To determine whether increased fibrinolytic activity might have any beneficial effect in arthritis, the physicians gave phenformin in daily doses of 100 to 150 milligrams to hospitalized arthritic patients. In 3 of every 4, they report in the distinguished British medical journal, Lancet (Vol. 1, 1965, page 9), joint symptoms improved. As a check, some patients were switched to an inactive pill. Their joint symptoms promptly worsened—then improved again when phenformin was reinstituted. Suggest the British doctors: Inadequate clot-dissolving activity could be one factor in chronic inflammation, and correction of the inadequacy could be of value in relieving arthritis and other inflammatory disorders.

WHEN THE MENTALLY ILL CAN SEE THEMSELVES. Putting psychiatric interviews on video tape—and playing the tape back so patients can see themselves as others see them—appears to be a remarkably valuable new therapeutic tool.

At the University of Mississippi Medical Center, Jackson, a team of psychiatrists led by Dr. F. J. Moore, Chairman of the University's Department of Psychiatry, interviewed 80 patients with their permission before concealed cameras. Video tapes were made, and 40 of the patients saw themselves on screen immediately after the first interview.

Depressed patients often responded dramatically. Even schizophrenic patients, seeing themselves on screen, picked out parts of their behavior which they realized were sick and made efforts to change.

Suggest the Mississippi physicians: The poet Robert Burns, indeed, was right when he wrote: "O wad some Power the giftie gie us, To see oursels as ithers see us! It wad frae monie a blunder free us, An foolish notion."

NEW HELP FOR SINUS TROUBLE. A frequent aftermath of colds, other respiratory infections and even nasal allergy, sinusitis can be a difficult problem to overcome. Antibiotics coupled with drugs to shrink nasal membranes and promote drainage sometimes help. In some cases, sinus irrigations have to be tried as a means of mechanically flushing away obstructive plugs of mucus and pus—but these don't invariably work. Now a new agent, Mucomyst, which thins the mucus and pus, has produced good results in irrigations in patients treated at otolaryngology clinics in two hospitals. The compound works rapidly; secretions begin to thin within 60 seconds. Every patient, according to a report in Eye, Ear, Nose & Throat Monthly (Vol. 44, page 47), improved after irrigation with it. There were no harmful effects on nasal passages, and the only side effect—a temporary unpleasant taste—was not disagreeable enough to bother any patient.

just make sure it's the best...

Putting a colorful two-coat TEFLON finish on a cooking utensil is quite a trick. The pan must be hospital-clean. The thickness of the finish has to be exactly right and exactly the same, all over the surface. And the time and temperature for baking it on are more critical than they are in your best cake recipe.

MIRRO was the first to accomplish this delicate job, and got Du Pont's first Seal of Approval for doing it. So, you can be sure that the no-stick TEFLON finish on any MIRRO utensil will do just what it's supposed to do.

It's good to know, too, that beneath that super-slick surface there's thick, solid MIRRO aluminum, the material that's best for every kind of cooking. It absorbs heat rapidly and spreads it evenly, with no "hot spots."

Insist on TEFLON-finished MIRRO, the finest aluminum. The finish itself and the pan beneath are the finest you could have, for no-stick cooking and no-scour cleanup.

See the complete line, wherever they sell the finest aluminum.

NEW WEAPON AGAINST STAPH INFECTIONS AND OTHER DEVELOPMENTS FROM THE FIELD OF MEDICINE

GOOD BUGS TO KEEP OUT BAD. Despite antibiotics, some people get repeated outbreaks of boils and carbuncles—even to the point of being incapacitated. A new hope now is to colonize them, by deliberate inoculation, with a special harmless strain of staph bacteria to prevent invasions by the virulent staph strains that cause the outbreaks.

The strategy—first tried successfully in newborn infants to protect them against "hospital staph" epidemics in hospital nurseries—now has been used successfully in treating a housewife plagued with boils and carbuncles which, for an eight-year period, had recurred about every two months, hitting every part of her body except palms and soles.

Finally, in the midst of an acute outbreak, she entered University of California Hospital in San Francisco, where Drs. Walter G. Strauss, Howard I. Maibach and Valerie Hurst decided to try using good bugs to combat the bad. After a course of antibiotics to reduce the numbers of the latter, she was loaded with friendly staph organisms. Seven times in a 9-day period, she was given a drop of broth containing 50 million organisms. In the 13 months since, she has had no outbreaks.

SAVING LUNG CLOT VICTIMS. Each year almost 50,000 Americans lose their lives because of pulmonary embolisms—blood clots that get into a lung artery and block flow of blood from heart to lung. The deadly embolisms can affect young and old. Usually, they form in a leg, break loose and move to the lung artery, where they become lodged. People with heart disease, anemia and various blood disorders are predisposed to the clots—but they may occur, too, in hospital after routine surgery.

Now a new technique promises to save the lives of as many as 80 per cent of those who would otherwise die. A team of Baylor University, Houston, doctors has developed and applied successfully a portable heart-lung machine that is ready for instant use without priming. It can be tapped into a leg vein to draw off oxygen-poor, used blood, refresh it, then feed it back into an artery, thus partially by-passing heart and lungs, keeping the patient alive until he can be taken to an operating room. There his chest can be opened and the machine connected up to allow heart and lungs to be by-passed completely while the blocked lung artery is opened and the clotted blood massaged out of the vessel.

AN ANTIDIABETES PILL FOR ARTHRITIS. Phenformin, a drug for diabetes, can help some patients with rheumatoid arthritis, three physicians at Gloucestershire Royal Hospital, Gloucester, England, have found. The compound, in addition to antidiabetes activity, recently has shown clot-dissolving (fibrinolytic) properties helpful to certain patients with blood vessel disorders. To determine whether increased fibrinolytic activity might have any beneficial effect in arthritis, the physicians gave phenformin in daily doses of 100 to 150 milligrams to hospitalized arthritic patients. In 3 of every 4, they report in the distinguished British medical journal, Lancet (Vol. 1, 1965, page 9), joint symptoms improved. As a check, some patients were switched to an inactive pill. Their joint symptoms promptly worsened—then improved again when phenformin was reinstituted. Suggest the British doctors: Inadequate clot-dissolving activity could be one factor in chronic inflammation, and correction of the inadequacy could be of value in relieving arthritis and other inflammatory disorders.

WHEN THE MENTALLY ILL CAN SEE THEMSELVES. Putting psychiatric interviews on video tape—and playing the tape back so patients can see themselves as others see them—appears to be a remarkably valuable new therapeutic tool.

At the University of Mississippi Medical Center, Jackson, a team of psychiatrists led by Dr. F. J. Moore, Chairman of the University's Department of Psychiatry, interviewed 80 patients with their permission before concealed cameras. Video tapes were made, and 40 of the patients saw themselves on screen immediately after the first interview.

Depressed patients often responded dramatically. Even schizophrenic patients, seeing themselves on screen, picked out parts of their behavior which they realized were sick and made efforts to change.

Suggest the Mississippi physicians: The poet Robert Burns, indeed, was right when he wrote: "O wad some Power the giftie gie us, To see oursels as ithers see us! It wad frae monie a blunder free us, An foolish notion."

NEW HELP FOR SINUS TROUBLE. A frequent aftermath of colds, other respiratory infections and even nasal allergy, sinusitis can be a difficult problem to overcome. Antibiotics coupled with drugs to shrink nasal membranes and promote drainage sometimes help. In some cases, sinus irrigations have to be tried as a means of mechanically flushing away obstructive plugs of mucus and pus—but these don't invariably work. Now a new agent, Mucomyst, which thins the mucus and pus, has produced good results in irrigations in patients treated at otolaryngology clinics in two hospitals. Every patient, according to a report in Eye, Ear, Nose & Throat Monthly (Vol. 44, page 47), improved after irrigation with it. There were no harmful effects on nasal passages, and the only side effect—a temporary unpleasant taste—was not disagreeable enough to bother any patient.

by George Q. Lewis

EDITOR'S NOTE: George Q. Lewis, 48, is a gagwriter who years ago founded National Laugh Enterprises to service the entertainment industry with young comics and comedy writers. His Comedy Workshop has from time to time included such members as Dick Shawn, Milt Kamen, Vaughn Meader, Neil Simon, many others who hit it big. Lewis was born in New York City, raised in Newark, N.J., and educated at the University of Alabama. A former Broadway press agent, he left publicity in 1945 to organize the Gagwriters Institute, which in turn became the Gagwriters Comedy Workshop. In New York City he has conducted more than 2,000 meetings of the Gagwriters Round Table, attended by the future funny-men of America. Herewith some of Lewis' favorite funnies written for many of America's top-flight comics:

I never knew what happiness was until I married—and then it was too late.

I could have married any girl I pleased—but I never pleased any.

The trouble with Russian roulette is that not enough Russians are playing it.

Every time a girl sets a trap for a man, she forgets to shut it.

Making love is like making pie—takes lots of crust and plenty of applesauce.

The only time girls show their true colors is when they run out of cosmetics.

They say Freud was a very strict psychiatrist. If you came a minute late, he'd make you stand.

Did you hear about the newly married college girl who almost starved to death when her husband hid the can opener?

Recently a young woman spoke for 88 hours without stopping. What makes the feat so amazing is that she did it all in one day.

Wouldn't you agree—a henpecked husband must be chicken?

Television is no laughing matter. That's the trouble with it.

The only way most girls like rice is when it's thrown at them.

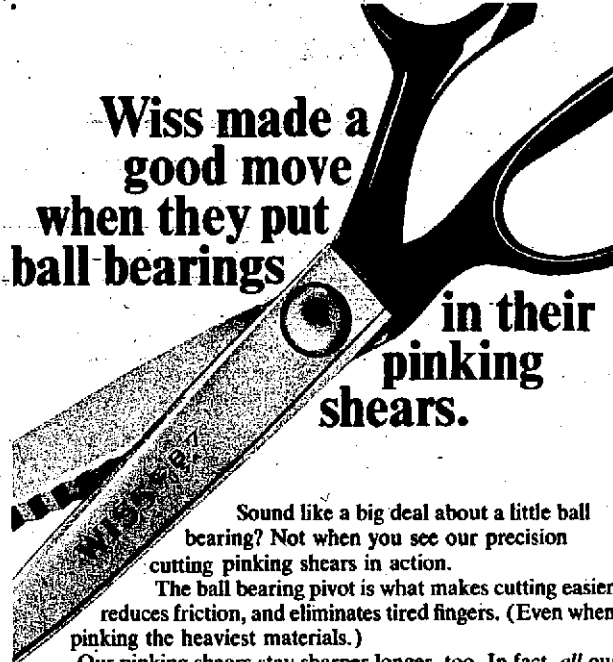

The happiest moment for any Hollywood star is when he reaches the top and discovers he can afford a psychiatrist.

The do-it-yourself craze will never come back. Most people found out they couldn't.

Anecdote of the Week

■ A Japanese airline hostess addressed the passengers over the speaker system as the plane landed at Los Angeles Airport: "We hope you enjoyed your flight. Next time when you fry, we hope you will fry again with Japan Air Lines."

Wiss made a good move when they put ball bearings in their pinking shears.

Sound like a big deal about a little ball bearing? Not when you see our precision cutting pinking shears in action.

The ball bearing pivot is what makes cutting easier, reduces friction, and eliminates tired fingers. (Even when pinking the heaviest materials.)

Our pinking shears stay sharper longer, too. In fact, all our shears and scissors stay sharper, last longer, and are made better. Perfection is something we just take for granted.

Try a pair of our ball bearing pinking shears, and see what a good move Wiss made. Our new pinking shears are so much easier to use, they make your old pinking shears seem like old pinking shears.

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BECAUSE OF LARGE MAIL VOLUME, PARADE CANNOT ANSWER QUERIES.

ALCOHOLISM. Has life become so strained and stressful an experience in America that man cannot endure it without drowning his desperation in drink? The U.S. Public Health Service reports that state mental hospitals are admitting more and more alcoholics. One in every 7 new patients is an alcoholic, a rise of 19% in the past 10 years. Typical alcoholic is male, divorced, undereducated.

CRIME & PUNISHMENT. Each year 300,000 Americans are charged in state courts with crimes punishable by a minimum of one year in prison. At least half these people cannot afford a lawyer. The U.S. Supreme Court in a series of vital decisions -- one of the most important was handed down in Gideon vs. Wainwright -- has declared that state courts must now provide full counsel to all persons accused of a felony. In addition, those defendants who have been convicted have a right to counsel for their first appeal.

CHINA vs. RUSSIA. In the Communist world, Chinese prestige is rising, Russian prestige sinking. When the Soviets staged their recent world Communist conference in Moscow, Red China kept away all Asian Communist representatives, plus the Rumanian and Albanian delegations. The Red Chinese accuse the Russians of being "cowardly revisionists," claim Communists must look to them for leadership "because we are not afraid to lead."

BRITISH DOCTORS. What lies behind the threat of British doctors to go out on strike? The doctors claim they are overworked and underpaid in the National Health Service, could do much better on their own. They now want $250 a week, a 5½-day week, overtime pay for weekend and night calls, 6 weeks' holiday per year. The average family doctor in England under NHS gets $3 a year for each patient on his list, averages $7,500 a year, about one-half of what a successful American physician earns. In Holland, which also has socialized medicine and where doctors are the best paid of all Dutch graduates, the average net income for a general practitioner is $7,000.

CITIES. America has become a nation of cities. More than 70% of the entire population, 135 million people, reside in urban communities. By 1980 about 165 million will live in cities, which is why President Johnson wants Congress to authorize a new cabinet post, Department of Housing & Urban Development. What we need desperately and immediately is some wise city planning.

GOING HOME. When Kenya was granted its independence, more than 40% of the British farmers working land in that African country said they preferred to remain there, take their chances with the new government. Now, fewer than 10% choose to remain. Why? Many of the black African settlement farmers steal cattle, pipe, fencing, whatever they can get their hands on from the Europeans. "There is no future for white farmers anymore in this country," explains one British pioneer. "Africans who have taken over former white farms frequently sell their cattle for additional wives, let the once fertile holdings run to seed."

DOCTORS' WIVES. Dr. George T. Harding, who runs a psychiatric home in Worthington, Ohio, has just completed a 10-year study of 107 doctors' wives admitted to his hospital.

READ & SAVE

• Ladies, if you're planning a big dinner, General Foods has just come up with an excellent 36-page booklet, "Feeding a Crowd," which offers menus, recipes, planning tips for all occasions. It's a must for every hostess and housewife. It costs 50¢, can be obtained from General Foods Kitchens, Dept. WN, 250 North St., White Plains, N.Y. 10602.

• How much do you know about the federal government? For $1.75 you can order from the Supt. of Documents, Washington, D.C. 20402, one of the most informative books on the government's various departments, agencies, divisions and the men in them, the "U.S. Government Organization Manual." The book is compiled annually by the National Archives and Records Service. It lists the names of 5,000 key government officials, describes the organization and functions of the executive, legislative and judicial branches.

Pointing out that these women had failed in marriage, he warns that marriage to a doctor can pose a triple threat to a particular type of woman. If she is emotionally immature, chances are that she may marry the physician because she has an unconscious need to substitute someone for the family doctor she idealized when she was a child. Second marital threat is the frequency with which doctors are away from home and family. Third threat is the easy availability of drugs to allay the wife's anxiety and depression. At the time they entered his hospital, 41 of the 107 women were already using barbiturates or narcotics, Dr. Harding reports. Seventeen of these women were started on drugs by their husbands. "When a doctor deals with his wife," says Harding, "he doesn't use any better judgment than a layman does. Generally, what she wants is his attention, not his pill." Of the 107 doctors' wives in the Harding survey, 37 were Registered Nurses.

my favorite jokes

by George Q. Lewis

EDITOR'S NOTE: George Q. Lewis, 48, is a gagwriter who years ago founded National Laugh Enterprises to service the entertainment industry with young comics and comedy writers. His Comedy Workshop has from time to time included such members as Dick Shawn, Milt Kamen, Vaughn Meader, Nell Simon, many others who hit it big. Lewis was born in New York City, raised in Newark, N.J., and educated at the University of Alabama. A former Broadway press agent, he left publicity in 1945 to organize the Gagwriters Institute, which in turn became the Gagwriters Comedy Workshop. In New York City he has conducted more than 2,000 meetings of the Gagwriters Round Table, attended by the future funny-men of America. Herewith some of Lewis' favorite funnies written for many of America's top-flight comics:

I never knew what happiness was until I married—and then it was too late.

I could have married any girl I pleased—but I never pleased any.

The trouble with Russian roulette is that not enough Russians are playing it.

Every time a girl sets a trap for a man, she forgets to shut it.

Making love is like making pie—takes lots of crust and plenty of applesauce.

The only time girls show their true colors is when they run out of cosmetics.

They say Freud was a very strict psychiatrist. If you came a minute late, he'd make you stand.

Did you hear about the newly married college girl who almost starved to death when her husband hid the can opener?

Recently a young woman spoke for 88 hours without stopping. What makes the feat so amazing is that she did it all in one day.

Wouldn't you agree—a henpecked husband must be chicken?

Television is no laughing matter. That's the trouble with it.

The only way most girls like rice is when it's thrown at them.

The happiest moment for any Hollywood star is when he reaches the top and discovers he can afford a psychiatrist.

The do-it-yourself craze will never come back. Most people found out they couldn't.

Anecdote of the Week

■ A Japanese airline hostess addressed the passengers over the speaker system as the plane landed at Los Angeles Airport: "We hope you enjoyed your flight. Next time when you fry, we hope you will fry again with Japan Air Lines."

Wiss made a good move when they put ball bearings in their pinking shears.

Sound like a big deal about a little ball bearing? Not when you see our precision cutting pinking shears in action. The ball bearing pivot is what makes cutting easier, reduces friction, and eliminates tired fingers. (Even when pinking the heaviest materials.)

Our pinking shears stay sharper longer, too. In fact, all our shears and scissors stay sharper, last longer, and are made better. Perfection is something we just take for granted.

Try a pair of our ball bearing pinking shears, and see what a good move Wiss made. Our new pinking shears are so much easier to use, they make your old pinking shears seem like old pinking shears.

(They make a perfect Mother's Day gift.)

7 BASIC SHEARS & SCISSORS EVERY HOME SHOULD HAVE: KITCHEN SHEARS, PINKING SHEARS, DRESSMAKER SHEARS, SEWING SCISSORS, EMBROIDERY SCISSORS, CUTICLE AND NAIL SCISSORS. ALL QUALITY-MADE BY WISS.

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BECAUSE OF LARGE MAIL VOLUME, PARADE CANNOT ANSWER QUERIES.

ALCOHOLISM. Has life become so strained and stressful an experience in America that man cannot endure it without drowning his desperation in drink? The U.S. Public Health Service reports that state mental hospitals are admitting more and more alcoholics. One in every 7 new patients is an alcoholic, a rise of 19% in the past 10 years. Typical alcoholic is male, divorced, undereducated.

CRIME & PUNISHMENT. Each year 300,000 Americans are charged in state courts with crimes punishable by a minimum of one year in prison. At least half these people cannot afford a lawyer. The U.S. Supreme Court in a series of vital decisions -- one of the most important was handed down in Gideon vs. Wainwright -- has declared that state courts must now provide full counsel to all persons accused of a felony. In addition, those defendants who have been convicted have a right to counsel for their first appeal.

CHINA vs. RUSSIA. In the Communist world, Chinese prestige is rising, Russian prestige sinking. When the Soviets staged their recent world Communist conference in Moscow, Red China kept away all Asian Communist representatives, plus the Rumanian and Albanian delegations. The Red Chinese accuse the Russians of being "cowardly revisionists," claim Communists must look to them for leadership "because we are not afraid to lead."

BRITISH DOCTORS. What lies behind the threat of British doctors to go out on strike? The doctors claim they are overworked and underpaid in the National Health Service, could do much better on their own. They now want $250 a week, a 5½-day week, overtime pay for weekend
